§ 160.005–4 Construction—(a) General. This specification covers life preservers which essentially consist of a vest-cut envelope containing pockets in which are inclosed pads of buoyant material, the life preserver being fitted with tapes and webbing to provide complete reversibility, proper adjustment for close fit to the bodies of various size wearers, and proper flotation characteristics to hold the wearer in an upright backward position with head and face out of water.

(b) Envelope. The envelope shall be of not more than two pieces, one piece for either side, cut to the pattern shown on Dwg. No. 160.005–1, Sheet 1, for adult size, and Dwg. No. 160.005–1, Sheet 4, for child size, joined by seams and stitching as shown on the drawing. A drawstring tunnel shall be formed by stitching a strip of the tunnel strip material as shown by the drawing. The ends of the tunnel strip shall be tucked under the reinforcing tape stitched around the end openings so there is no direct access to the pads from the outside. Three pockets shall be formed for insertion of the pads. The two front pads shall be removable from the envelope when portions of the lower longitudinal seam are opened, and the back pad shall be removable when a portion of one armhole seam is opened. The pads shall be well inserted into the pockets of the envelope, in no case more than one inch from the top seam of the pocket.

(c) Pad inserts. The fibrous glass pads shall be formed from two pieces of material each cut to the patterns shown by Dwg. No. 160.005–1, Sheet 3, for adult size, and Sheet 5, for child size, with seams as indicated on the drawing, and filled with buoyant fibrous glass distributed as follows:

(d) Tie tapes. The tie tapes at the neck shall extend not less than 14 inches from the edge of the adult life preserver and not less than 12 inches from the edge of the child life preserver. They shall be stitched through both thicknesses of the envelope as shown by Dwg. No. 160.005–1, Sheet 1, for adult size, and Sheet 4, for child size, or by the alternate stitching shown on Sheet 2. The free ends shall be doubled over and stitched in accordance with Section E–E of Sheet 1.

(e) Drawstrings. The drawstrings at the waist shall extend not less than 8 inches from the edge of the life preserver and shall be secured in the drawstring tunnel as shown by Dwg. No. 160.005–1, Sheet 1, for adult size, and Sheet 4, for child size, or by the alternate stitching shown on Sheet 2. The free ends shall be doubled over and stitched in accordance with Section E–E of Dwg. No. 160.005–1, Sheet 1.

(f) Body strap. The body strap shall be fitted with a single dee ring on one end and with the arrangement of a snap hook and prethreaded double dee rings as shown on Dwg. No. 160.005–1, Sheet 1, on the other. The body strap shall be stitched as shown on the drawings, and the edge of the single dee ring shall be 20 inches from the center line for adult size and 15 inches for child size.

(g) Reinforcing tape. Binding tape shall be stitched approximately 15 inches for adult jackets and 12 inches for child jackets around the back of the neck, and also around the openings of the drawstring tunnel, as indicated by the drawings.

(h) Stitching. All stitching shall be a short lock stitch conforming to Stitch Type 301 of Federal Specification DDD–S–751, and there shall be not less than 7, nor more than 9 stitches to the inch.

(i) Tufting. The pad inserts shall be tufted in the locations shown on Dwg. No. 160.005–1, Sheet 3, for adult size, and Dwg. No. 160.005–1, Sheet 5, for child size, except the alternate method provided by § 160.005–4 (j) may be employed for certain tufts in the case of Models 51 and 55 life preservers.

(j) Securing pad inserts in envelope pockets. The removable pad inserts shall be secured in the pockets of the envelopes of Models 51 and 55 life preservers, in no case more than one inch from the top seam of the pocket, by a row of stitching, approximately 1¼ inches long near the upper edge of each pocket, which stitching shall extend through both envelope covers and the pad cover fabric. The alternate method of securing the pad inserts in the pockets of the envelopes of Models 51 and 55 life preservers, in no case more than one inch from the top seam of the pocket, shall be by extending the tufts in the upper section of the front pads, and the tuft in the back pad, through the envelope covers and the pads. The removable pad inserts, which are contained in coated fabric outer pad covering, shall not be stitched or tufted to the envelopes of Models 52 and 56 life preservers.

(k) Workmanship. Life preservers shall be of first-class workmanship and shall be free from any defects materially affecting their appearance or serviceability.

§ 160.005–5 Inspections and tests—(a) General. An inspector shall examine all life preservers at the place of manufacture for compliance with this specification. Samples of materials entering into the construction may be taken at random by the inspector and tests made for compliance with the applicable requirements. After satisfying himself that the life preservers have been manufactured according to this specification, he shall select indiscriminately from each lot of 250 or less, at least one life preserver to be tested for buoyancy as specified by § 160.005–5 (b).

If the specimen life preserver passes the buoyancy test, the lot shall be acceptable as to buoyancy. If the specimen life preserver fails the buoyancy test, ten additional specimen life preservers shall be selected at random from the lot and tested for buoyancy. If all the ten additional specimen life preservers pass the test, the lot shall be acceptable as to buoyancy. If any one of the ten additional specimen life preservers fails the buoyancy test, the lot shall be rejected. Rejected lots may be tested 100 percent by the manufacturer and all nonconforming units eliminated, whereupon the remainder of the lot may be re-submitted for official inspection. When any specimen life preserver shall fail the buoyancy test, ten specimen life preservers shall be selected at random and tested from the next succeeding lot submitted for official inspection. When the inspector has satisfied himself that the life preservers submitted for inspection are of a type officially approved in the name of the company, and that such life preservers meet the requirements of this specification, they shall be plainly marked in waterproof ink with the words, "Approved, U. S. Coast Guard, (Inspection date), (Inspector's initials), and (Port)". The manufacturer shall provide a suitable place and the necessary apparatus for the use of the inspector in conducting tests at the place of manufacture.

(b) Buoyancy test. The life preserver shall be placed in a weighted wire cage of sufficient weight to submerge the life preserver. The cage with the life preserver attached shall then be submerged for 48 hours in a tank of fresh water so the top of the life preserver is approximately 2 inches below the surface of the water. The buoyancy shall be determined to equal the weight of the weighted cage in water less the weight of the cage in water with the life preserver inside. Models 51 and 52 life preservers shall support not less than 16½ pounds net weight, and Models 55 and 56 life preservers shall support not less than 11 pounds net weight. A Model 51 or 55 life preserver may be tested as a unit. For a Model 52 or 56 life preserver, the pads shall be separated from the preserver. The pads shall then be held with moderate hand pressure beneath the surface of a tank of water to test for leaks in the vinyl film outer pad covering, as evidenced by escaping air bubbles. The vinyl film outer pad covering shall then be removed from the pads, and the pads placed in the cage and tested for buoyancy as described above.

§ 160.005–6 Marking—(a) General. Each life preserver shall be plainly marked in waterproof ink on a front compartment with the word, "Adult" or "Child", as the case may be, with the model number, with the name and address of the manufacturer, and with the official approval number assigned to the life preserver.

§ 160.005–7 Procedure for approval—(a) General. Life preservers are approved only by the Commandant, U. S. Coast Guard, Washington, D. C. Each model life preserver is considered separately. Correspondence pertaining to the subject matter of this specification shall be addressed to the Commander of the Coast Guard District in which the factory is located. The Commander of the district will detail a marine inspector to the factory to observe the production facilities and manufacturing methods and to select at random, from life preservers already manufactured, not less than three life preservers for examination and test. A copy of the inspector's report, together with one specimen life preserver and one set of pad inserts, will be forwarded to the Commandant for assignment of an official approval number.

§ 160.024-4 Sampling, inspections, conditioning, and tests—(a) Classification of tests of cartridges. The methods of sampling, inspections, and tests conducted upon signals shall be considered as falling within one of the following general classifications:

(1) Qualification (type or brand approval) tests;

(2) Production check tests (at place of manufacture); and

(3) Production check tests (at a government laboratory).

(b) Qualification (type or brand approval) tests of cartridges. Pre-approval samples, selected in accordance with § 160.024-7 (c), shall be tested in accordance with the following testing schedule to determine qualification for type or brand approval (cost of tests to be borne by the manufacturer):

(1) Test 12 cartridges for water resistance characteristics, § 160.024-3 (e), following which test same 12 specimens for firing and operating characteristics. The magnitude of the failures shall be determined as follows:

[In the case of concurrent or simultaneous defects, penalties will not be applied cumulatively, but only for the greatest defect]

	Percentage of failure
(i) Misfire (when attributable to the primer and not to the malfunction of the pistol)	100
(ii) Failure to eject projectile contents	100
(iii) Failure to ignite prime of candle	100

(2) Disassemble 6 cartridges and test the pyrotechnic candles for burning time, candlepower, and chromaticity, § 160.024-3 (j), (k), and (l).

(3) Disassemble 3 cartridges and test for temperature of ignition, § 160.024-3 (l).

(4) Test 3 cartridges for chemical stability, § 160.024-3 (h), following which, test them for firing and operating characteristics, § 160.024-3 (d).

(c) Sampling, inspections, and test of cartridges from production lots. The production of pistol-projected parachute red flare distress signals produced under an official type or brand approval shall be checked for compliance with this specification in the manner set forth below:

(1) Lot size and sampling procedure. For purposes of sampling the production of pistol-projected parachute red flare distress signals, a lot shall consist of not more than 3,000 signals. A new lot shall be started with any change or modification in raw materials or manufacturing methods. Lots shall be numbered serially by the manufacturer, and the lot number shall be plainly and indelibly marked on the cartridge case of each signal in the lot. A marine inspector shall select at random from each lot the number of specimen signals indicated in the following table for inspection, conditioning, and testing:

TABLE 160.024-4 (c) (1)—NUMBER OF SPECIMEN SAMPLES

Lot size	Minimum number of specimens of sample
Not more than 1,000	15
1,001 to 3,000	24

(2) Inspection (at place of manufacture). The marine inspector shall be admitted to the place of manufacture and shall familiarize himself with the various operations involved in the manufacturing process and, from observation during manufacture, satisfy himself that pistol-projected parachute red flare distress signals are being made in general accordance with this subpart and of materials and parts conforming strictly with the specifications and drawings submitted by the manufacturer and approved by the Commandant. Specimens or samplings of materials entering into construction may be taken at random, either in the raw material state or during manufacture, by the inspector and tests made for compliance with applicable requirements. The test specimens comprising the sample, selected in accordance with subparagraph (1) of this paragraph shall be examined by the inspector for surface defects.

(3) Production check tests (at place of manufacture). (i) The manufacturer shall provide a suitable place and the necessary apparatus for the use of the inspector in conducting such production check tests as are done at the place of manufacture. Samples from production lots selected in accordance with subparagraph (1) of this paragraph shall, except when tested at a government laboratory as prescribed below, be tested at the place of manufacture in accordance with the following testing schedule: 1st day: Place all specimens in water-resistance conditioning, § 160.024-4 (d); 2d day: Remove all specimens from water-resistance conditioning. Test all but three specimens for firing and operating characteristics, § 160.024-3 (d). Performance shall be rated as in paragraph (b) (1) of this section. Disassemble 3 cartridges and test pyrotechnic candle for burning time and candlepower, paragraphs (g) and (h) of this section. The visual color shall be vivid red, but measurements for chromaticity will not be made.

(ii) Report of inspection and test shall be forwarded to the Commandant.

(4) Production check tests (at a Government laboratory). Tests at a Government laboratory shall be made on not less than one sample from each ten production lots of pistol-projected parachute red flare distress signals, or not less than once in each year, whichever occurs more frequently. Sampling and inspection shall be made at the place of manufacture as provided in subparagraphs (1) and (2), of this paragraph, except that for these tests the sample shall consist of 24 specimens. The sample will be forwarded prepaid by the manufacturer to the Commandant. Tests at the Government laboratory shall be conducted in accordance with the schedule given in paragraph (b) of this section.

(d) Conditioning of test specimens—water resistance. Immerse specimens horizontally in water at not more than 30° C. with uppermost portion of the signal approximately one inch below the surface of the water for a period of 24 hours.

(e) Conditioning—Elevated temperature, humidity, and storage. Place specimen in a thermostatically controlled even-temperature oven held at 90° C. with not less than 90 percent relative humidity for 72 hours. Remove specimens and store at room temperature (20° to 25° C.) with approximately 65 percent relative humidity for ten days.

(f) Test method—temperature of ignition of signal materials. The test shall be conducted in a uniformly heated gas or electric oven with a chamber of at least 6 inches by 9 inches inside measurement. If gas heated, the oven should be of jacketed type with the products of combustion of the heating gas excluded from the inner chamber. The oven should be provided with an opening or openings at the top of at least $^3/_4$ square inch in area to provide air circulation within. A suitable 600° F. 3-inch immersion thermometer shall be inserted through a sleeve in the top of the oven. A shelf of perforated sheet metal shall be provided at the mid-height of the oven. A wire screen cup $^1/_2$ inch in diameter by $^3/_4$ inch high shall be provided. The materials to be tested shall be placed to a depth of $^1/_2$ inch in the wire screen cup. (Ordinarily, materials adjacent to each other in the assembled signal will be blended together for the test, materials non-adjacent ordinarily will not be blended together for the test). The cup then shall be placed on the shelf so as to be within $^1/_2$ inch to $^1/_4$ inch from the bulb of the thermometer or the junction of the thermocouple. The temperature of the oven is to be raised to about 284° F. (140° C.) at a convenient rate, after which the temperature is to be raised at a rate not to exceed 2° F. per minute until ignition occurs or 338° F. (170° C.) has been reached. Time and temperature readings at 30 second intervals and also time at which ignition, if such occurs, are to be recorded. If ignition occurs, the approximate ignition temperature, to be reported, can be obtained by extrapolation from the time-temperature data. Alternate test methods will be given special consideration by the Coast Guard.

(g) Test method—burning time. The burning time of the pyrotechnic candle shall be obtained by stop watch measurements from the time positive flame is emitted until it ceases. The burning time for a sample (i. e., all the test specimens from a single lot) shall be the arithmetical average for all specimens in the sample.

(h) Test method—candlepower. The candlepower of each pyrotechnic candle tested shall be measured by a visual photometer or equivalent photometric device while the specimen is supported in a horizontal position and the photometer is at right angles to the axis of the specimen. Visual candlepower readings shall be observed and recorded at approximately 20 second intervals during the burning of the specimen. The minimum photometric distance shall be 10 feet. Recording photometers shall have a chart speed of at least one inch per minute. The candlepower of the specimen shall be computed as the arithmetical average of the readings recorded. The range for a specimen shall be the difference between the greatest and least candlepower reading. The candlepower for the sample (i. e. all test specimens from a single lot) shall be the arithmetical average of the candlepower values computed for each of the specimens making up the sample. The range for the sample shall be the difference between the computed greatest candlepower of a specimen and the computed least candlepower of another specimen in the sample. Signals failing to ignite shall be disregarded in computing the range of a sample.

(i) Test method—chromaticity. In order to determine that light from the specimen may be termed "vivid red" (ISCC–NBS method of designating colors, RP1239) two identical test plates of white cardboard 12" x 24" are used. Except for a negligible amount of stray daylight, the first test plate is illuminated by light from the specimen placed at a distance of about 5 feet. The second test plate is illuminated only by light from an incandescent lamp operated at a color temperature close to 2448° K. at a distance of about one foot. The first test plate is viewed directly, the second through combinations of Lovibond red, yellow, and blue glasses selected so as to approximate a chromaticity match. By separating the test plates by a wide unilluminated area (subtending at the observer about 45°) it is possible to make determinations of chromaticity in terms of the standard I. C. I. diagram (mixture diagram according to the 1931 International Commission on Illumination Standard Observer and Coordinate System) with an uncertainty in x or y not greater than 0.005, in spite of fluctuations in candlepower of the specimen by factors as high as 2 or 3. The light from burning red flare distress signals shall show values in terms of the I. C. I. Standard Observer and Coordinate system of not less than 0.61 for the x coordinate and not more than 0.34 for the y coordinate for any of the determinations made during the positive flame emitting period.

(j) Lot acceptance or rejection. When the marine inspector has satisfied himself that the pistol-projected parachute red flare distress signals in the lot are of a type officially approved in the name of the manufacturer and meet the requirements set forth in this subpart, each of the smallest packing cartons or boxes (usually containing one dozen signals) in which the cartridges are sealed prior to shipment, shall be plainly marked with the words: "Inspected and Passed, (date), (port), Inspector's initials." A lot shall be rejected: (1) When, of that portion of the lot tested for firing and operating characteristics, the failures as computed by the table shown in subparagraph (b) (1) of this section, exceeds 15 percent; or (2) when, of the signals tested for the other required characteristics, there is any failure to meet the requirements herein. Signals from rejected lots may, when permitted by the inspector, be reworked by the manufacturer to correct the deficiency for which they were rejected and be resubmitted for official inspection. Signals from rejected lots may not, unless subsequently accepted, be sold or offered for sale under representation as being in compliance with this specification or as being approved for use on merchant vessels.

§ 160.024-5 Marking—(a) Cartridge. Each pistol-projected parachute red flare distress signal shall be legibly marked as follows:

(Company brand or style designation)

PISTOL-PROJECTED PARACHUTE RED FLARE DISTRESS SIGNAL

20,000 candlepower—30 seconds burning time

USE ONLY WHEN AIR CRAFT OR VESSEL IS SIGHTED

DIRECTIONS: Fire upward from signal pistol

(Month and year manufactured) Lot No. --------

Manufactured by (name and address of manufacturer)

U. S. COAST GUARD APPROVAL NO. -------- for merchant vessels

(b) Other marking. On each pistol-projected parachute red flare distress signal there shall be die-stamped, in figures not less than $^1/_8$ inch high, on each integral part of the cartridge, the month and year of manufacture. The pyrotechnic candle shall be legibly marked with the month and year of manufacture. In addition to any other marking placed on the smallest packing carton or box containing cartridges, each carton or box shall be plainly and permanently marked to show the month and year of manufacture and lot number.

§ 160.024-6 Container—(a) General. Containers for stowage of signal pistols and pistol-projected parachute red flare distress signals in lifeboats and life rafts on merchant vessels are not required to have specific approval or to be of special design, but they shall meet the following test for watertightness when closed, and shall be capable of being opened and reclosed hand-tight to meet the same watertightness test. The materials shall be copper, brass, bronze, or other material equally corrosion-resistant to salt water and spray. The type container illustrated by Drawing number 160.024-6 (A) is recommended for most purposes.

(b) Watertightness test for containers. Whenever question arises as to the watertightness of a container, the following test may be made to determine whether it is satisfactory in this respect. Open the container, remove the contents, insert colored blotting paper as a lining, reclose container as tightly as possible by hand (no wrenches or special tools permitted) submerge container with top about one foot below the surface of the water for two hours, remove container from water, wipe off excess moisture on outside, then open the container and examine the blotting paper and entire interior for evidence of moisture penetration. If any moisture or water is evidenced, the container is not satisfactory.

(c) Marking of container. Containers shall be embossed or bear a brass or equivalent corrosion-resistant nameplate, or otherwise be suitably and permanently marked, to plainly show in letters not less than $^1/_2$ inch high the following wording: "Signal Pistol and Pistol-Protected Parachute Red Flare Distress Signals." No additional marking which might cause confusion as to the contents shall be permitted.

NOTE: The vessel's name is required to be painted or branded on equipment such as this container by other regulations, and nothing in this subpart shall be construed as prohibiting same.

§ 160.024-7 Procedure for approval—(a) General. Pistol-projected parachute red flare distress signals for merchant vessels are approved only by the Commandant, U. S. Coast Guard, Washington, D. C. Correspondence pertaining to the subject matter of this specification shall be addressed to the Coast Guard District in which the factory is located.

(b) Manufacturer's plans and specifications. In order to obtain approval of pistol-projected parachute red flare distress signals, submit detailed plans and specifications including a complete bill of material, assembly drawing, and parts drawings, descriptive of the arrangement and construction of the signal, to the Commander of the Coast Guard District in which the factory is located. Each drawing shall have an identifying drawing number, date, and an identification of the signal; and the general arrangement or assembly drawing shall include a list of all drawings applicable, together with drawing numbers and alteration numbers. The alterations shall be noted with the date of alteration or new drawing numbers and dates shall be assigned. At the time of selection of the pre-approval sample, the manufacturer shall furnish to the inspector four copies of all plans and specifications, corrected as may be required, for forwarding to the Commandant.

(c) Pre-approval sample. After the first drawings and specifications have been examined and found to appear satisfactory, a marine inspector will be detailed to the factory to observe the production facilities and manufacturing methods and to select at random, from not less than 50 signals already manufactured, a sample of not less than 24 specimens which will be forwarded prepaid by the manufacturer to the Commandant for the necessary conditioning and tests in accordance with § 160.024-4 (b) to determine compliance with this subpart for qualification for type or brand approval for use on merchant vessels.

The inspector shall then examine each pistol for compliance with the applicable drawings. The pistol forwarded to the Commandant will be submitted to a Government Laboratory for a check of the chamber and bore dimensions.

(b) Approved pistols. After approval is granted a design, each pistol manufactured shall be tested by firing a dummy cartridge simulating a normal signal in size and weight, but with a charge double the normal charge. The pistol shall then be examined for defects. After the successful completion of the proof tests and inspection, each pistol shall be stamped with the letters "P. T.". Reports of tests and inspections shall be forwarded to the Commandant, indicating serial numbers of pistols passed or rejected.

§ 160.028–5 Marking — (a) General. Each signal pistol shall be permanently and legibly marked with its serial number, Coast Guard approval number, and the name and address of the manufacturer.

§ 160.028–6 Container—(a) General. Containers for the stowage of signal pistols and pistol projected parachute red flare distress signals in lifeboats and life rafts on merchant vessels are not required to have specific approval or to be of specific design except for certain material, marking, and test requirements, which requirements are contained in § 160.024–6 of Subpart 160.024. The type container illustrated by Drawing No. 160.024–6 (A) is recommended for most purposes.

§ 160.028–7 Procedure for approval—(a) General. Signal pistols for merchant vessels are approved only by the Commandant, U. S. Coast Guard, Washington, D. C. Correspondence pertaining to the subject matter of this specification shall be addressed to the Commander of the Coast Guard District in which the factory is located.

(b) Manufacturers plans and specifications. In order to apply for approval of signal pistols, submit detailed plans and specifications, including a complete bill of materials, assembly drawing, and parts drawings descriptive of the arrangement and construction of the pistol, to the Commander of the Coast Guard District in which the factory is located. Each drawing shall have an identifying number, date, and identification of the pistol, and the general arrangement or assembly drawing shall include a list of all drawings applicable, together with drawing numbers and alteration numbers. The alterations shall be noted with the date of alteration, or new drawing numbers and dates shall be assigned. The manufacturer will be advised whether or not the drawings and specifications appear satisfactory or what corrections appear necessary. After the plans and specifications have been found to appear satisfactory, the manufacturer may proceed with the submittal of pre-approval samples. At the time of the tests of the pre-approval samples the manufacturer shall furnish the marine inspector four copies of all plans and specifications, corrected as may be required, for forwarding to the Commandant.

(c) Pre-approval samples. After the drawings and specifications have been examined and found to appear satisfactory, at the request of the manufacturer a marine inspector will be detailed to the factory to observe the production facilities and manufacturing methods, and to test and examine not less than three pistols in accordance with § 160.028–4 (a), following which one of the pistols, together with a report of the serial numbers of all pistols, and results of examinations and tests, shall be forwarded to the Commandant for final consideration. Cost of shipping and pre-approval tests shall be borne by the manufacturer.

§ 3.133 Effect of diagnoses of active tuberculosis. • • •

(c) Diagnoses of active pulmonary tuberculosis by private physicians on the basis of their examination, observation, or treatment will not be accepted to show the disease initially manifest after discharge from active service unless confirmed by acceptable clinical, X-ray or laboratory studies or by findings of active tuberculosis based upon acceptable hospital observation or treatment.

2. In § 3.135, the title and paragraph (a) are amended to read as follows:

For these purposes a veteran determined to have had active pulmonary tuberculosis will be held to have reached a condition of complete arrest when the diagnosis is other than active: Provided, That for a period of 6 months preceding the date of examination or hospital report, there has been no evidence of local or constitutional symptoms, or of an unstable lesion or cavity, or of tubercle bacilli in the sputum or gastric contents.

(2) If the diganostic classification of the pulmonary tuberculosis is other than active, but "complete arrest" for rating purposes cited in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph is not established, examinations will be scheduled 6 months after date of examination or hospital report and thereafter at intervals of 6 months.

(3) Following the determination of complete arrest as defined in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph, the finding of tubercle bacilli in an occasional specimen of sputum or gastric contents on unofficial examination will not of itself establish activity of the disease unless confirmed on Veterans' Administration examination.

TITLE 47—TELECOMMUNICATION

Chapter I—Federal Communications Commission

[Docket No. 9937]

PART 1—PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

USE OF LESSER GRADE OPERATORS

In the matter of amendment of Part 1 of the Commission's rules and regulations to add new § 1.334.

This proceeding was instituted on April 4, 1951, by the issuance of a notice of proposed rule making, FCC Mimeo No. 61587 which proposed that Part 1 of the Commission's rules and regulations be amended by the addition of a new § 1.334.

The new section was designed to describe the procedure to follow and the information required to be submitted to the Commission by licensees of Standard and FM broadcast stations on applying for permission to operate such stations with operators holding lesser grades of licenses than required by the Commission's rules.

Comments concerning the proposal in the notice of proposed rule making herein were duly filed by the National Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters; Radio Broadcast Technicians and Engineers, International Electrical Workers, Local Union 253, Birmingham, Alabama; Carribean Broadcasting Corporation, Arecibo, Puerto Rico; Louis Hennes and William H. Carman. Upon careful consideration of the above comments, the Commission has considered that the public would be served by the adoption of this section with certain modifications therein which take into account the principal objection to the proposed rule as reflected by the comments, and which also make certain editorial changes or clarifications in the rules as proposed.

While the IBEW Local Union 253 favored the adoption of the proposed rule, Messrs. Hennes and Carman, who commented individually as radio operators, alleged that the apparent shortage of operators is not sufficiently acute to warrant relaxation of operator requirements. Actually the rule under consideration is not a relaxation of present operator requirements, but a codification of the procedure to be followed by broadcast station licensees when operators cannot be obtained and relief is requested under existing section 0.151 of the rules.

The principal objection advanced with respect to the rule is the period for which permission would be granted, i. e., 30 days. It was urged by the Carribean Broadcasting Corp. that this period be increased to as much as six months. However, the length of time suggested by the National Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters appears more realistic. It was suggested that the proposed rule be amended to provide that permission may be granted for a period not to exceed 120 days and to require the station to which permission to use a lesser grade operator was granted to file a showing at the end of a 60-day period with respect to continuing efforts being made to secure the required grade of operator. This proposal appears meritorious since it would relieve administrative problems for the Commission's field offices and similarly reduce the burden to station licenses while at the same time the procedure would adequately perpetuate surveillance by the Commission to prevent reduction of operating standards. The proposed rule, therefore, has been amended accordingly.

In addition, § 1.334 (c) (5) has been modified to include a provision which would permit a station licensee to show the reasons an available operator was not employed or the reasons a prospective operator refused to accept employment as an alternative to a showing that an operator could not be obtained. This change does not appear to warrant further notice of proposed rule making since it only clarifies the language of the proposed rule to express an implied alternative method of reporting this aspect of the problem.

Further, § 1.334 (d) has been modified to provide specifically that the certificate required by this paragraph of the rule to be filed by the chief operator of the employing station will include the name of the lesser grade operator and the license number of the license held by him. This change does not appear to warrant further notice of proposed rule making for the reason that it does not involve any matter of substance and will lead to a clearer understanding of the rule and will aid in its administration.

In view of the foregoing it is ordered, that effective Sept. 1, 1951 that Part I of the Commission's rules and regulations be amended to include a new § 1.334 as set forth below.

(Sec. 4, 48 Stat. 1066, as amended; 47 U. S. C. 154. Interprets or applies secs. 303, 308, 319, 48 Stat. 1082, as amended, 1084, 1089; 47 U. S. C. 303, 308, 319)

Adopted: July 11, 1951.

Released: July 13, 1951.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION,
[SEAL] T. J. SLOWIE,
Secretary.

§ 1.334 Applications for permission to use lesser grade operators at aural broadcast stations than required by Commission rules. (a) Applications for temporary permission to operate standard and FM broadcast stations with licensed operators of a lesser grade than normally required by the Commission's rules shall be submitted to the Engineer in Charge of the Commission's district headquarters field office in the area where the station is located. Such permission will be granted for periods of not to exceed 120 days if a proper showing is made, as set forth in this section, and may be renewed upon request only upon the making of an adequate similar showing. Within 60 days of receiving an authorization for a longer period, a written report shall be submitted on behalf of the station setting forth what continuing efforts have been made to obtain licensed operators of a grade normally required by the Commission's rules. The Engineer in Charge may terminate this permission in the absence of a satisfactory showing in the written report that adequate efforts have been made to obtain such operators, or for other good reason in the judgment of the Engineer in Charge.

(b) Such applications or reports are not required to be submitted on any numbered or prescribed form. However, the request or report shall be in writing, signed by the licensee, if the licensee is an individual; by a partner, if the licensee is a partnership; or by an officer of the corporation, if the licensee is a corporation.

(c) A specific request for permission to use operators of lesser grade than required by the Commission's rules shall be included and the following information shall be furnished:

(1) Call letters of the station;

(2) Name of licensee;

(3) The number of persons holding radiotelephone first class operator licenses that will be employed as full-time operators at the station, (this does not include part-time employees and persons only available on call in case of emergencies);

(4) A showing that at least one first class operator will be employed full time at the station and will be available on call at all times in the event of equipment failure;

(5) A statement that the additional licensed radiotelephone first class operators required for maintaining the normal schedule of operation could not be obtained for employment at the station or in the event an operator of the required grade will not accept employment at the station or was rejected by the station, a statement showing the reason for the failure to employ such operators.

(6) A showing that all known sources of broadcast operators within a reasonable distance have been exhausted. Names and addresses of sources contacted and the date of such contact shall be stated.

(d) The chief operator holding a radiotelephone first class operator license at a station to which temporary permission has been granted shall mail to the Engineer in Charge of the area from whom permission is received, within three days after employment of a lesser grade operator, a written certification setting forth the name and operator license number of the lesser grade operator employed and stating that the operator has the ability to perform the normal operation of the station.

On the basis of observations and reports of field representatives of the Fish and Wildlife Service, it has been determined that additional public fishing and the use of boats and outboard motorboats in certain waters of the Des Lacs National Wildlife Refuge can be permitted without interfering with the primary purpose of the refuge.

Inasmuch as the following regulations are relaxations of the existing regulations regarding fishing and boating on the refuge, publication prior to the effective date is not required (60 Stat. 237, 5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.).

Effective immediately upon publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER, §§ 33.71, 33.72, and 33.76 are revised to read as follows, and §§ 33.78 and 33.79 are added:

§ 33.72 Waters open to fishing. The following waters of the Des Lacs National Wildlife Refuge shall be open to fishing:

Area I. Middle Des Lacs Lake excluding the marsh areas on the north and south portions and designated by the installation of suitable buoy markers in sections 19, 20, 29, and 30, T. 160 N., R. 86 W., 5th P. M.

At a session of the Federal Communications Commission, held at its offices in Washington, D. C., on the 11th day of July 1951;

The Commission having under consideration the above-entitled applications of Union Broadcasting Company seeking to modify its construction permit (File No. BP-5186, Docket No. 7851) granted January 27, 1950, which authorized a change in facilities of Station WARM, Scranton, Pennsylvania, from 1400 kc, 250 watts, unlimited time, to 590 kc, 5 kw, DA-1, unlimited time, to (1) change type transmitter and make changes in the antenna system, and (2) extend the completion date of construction authorized by BP-5186 from June 15, 1951 to September 15, 1951;

It appearing, that the grant of the applicant's construction permit (File No. BP-5186) was conditioned to require said applicant to construct one tower on the proposed site and submit a complete field intensity survey to the Commission for approval prior to the construction of the four additional towers; that the survey made in compliance with this condition reveals that the ground conductivity in the area of Scranton is lower than contemplated; and that for this reason has filed the aforementioned applications (BMP-5525 and BMP-5565) requesting modification of said construction permit; and

It further appearing, that the applicant is legally, technically, financially and otherwise qualified to construct and operate Station WARM, as proposed, but that the proposed operation may involve objectionable interference with one or more existing stations and otherwise not comply with the Standards of Good Engineering Practice, particularly with reference to service to the city of Scranton and the Scranton-Wilkes-Barre metropolitan district;

It is ordered, That, pursuant to section 309 (a) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the said applications are designated for hearing, at 10:00 a. m., on August 28, 1951, at Washington, D. C., upon the following issues:

1. To determine, in the light of the data obtained in the field intensity survey made, by the applicant, the areas and populations which may be expected to gain or lose primary service from the operation of Station WARM as proposed in BMP-5525 and as authorized in its construction permit, BP-5186 as modified, and the character of other broadcast service available to such areas and populations.

2. To determine whether the operation of Station WARM, as proposed in BMP-5525, would involve objectionable interference with Station WGTM, Wilson, North Carolina, or with any other existing broadcast stations and, if so, the nature and extent thereof, the areas and population affected thereby, and the availability of other broadcast service to such areas and populations.

3. To determine particularly in light of the evidence adduced under the foregoing issues whether the installation and operation of Station WARM, as proposed in BMP-5525 and as authorized in its construction permit, BP-5186 as modified, would be in compliance with the Commission's rules and standards of Good Engineering Practice Concerning Standard Broadcast Stations, with particular reference to service to the city of Scranton and to the Scranton-Wilkes-Barre metropolitan district.

4. To determine whether and to what extent the coverage of Station WARM operating as authorized in its construction permit, BP-5186 as modified, would differ from that which the Commission, in its decision in Docket 7851, found would result from such operation.

The Commission, by order dated December 30, 1947, having approved the plan, designated as Application No. 31, as amended ("Application 31"), filed pursuant to section 11 (e) of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("act") by The United Light and Railways Company ("Railways") and American Light & Traction Company ("American"—now American Natural Gas Company) which provided, inter alia, for the disposition by Railways of all its interests in American, The Detroit Edison Company ("Detroit Edison") and Madison Gas and Electric Company ("Madison"); and Railways, in compliance with said application and order and the several related orders indicated below, having:

(c) Sold 1,257,947 shares of common stock of American (which was changed and reclassified from common stock of the par value of $25 per share to common stock without par value by proper corporate action on June 15, 1949, prior to the sale of such stock under the second rights offering hereinafter referred to) to common stockholders of Railways pursuant to two rights offerings, on the basis of one share of American stock for each five shares of Railways stock held (orders of February 7, 1949, and June 1, 1949);

(d) Sold an additional 6,673 shares of such common stock of American which were offered, but not purchased, under the first such rights offering, through ordinary brokerage transactions on the New York Curb Exchange (order of March 24, 1949);

(f) Sold Purchase Certificate Number 10,154 evidencing payment of an initial 20 percent of the subscription price for $521,800 principal amount of 3 percent Convertible Debentures, due December 1, 1958, of Detroit Edison to Schoellkopf, Hutton & Pomeroy, Inc., and Weeden & Co., Inc. (order of March 7, 1949); and

(g) Sold 7,961 shares of common stock of the par value of $16 per share of Madison in ordinary broker-dealer transactions in the over-the-counter market, such 7,961 shares being the shares remaining after the distribution by Railways to its common stockholders of 125,030 shares of common stock of Madison on the basis of one share of Madison stock for each 25 shares of Railways stock held (orders of April 13, 1949, and September 30, 1949); and

Application 31, as approved by the Commission's order of December 30, 1947, having provided that the proceeds of the aforesaid sales of preferred and common stock of American, capital stock of Detroit Edison and common stock of Madison should be expended by Railways to pay, retire and cancel its outstanding notes issued under its loan agreement, dated November 24, 1945, as amended, and to pay in part the final maturity of notes to be issued, under the terms of Application 31, in an aggregate principal amount of $28,500,000 in connection with the borrowing of funds for use in redeeming Railways' outstanding prior preferred stock and for use in investing $9,000,000 in common stock of Continental Gas & Electric Corporation ("Continental") to enable Continental to retire its notes outstanding under its loan agreement of November 24, 1945; and,

The Commission, in said order of December 30, 1947, having recited, inter alia, that the application of such proceeds in such manner was necessary or appropriate to the integration or simplification of the holding company system of which Railways was a member and was necessary or appropriate to effectuate the provisions of the act; and

Railways and Continental having subsequently filed with the Commission under section 11 (e) of the act a plan of liquidation of Railways and Continental which was approved, as amended, by an order of the Commission entered on January 10, 1950, and the proposed issuance by Railways of $28,500,000 principal amount of notes as provided in Application 31 having become inappropriate by reason of said amended plan of liquidation; and Railways having subsequently, in accordance with an order of the Commission entered on May 2, 1949, issued notes in the principal amount of $19,500,000 in lieu of the $28,500,000 principal amount of notes provided for in Application 31; and

Said amended plan of liquidation having provided, inter alia, for (i) the sale by Railways to its common stockholders of common stock of Kansas City Power & Light Company ("Kansas City"), (ii) the application of the proceeds of such sale to the payment of outstanding notes of Continental to be assumed by Railways, (iii) the application of any balance of such proceeds to other indebtedness of Railways, including the aforesaid notes in the principal amount of $19,500,000, (iv) the contribution by Railways to Continental of funds to be used by Continental in purchasing additional shares of common stock of Iowa Power and Light Company ("Iowa Power"), and (v) the investment by Railways of $5,000,000 in additional common stock of Kansas City, and

It having been the intent of said amended plan of liquidation that the proceeds of the sales of securities previously listed herein, to the extent not required to pay, retire and cancel the aforementioned notes of Railways issued under its loan agreement dated November 24, 1945, should be applied to the aforementioned capital contribution to Continental and investment in common stock of Kansas City; and

Railways, pursuant to said amended plan of liquidation, an interim order of the Commission entered on December 23, 1949, and the Commission's order of January 10, 1950, approving said amended plan of liquidation, having contributed $2,500,000 to Continental and having invested $5,000,000 in common stock of Kansas City, all as provided in said amended plan, and having applied proceeds from the sales of securities previously listed herein to such purposes; and

It having been the intent of such orders that Railways should apply such proceeds to such purposes, and that the application of such proceeds in such manner should constitute expenditures and investments of such proceeds which were necessary or appropriate to the integration or simplification of the holding company system of which Railways was a member and which were necessary or appropriate to effectuate the provisions of section 11 (b) of the act within the meaning of applicable provisions of Supplement R of the Code; and

Railways having requested the Commission to enter a supplemental order conforming to the requirements of Supplement R of the Code, confirming such intent and, in the case of proceeds applied to the retirement of Railways' outstanding 2 percent two-year notes dated December 10, 1945, due December 31, 1949, itemizing and specifying such notes and the specific amounts from the proceeds of the several sales applied in retirement thereof in more detail than was possible at the time of entry of the Commission's order dated December 30, 1947, approving Application 31, as amended; and the Commission deeming it appropriate to grant such request; and

The Commission having in said order of December 30, 1947 approving Application 31 and in said order of January 10, 1950 approving the amended plan of liquidation, reserved jurisdiction to entertain such further proceedings, to make such supplemental findings and to take such further action as the Commission may deem appropriate in connection with Application 31 and the amended plan of liquidation, the transactions incident thereto and the consummation thereof and to enter such further orders as may be necessary to secure full compliance with the act:

It is hereby ordered and recited, That, the steps and transactions itemized below involved in the consummation of Application 31 and the amended plan of liquidation were necessary or appropriate to the integration and simplification of the holding company system of which Railways was a member and were necessary or appropriate to effectuate the provisions of section 11 (b) of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 and are hereby authorized and approved:

ORDER PERMITTING DECLARATION TO BECOME EFFECTIVE REGARDING RENEWAL OF PRINCIPAL AMOUNT OF PROMISSORY NOTES

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission, held at its office in the city of Washington, D. C., on the 18th day of July A. D. 1951.

United Gas Corporation ("United"), a gas utility subsidiary of Electric Bond and Share Company, a registered holding company, having filed a declaration pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935, particularly sections 6 (a) and 7 thereof with respect to the following proposed transactions:

United presently has outstanding $25,000,000 principal amount of promissory notes maturing December 31, 1951, and bearing interest at the rate of 2½ percent per annum. United proposes to refinance these outstanding notes through the issuance and sale, to the holders of the present notes, of a like principal amount of promissory notes dated as of July 1, 1951, maturing two years from the date of issue, and bearing interest at the rate of 2¾ percent per annum, payable quarterly. The declaration states that the proposed transactions are an interim step in the over-all financing program of United which is more fully described in the application-declaration regarding the issuance and sale of common stock pursuant to a rights offering and the issuance and sale of first mortgage bonds (Holding Company Act Release No. 10636).

Said declaration having been filed on June 29, 1951, notice of said filing having been given in the form and manner required by Rule U-23 promulgated pursuant to said act, the Commission not having received a request for hearing within the time specified in said notice or otherwise, and the Commission not having ordered a hearing thereon; and

The Commission finding that the proposed transactions are in accordance with the applicable standards of the act, and that no adverse findings are necessary thereunder, and the Commission deeming it appropriate to permit said declaration to become effective without the imposition of terms or conditions:

NATIONAL FUEL GAS CO.

NOTICE REGARDING APPLICATION CONCERNING ACQUISITION OF SHARES OF COMMON STOCK OF PENNSYLVANIA GAS CO.

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission, held at its office in the city of Washington, D. C., on the 18th day of July A. D. 1951.

Notice is hereby given that National Fuel Gas Company ("National"), a registered holding company, has filed an application with this Commission pursuant to sections 9 (a) and 10 of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935, with respect to the following transactions:

National, prior to February 1936, owned 297,624 shares, or 51.67 percent, of the total outstanding 576,000 shares of the common capital stock of Pennsylvania Gas Company ("Pennsylvania"). Between February 1936 and May 1938, National purchased, from time to time in small amounts, a total of 2,531 shares of Pennsylvania's common stock, offered to National by minority stockholders, at prices varying from $10 to $12.50 per share, or a total purchase price of $28,894.50. On May 22, 1947, National purchased 2,444 additional shares of Pennsylvania's common stock offered to National by a minority stockholder at a price of $20 per share, or a total cost of $48,880. As a result of the above-mentioned purchases of Pennsylvania's common stock, National increased its holdings to 302,599 shares, or 52.53 percent of Pennsylvania's total outstanding 576,000 shares.

The above purchases of Pennsylvania's common stock were made by National without requests for authorization of this Commission, for the stated reason that the officers of National did not believe that prior approval of such transactions was required, in view of the small amount of the purchases compared to the total of the 576,000 shares outstanding. National has now filed an application requesting that the above-mentioned purchases of Pennsylvania's common stock be authorized by the Commission pursuant to sections 9 (a) and 10 of said act, and National further states that it agrees to abide by such order as the Commission may make in the premises.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than July 31, 1951 at 5:30 p. m., e. d. s. t., request in writing that a hearing be held on such matter, stating the nature of his interest, the reasons for such request and the issues of fact or law, if any, raised by said application which he desires to controvert, or may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. Any such request should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, 425 Second Street NW., Washington 25, D. C. At any time after 5:30 p. m., e. d. s. t., on July 31, 1951, said application, as filed or as amended, may be granted as provided in Rule U-23 of the rules and regulations promulgated under said act, or the Commission may exempt such transactions as provided in Rule U-20 (a) and Rule U-100 thereof. All interested persons are referred to said application which is on file with the Commission for a statement of the transactions therein proposed.

By the Commission.

TITLE 32—NATIONAL DEFENSE

Chapter V—Department of the Army

Subchapter A—Aid of Civil Authorities and Public Relations

PART 511—ASSISTANCE TO RELATIONS AND OTHERS IN CONNECTION WITH DECEASED PERSONNEL

EFFECTS OF DECEASED

Sections 511.4 and 511.5 are rescinded and the following substituted therefor:

§ 511.4 Effects—(a) General. This section prescribes the manner of disposing of the effects of persons who are deceased or missing outside theaters of operations. A deceased or missing person referred to in this section is one who is subject to military law at the time of his death or was reported as missing under the provisions of the Missing Persons Act of March 7, 1942 (56 Stat. 143), as amended by the Act of December 24, 1942 (56 Stat. 1003), and the act of July 1, 1944 (58 Stat. 679; 50 U. S. C., App. 1001, et seq.).

(b) Inventory. WD AGO Form 54 (Inventory of Effects) will be prepared in the case of every deceased or missing person whose effects are under control of the military authorities.

(c) Funds, commercial papers, stocks, bonds, etc. (1) Moneys found on personal effects, received from debtors or from sale of effects, will be transmitted to the legal next of kin. When next of kin is not present, such moneys will be forwarded to them by mail, either by United States postal money order or United States Treasury check, and duly recorded on Form 54. When moneys found are less than $5, such money will be included with the effects.

(2) Government funds entrusted to personnel as agents or finance officers are not effects. If it appears that funds found on the deceased will be turned over to the disbursing officer to be deposited in special deposits until determination can be made as to the amounts belonging to the Government and to the individual.

(3) Commercial papers, bank accounts, stocks, bonds, or negotiable instruments (which include traveler's checks, money orders, etc.) will not be converted into cash but will be forwarded to the next of kin, legal representative, or The Adjutant General, Department of the Army, Washington 25, D. C.

(4) Military payment orders found among the effects of personnel who are deceased, missing, missing in action, or which are otherwise undeliverable, will be forwarded to the Chief of Finance, Department of the Army, Washington 25, D. C., Attn: Receipts and Disbursements Division. Letter of transmittal will furnish information showing the source from which the military payment order was received, the status of the payee, and such other information as may be available regarding the issuance and ownership of same. If the payee is deceased, the name and address of the next of kin also will be furnished. Claimants for the proceeds of such military payment orders will be referred to the Chief of Finance, Washington 25, D. C., Attn: Receipts and Disbursements Division.

(d) Clothing and equipment. All organizational clothing and equipment and all other Government property to which the individual is not entitled will be withdrawn from the effects and turned over to the appropriate supply officer. Credit entries for the items withdrawn will be made on the records of the individual. Personal clothing to which title vests in the individual will not be withdrawn from the effects of the decedent, except to the extent necessary to provide clothing for burial. If the clothing of the deceased is soiled but otherwise suitable for burial purposes, it will be cleaned and pressed at Government expense before use.

(e) Shipment. (1) The effects of missing persons will be held 120 days or longer before they are shipped or delivered to the next of kin.

(2) Each package, box, or crate containing effects will be marked plainly "Effects deceased person" and will bear the full name, grade, service number, and organization of the person to whom the effects belonged. The contents of a package or packages will be verified against the inventory by the commanding officer or other person making the shipment, and the package or packages will be sealed by the person verifying the contents. A certificate as to such verification and sealing will be included in the package (or package No. 1).

(3) Upon delivery or shipment of effects a communication will be delivered or mailed to the person receiving the effects, conveying the information that delivery or shipment of the property does not in any way vest title in the recipient, but that the property is delivered or forwarded for retention or disposition as custodian in accordance with the laws of the State of the decedent's or missing person's legal residence. In case of shipment, the communication will state the date and method of shipment, and anticipated date of arrival.

(f) Next of kin or legal representative present. (1) If the next of kin or legal representative is present, the immediate commanding officer of the deceased or missing person will inventory the effects on WD AGO Form 54 (Inventory of Effects), prepared in triplicate, deliver the effects in person, receiving a receipt therefor, or arrange for packing and shipment at Government expense, if requested, and will forward the original and duplicate of the inventory, with the full name and address of the person receiving the effects, to the commanding officer having custody of the individual's records. The commanding officer will indicate his approval of the disposition by signing Form 54 and will forward the original to The Adjutant General with the indivdual records of the deceased or missing person.

(2) If death occurs or a person is reported as missing in a Territory or possession of the United States, or in another country, and the person entitled to receive the effects is a resident of that Territory, possession, or country, the commanding officer may deliver the personal effects of the individual to the proper person in the same manner as outlined in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph, receiving in return a receipt therefor. If personal delivery or direct transmission is not practicable, the person entitled to receive the effects may be requested to designate by written notice, in triplicate, a consular representative, or other such person, at or near the place where the effects are located. The consular representative will act as an agent for the acceptance of the effects of the deceased or missing person, and will be required to receipt for the effects on all three copies of Form 54, or to execute a separate receipt, in triplicate. A copy of the authorization, and separate receipt, if taken, will be attached to each copy of Form 54 for disposition in accordance with subparagraph (1) of this paragraph. Currency among effects of the deceased or missing person, in this case, should be turned over to the nearest disbursing officer for issuance of a United States dollar or foreign currency check, as appropriate. If the person entitled to receive the effects fails or declines to designate a consular representative for this purpose, the effects will be given to the custody of a summary court for disposition.

(g) Next of kin or legal representative not present—(1) Legal representative or next of kin known but not present. (i) The inventory of effects will be prepared in quadruplicate by the immediate commanding officer, and the original and two copies will be delivered with the effects to the summary court appointed to dispose of the effects. If it appears to the interest of both the eventual owner and the Government that certain effects which meet the general discription contained in subdivision (iii) of this subparagraph be sold, particularly when the effects are located overseas, the summary court, if the commanding officer approves, will so advise the next of kin or legal representative and ask for a power of attorney to dispose of the effects concerned. Sale, if authorized, may be by public or private sale. A certified copy of the bill of sale will be prepared for the next of kin or legal representative. In addition, the summary court will collect all local debts due the decedent and will pay undisputed local creditors, taking a receipt for such payments to be attached to the inventory. A complete record of all sales and other cash transactions will be entered on the Form 54. The summary court will forward the effects and cash from any transactions at Government expense, with original and duplicate of the inventory, with certified bills of sale, to the person eligible to receive the effects, with the request that both copies of the inventory be signed and returned to the summary court. Upon return of both signed copies of the inventory, the summary court will forward both copies to the commanding officer who had custody of the individual's records. The commanding officer will indicate his approval by signing both copies of the inventory and forwarding the original to The Adjutant General.

(ii) Foreign currencies found among the effects will be considered souvenir moneys, and will be shipped with the effects. Negotiable instruments (including traveler's checks, money orders, etc.) payable to the deceased, or missing person, except checks drawn on the Treasury of the United States, or on foreign depositories, will be transmitted with other effects; however, negotiable instruments made payable to the deceased in settlement of a debt due to deceased by local debtors may be indorsed by the summary court for collection, and the proceeds will be disposed of in the same manner as cash found among the effects. Checks drawn on the Treasurer of the United States, or on foreign depositories, will be transmitted to the issuing disbursing officer or his successor in office for appropriate action (transmittal to the General Accounting Office). Proper notation will be made on Form 54 concerning these checks so that claim may be made for them by the next of kin.

(iii) Items which may be considered for sale are these:

(a) Which may not be shipped under existing regulations or policies established by the (oversea) commander.

(b) Which because of their bulk, nature, or weight cannot be included with other effects to be shipped.

(c) Obviously of no sentimental value, which are not of a value commensurate to the cost of shipment, and which may be sold in the oversea command for as much or more than in the United States (Such as vehicles, heavy furniture, etc.).

(d) Which if sold in the oversea command, would serve the best interest of the eventual owner concerned (such as items of electrical equipment which would not be of any value in the United States because of odd voltage).

(2) Legal representative or next of kin not known. The inventory of effects will be prepared in sextuplicate by the immediate commanding officer, and the original and 4 copies will be delivered with the effects to the summary court appointed to dispose of the effects. The summary court will verify the inventory and receipt therefor on the last copy which will be returned to the organization commander. After collecting from debtors and paying creditors of the individual, the summary court will sell all effects except those articles defined in the Manual for Courts-Martial as valuable chiefly as keepsakes, and stocks, bonds, evidence of bank accounts, or other forms of purely commercial paper, and will pay any bona fide creditors of the deceased. Cash or check received from sale of effects will be transmitted to the local disbursing officer, with the original and four copies of the inventory of effects. The original and two copies of the inventory will be forwarded by the summary court to the commanding officer who had custody of the individual's records. Insignia, decorations, medals, and other articles valuable chiefly as keepsakes, and all purely commercial papers, such as stocks, bonds, evidence of bank accounts, etc., will be forwarded to The Adjutant General, Department of the Army, Washington 25, D. C., ATTN: AGAO, for transmission to the Soldier's Home under the provisions of the act of February 21, 1931 (46 Stat. 1203 as amended; 10 U. S. C. 1584a). The commanding officer will indicate his approval by signing the inventory and forwarding the original and duplicate to The Adjutant General with any effects being forwarded to the Department of the Army for further disposition.

(h) Personnel deceased or reported missing on board transport, next of kin or legal representative not aboard. (1) If the next of kin or legal representative is not aboard the transport, available effects will be inventoried, in original and six copies, and will be delivered to the transportation agent for safekeeping and delivery to the port transportation officer at the port of debarkation for disposition. A summary court will be appointed by the commander of Army troops to collect any funds due from debtors and to accept claims of creditors. The summary court will prepare a separate report, in original and six copies, of his transactions and will file his report and deposit any funds collected with the transportation agent. A copy of the report of the summary court's transactions will be filed in the personnel records of the deceased or missing person.

(2) When part of the effects are stored in the hold of the transport, or when it is impracticable for any reason to secure all effects immediately upon learning that the owner is dead or missing, the commander of Army troops will secure the additional effects as soon as practicable after arrival of the transport at the port of debarkation. The additional effects will be inventoried in original and six copies on a separate Form 54, and will be delivered with the inventory to the transportation agent or port transportation officer having custody of the remainder of the effects. A copy of the inventory will be filed in the personnel records of the individual.

(3) In turning over effects to the port transportation officer, the transportation agent will obtain a receipt on a copy of the inventory, and report of cash transactions, if attached, and will file the receipt or receipts with the records of the transport. If additional effects are inventories in accordance with subparagraph (2) of this paragraph, a receipt for such additional effects similarly should be obtained by the transportation agent, or commander of Army troops, as appropriate, and the receipt should be filed with the records of the transport.

(4) The port transportation officer receiving the effects of a deceased or missing person will request the appointment of a summary court to dispose of the effects. The original and four copies of the inventory or inventories, and record of cash transactions, if any, will be delivered with the effects to the summary court for disposition in accordance with the provisions of paragraph (g) of this section. If the legal representative or next of kin is known, the two extra copies of the inventory will be destroyed.

§ 511.5 Effects of civilian employees not subject to military law. The provisions of § 511.4 do not apply in the case of deceased civilians with the Army who are not subject to military law. In such cases the officer under whom the decedent was serving, or such representative of the service in which the decedent was employed as said officer may designate, will secure the decedent's effects and deliver them to the legal heirs or their representatives. If the deceased was not an employee of the Department of the Army, the commander of the installation where death occurred, or an officer designated by him, will secure the decedent's effects and deliver them to legal heirs or their representatives. If the effects are not claimed within a reasonable period of time, the responsible officer will deliver the effects, with all available useful information concerning the decedent, to the person designated by the judicial officer of the local civil government having jurisdiction over the estates of deceased persons. In all cases receipts will be obtained and forwarded direct to The Adjutant General with a complete report of the action taken.

§ 1800.4 Docket: Notice of docketing. (a) The clerk shall maintain in his office a docket in which shall be entered the receipt of all certificates or petitions for grant of review as provided in § 1800.16.

(b) Upon receipt of either the petition of the accused or the certificate of a Judge Advocate General, whichever occurs first, the case shall be assigned a docket number. The clerk shall promptly notify the Judge Advocate General of the service concerned and the accused or his appellate counsel of the receipt and docketing of the case, giving its docket number. All papers subsequently filed in the case shall bear this number. All appearances of counsel and other papers filed with the clerk, the receipt of all petitions for new trial referred by a Judge Advocate General pursuant to Article 73 of the Uniform Code of Military Justice, and all decisions, orders, and other action by the Court shall be noted chronologically in the docket on the page or pages assigned to the case, showing briefly the date, the nature of each paper filed, and the substance of each decision, order, and other action by the Court.

§ 1800.5 Attorneys and counsellors. It shall be requisite to the admission of a person to practice in this Court that he be a member of the bar of a Federal Court or of the highest court of a State.

§ 1800.6 Assignment of appellate counsel. Whenever a record of trial is forwarded by a Judge Advocate General for review, he shall immediately designate appellate Government counsel, and shall immediately designate appellate defense counsel, unless he has been notified that the accused desires to be represented before the Court by civilian counsel.

§ 1800.7 Notice of appearance by counsel—(a) Military appellate counsel. Military appellate counsel designated in any case shall file an appearance in writing within five days after such designation.

(b) Civilian appellate counsel. Civilian appellate counsel shall file an appearance in writing before participating in the proceedings.

§ 1800.8 Admission. (a) In order to appear before this Court, an application shall be filed with the Clerk of the Court not less than five days prior to the time of admission showing the following information:

(3) The federal or State court to which he has been admitted.

(4) The place where he has been practicing.

(b) In addition, the applicant shall file a certificate from the presiding judge or clerk of the proper court that the applicant is a member of the bar and that his private and professional character appears to be good or in lieu thereof a certificate by the Judge Advocate General containing substantially the same information.

(c) Upon being admitted, each applicant shall take in open court the following oath or affirmation, viz:

I, ----------, do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will demean myself, as an attorney and counsellor of this court, uprightly, and according to law; and that I will support the Constitution of the United States.

(d) Admissions will be granted upon motion of the Court or upon oral motion by a person admitted to practice before the Court on any day the Court holds a regular session.

§ 1800.9 Process. All process of this Court shall be in the name of the President of the United States, and shall contain the given names as well as the surnames of the parties.

§ 1800.10 Jurisdiction. This court will review the record in the following cases:

(a) All cases in which the sentence, as affirmed by a board of review, affects a general or flag officer or extends to death;

(b) All cases reviewed by a board of review which the Judge Advocate General orders forwarded to this Court for review; and

(c) All cases reviewed by a board of review in which, upon petition of the accused and on good cause shown, this Court has granted a review except those reviewed under Article 69.

§ 1800.11 Scope of review. This Court will act only with respect to the findings and sentence as approved by the convening or reviewing authority, and as affirmed or as set aside as incorrect in law by a board of review. In those cases which the Judge Advocate General forwards to this Court, action need be taken only with respect to the issues raised by him. In a case reviewed upon petition of the accused, action need be taken only with respect to issues specified by this Court in the grant of review. This Court may, however, review other matters of law which materially affect the rights of the parties. The points raised in this Court will involve only errors in law.

§ 1800.12 Quorum. Two of the judges shall constitute a quorum. The concurrence of two judges shall be required for the rendition of a final decision or the allowance or denial of a petition for a grant of review. In the absence of a quorum, any judge may make all necessary orders relating to any matter pending before the Court relative to the filing of papers or preparatory to a hearing or decision thereon. If at any time a quorum is not present on any day appointed for holding a hearing, any judge present may adjourn the Court from time to time, or, if no judge is present, the clerk may adjourn court from day to day.

§ 1800.13 Signing of papers. All petitions, appearances, briefs and motions shall be legibly typewritten or printed and signed and shall show the name and address of the person signing, together with his military rank, if any, and the capacity in which he signs the paper. Such signature constitutes a certificate that the statements made therein are true and correct to the best of the knowledge, information, and belief of the person signing the paper, and that the paper is filed in good faith and not for the purpose of unnecessary delay.

§ 1800.14 Filing of papers. All petitions, appearances, briefs and motions shall be filed in the office of the clerk and if transmitted by mail or other means, they shall not be deemed to have been filed until received in his office, except that for purposes of computation of time allowed an accused to petition for grant of review such petitions shall be deemed to have been filed upon the date postmarked on the envelope containing the petition or upon the date when the petition is deposited in military channels for transmittal.

§ 1800.15 Computation of time for filing papers—(a) Computation. In computing any period of time prescribed or allowed by this part, by order of court, or by any applicable statute, the day of the act, event or default after which the designated period of time begins to run is not to be included. The last day of the period so computed is to be included, unless it is a Saturday, Sunday or legal holiday, in which event the period runs until the end of the next day which is neither a Saturday, Sunday nor a holiday.

(b) Enlargement. When by this part or by notice given thereunder, or by order of court, an act is required or allowed to be done at or within a specified time, the Court for cause shown may at any time in its discretion (1) with or without motion or notice, order the period extended if request therefor is made before the expiration of the period as originally prescribed or as extended by previous order, or (2) upon motion made after the expiration of the specified period permit the act to be done where the failure to act was the result of excusable neglect but the time for a petition for review as prescribed in Article 67 (c) will not be extended.

(c) Motions. A written motion, other than one which may be heard ex parte, and notice of the hearing thereof, shall be served not later than five days before the time specified for the hearing, unless a different period is fixed by the Uniform Code of Military Justice or by the rules in this part or by order of the Court. When a motion is supported by affidavit, the affidavit shall be served with the motion and opposing affidavits may be served not later than one day before the hearing, unless the Court permits them to be served at some other time.

(d) Additional time. Whenever a party has the right or is required to do some act or take some proceedings within a prescribed period after the service of a notice or other paper upon him when such service is made upon him by mail, three days shall be added to the prescribed period if the party upon whom the service is made is within the continental limits of the United States and fifteen days shall be added thereto if the party is located outside those limits.

§ 1800.16 Methods of appeal. Cases shall be appealed to this Court by one of two methods. Cases shall be forwarded by a Judge Advocate General under Article 67 (b) (2) by a certificate for review and such certificate shall substantially meet the requirements hereinafter set forth. All other cases under Article 67 shall be appealed by a petition for review, regardless of whether the accused has a mandatory right of appeal, and such petition shall substantially meet the requirements hereinafter set forth.

§ 1800.17 Form of petition or certificate for review. An original and four legible copies of a petition or a certificate for review shall be filed. They shall be typewritten or printed, double-spaced on 8" x 10½" white paper, securely fastened at the left edge. All record references shall show page numbers and any exhibit designations.

In those cases governed by Article 67 (b) (1) if the accused does not file a petition for grant of review the Judge Advocate General shall have twenty-one additional days in which to forward the record of trial and decision of the Board of Review to this Court.

(b) In those cases certified to this Court under Article 67 (b) (2) the Judge Advocate General shall file a certificate with this Court within 21 days after the receipt of the decision from a Board of Review.

§ 1800.22 Service of petition or certificate. Prior to the filing of a petition for grant of review, or certificate for review, service of the petition or the certificate shall be made on the opposing party, namely, Appellate Government Counsel or the accused or his appellate counsel.

§ 1800.23 Reply to petition. Within fifteen days after the filing of a petition by an accused for a grant of review under Article 67 (b) (3), Appellate Government Counsel may file a reply brief to the original petition and brief stating his views with respect to the merits of the issues of law raised in the petition and why he believes the petition should not be granted. Such reply brief shall be similar in form to the brief of the accused, except that if Appellate Government Counsel disagrees with the statement of facts or desires to supplement it with additional facts he shall start his reply brief with the new information.

§ 1800.24 Reply to certificate. Within fifteen days after the filing of a certificate for review by the Judge Advocate General and brief by counsel the opposing party may file a reply brief answering the points raised in the original certificate and brief, stating his views with respect to the merits of the issues of law raised in the certificate and his reasons why the points should be resolved in his favor. TITLE 32A—NATIONAL DEFENSE, APPENDIX

Chapter III—Office of Price Stabilization, Economic Stabilization Agency

[General Overriding Regulation 16]

GOR 16—TEMPORARY DISTRESS AREA ADJUSTMENTS FOR CATTLE AND MEAT SOLD AT WHOLESALE

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950 (Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.), as amended, Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), Economic Stabilization Agency General Order 2 (16 F. R. 738), Delegation of Authority by the Secretary of Agriculture to the Economic Stabilization Agency with respect to the Allocation of Meat (16 F. R. 1272), and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order 5 (16 F. R. 1273), this General Overriding Regulation 16 is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

Flood conditions have created a shortage of meat in those areas of Kansas, Missouri, Iowa, Illinois and Oklahoma affected by the recent floods. A number of slaughtering plants and other meat producing and distributing establishments have been closed down. In addition, the floods have caused spoilage of substantial quantities of meat. As a result of the flood these areas have become temporarily dependent on other areas for adequate supplies of meat.

To assure adequate shipments of meat to this portion of the country, this regulation permits modifications of non-retail ceiling prices delivered to buyers in the distress area during the emergency period of 30 days following July 23, 1951.

Under normal conditions, that area is a surplus meat production area and meat is shipped from this part of the country to other portions of the United States. Ceiling prices on beef and probably many of the freeze ceilings on other types of meat reflect this normal movement and provide for transportation costs for shipments out of, but not into, this vicinity. Unless these ceiling prices were modified, slaughterers in other areas would not ship into this area of the country, because, under their ceilings, they might have to absorb the cost of freight in some instances. This regulation, therefore, provides that any person who sells meat to a buyer in defined portions of Kansas, Missouri, Iowa, Illinois and Oklahoma may add to his established plant ceiling price the actual cost of transportation to the place of business of the buyer in the distress area. This will insure against any possible transportation losses involved in shipping into this area.

Under existing regulations, the ceiling prices of sellers located in the distress area might not reflect their costs of transporting meat to their places of business because, under normal conditions, these sellers procure meat from the immediate vicinity and they have only slight transportation costs. Special provision is therefore made to permit sellers located in the distress area to pass through the actual cost of transporting meat from their suppliers.

Several other provisions are included in this regulation applying only to sales of beef. Under Ceiling Price Regulation 24, slaughterers in this area are not allowed the wholesaler's addition on an unlimited volume of beef purchased from independent sources. In order to give temporary relief for slaughterers whose slaughtering operations have been disrupted by flood conditions, they are allowed to take the wholesaler's addition on sales of beef obtained from independent sources without regard to the volume on which the addition is taken.

Another modification of CPR 24 is made to encourage beef shipments into the flood areas. This modification permits an affiliated wholesaler to sell beef carcasses and wholesale beef cuts to anyone in the distress area without forfeiting its right to the wholesaler's addition. In the absence of this modification, Section 42 (b) (1) (iii) might require an affiliated seller to forego sales to certain buyers in this area in order to preserve its right to the wholesaler's addition.

These distress conditions also require some modification of the provisions of Ceiling Price Regulation 23, governing live cattle. Slaughterers in the flooded parts of Kansas, Illinois, Iowa, Missouri and Oklahoma who have been forced to ship live cattle from their slaughtering plants to slaughterers located outside of the flood area would incur unusual transportation costs and additional shrinkage on these cattle. Moreover, loss of weight and grade that might have resulted from exposure to the flood conditions and the additional transportation would have made it virtually impossible for slaughterers to comply with the pricing provisions of Ceiling Price Regulation 23 governing these cattle. Therefore this regulation relieves the slaughterer of this obligation for cattle shipped from the flooded parts of these five States to an establishment outside of the flood area during the period from July 9, 1951 through July 23, 1951, inclusive.

Conclusion. In formulating this regulation the Director of Price Stabilization has consulted with industry representatives as far as practicable under the circumstances and has given full consideration in their recommendations. In his judgment the provisions of this regulation are generally fair and equitable and necessary to effectuate the purposes of Title IV of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended.

So far as practicable the Director of Price Stabilization gave due consideration to the national effort to achieve maximum production in furtherance of the objective of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended; to prices prevailing during the period from May 24, 1950 to June 24, 1950, inclusive; and to relevant factors of general applicability.

AUTHORITY: Sections 1 to 11 issued under sec. 704, Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.

SECTION 1. What this regulation does. This regulation establishes temporary ceiling prices on all meats and meat products sold at wholesale by certain sellers to buyers located in those portions of Kansas, Missouri, Iowa, Illinois and Oklahoma located in the distress area defined in section 11 (a). These ceiling prices supersede those established by any other regulation for a period of 30 days commencing with and including the effective date of this regulation. This regulation also relieves slaughterers from complying with pricing provisions of Ceiling Price Regulation 23 as to cattle purchased by them for slaughter in the flood area and which, during the period July 9 through July 23, inclusive, they shipped for killing to establishments located outside the flood area.

SEC. 2. Ceiling prices for sales of meat or meat products shipped from outside the distress area to buyers located in the distress area. Your ceiling price for the sale of any meat or meat product shipped from your place of business outside the distress area to any class of purchaser located in the distress area shall be your ceiling price as determined under other regulations for the sales of these items at your selling establishment to the same class of purchaser plus the actual cost of transportation paid by you to transport that meat or meat product to the buyer's place of business.

SEC. 3. Ceiling prices for sales of meat or meat products by non-slaughterers located in the distress area. If you are a non-slaughterer located in the distress area, your ceiling price for the sale of any meat or meat product to any class of purchaser located in the distress area shall be your ceiling price determined under other regulations for sales of these items to the same class of purchaser plus the actual cost of transportation paid by you for transportation of this meat or meat product from your supplier to your place of business.

SEC. 4. Ceiling prices for sales of meat or meat products by slaughtering plants

located in the distress area—(a) Beef products. If, within the meaning of Ceiling Price Regulation 24, you operate a slaughtering plant located in the distress area and if this plant is not in operation as a result of flood conditions, your ceiling price for the sale of a beef product, specified in Schedules I, III, and VII of Ceiling Price Regulation 24, sold to a buyer located in the distress area and purchased by you from nonaffiliated sources, shall be the ceiling price for each of these products established by Ceiling Price Regulation 24 if sold by a wholesaler at the location of this slaughtering plant plus the actual cost of transportation paid by you for transportation of that product from our supplier to your place of business.

(b) Other meat products. If you operate a slaughtering plant located in the distress area and if this plant is not in operation as a result of flood conditions, your ceiling price for the sale of any meat or meat product, other than beef or a beef product, to any class of purchaser located in the distress area shall be your ceiling price determined under other regulations for sales of these items to the same class of purchaser plus the actual cost of transportation paid by you for transportation of this meat or meat product from your supplier to your place of business.

SEC. 5. Suspension of sections 42 (b) (1) (iii) and (iv) of Ceiling Price Regulation 24. (a) Regardless of section 42 (b) (1) (iii) of Ceiling Price Regulation 24, if you sell any beef carcasses or wholesale cuts to any slaughterer, packer, packer's branch house, or any person affiliated therewith, and this buyer is located in the distress area, these sales shall not disqualify you from taking the addition provided in section 42 (b) of Ceiling Price Regulation 24.

(b) Under section 42 (b) (1) (iv) of Ceiling Price Regulation 24, any beef on which a wholesaler's addition has been taken by you pursuant to section 4 of this regulation shall not be considered in computing the volume on which you have taken the affiliated wholesaler's addition.

SEC. 6. Special modifications of Ceiling Price Regulation 23 for live cattle shipped from slaughtering plants in the flood area. If you are a slaughterer who purchased cattle for slaughter in an establishment located in the flooded parts of Kansas, Iowa, Illinois, Missouri and Oklahoma and if between July 9 through July 23, 1951, inclusive, you shipped this cattle from a slaughtering establishment located in this flood area to a slaughtering establishment located outside the flood area because the former was made inoperative by flood conditions, you need not include such cattle in Items 19, 20, 21, 22 and 23 of OPS Public Form 13 which you file for the establishment located outside the flood area. However, for all such cattle you must file a separate OPS Public Form 13, listing only the information required by Items 1 through 18 of such form. A copy of the freight bill for the transportation of such cattle by rail or truck from the flood area to the establishment located outside the flood area must be attached to the latter form.

SEC. 7. Excluded sales. The provisions of this general overriding regulation shall not apply:

(a) To sales at retail; or

(b) To sales of meat not delivered to the buyer's place of business during the effective period of this regulation.

SEC. 8. Evasion. You shall not evade the provisions of this regulation by direct or indirect methods in connection with an offer, solicitation or agreement relating to the sale, delivery, purchase, transfer or receipt of meat, alone or in conjunction with any other commodity or service, or by way of any commission, service, transportation, wrapping, packaging or other charge or discount, premium or other privilege, or by tying-agreement or other trade understanding, or by changing the selection, grading, or the style of dressing, cutting, trimming, cooking or otherwise processing, or the wrapping or packaging of meat, or otherwise.

SEC. 9. Prohibitions. Regardless of any contract, agreement or other obligation, (a) you shall not sell or deliver any meat product at a price higher than the ceiling price established by this regulation, (b) you shall not buy or receive in the regular course of trade or business any meat product at a price higher than the ceiling price established by this regulation, and (c) you shall not agree, offer, solicit or attempt to do any of the foregoing. You may, however, charge, demand, pay or offer lower prices for meat products than are established by this regulation.

SEC. 10. Enforcement. On or after the effective date of this regulation, if you violate any provision of this regulation, or any order issued pursuant to it, you are subject to the criminal penalties, civil enforcement actions, and suits for treble damages provided for by the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended. Also, any person, who, in the course of trade or business, buys from you at a price higher than your ceiling price is subject to the criminal penalties and civil enforcement actions provided for by that Act.

SEC. 11. Definitions. When used in this regulation the term:

(a) "Distress area" means those areas within the States of Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma designated as distress areas, from time to time, by order or orders signed by the Regional Director or Acting Regional Director of the appropriate OPS Regional Office within whose jurisdiction those areas are located. These OPS Regional Directors and Acting Regional Directors are hereby authorized to issue, modify, and revoke orders designating particular areas within these five states within their jurisdiction as distress areas.

(b) "Cost of transportation" means the cost of transporting meat delivered to the buyer's place of business during the effective period of this regulation plus the Federal transportation tax thereon and the costs of icing and tare, if incurred.

(c) "Sales at retail" means a sale to an individual for consumption by himself or his family off the seller's premises.

(d) "Slaughterer" means a Class 1, Class 2, Class 1A or Class 2A slaughterer as defined in Distribution Regulation 1 who owns cattle at the time they are killed.

Effective dates. Except as provided in section 6, this regulation shall become effective on July 24, 1951, and shall remain in effect through and including August 22, 1951.

NOTE: The record keeping and reporting requirements of this regulation have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

Director of Price Stabilization.

[1] The section numbers of this enforcement procedure are keyed to a General Organizational and Procedural Regulation presently under consideration by the Wage Stabilization Board.

SECTION 2.1 Organization of the National Board—(e) Other Committees and Commissions. There shall be the following agencies appointed by the Board and subject to its supervision and direction:

(3) A National Enforcement Commission consisting of three members one of whom shall be designated as Chairman. The functions of this Commission are described in sections 5.1–5.8 of this regulation.

SEC. 2.2 Organization of Regional Boards. (e) There shall be in each Region a Regional Enforcement Commission, consisting of three members one of whom shall be designated as Chairman. The functions of these Commissions are described in sections 5.1–5.6 of this regulation.

SEC. 3.4 Investigations and subpoenas. (a) Where no adequate and authoritative data are available from any Federal or other responsible agency, the Chairman of the Board, or such other persons as may be designated in this Regulation, may authorize fact-finding investigations, and may issue subpoenas. Investigations will be made and subpoenas issued only after their scope and purpose have been carefully defined in relation to the enforcement or administration of the act by the Board.

(b) All applications for subpoenas shall be in writing and shall specify (1) the name and nature of the proceeding or inquiry in which the subpoena is required; (2) the name of the person or persons whose testimony is required, and where documentary evidence is required, the specific documentary evidence the production of which is required; (3) the nature and materiality of the testimony or documentary evidence to be supplied by the witness; (4) a description of the efforts which have been made to obtain voluntary attendance of the witness or voluntary production of the required documentary evidence; (5) the time and place of attendance or production of the documentary evidence. Witnesses required by subpoena to appear in an enforcement proceeding shall be tendered at the time of service the same fees and mileage that are paid witnesses in the courts of the United States by the party at whose instance the witness appears. When the subpoena is issued on behalf of the Regional Counsel or any other agent of the Board, witness fees and mileage need not be tendered at the time of service.

(c) The Administrator of the Wage and Hour Division of the Department of Labor is authorized, pursuant to instructions of the Board, to make fact-finding investigations with respect to the wage stabilization program. The Administrator is authorized to inspect and obtain copies or transcripts of books, records and other writings, and to take statements of any person, and shall have access to premises or property for this purpose. The reports of all investigations shall be referred to the Board.

SEC. 5.1 Jurisdiction and functions of Regional Enforcement Commissions. (a) Cases arising in any Wage Stabilization Board region involving alleged contravention of the act shall be dealt with by the appropriate Regional Enforcement Commission. Any two members of a Regional Enforcement Commission shall constitute a quorum.

(b) A Regional Enforcement Commission may from time to time appoint ad hoc Panels or Hearing Officers to hear any specified case or cases involving alleged contravention of the act.

(c) Each Regional Enforcement Commission shall direct and supervise the administration by the appropriate Regional Counsel of these enforcement regulations.

(d) The action of a Regional Enforcement Commission in any case of alleged contravention of the act, as evidenced by its findings and determination, shall be final, subject to appeal or review by the National Enforcement Commission as provided in section 5.6. Each Regional Enforcement Commission, however, shall be subject to general policy directives of the National Board and the National Enforcement Commission. Each Regional Enforcement Commission shall from time to time report its activities to the Regional Board and the National Enforcement Commission.

SEC. 5.2 Parties to Enforcement Proceedings. Within the meaning of the enforcement procedure the term "parties" shall mean the Regional Counsel, and the Chief Counsel, or their representatives, the person or persons alleged to have violated the act and, to the extent permitted under section 5.3 (i) of this regulation, the person or persons intervening in any enforcement proceeding.

SEC. 5.3 Complaint and Notice of Hearing. (a) No hearing shall be held in any enforcement case except upon the issuance of a Complaint and Notice of Hearing in conformity with this section. In any case where the Regional Counsel believes that an employer has paid wages, salaries or other compensation in contravention of the act and that a hearing should be held in the matter, he shall issue a Complaint and Notice of Hearing which shall direct such employer to appear at a hearing before the Regional Enforcement Commission or before a Panel or Hearing Officer designated by it. Such Complaint and Notice of Hearing shall contain a concise statement of the facts alleged to constitute a violation of the act, and a statement advising the employer that at the hearing he may be represented by counsel and will be given full opportunity to present testimony and evidence and to examine and cross-examine witnesses on all matters relating to the allegations. No answer shall be required to such Complaint; however, the employer may, if he so desires, file an answer with the Regional Counsel.

(b) Not less than ten days written notice of a hearing shall be served personally or by registered mail upon the employer.

(c) If any party to a proceeding desires to be represented by counsel, he may do so provided he files written notice of that fact with the Regional Enforcement Commission. Whenever a party is represented by counsel, all papers shall be served upon such counsel for and on behalf of such party.

(d) The Regional Enforcement Commission, Panel or Hearing Officer shall have discretion to continue the hearing from day to day, or adjourn it to a later date or to a different place, by announcement thereof at the hearing or by other appropriate means. Any request for continuance made prior to the hearing shall be in writing and shall be filed with the Regional Enforcement Commission with a copy to each of the parties.

(e) In all cases where an employer desires a stenographic transcript of a hearing he shall notify the Regional Enforcement Commission five days prior to the hearing whereupon the Commission shall provide a reporter who shall be the official reporter. Stenographic transcripts of the proceeding shall be paid for by the parties requesting them, at the regular cost per copy.

(f) Witnesses shall be examined orally under oath. Stipulations of fact may be introduced into evidence with respect to any issue. The rules of evidence prevailing in courts of law or equity shall not be controlling.

(g) Contemptuous conduct at any hearing shall be ground for exclusion from the hearing. The refusal of a witness at any hearing to answer any question which has been ruled to be proper shall, in the discretion of the Regional Enforcement Commission, Panel or Hearing Officer, be ground for disregarding all testimony previously given by such witness on related matters.

(h) Evidence in support of the charge of alleged contravention shall be presented by the Regional Counsel or by any agent who may be designated by him for such purpose. Opportunity shall be given to all parties to present all relevant evidence, and argument, written or oral.

(i) Any person desiring to intervene in the hearing shall make a motion for intervention, stating the grounds upon which such person claims to have an interest in the proceeding. All such motions made prior to the hearing shall be in writing and shall be filed with the Regional Enforcement Commission which shall rule thereon or refer them to the Panel or Hearing Officer for ruling. An original and two copies of all such motions shall be filed and a copy thereof immediately served upon the other parties. Motions to intervene may be made orally at the time of the hearing. The Regional Enforcement Commission, Panel or Hearing Officer, as the case may be, may by order permit intervention in person or by counsel or other representative to such extent and upon such terms as they may deem proper.

SEC. 5.4 Issuance of subpoenas. The Chairman of the Regional Enforcement Commission, the Chairman of the Panel, or the Hearing Officer, as the case may be, may, as provided in section 3.4, issue subpoenas requiring the attendance and testimony of any witness and the production of any books, papers, records or other documents material to any enforcement case. Applications for subpoenas made prior to the hearing shall be filed with the Chairman of the Regional Enforcement Commission for the region in which the subpoena is to be returnable.

SEC. 5.5 Findings and determinations of the Regional Enforcement Commission. (a) If a hearing is before a Panel or Hearing Officer, the Panel or Hearing Officer shall, after the conclusion of the hearing, make proposed findings and determination which shall be filed with the Regional Enforcement Commission, and a copy thereof shall be sent to each of the parties. Within fourteen days after mailing of the proposed findings (unless such time is extended by the Regional Enforcement Commission), the parties may submit to the Regional Enforcement Commission written comments or objections to the proposed findings. Three copies of such written comments or objections shall be furnished to the Regional Enforcement Commission and a copy thereof to each of the parties. After the expiration of such fourteen days, the Regional Enforcement Commission shall, unless it directs a rehearing, make its final findings and determination in the case.

(b) The findings and determination of the Regional Enforcement Commission shall be in writing, showing the names of the members of the Commission participating in such decision. Any dissent from the majority decision of the Regional Enforcement Commission shall be recorded on the findings and determination. If, upon the entire record of the case, the Regional Enforcement Commission finds that any wage or salary, or other compensation payment has been made in contravention of the act, it shall determine that the entire amount of such payment be disregarded and disallowed by any Executive Department or any other agency of the Government: (1) For the purpose of calculating deductions under the Revenue Laws of the United States, (2) for the purpose of determing costs or expenses under any contract made by or on behalf of the United States, either directly or indirectly, (3) for the purpose of setting or approving any maximum price, and (4) in determining costs or expenses of any such employer for the purpose of any other law or regulation, whether heretofore or hereafter enacted or promulgated. If the Regional Enforcement Commission finds extenuating and mitigating circumstances, it may determine less than the full amount of wages, salary and other compensation payment be disregarded and disallowed. The Regional Enforcement Commission may also determine that the National Enforcement Commission recommend to any Executive Department or other agency of the Government responsible for the issuance and granting of priorities and material allocations, that it withhold priorities assistance and the allocation of materials from the person who has paid wages, salaries or other compensation in contravention of the act.

(c) Copies of the findings and determination of the Regional Enforcement Commission shall be served upon the Regional Counsel and by registered mail upon the other parties.

SEC. 5.6 Appeal to National Enforcement Commission. (a) The findings and determination of a Regional Enforcement Commission shall be final; subject, however, to the right of the employer or the Regional Counsel to appeal to the National Enforcement Commission for review of the findings and determination. Such appeal shall be taken within fourteen days of the days of mailing to the parties of the findings and determination. If either the employer or the Regional Counsel appeals he shall, within such fourteen days, file a petition for review and five typewritten copies thereof, including any supporting memoranda, with the Regional Enforcement Commission and mail a copy thereof to each of the other parties. If timely request is made to the Regional Enforcement Commission within such fourteen days, the time for filing a Petition for Review may be extended by the Regional Enforcement Commission.

(b) Any petition for review shall state in detail the objections to the findings or determination or other portion of the record or transcript of the proceeding upon which reliance is placed.

(c) Upon the filing of a Petition for Review the Regional Enforcement Commission shall transmit the entire record in the case to the National Enforcement Commission.

(d) Any party may, within fourteen days from the date of mailing a Petition for Review, file comments thereon. Five copies of such comments shall be served by registered mail to the National Enforcement Commission and one copy similarly served on each of the other parties.

(e) Upon consideration of a Petition for Review, the National Enforcement Commission will render its decision upon the entire record of the case. In special cases, upon request duly made in the Petition for Review and upon good cause shown, the National Enforcement Commission may permit further oral or written argument or proof. In rendering its decision the National Enforcement Commission may affirm, reverse, or modify the findings and determination or any part thereof, or send the case back to the Regional Enforcement Commission for appropriate action. Copies of the National Enforcement Commission's decision shall be transmitted to the parties.

(f) If no Petition for Review is filed the Regional Enforcement Commission shall at the expiration of the period allowed for filing a Petition for Review transmit to the National Enforcement Commission the entire record in the case, including its findings and determination, for appropriate action in accordance with section 5.8.

(g) If no Petition for Review is filed the National Enforcement Commission may, within 20 days from receipt of the case from the Regional Enforcement Commission, review on its own motion the findings and determination of the Regional Enforcement Commission.

SEC. 5.7 National cases. (a) Whenever the National Enforcement Commission deems it necessary in order to effectuate the policies of the act, it may cause the original hearing in any case to be held before it instead of before a Regional Enforcement Commission, Panel or Hearing Officer. In any such case, the complaint and Notice of Hearing shall be issued by the Chief Counsel. Such hearing shall be conducted according to the procedures governing hearings before the Regional Enforcement Commission, set forth herein, except that "National Enforcement Commission" shall be substituted for "Regional Enforcement Commission, Panel or Hearing Officer" and "Chief Counsel" shall be substituted for "Regional Counsel" in following such procedure.

(b) The findings and determination of the National Enforcement Commission in cases under this section shall be made in accordance with Section 5.5. Copies of such findings and determination shall be transmitted to the Chief Counsel and served by registered mail on the other parties.

(c) The findings and determination of the National Enforcement Commission shall be final.

SEC. 5.8 Transmittal of determination to appropriate Government agencies. (a) The National Enforcement Commission shall promptly certify and forward its final determination in the case or that of the Regional Enforcement Commission to the appropriate government agency or agencies. The determination shall be conclusive for the purposes therein stated. The executive departments and other agencies of the government which receive certifications of such determinations shall disregard and disallow the amount thus certified.

(b) The National Enforcement Commission may also recommend to any Executive Department or other agency of the Government responsible for the issuance and granting of priorities and material allocations, that such department or agency withhold priorities assistance and the allocation of materials from the person who has paid wages, salaries or other compensation in contravention of the act.

SEC. 5.9 Prevention and punishment of violations. Whenever in the judgment of the Regional Counsel or Chief Counsel any person has engaged or is about to engage in any acts or practices which constitute or will constitute a violation of section 405 of the act, he may request such person to cease or refrain from such conduct. The Regional Counsel or Chief Counsel, in such instances as they deem it necessary, may recommend to the appropriate authority that action be taken against such person under section 409 (a) and (b) and section 706 of the act. Action taken under this section shall in no way preclude action under any other part of this regulation.

Adopted by unanimous vote of the Board on June 28, 1951.

GEORGE W. TAYLOR,
Chairman.

[7 CFR Part 947]

[Docket No. AO–113–A13]

HANDLING OF MILK IN FALL RIVER, MASS., MARKETING AREA

DECISION WITH RESPECT TO PROPOSED MARKETING AGREEMENT AND PROPOSED ORDER AMENDING ORDER NOW IN EFFECT

Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was conducted at Fall River, Massachusetts on April 12–13, 1951, pursuant to notice thereof which was issued on March 14, 1951, (16 F. R. 2517).

The material issues presented on the record were related to several provisions of the order including a proposed method for computing a composite wage index for use in the Class I price formula. It is imperative that action be taken as soon as possible in regard to the method of computing a composite wage index for use in the Class I price formula since the publication of the data prescribed by the order for use in the formula computation has been discontinued. This decision is made, therefore, with respect to the issue requiring immediate action whereas other issues require further study and will be treated in a separate decision.

Findings and conclusions. The following findings and conclusions on the issue decided herein are based upon the evidence introduced at the hearing and the record thereof.

The order should provide for the computation of a composite wage rate index which would be similar to the farm-wage rate index which has been utilized in the calculation of the Class I formula price since the adoption of that formula April 1, 1948. The United States Department of Agriculture is no longer collecting information from which the monthly composite wage rates were computed and that series has been discontinued. Therefore, it is necessary to compute an equivalent composite farm wage rate. Farm wage rates are recorded quarterly by the United States Department of Agriculture as rates per month with board and room, per month with house, per week with board and room, per week without room or board, and per day without board or room. These rates should be expressed as a simple average monthly composite rate by converting the weekly rates to a monthly equivalent by multiplying by 4.33 weeks and by converting the daily rate to a monthly basis by using 26 working days per month. The simple average monthly composite farm wage rates for each of the four states used in the Class I formula should be combined according to the rate expressed in the order. In order to express the rate as an index on the same basis as that used in converting the previously published monthly composite farm wage rate to an index number for computation of the formula price, it is necessary to divide the milkshed average composite wage rate figure by .6394. This factor is determined from the average relationship of the milkshed average wage rate figure derived from the currently published data to this series which was previously published and used in the computation of the formula price.

The due and timely execution of the function of the Secretary under the act imperatively and unavoidably requires the omission of a recommended decision by the Assistant Administrator, Production and Marketing Administration, and the opportunity for exceptions thereto.

The conditions complained of are such that it is urgent that remedial action be taken as soon as possible. Delay beyond the minimum time required to make the attached order effective would defeat the purpose of such amendments. Accordingly, the time necessarily involved in the preparation, filing, and publication of a recommended decision, and exceptions thereto, would make such relief ineffective.

Rulings on proposed findings and conclusions. Briefs were filed on behalf of interested parties. Every point covered in the briefs was carefully considered, along with the evidence in the record in making the findings and reaching the conclusions hereinafter set forth. To the extent that such proposed findings and conclusions are inconsistent with the findings and conclusions contained herein the requests to make such findings or to reach such conclusions are denied on the basis of the facts found and stated in connection with the conclusions in this decision.

General findings. (a) The proposed marketing agreement and the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(b) The parity prices of milk as determined pursuant to section 2 of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect market supply and demand for milk in the said marketing area, and the minimum prices specified in the proposed marketing agreement and in the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk and be in the public interest; and

(c) The proposed marketing agreement and the order, as amended and as hereby proposed to be further amended, will regulate the handling of milk in the same manner as, and are applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in the said marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

Determination of representative period. The month of April 1951, is hereby determined to be the representative period for the purpose of ascertaining whether the issuance of the order amending the order, now in effect, regulating the handling of milk in the Fall River, Massachusetts, marketing area, in the manner set forth in the attached amending order is approved or favored by producers who, during such period, were engaged in the production of milk for sale in the marketing area specified in such marketing order.

Annexed hereto and made a part hereof are two documents entitled, respectively, "Marketing Agreement Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Fall River, Massachusetts, Marketing Area," and "Order Amending the Order, as amended, Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Fall River, Massachusetts Marketing Area," which have been decided upon as the detailed and appropriate means of effectuating the foregoing conclusions. These documents shall not become effective unless and until the requirements of § 900.14 of the rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and orders have been met.

It is hereby ordered, That all of this decision, except the attached marketing agreement, be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The regulatory provisions of said marketing agreement are identical with those contained in the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended by the attached order which will be published with this decision.

This decision filed at Washington, D. C., this 20th day of July 1951.

Order[1] Amending the Order, as Amended, Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Fall River, Massachusetts, Marketing Area

§ 947.0 Findings and determinations. The findings and determinations hereinafter set forth are supplementary and in addition to the findings and determinations previously made in connection with the issuance of the aforesaid order and each of the previously issued amendments thereto; and all of said previous findings and determinations are hereby ratified and affirmed, except insofar as such findings and determinations may be in conflict with the findings and determinations set forth herein.

(a) Findings upon the basis of the hearing record. Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was held upon certain proposed amendments to the tentative marketing agreement and to the order, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the Fall River, Massachusetts, marketing area. Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing and the record thereof, it is found that:

(1) The said order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act:

(2) The parity prices of milk as determined pursuant to section 2 of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect market supply and demand for milk in the said marketing area, and the minimum prices specified in the order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk and be in the public interest; and

(3) The said order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, regulates the handling of milk in the same manner as and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

Order relative to handling. It is therefore ordered, that on and after the effective date hereof the handling of milk in the Fall River, Massachusetts, marketing area shall be in conformity to and in compliance with the terms and conditions of the aforesaid order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, and the aforesaid order, as amended, is hereby further amended as follows:

Delete § 947.6 (a) (3) (ii) and substitute the following:

(ii) Compute the simple average of monthly equivalent farm wage rates for each of the states named below after converting the rates reported by the United States Department of Agriculture to monthly equivalents by multiplying the rates by the factors as follows: rate per month with board and room, 1; rate per month with house, 1; rate per week with board and room, 4.33; rate per week without board or room, 4.33; and rate per day without board or room, 26. Next compute a weighted monthly wage rate by combining the average wage rates for the respective states with the weights; Maine 10, Massachusetts, 6, New Hampshire, 7; and Vermont, 77. Divide the weighted average monthly wage rate by .6394 and multiply by 0.4.

ECONOMIC STABILIZATION AGENCY

Office of Price Stabilization

[Ceiling Price Regulation 7, Section 43, Special Order 183]

THE STEUBENVILLE POTTERY CO.

CEILING PRICES AT RETAIL

Statement of considerations. In accordance with section 43 of Ceiling Price Regulation 7, the applicant named in the accompanying special order, The Steubenville Pottery Company, Steubenville, Ohio, has applied to the Office of Price Stabilization for maximum resale prices for retail sales of certain of its articles. Applicant has submitted the information required under this section and has produced evidence which in the judgment of the Director indicates that the applicant has complied with other stated requirements.

The Director has determined on the basis of information available to him, including the data and certified conclusions of fact submitted by the applicant, that the retail ceiling prices requested and which are established by this special order are no higher than the level of ceiling prices under Ceiling Price Regulation 7.

The special order contains provisions requiring each article to be marked by the applicant with the retail ceiling price established by the accompanying special order. The applicant is required to send purchasers of the articles a copy of this special order, a notice listing retail ceiling prices for each cost line and, in specified cases, of subsequent amendments of this special order.

The special order also requires applicant to file with the Distribution Price Branch regular reports setting forth the number of units of each article covered by this special order which applicant has delivered during the reporting period. This requirement conforms with the provisions of section 43, Ceiling Price Regulation 7.

Special provisions. For the reasons set forth in the statement of considerations and pursuant to section 43 of Ceiling Price Regulation 7, this special order is hereby issued.

1. The ceiling prices for sales at retail of pottery dinnerware manufactured by Steubenville Pottery Company, Steubenville, Ohio, having the brand name(s) "Woodfield Leaf Dinnerware" and "American Modern Dinnerware" shall be the proposed retail ceiling prices listed by The Steubenville Pottery Company in its application dated April 26, 1951, and filed with the Office of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C. A list of such ceiling prices will be filed by the Office of Price Stabilization with the Federal Register as an appendix to this special order as soon as practicable. On and after the date of receipt of a copy of this special order, with notice of prices annexed, but in no event later than September 22, 1951, no seller at retail may offer or sell any article covered by this special order at a price higher than the ceiling price established by this special order. Sales may, of course, be made at less than the ceiling prices.

2. The retail ceiling price of an article fixed by paragraph 1 of this special order shall apply to any other article of the same type which is otherwise priceable under Ceiling Price Regulation 7 by retailers subject to that regulation, having the same selling price and terms of sale to the retailer, the same brand or company name and first sold by the manufacturer after the effective date of this special order.

3. On and after August 23, 1951, The Steubenville Pottery Company must mark each article for which a ceiling price has been established in paragraph 1 of this special order with the retail ceiling price under this special order, or attach to the article a label, tag or ticket stating the retail ceiling price. This mark or statement must be in the following form:

OPS—Sec. 43—CPR 7
Price $--------

On and after September 22, 1951, no retailer may offer or sell the article unless it is marked or tagged in the form stated above. Prior to September 22, 1951, unless the article is marked or tagged in this form, the retailer shall comply with the marking, tagging, and posting provisions of the regulation which would apply in the absence of this special order.

Upon issuance of any amendment to this special order which either adds an article to those already listed in the manufacturer's application or changes the retail ceiling price of a listed article, the applicant named in this special order must comply, as to each such article, with the preticketing requirements of this paragraph within 30 days after the effective date of the amendment. After 60 days from the effective date, no retailer may offer or sell the article unless it is ticketed in accordance with the requirements of this paragraph. Prior to the expiration of the 60-day period, unless the article is so ticketed, the retailer shall comply with the marking, tagging, and posting provisions of the regulation which would apply in the absence of this special order.

4. Within 15 days after the effective date of this special order, the manufacturer shall send a copy of this special order to each purchaser for resale to whom, within two months immediately prior to the effective date, the manufacturer had delivered any article covered in paragraph 1 of this special order. Copies shall also be sent to all other purchasers on or before the date of the first delivery of any such article subsequent to the effective date of this special order, and shall be accompanied by copies of each amendment thereto (if any) issued prior to the date of the delivery. The manufacturer shall annex to the special order a notice, listing the cost and discount terms to retailers for each article covered by this special order and the corresponding retail ceiling price fixed by this special order for an article of that cost. The notice shall be in substantially the following form:

Our price to retailers	Retailer's ceilings for articles of cost listed in column 1
$_____ per.....[unit, dozen, etc.] Terms [net, percent EOM, etc.]	$_____

Within 15 days after the effective date of this special order, two copies of this notice must also be filed by the manufacturer with the Distribution Price Branch, Consumer Soft Goods Division, Office of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C. Within 15 days after the effective date of any subsequent amendment to this special order, the manufacturer shall send a copy of the amendment to each purchaser to whom, within 2 months immediately prior to the effective date of such amendment, the manufacturer had delivered any article the sale of which is affected in any manner by the amendment.

5. Within 45 days of the expiration of the first 6 months period following the effective date of this special order and within 45 days of the expiration of each successive 6 months period, the manufacturer shall file with the Distribution Price Branch, Office of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C., a report setting forth the number of units of each article covered by this special order which he has delivered in that 6 months period.

6. The provisions of this special order establish the ceiling price for sales at retail of the articles covered by it regardless of whether the retailer is otherwise subject to Ceiling Price Regulation 7 or any other regulation.

7. This special order or any provision thereof may be revoked, suspended, or amended by the Director of Price Stabilization at any time.

8. The provisions of this special order are applicable to the United States and the District of Columbia.

Effective date. This special order shall become effective July 24, 1951.

Director of Price Stabilization.

RAINFASHIONS FIFTH AVENUE, INC.

CEILING PRICES AT RETAIL

Statement of considerations. In accordance with section 43 of Ceiling Price Regulation 7, the applicant named in the accompanying special order, Rainfashions Fifth Avenue, Inc., 350 Fifth Avenue, New York 1, New York, has applied to the Office of Price Stabilization for maximum resale prices for retail sales of certain of its articles. Applicant has submitted the information required under this section and has produced evidence which in the judgment of the Director indicates that the applicant has complied with other stated requirements.

The Director has determined on the basis of information available to him, including the data and certified conclusions of fact submitted by the applicant, that the retail ceiling prices requested and which are established by this special order are no higher than the level of ceiling prices under Ceiling Price Regulation 7.

The special order contains provisions requiring each article to be marked by the applicant with the retail ceiling price established by the accompanying special order. The applicant is required to send purchasers of the articles a copy of this special order, a notice listing retail ceiling prices for each cost line and, in specified cases, of subsequent amendments of this special order.

The special order also requires applicant to file with the Distribution Price Branch regular reports setting forth the number of units of each article covered by this special order which applicant has delivered during the reporting period. This requirement conforms with the provisions of section 43, Ceiling Price Regulation 7.

Special provisions. For the reasons set forth in the statement of considerations and pursuant to section 43 of Ceiling Price Regulation 7, this special order is hereby issued.

1. The ceiling prices for sales at retail of ladies' rainwear manufactured by Rainfashions Fifth Avenue, Inc., 350 Fifth Avenue, New York 1, New York, having the brand name(s) Koroseal shall be the proposed retail ceiling prices listed by Rainfashions Fifth Avenue, Inc., in its application dated May 16, 1951, and filed with the Office of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C. (and supplemented and amended in the manufacturer's application dated May 31, 1951). A list of such ceiling prices will be filed by the Office of Price Stabilization with the Federal Register as an appendix to this special order as soon as practicable. On and after the date of receipt of a copy of this special order, with notice of prices annexed, but in no event later than September 22, 1951, no seller at retail may offer or sell any article covered by this special order at a price higher than the ceiling price established by this special order. Sales may, of course, be made at less than the ceiling prices.

2. The retail ceiling price of an article fixed by paragraph 1 of this special order shall apply to any other article of the same type which is otherwise priceable under Ceiling Price Regulation 7 by retailers subject to that regulation, having the same selling price and terms of sale to the retailer, the same brand or company name and first sold by the manufacturer after the effective date of this special order.

3. On and after August 23, 1951, Rainfashions Fifth Avenue, Inc., must mark each article for which a ceiling price has been established in paragraph 1 of this special order with the retail ceiling price under this special order, or attach to the article a label, tag or ticket stating the retail ceiling price.

This mark or statement must be in the following form:

OPS—Sec. 43—CPR 7

On and after September 22, 1951, no retailer may offer or sell the article unless it is marked or tagged in the form stated above: Prior to September 22, 1951, unless the article is marked or tagged in this form, the retailer shall comply with the marking, tagging, and posting provisions of the regulation which would apply in the absence of this special order.

Upon issuance of any amendment to this special order which either adds an article to those already listed in the manufacturer's application or changes the retail ceiling price of a listed article, the applicant named in this special order must comply, as to each such article, with the preticketing requirements of this paragraph within 30 days after the effective date of the amendment. After 60 days from the effective date, no retailer may offer or sell the article unless it is ticketed in accordance with the requirements of this paragraph. Prior to the expiration of the 60-day period, unless the article is so ticketed, the retailer shall comply with the marking, tagging, and posting provisions of the regulation which would apply in the absence of this special order.

4. Within 15 days after the effective date of this special order, the manufacturer shall send a copy of this special order to each purchaser for resale to whom, within two months immediately prior to the effective date, the manufacturer had delivered any article covered in paragraph 1 of this special order. Copies shall also be sent to all other purchasers on or before the date of the first delivery of any such article subsequent to the effective date of this special order, and shall be accompanied by copies of each amendment thereto (if any) issued prior to the date of the delivery. The manufacturer shall annex to the special order a notice, listing the cost and discount terms to retailers for each article covered by this special order and the corresponding retail ceiling price fixed by this special order for an article of that cost. The notice shall be in substantially the following form:

8. The provisions of this special order are applicable to the United States and the District of Columbia.

[Ceiling Price Regulation 7, Section 43, Special Order 195]

F. JACOBSON & SONS, INC.

CEILING PRICES AT RETAIL

Statement of considerations. In accordance with section 43 of Ceiling Price Regulation 7, the applicant named in the accompanying special order, F. Jacobson & Sons, Inc., has applied to the Office of Price Stabilization for maximum resale prices for retail sales of certain of its articles. Applicant has submitted the information required under this section and has produced evidence which in the judgment of the Director indicates that the applicant has complied with other stated requirements.

The Director has determined on the basis of information available to him, including the data submitted by the applicant, that the retail ceiling prices requested and which are established by this special order are no higher than the level of ceiling prices under Ceiling Price Regulation 7.

The special order allows for establishment of a cost bracket to the retailer, which bracket applies to a specific retail price. The costs of the articles purchased by the retailer should, on the average, fall evenly between the polar ends of each cost bracket and will thus maintain the general historical markup pattern. The establishment of such cost brackets permits minor changes in costs without influencing the general level of retail prices of the articles in question.

The special order contains provisions requiring each article to be marked by the applicant with the retail ceiling price established by the accompanying special order. The applicant is required to send purchasers of the articles a copy of this special order and, in specified cases, of subsequent amendments of this special order.

The special order also requires applicant to file with the Distribution Price Branch regular reports setting forth the number of units of each article covered by this special order which applicant has delivered during the reporting period. This requirement conforms with the provisions of section 43, Ceiling Price Regulation 7.

Special provisions. For the reasons set forth in the statement of considerations and pursuant to section 43 of Ceiling Price Regulation 7, this special order is hereby issued.

1. The following ceiling prices are established for sales after the effective date of this special order by any seller at retail of men's shirts, sportswear, pajamas and sleepwear manufactured by F. Jacobson & Sons, Inc., 1115 Broadway, New York, New York, having the brand names "Jayson" and "Excello" and described in the manufacturer's application dated March 12, 1951. Sales may, of course, be made at less than these ceiling prices. The manufacturer's prices carry terms of 3/10 EOM or 2/10—60 extra (terms at customer's option) to all retail customers.

PANHANDLE EASTERN PIPE LINE CO., ET AL.

ORDER GRANTING IN PART AND DENYING IN PART APPLICATIONS FOR REOPENING OF PROCEEDING, FURTHER CONSOLIDATING PROCEEDINGS AND FIXING TIME AND PLACE FOR HEARING

JULY 18, 1951.

In the matters of Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Company, Docket Nos. G-1116, G-1240, G-1317, G-1344 and G-1417; City of Port Huron, City of Marysville, City of St. Clair, Michigan, municipal corporations, Docket No. G-1152; Southeastern Michigan Gas Company, Docket No. G-1415; Michigan Consolidated Gas Company, complainant, versus Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Company, defendant, Docket No. G-1379; Northern Indiana Fuel and Light Company, Docket No. G-1457; Missouri Central Natural Gas Company, Docket No. G-1509; the Central West Utility Company, Docket No. G-1616; National Utilities Company of Michigan, Docket No. G-1625; and City of Auburn, Illinois, Docket No. G-1659.

On June 13, 1951, the Commission issued in the above-docketed proceedings, its opinion No. 214 and accompanying "Findings, Conclusions and Interim Order, Amending and Further Conditioning Order Issuing Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity," Issued May 4, 1950, Consolidating Proceedings and Fixing Hearing."

Thereafter, applications for rehearing, for vacation or rescission of order, and for stay of the order were filed by various parties on the dates indicated as follows:

Indiana Gas & Water Company, Inc., July 2, 1951; (joint application and motion for stay) Bowling Green Gas Company, Central West Utility Company, Citizens Gas Company of Hannibal, Gas Service Company, Missouri Edison Company, Missouri Power & Light Company, Missouri Utilities Company and Missouri Western Gas Company, July 12, 1951; (separate application for rehearing and motion for modification) Missouri Power & Light Company, July 12, 1951; Illinois Commerce Commission, July 13, 1951; (for rescission and vacation and for rehearing and stay) Central Illinois Electric & Gas Company, July 13, 1951, and Illinois Power Company, July 13, 1951; Central Illinois Light Company, July 13, 1951; Central Illinois Public Service Company, July 13, 1951; and Michigan Gas Storage Company, July 13, 1951.

The following issues, among others, have been raised by the several applications for rehearing and motions:

(i) Revision of paragraph (a) of section 6.1. Unauthorized Takes in Excess of Contract Demands, of the G series of rate schedules so as to provide for conjunctive billing of excess deliveries where seller delivers through two or more connections.

(ii) Revision of the tariff to permit a General Service Buyer and Small General Service Buyer to procure natural gas from any source other than Panhandle to the extent required by such buyer over and above the volume which Panhandle is able or willing to furnish.

(iii) Revision of section 10, Delivery Pressure, of general terms and conditions of the tariff so as to provide for a specific minimum delivery pressure in pounds per square inch gauge.

(iv) Revision of section 2, Applicability and Character of Service, of Rate Schedule S-1 of the Tariff and the applicable form of service agreement so to permit seller to deliver gas during the winter months of January, February, March, November and December of any year.

(v) Amendment of section 2, Applicability and Character of Service, so as to provide for limitation of monthly variations in deliveries, and to require that not less than 30,000 Mcf per day of gas be delivered during any day of the non-winter months.

The Commission is of the opinion that good grounds exist for reopening the proceedings in the above-docketed matters, and for reconsidering its Opinion No. 214 and the accompanying order issued June 13, 1951, in these proceedings, for the purpose of receiving evidence with respect to the issues raised by the applications for rehearing as set forth in paragraphs (i) to (v) hereof.

With respect to other points raised in the applications for rehearing the Commission is of the opinion that good cause has not been shown for granting reopening of the proceedings or for granting rehearing. For the most part, the issues raised by the applications for rehearing, other than those enumerated in paragraphs (i) to (v) inclusive, were considered by the Commission at the time it issued Opinion No. 214 and the accompanying order issued June 13, 1951.

The Commission, further, is of the opinion that good grounds have not been shown for staying the order issued June 13, 1951.

In our Opinion No. 214 (mimeo. pp. 4 to 6, inclusive) reference is made to the fact that National Utilities Company of Michigan (National), among others, is seeking natural gas from Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Company for service in new territory, and had presented estimates of future requirements in such territory. National is an applicant under both subsections 7 (a) and 7 (c) of the Natural Gas Act. In the Matter of National Utilities Company of Michigan, Docket No. G–1625.

In our order of June 13, 1951, the proceeding in Docket No. G–1625 was not consolidated for hearing with other pending similar applications. We are of the opinion that good cause exists for consolidating Docket No. G–1625 for purposes of hearing with other proceedings the hearing in which is to be reopened on July 23, 1951.

It appears that the appropriate procedure at the reopened hearing now set to commence on July 23, 1951, would be to hear first evidence with respect to the issues enumerated in paragraphs (i) to (v) inclusive of this order, prior to taking "of evidence on issues not yet determined and heard" and prior to taking of evidence on the matter of allocation.

The Commission orders:

(A) At the reopened hearing on July 23, 1951, to commence at 10:00 a. m., e. d. s. t., in the hearing room of the Federal Power Commission, 1800 Pennsylvania Avenue NW., Washington, D. C., the order of procedure shall be (1) the taking of evidence on the issues raised by the applications for rehearing filed herein and as enumerated in paragraphs (i) to (v) hereof, and (2) for the taking of evidence on other issues not yet determined and heard, and in such order as the Presiding Examiner shall decide. Upon completion of the taking of any evidence affecting the issues set forth in paragraphs (i) to (v) inclusive, of this order and affecting the matter of allocation, the Presiding Examiner shall certify to the Commission such portion of the record for its consideration, but the hearing on all other matters involved in these consolidated matters shall proceed in due course.

(B) The proceedings in Docket No. G–1625 be consolidated for purpose of hearing with other proceedings as set forth above.

(C) The applications for rehearing with respect to matters and issues, other than those enumerated in paragraphs (i) to (v) inclusive of this order, be and they hereby are denied.

(D) The motions for stay of the Commission's order issued June 13, 1951, in these proceedings be and they hereby are denied.

Date of issuance: July 19, 1951.

By the Commission.

NOTICE OF AMENDED APPLICATION

JULY 18, 1951.

Take notice that on July 5, 1951, East Tennessee Natural Gas Company (applicant), a Tennessee corporation with its principal place of business in Knox County, Tennessee, filed an amendment to its application filed on March 7, 1950, for a certificate of public convenience and necessity pursuant to section 7 of the Natural Gas Act, as amended, authorizing the construction and operation of certain natural-gas transmission pipeline facilities. Applicant also requests an order of the Commission directing Tennessee Gas Transmission Company to supply it with up to 40,000 Mcf of natural gas per day for resale. Notice of the application filed March 7, 1950, was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on March 15, 1950 (15 F. R. 1470).

Applicant now proposes to construct and operate approximately 100 miles of 16-inch O. D. to 12¾-inch O. D.; and other appurtenant facilities.

Applicant states that by means of these facilities it will initially, or within the next five years, deliver and sell natural gas to existing gas distributing companies for resale in Morristown, Johnson City, Elizabethton, Bristol, Tennessee; and Bristol, Virginia, and will make natural-gas service available for resale in Jefferson City, Greeneville, and Kingsport, Tennessee, now without gas distribution systems. Applicant also proposes to deliver and sell natural gas directly to ten industrial establishments.

The estimated over-all capital cost of the proposed facilities is approximately $5,200,000, all of which applicant proposes to finance by the issuance and sale of bonds.

SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION

[File No. 71–12]

NORTHERN STATES POWER CO.

NOTICE OF FILING ORIGINAL COST STUDIES AND PROPOSALS FOR DISPOSITION OF BALANCE ADJUSTMENTS

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission, held at its office in the city of Washington, D. C., on the 18th day of July A. D. 1951.

Notice is hereby given that Northern States Power Company ("Northern"), a Minnesota corporation, has filed studies and amendments thereto relative to the original cost and reclassification of the company's gas plant accounts. The studies filed include proposals for the disposition of certain adjustments relating to the company's gas plant accounts. Northern is a registered holding company and a public utility company. The studies, and amendments thereto, were filed pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935, particularly sections 15 and 20 (b) thereof and Rule U-27 thereunder.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than August 6, 1951, at 5:30 p. m., e. d. s. t., request the Commission in writing that a hearing be held on such matter, stating the nature of his interest, the reasons for such request, and the issues, if any, of fact or law raised by said proposals intended to be controverted, or may request that he be notified should the Commission order a hearing thereon. Any such request should be addressed as follows: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, 425 Second Street NW., Washington 25, D. C. At any time after August 6, 1951, the Commission may take such action as may be deemed appropriate with respect to the matters to which the filing herein relates.

All interested persons are referred to said studies which are on file in the offices of the Commission for a statement of the transactions therein, proposed which may be summarized as follows:

On July 17, 1944, Northern initially filed original cost and reclassification studies of the company's gas plant accounts as of January 1, 1942. The studies were filed in accordance with Plant Instruction 2–D of the Uniform System of Accounts recommended by the National Association of Railroad and Utilities Commissioners for gas utilities. The above-mentioned System of Accounts is applicable to Northern by virtue of this Commission's Rule U-27, promulgated under the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935. In said studies, Northern represented that $8,157,080.89 had been reclassified to Account G. 100.5, Gas Plant Acquisition Adjustments, and a credit amount of $257,553.45 to Account G. 107, Gas Plant Adjustments.

The staff of the Commission made a field examination and filed its report in connection therewith, after projecting the original cost studies to a date as of July 31, 1949. Copies of the staff's report were submitted to the company. Northern has amended its studies to give effect to the recommendations contained in the staff's report so that as of July 31, 1949, it reclassified $8,218,279.08 to Account G. 100.5, Gas Plant Acquisition Adjustments and $914,889.72 to Account G. 107, Gas Plant Adjustments.

Between the dates of filing of its original cost studies for gas plants with this Commission and for electric plant with the Federal Power Commission, and July 31, 1949, Northern has disposed of the greater portion of the adjustment accounts. Pursuant to an order of the Federal Power Commission, dated July 3, 1946, and an order of this Commission, dated December 20, 1946, Northern disposed of a total of $23,045,255.92 of combined Account 100.5 by charging $21,646,056.87 thereof to "Reserve for Possible Adjustments of Utility Plant Accounts and Other Balance Sheet Items" and $1,399,199.05 to Paid-in Surplus, and furthermore, disposed of $8,753,460.73 of combined Account 107 by charging $7,853,943.14 to the aforementioned reserve and the balance to various other accounts. Inclusive in the above-mentioned transactions, were disposition by Northern of $8,218,279.08 of Account G. 100.5, Gas Plant Acquisition Adjustments and $809,774.78 of Account G. 107, Gas Plant Adjustments. As a result of such prior authorized transactions, Northern, as at July 31, 1949, had only $105,114.94 of Account G. 107 pending disposition. The company has proposed that $2,845.93 be transferred to Account 110, Other Physical Property, representing land formerly occupied by demolished gas holders, and that the balance of $102,269.01 be written off to Account 250, Reserve for Depreciation. The result of such proposed transactions will be to eliminate all adjustments to gas plant, as at July 31, 1949.

TITLE 15—COMMERCE AND FOREIGN TRADE

Chapter III—Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Department of Commerce

Subchapter C—Office of International Trade

PART 368—MUTUAL ASSISTANCE ON U. S. IMPORTS AND EXPORTS (AS APPLIED TO SELECTED U. S. IMPORTS)

DECLARATION OF DESTINATION ON SELECTED IMPORTS INTO THE UNITED STATES[1]

A new part (Part 368) is added to Subchapter C—Office of International Trade to read as follows:

§ 368.1 Declaration of destination on selected imports into the United States. (a) What this part does. (1) The United States and a number of foreign countries have undertaken to institute certain procedures to facilitate trade among them in strategic commodities and those in short supply by increasing the effectiveness of their respective controls over international trade in such commodities. These procedures contemplate that, where required by the exporting country with respect to specific transactions, the importer will affirmatively undertake not to divert, transship, or reexport the commodities involved to unauthorized destinations, and will make a representation to that effect to his government. These representations and any later amendments thereto will be deemed to be continuing representations of the facts or circumstances, and the United States importer must notify the Office of International Trade of any changes of his intentions by executing an amended declaration, have it certificated and dispatched to the foreign supplier as more fully set forth in this part.

(2) As a part of its responsibilities in the foreign trade field, including its export control responsibilities, the Office of International Trade has engaged to receive these representations from persons in the United States regarding the intended destination of commodities, and to act as certifying agent, by issuing appropriate certificates that such representations have been filed with the Office of International Trade. The making of such representations to the Office of International Trade and the certifying thereof will serve to satisfy the requirements of the foreign country in this respect and will, in addition, substantially assist in effectuating United States export controls.

NOTE: Arms, ammunition, and implements of war; "source material" and "facilities for the production of fissionable material". Items enumerated in Presidential Proclamation 2776 or any superseding proclamation covering arms, ammunition, and implements of war, are not governed by the provisions of this part, but a comparable procedure relating to these items is set forth in Munitions Division Bulletin No. 10 issued by the Department of State. Through agreement between the Department of Commerce and the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission, this procedure will apply to commodities classified as "source material," or "facilities for the production of fissionable material," as defined and described in the Atomic Energy Act of 1946, and regulations of the Atomic Energy Commission.

(b) Procedure to be followed in the U. S. on imports from certain countries. (1) Where a person in the United States is purchasing or intending to receive, or receiving, commodities from a foreign country and is required by such country, in connection with the granting of an export license, to furnish a declaration of destination, such person shall apply for his certification by filling out and executing Form IT–826,[1] in duplicate (in triplicate for "source material," or "facilities for the production of fissionable material," as defined and described in the Atomic Energy Act of 1946, and regulations of the Atomic Energy Commission). Such form shall be presented to any field office of the Department of Commerce (listed on page xvi of the Comprehensive Export Schedule) or to the Office of International Trade, Operations Division, Washington, D. C., for certification. (Blank forms are obtainable from the same offices.) Declarations may be presented for certification either in person or by mail. The duly certified form will be returned to the United States importer and shall be dispatched by him to the foreign supplier or otherwise disposed of in accordance with the regulations of the exporting country.

(2) In submitting Form IT–826, the United States importer shall fill out and attach a "Cross-Reference Card," Form IT–827,[1] showing his name and address. Form IT–826 will be returned without action unless accompanied by a Cross-Reference Card.

(3) As indicated in this section, all statements and representations made in a declaration of destination and any amendment thereto shall be deemed to be continuing in nature, to and including the time of the completion of the transaction described in the declaration. Any change of fact or intention in regard to the transaction as set forth in the declaration shall be promptly disclosed to the Office of International Trade by the U. S. importer, who shall present in the same manner as the original declaration, an amended declaration of destination setting forth all changes of fact or intention and identifying by specific reference the original declaration. Such amended declaration will then be certified and returned to the U. S. importer and shall thereafter be dispatched by him to the foreign supplier in the same manner as the original declaration.

(4) All the terms, conditions, provisions, and instructions, including the certification, contained in or issued in connection with such Form IT-826 are hereby incorporated as a part of this part with the same force and effect as if set forth in full in this part.

(c) Penalties for false statements. The U. S. Code, Title 18 (Crimes and Criminal Procedure), section 1001, formerly section 80, makes it a criminal offense to make a willfully false statement or representation to any department or agency of the United States as to any matter within its jurisdiction. Maximum penalties under this provision are $10,000 fine or imprisonment for 5 years, or both.

NOTE: Landing certificates. As a means of further assuring compliance with the undertaking by both the foreign supplier and the U. S. importer, the exporting country may, in specific instances, require landing or delivery certificates to be produced after completion of the transaction to show delivery of the shipment to the country to which licensed. These certificates will be available to U. S. importers from collectors of customs. They need not be filed in connection with this procedure unless required by the exporting country.

This amendment shall become effective as of July 19, 1951.

TITLE 21—FOOD AND DRUGS

Chapter I—Food and Drug Administration, Federal Security Agency

PART 141—TESTS AND METHODS OF ASSAY FOR ANTIBIOTIC AND ANTIBIOTIC-CONTAINING DRUGS

PART 146—CERTIFICATION OF BATCHES OF ANTIBIOTIC AND ANTIBIOTIC-CONTAINING DRUGS

AUREOMYCIN VAGINAL SUPPOSITORIES

By virtue of the authority vested in the Federal Security Administrator by the provisions of section 507 of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (52 Stat. 1040, 1055, as amended by 59 Stat. 463, 61 Stat. 11, 63 Stat. 409; 21 U. S. C.

357), the regulations for tests and methods of assay for antibiotic and antibiotic-containing drugs (21 CFR 141.1 et seq. and 1950 Supp.) and certification of batches of antibiotic and antibiotic-containing drugs (21 CFR 146.1 et seq. and 1950 Supp.) are amended as indicated below:

1. Part 141 is amended by adding the following new section:

§ 141.212 Aureomycin vaginal suppositories—(a) Potency. Using six suppositories, proceed as directed in § 141.202 (a). The average potency of the suppository is satisfactory if it contains not less than 85 percent of the number of milligrams of aureomycin that it is represented to contain.

(b) Moisture. Proceed as directed in § 141.8 (b).

2. Part 146 is amended by adding the following new section:

§ 146.212 Aureomycin vaginal suppositories (aureomycin hydrochloride vaginal suppositories)—(a) Standards of identity, strength, quality, and purity. Aureomycin vaginal suppositories are suppositories composed of crystalline aureomycin in a suitable and harmless base, with or without one or more suitable and harmless preservatives. The potency of each suppository is not less than 250 milligrams. Its moisture content is not more than 1 percent. The aureomycin used conforms to the requirements of § 146.201 (a), except subparagraphs (1), (2), (4), and (5) of that paragraph, but its potency is not less than 750 micrograms per milligram. Each other substance used, if its name is recognized in the U. S. P. or N. F., conforms to the standards prescribed therefor by such official compendium.

(b) Packaging. In all cases the immediate container shall be a tight container as defined by the U. S. P., and shall be of such composition as will not cause any change in the strength, quality, or purity of the contents beyond any limit therefor in applicable standards, except that minor changes so caused which are normal and unavoidable in good packaging, storage, and distribution practice shall be disregarded.

(c) Labeling. Each package shall bear on its label or labeling, as hereinafter indicated, the following:

(1) On the outside wrapper or container and the immediate container:

(i) The batch mark.

(ii) The number of milligrams of aureomycin in each suppository of the batch.

(iii) If it contains a preservative, the name and quantity of each such ingredient.

(iv) The statement "Expiration date ---------," the blank being filled in with the date which is 24 months after the month during which the batch was certified.

(2) On the outside wrapper or container:

(i) Unless it is intended solely for veterinary use and is conspicuously so labeled, the statement "Caution: To be dispensed only by or on the prescription of a ----------," the blank being filled in with the word "physician" or "veterinarian" or both, as the case may be.

(ii) Unless it is intended solely for veterinary use and is so labeled, a reference specifically identifying a readily available medical publication containing directions and precautions (including contraindications and possible sensitization) adequate for the use of such drug, or a reference to a brochure or other printed matter containing such directions and precautions, and a statement that such brochure or printed matter will be sent on request.

(3) On the circular or other labeling within or attached to the package, if the drug is intended solely for veterinary use, directions and precautions adequate for the use of such drug including:

(i) Clinical indications.

(ii) Dosage and administration.

(iii) Contraindications.

(iv) Untoward effects that may accompany administration.

(d) Request for certification; samples. (1) in addition to complying with the requirements of § 146.2, a person who requests certification of a batch of aureomycin vaginal suppositories shall submit with his request a statement showing the batch mark, the number of packages of each size in such batch, the batch mark and (unless it was previously submitted) the date on which the latest assay of the aureomycin used in making such batch was completed, the number of milligrams of aureomycin in each suppository, the date on which the latest assay of the drug comprising such batch was completed, the quantity of each ingredient used in making the batch, and a statement that each such ingredient conforms to the requirements prescribed therefor by this section.

(2) Except as otherwise provided by subparagraph (4) of this paragraph, such person shall submit in connection with his request results of tests and assays listed after each of the following, made by him on an accurately representative sample of:

(i) The batch; average potency per suppository and moisture.

(ii) The aureomycin used in making the batch; potency, toxicity, moisture, pH, and crystallinity.

(3) Except as otherwise provided by subparagraph (4) of this paragraph, such person shall submit in connection with his request, in the quantities hereinafter indicated, accurately representative samples of the following:

(i) The batch; one suppository for each 5,000 suppositories in the batch, but in no case less than 20 or more than 100 suppositories, collected by taking single suppositories at such intervals throughout the entire time the suppositories are being made that the quantities made during the intervals are approximately equal.

(ii) The aureomycin used in making the batch; 10 packages, each containing approximately equal portions of not less than 60 milligrams, packaged in accordance with § 146.201 (b).

(iii) In case of an initial request for certification, each other ingredient used in making the batch; one package of each containing approximately 5 grams.

(4) No result referred to in subparagraph (2) (ii) of this paragraph, and no sample referred to in subparagraph (3) (ii) of this paragraph, is required if such result or sample has been previously submitted.

(e) Fees. The fee for the services rendered with respect to each batch under the regulations in this part shall be:

(1) $1.00 for each suppository in the samples submitted in accordance with paragraph (d) (3) (i) of this section; $4.00 for each package in the samples submitted in accordance with paragraph (d) (3) (ii) and (iii) of this section.

(2) If the Commissioner considers that investigations other than examination of such packages are necessary to determine whether or not such batch complies with the requirements of § 146.3 for the issuance of a certificate the cost of such investigations.

The fee prescribed by subparagraph (1) of this paragraph shall accompany the request for certification unless such fee is covered by an advance deposit maintained in accordance with § 146.8 (d).

This order, which provides for tests and methods of assay and certification of a new antibiotic preparation, aureomycin vaginal suppositories, shall become effective upon publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER, since both the public and the affected industries will benefit by the earliest effective date, and I so find.

Notice and public procedure are not necessary prerequisites to the promulgation of this order, and I so find, since it was drawn in collaboration with interested members of the affected industries and since it would be against public interest to delay providing for tests and methods of assay and certification of aureomycin vaginal suppositories.

(Sec. 701, 52 Stat. 1055; 21 U. S. C. 371. Interpret or apply sec. 507, 59 Stat. 463, as amended; 21 U. S. C. 357)

Upon written request by the chairman of the committee or of the authorized subcommittee to the Secretary of the Treasury, giving the names and addresses of the taxpayers whose returns it is necessary to inspect, the taxable periods covered by the returns, and the reasons why, as a part of the aforesaid study of the operation of Government activities, inspection of the returns is necessary to the investigation of the sale of tanker ships by the United States Maritime Commission, the Secretary and any officer or employee of the Treasury Department shall furnish such committee or subcommittee with any data relating to or contained in any such return, or shall make such return available for inspection by the committee or the subcommittee or by such examiners or agents as the committee or the subcommittee may designate or appoint, in the office of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. Any information thus obtained by the committee or the subcommittee thereof shall be held confidential; Provided, however, That any portion or portions thereof relevant or pertinent to the purpose of the investigation may be submitted by the committee to the United States Senate.

Because of the immediate need of the said committee to inspect the tax returns herein mentioned, it is found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to issue this Treasury decision with notice and public procedure thereon under section 4 (a) of the Administrative Procedure Act, approved June 11, 1946, or subject to the effective date limitation of section 4 (c) of that act.

This Treasury decision shall be effective upon its filing for publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

JOHN W. SNYDER,
Secretary of the Treasury.

Approved: July 25, 1951.

TITLE 32A—NATIONAL DEFENSE, APPENDIX

[Ceiling Price Regulation 25, Amendment 2]

CPR 25—CEILING PRICES OF BEEF ITEMS SOLD AT RETAIL

MISCELLANEOUS CHANGES

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950 (Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.), as amended, Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), Economic Stabilization Agency General Order 2 (16 F. R. 738), Delegation of Authority by the Secretary of Agriculture to the Economic Stabilization Agency with Respect to the Allocation of Meat (16 F. R. 1272) and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order 5 (16 F. R. 1273), this Amendment 2 to Ceiling Price Regulation 25 is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This amendment makes several substantive changes and minor modifications in Ceiling Price Regulation 25.

1. Ceiling Price Regulation 25 prohibited the sale by retailers of retail beef cuts not defined therein, but permitted the sale of certain types of specialty steak products which retailers sold during 1950 or purchased for resale. Widespread evasion of this regulation has occurred, retailers continuing to sell the prohibited cuts—for example, certain precubed steaks contrary to the provisions of section 5 and Spencer steaks—under the guise of specialty steak products which they sold during 1950. It is necessary, to prevent this sort of evasion of Ceiling Price Regulation 25, to prohibit, and therefore this amendment does prohibit, retailers from selling those specialty steak products which they do not purchase for resale.

2. Pending action by the Congress on the legislation extending the price control law beyond July, of the requirement that retailers post their beef ceiling price lists is suspended until further notice.

3. Ceiling Price Regulation 25, as amended, provided locker plants with the wholesaler addition of $2.25 per cwt. on sales of certain primal cuts to consumers. Representatives of the locker plant industry have recently conferred with the Office of Price Stabilization and have presented data proving that the $2.25 addition is inadequate and that the addition they require is $4.50. Accordingly, this amendment provides locker plants with an addition of $4.50 (the wholesaler's addition, plus $2.25) per cwt. on sales of those cuts to consumers.

4. Representatives of the Armed Services have requested that Armed Services Commissary Stores be classified as Group 3B and 4B stores. In addition, certain retailers have requested that their stores be permitted to be classified as Group 3B and 4B stores. Since both requests are not inflationary (Group 3B and 4B stores have the lowest ceiling prices) and present no enforcement problems, this amendment grants both requests.

5. This amendment corrects an error in the zone definitions. The City of St. Louis is placed in Zone 10, as was originally intended.

6. The definition of ground beef in Ceiling Price Regulation 25 permits the sale of pre-ground beef with a fat content of 30 percent. It was anticipated that under this regulation retailers would continue their practice of making pre-ground beef containing about 25 percent fat, but the regulation permitted the additional fat to give retailers leeway to make occasional batches of fatter pre-ground beef without violating the regulation. Since issuance of the regulation, certain retailers have abused this provision of the regulation and have made all of their pre-ground beef with 30 percent fat. This amendment corrects this situation by prohibiting the sale of pre-ground beef with a higher fat content than 25 percent, thus restoring normal industry practices.

Many consumers and retailers have asked that the definition of ground beef be amended to permit the sale of a lean pre-ground beef. This amendment therefore permits the sale of a pre-ground beef with a fat content not in excess of 12 percent and provides a ceiling price for this leaner product. The leaner pre-ground beef may be sold only under defined conditions which are necessary to assure enforcement of the regulation and to insure consumers a regular supply of the lower priced pre-ground beef. If, at any time, a retailer does not display at least as much regular pre-ground beef as lean pre-ground beef, by weight, he may not then sell the lean ground beef at a price higher than the ceiling price for regular ground beef. To avoid losses in such a situation, retailers may add sufficient fat to the leaner pre-ground beef to make it identical with regular pre-ground beef.

7. This amendment corrects a typographical error in section 41.

8. Finally, this amendment changes the retail ceiling prices of brains to reflect the recent revision in the wholesale ceiling price of this item.

Conclusion.—To the extent that this amendment may compel changes in business practices, those changes are necessary to prevent evasion of this regulation. In formulating this amendment, the Director of Price Stabilization has consulted with industry representatives to the extent practicable and has given full consideration to their recommendations. In his judgment the provisions of this amendment are generally fair and equitable and are necessary to effectuate the purposes of Title IV of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended.

So far as practicable, the Director of Price Stabilization gave due consideration to the national effort to achieve maximum production in furtherance of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended; to prices prevailing during the period from May 24, 1950, to June 24, 1950, inclusive; and to relevant factors of general applicability.

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

Ceiling Price Regulation 25 is amended in the following respects:

1. (a) Section 4 is amended as follows:

(1) Delete section 4 (c) and substitute therefor the following:

(c) Specialty steak products. Your ceiling price for specialty steak products shall be your ceiling price therefor established under the General Ceiling Price Regulation, but in no event more than $2.50 per pound. You must, however, file the reports and keep the records required for such items by that regulation.

(2) Delete from section 4 (d) the words "or section 4 (c)."

(b) Section 14 (b) is amended by deleting therefrom the second sentence and substituting in lieu thereof the following: "However, this shall not prevent you from selling (1) cured beef items described in section 4 (b) of this regulation if you sold them during the calendar year 1950 or purchase them for resale, or (2) specialty steak products, or (3) other beef variety meats, beef by-products, sausage or sterile canned beef items.

(c) Section 50 is amended by adding thereto immediately preceding the "Effective date" paragraph, the following paragraph:

(m) Specialty steak product means a beef item which (1) this regulation does not forbid retailers to sell to consumers; (2) differs substantially from a beef cut for which a ceiling price is provided by section 40 of this regulation; (3) was sold in 1950 by retailers as a specialty item at a substantially higher price per pound than the most similar beef cut for which a ceiling price is provided by section 40; (4) is bought by a retailer for resale; (5) is contained in a distinctive wrapping or package bearing the weight of the cut, a list of the ingredients, the grade of beef contained therein, and the name of the processor; and (6) requires a substantial investment for the equipment used to process and wrap or package the item.

2. Section 7 is amended by deleting the first five sentences therefrom.

3. Section 13 (c), as amended, is amended by deleting therefrom the first sentence and substituting in lieu thereof the following:

(c) It shall not be considered an evasion for a retailer operating in conjunction with a locker plant, who for six months prior to April 30, 1951, customarily sold to consumers wholesale beef cuts for which retail prices have not been established in section 40 of this regulation, to sell such a wholesale cut to consumers at a price not exceeding $2.25 per cwt. more than the maximum prices established in Ceiling Price Regulation No. 24 for the same grade and wholesale cut if sold to a retailer by a wholesaler at the location of the retailer's store, if such a wholesale cut is a beef carcass, side of beef or beef wholesale cut as defined in Ceiling Price Regulation No. 24. • • •

4. Section 30 is amended by adding, immediately preceding section 31, the following paragraphs:

(g) When you may choose to treat your store as a Group 3B and 4B store. If you are a Group 1, 2, 3, or 4 store you may choose to treat your store as a Group 3B and 4B store if you figure your ceiling prices for all items listed in sections 40 and 41 of this regulation as a member of Group 3B and 4B and notify your OPS District Office.

(h) Armed Services Commissary Stores. Armed Services Commissary Stores shall be in Group 3B and 4B. Section 12 (a) shall not apply to these stores.

5. Appendix 1 is amended as follows:

(a) Delete from Appendix 1 (f) the words "St. Louis county" and substitute in lieu thereof the words "the city and county of St. Louis".

(b) Delete from Appendix 1 (k) the words "in the county of St. Louis (only)" and substitute in lieu thereof the words "in the city and county of St. Louis (only)".

6. (a) Section 3 is amended by inserting therein, immediately preceding section 4, the following paragraph:

(c) Lean ground beef. Your ceiling price for lean ground beef shall be your ceiling price for regular ground beef specified in section 40 of this regulation plus 10 cents per pound. However, when your ceiling price for sales of beef cuts to specific customers is governed by section 42 of this regulation, your ceiling price for lean ground beef sold to those cusomers shall be your ceiling price for regular ground beef specified in section 42 plus 10 cents per pound.

(b) Section 6 is amended by inserting therein, immediately preceding section 7, the following paragraph:

(c) You must display regular ground beef in your showcase next to lean ground beef if you sell lean ground beef. There shall be placed on the display of regular ground beef a sign stating: "Regular ground beef". A similar sign, stating: "Lean ground beef" shall be placed on the display of lean ground beef. If you do not display at least as much regular ground beef as lean ground beef, by weight, at any time, you may not, at that time, sell any ground beef at a price in excess of the ceiling price for regular ground beef, although this provision shall not affect your right to sell other beef cuts and grind them pursuant to the provisions of section 5 (c).

(c) Appendix 5 (i) is deleted and the following Appendix 5 (i) is substituted therefor:

(i) Ground beef—(1) Regular ground beef. Regular ground beef (hamburger, hamburg steak, hamburger steak, chili meat) is ground, chopped or comminuted fresh beef only derived from the skeletal portion of the dressed carcass (but not including head meat) which contains no offal, added blood, cartilage, bone, cereal product, water or ice, or any adulterant or other foreign substance except seasoning, and which does not have a fat content in excess of 25 percent by chemical analysis. "Regular ground beef" shall be ground twice, the final grinding through a plate with holes not more than $^3/_{16}$ of an inch in diameter, or $^3/_8$ of an inch in the case of chili meat, or chopped in a rotary cutter or but other means giving equivalent results.

(2) Lean ground beef. Lean ground beef (hamburger, hamburg steak, hamburger steak, chili meat) is ground, chopped or comminuted fresh beef only derived from the skeletal portion of the dressed carcass (but not including head meat) which contains no offal, added blood, cartilage, bone, cereal product, water or ice, or any adulterant or other foreign substance except seasoning, and which does not have a fat content in excess of 12 percent by chemical analysis. "Lean ground beef" shall be ground twice, the final grinding through a plate with holes not more than $^3/_{16}$ of an inch in diameter, or $^3/_8$ of an inch in the case of chili meat, or chopped in a rotary cutter or by other means giving equivalent results.

(d) Sections 40 and 42 are amended by deleting the words "Ground beef" wherever they appear therein and substituting therefor the words "Regular ground beef."

7. Section 41 (a) is amended by deleting the number ".29" in the line "Tripe, honeycomb" under the columns "14N" and "14S" and substituting therefor the numbers ".39."

8. The ceiling prices provided for Brains in Section 41 and 42 (r) are amended by adding 10 cents to the respective ceiling prices provided therein for Brains for all store groups in all zones.

(Sec. 704, Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.)

Effective date. This amendment shall become effective July 25, 1951.

NOTE: The record keeping and reporting requirements of this amendment have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

CPR 55—CEILING PRICES FOR CERTAIN PROCESSED VEGETABLES OF THE 1951 PACK

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950 (Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.), Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), and Economic Stabilization Order No. 2 (16 F. R. 738) this Ceiling Price Regulation 55 is issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This regulation establishes a method for determining ceiling prices for canned green peas of the 1951 pack. Additional canned and processed vegetables will be added later.

PRICING METHODS OF THE REGULATION

The pricing method of this regulation is fundamentally the same as that used in CPR 42 covering the 1951 spring pack of certain canned vegetables with the exception of the difference in the base periods used.

To obtain a ceiling price for an item, the canner first determines his weighted average sales price or "base price" for the item sold during the first sixty days after the start of the 1948 pack of the product. The canner then adjusts his base price by a factor which includes certain labor and material increases which have occurred since 1948. These factors are on an area basis. To this result the canner applies the difference between his 1948 and 1951 raw material cost. In calculating this raw material difference the canner first determines the difference between his 1948 and 1950 weighted average raw material cost and combines that difference with the difference of his 1950 and 1951 raw material costs, which, however, may not exceed the amount of the appropriate maximum permitted raw material increase for the specified raw material area. The canner's ceiling price is his base price adjusted for cost increases and raw material differences.

The year 1948 was selected as the base period because it is considered the latest period most representative of normal competitive conditions for the canning industry.

COST INCREASES OTHER THAN RAW MATERIAL

As stated in the Statement of Considerations for CPR 42, allowance of all cost increases would simply amount to "rubber stamped inflation". Accordingly, the cost increases since 1948 recognized in the regulation are certain packaging costs and costs for processing, repair, and warehouse labor. These increased costs were determined by the OPS on the basis of a survey of a representative group of canners throughout the nation. These data from the survey were studied in connection with similar data from other sources in the industry.

These cost increases are computed and stated in terms of a percentage of the 1948 base sale price for different processing areas. Each canner's increase for these recognized costs will be obtained by multiplying his base price by the applicable percentage factor.

COST INCREASES FOR RAW MATERIAL

As in CPR 42, raw material cost increases are recognized on the basis of costs up to but not in excess of the legal minimum prices for the vegetables as determined by the Secretary of Agriculture. This determination has been made for all vegetables to be covered by the regulation. Accordingly, although the regulation initially covers only canned green peas, the table of maximum permitted raw material cost increases in the regulation lists all vegetables.

The determination by the Secretary was made only in the form of the individual canner's increase in raw material costs, either in dollars and cents or a percentage, between 1950 and 1951. Since, however, the base price is the 1948 sales price during the base period, it is necessary first to relate the 1948 raw material costs to the 1950 costs, and then to determine whether in fact there is a raw material cost increase. Since it is known that some 1948 raw material costs were greater than 1951 costs, it is possible that an individual canner will experience a raw material cost decrease in 1951 as compared to 1948 and 1950 costs. In that case, the canner must subtract the amount of the decrease in computing his ceiling price.

SPECIAL PRICING PROBLEMS

The problem treated in CPR 42 of determining raw material cost increases for grower-owned cooperatives, grower-processors, and processors not buying raw material at firm prices is also encountered in this regulation. The problem again arises because of the lack of a firm basis on which these types of processors may compute any increase in their 1951 raw material costs.

This regulation attempts to treat these three kinds of processors equitably. If they have no firm basis for computing their raw material cost adjustment, they are required to borrow certain raw material costs of their nearest processor of the same raw material. In the case of cooperatives, they may add to this difference an amount up to but not in excess of the maximum raw material increase permitted in the regulation on the condition that the entire increase reflected in sales prices must be returned to the growers.

No pricing provision was made in CPR 42 for processor-wholesalers and processor-retailers. This regulation, on the basis of consultation with the industry, incorporates a special pricing method for this group. This regulation employs a formula by which an f. o. b. factory base price is computed, which is then adjusted for certain cost increases to provide a ceiling price f. o. b. factory to wholesalers.

Processor-wholesalers and processor-retailers, however, sell at wholesale and retail prices higher than competitive f. o. b. factory prices. In order to make the proper adjustments for recognized cost increases, it is necessary for processor-wholesalers and processor-retailers to determine an f. o. b. factory base period sales price. However, many companies, using different accounting methods and sales policies, are either not able to determine their f. o. b. factory price or have different figures merely indicative of an f. o. b. factory price.

To meet this problem, the regulation establishes special pricing methods to meet the different situations. If a processor-wholesaler or processor-retailer sold 10 percent of his production during the base period to wholesalers, then he shall use that price as his base price, which is to be adjusted by the two cost adjustments. To obtain the prices at wholesale and retail, the processor-wholesaler or processor-retailer then follows the applicable ceiling price regulation governing wholesalers and retailers.

If the processor-wholesaler or processor-retailer did not make 10 percent of his sales at a competitive f. o. b. factory price, then he uses the alternative method. This method requires him to divide his weighted average sales price during the base period as a wholesaler or as a retailer, as the case may be, by the appropriate wholesale or retail mark-up allowed under CPR 14 or CPR 15 and then deduct the applicable transportation cost. The result will produce a figure which is comparable to the f. o. b. factory base price of a processor selling only to wholesalers. The ceiling price is then computed from the base price under the standard pricing method provided for all canners.

ADJUSTMENT OF INDIVIDUAL CEILING PRICES

Study of appropriate standards for adjustment of individual ceiling prices has been undertaken. When these standards are developed, it is expected they will be incorporated in this regulation by amendment.

EFFECT OF PRICE LEVELS

The effect of this regulation on current price levels in relation to 1948 and 1950 prices is significant, both in terms of the purposes and effects of price control and the intent of Congress during its consideration of extension of the Defense Production Act.

It is most difficult to determine the exact effect of this regulation which fixes many ceiling prices for many different items of many individual processors. However, the basic purpose of this regulation is to grant an allowance in ceiling prices, for some, but not all, cost increases occurring since 1948. In the case of canned green peas, the only vegetable now included in the regulation, available data obtained from OPS records and industry studies show that this regulation will result in a slight increase in overall prices. It is therefore considered that, for canned green peas, this regulation will not result in ceiling prices lower than the ceiling in effect on the date of the enactment of the Joint Resolution which extended the Defense Production Act until July 31, 1951. This resolution was adopted as a temporary limitation, pending further consideration before Congress, following the passage of the Senate Bill (S. 1717) limiting the authority for rollbacks and ceiling prices. The Senate Banking and Currency Committee in reporting the bill expressed the intention that the limitation on rollbacks be accompanied in administration by a restriction, where practicable, on future rollforwards above the January 24–February 24, 1951 level. However, the debate in the House of Representatives also indicates a general intention that the resolution operate to preserve the status quo pending further Congressional consideration.

Although the net effect of the issuance of this regulation will probably result in rollforwards the issuance of the regulation at this time is deemed imperative. The items covered by this regulation were not generally sold during the base period at the canner level. Because of the period of the year during which the items included in this regulation are packed, canners would have sold out their entire supplies of the 1950 pack of these items prior to the General Ceiling Price Regulation base period and would not have commenced their 1951 pack until long after the end of that base period. Consequently, in the absence of issuance of this or a similar regulation, the only method generally available for these sellers to obtain ceiling prices would be by individual application under Section 7 of the General Ceiling Price Regulation. Accordingly, in light of these considerations and the additional fact that the 1951 pack of the items covered by this Ceiling Price Regulation will soon be completed, it is necessary that this regulation be issued immediately.

CONCLUSION

In formulating this regulation the Director of Price Stabilization has consulted with the Industry Advisory Committee and has given full consideration to its recommendations. The Director finds that any changes in business practices, cost practices, or methods under this regulation are necessary to prevent circumvention or evasion of the ceiling prices for vegetables covered by this regulation. In his judgment the provisions of this regulation are generally fair and equitable and are necessary to effectuate the purposes of the Defense Production Act of 1950.

Insofar as is practicable the Director of Price Stabilization has given due consideration to the national effort to effect maximum production in furtherance of the Defense Production Act of 1950, to prices prevailing during the period May 24, 1950 to June 24, 1950, and to relevant factors of general applicability.

AUTHORITY: Sections 1 to 26 issued under sec. 704, Public Law 774, 81st Congress.

SECTION 1. Coverage of this regulation—(a) What products and sellers are covered. This regulation establishes a method for calculating ceiling prices for sales by processors of the 1951 and later packs of the following processed vegetables:

Product

Canned fresh green peas

Other vegetables may be added from time to time. This regulation does not apply to any listed vegetable that is packed and sold as "baby food", as "junior food", or as "soup". This regulation does apply to all sales of the specified processed vegetables packed by a "processor", as that term is defined in this regulation, and also applies to all sales by a processor of a product which he customarily processes, even though the sale be of items of the product which he has procured from the pack of another processor.

(b) Pricing provisions to be used. The main pricing method for most processors is found in section 2 of this regulation. If, however, you are a grower-processor, a grower-owned cooperative, or if you purchase raw materials on open-end contracts, your ceiling prices are determined by sections 2 and 3 of this regulation. Section 4 of this regulation sets forth the method of computing your ceiling price for items not sold during the basic period. Section 5 provides pricing methods for processor-wholesalers and processor-retailers. Sections 6 and 7 of this regulation establish methods by which processors who cannot compute their ceiling prices under the other provisions of the regulation may obtain ceiling prices.

(c) Where this regulation applies. This regulation applies in the 48 states of the United States and the District of Columbia.

(d) What this regulation supersedes. For the products and sellers covered, this regulation supersedes the General Ceiling Price Regulation (16 F. R. 808), and also supersedes Ceiling Price Regulation 42 (16 F. R. 5112) for any product in that regulation which may be added to this regulation.

SEC. 2. Ceiling prices f. o. b. factory for sales by processors of items sold during the base period. You shall compute your ceiling prices for each factory at which you process an item covered by this regulation by first determining your "base price". Thereafter you shall adjust your "base price" by an adjustment for cost increases other than raw materials and by an adjustment for raw material cost increases.

(1) What sales and sales contracts you include in your "weighted average sales price". All sales and confirmed sales contracts at firm prices of the 1948 pack of the item made in the regular course of business during the base period shall be included, regardless of the date of delivery. If you desire, you may include in your computation of your weighted average sales price sales made during the base period of items from a prior pack. Sales contracts made at times other than during the base period shall not be included, even though delivery was made during the base period. However, the following sales and sales contracts shall be excluded, even though made during the base period: Sales at retail (including sales to growers and employees) and at wholesale; sales to government procurement agencies, institutional, commercial and industrial users, state agencies and political sub-divisions thereof; and sales of damaged goods, or of goods packed for experimental purposes.

(2) Separate base prices. You shall figure a separate base price for each item.

(3) Base price for factory group. In determining your "base price", you may determine one "base price" for any group of factories, all of which are located in the same pricing area. In figuring a single base price for a group of factories, you shall include all of the sales within the "base period" for each factory to obtain the "weighted average sales price" defined in this section. The term "same pricing area" means that each factory must be located in the same area both for permitted increases other than raw material and for raw material permitted increases named in paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section.

(b) How to adjust for permitted increases other than raw material. After obtaining your base price for the item, you shall multiply it by the appropriate figure set forth in Table I for the area in which your factory is located.

TABLE I.—PERMITTED INCREASES OTHER THAN RAW MATERIAL

Product	Areas		Adjustment factors
	No.	States included
Canned fresh green peas.	I	New England States, New York and Pennsylvania	1.09
	II	Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska, Ohio and Wisconsin.	1.075
	III	California, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Oregon, Utah, Washington, and Wyoming.	1.055
	IV	All Other States	1.12

The resulting figure is your "adjusted base price".

(c) How to figure the raw material adjustment. Next, you shall determine your raw material adjustment by the following procedure:

(1) Determine the difference between your 1948 and your 1950 weighted average raw material cost per ton (or other unit of purchase) as defined in section 26 of this regulation.

(2) Determine the difference between your 1950 and, up to the date of the computation of your ceiling prices, your 1951 weighted average raw material cost per ton (or other unit of purchase), delivered, or contracted to be delivered, at your factory. However, if the amount by which your 1951 costs exceeds your 1950 costs is greater than the appropriate maximum permitted raw material increase for the area in which your factory is located, both in terms of dollars and cents and, in terms of a percentage of your 1950 weighted average raw material cost, as provided in Table II below, then in the following computation use either of the increases provided in table instead of your actual increase.

TABLE II.—MAXIMUM PERMITTED INCREASE IN RAW MATERIAL COST FROM 1950 TO 1951

(In the use of this table, if you buy raw material on a graded raw material basis you may apply the permitted increase to your 1950 weighted average cost per grade, and may establish your increase as between grades on the basis of actual grade purchases in 1950, provided such total increase for all items that differ in grade only does not exceed the total increase permitted to reflect the weighted average increase for all grades, weighted on the basis of actual grade purchases in 1950, provided such total increase for all items that differ in grade only does not exceed the total increase permitted in the table).

(3) You compute your weighted average raw material cost adjustment as follows:

(i) If both figures determined under subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph are plus figures, the total of the two is your upward average raw material adjustment.

(ii) If both figures determined under subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph are minus figures, the total of the two is the downward raw material adjustment by which you must reduce your price after completion of the computations in subparagraph (4) of this paragraph.

Example

A. 1950 weighted average raw material cost per ton $30
1951 weighted average raw material cost per ton 20
Difference 10
Allowable increase per ton of 1951 over 1950 5
Total upward adjustment 15

two figures by the smaller. If the remainder is a plus amount, it is your upward average raw material adjustment; if a minus amount, it is the downward raw material adjustment by which you must reduce your price after completion of the computations in subparagraph (4) of this paragraph.

Example

A. 1950 weighted average raw material cost per ton $30
1951 weighted average raw material cost per ton 20
Difference 10
Allowable increase per ton of 1951 over 1950 5

Example—Continued

B. 1948 weighted average raw material cost per ton	25
1950 weighted average raw material cost per ton	22
Difference	3
Allowable increase per ton of 1951 over 1950	5
Total upward adjustment	2
C. 1948 weighted average raw material cost per ton	35
1950 weighted average raw material cost per ton	25
Difference	10
Allowable increase per ton of 1951 over 1950	5
Total downward adjustment	5
D. 1948 weighted average raw material cost per ton	35
1950 weighted average raw material cost per ton	25
Difference	10
Decrease per ton of 1951 from 1950	2
Total downward adjustment	12

(This downward adjustment, converted to a finished product basis, is subtracted from your "adjusted base price", as provided in paragraph (d) of this section.)

(4) You then divide your average raw material cost adjustment per ton (or other unit of purchase) by your average yields per ton (or other unit of purchase) of the raw material for the years 1948, 1949 and 1950 (or such of them in which you packed the product), reduced to dozen containers of the product, and adjust for grade yield distribution according to your customary practice during such period.

The result of computations of this paragraph is your upward or downward adjustment for raw material costs per dozen containers of the item.

(d) Your ceiling price. If the final result of the calculations for raw material cost adjustments provided in paragraph (c) of this section is an increase, you shall add such increase per dozen containers to your adjusted base price, as determined in accordance with paragraph (b) of this section, and the result is your ceiling price per dozen containers for the item. If the final result of the calculations provided in paragraph (c) of this section is a decrease, you shall deduct such decrease per dozen containers from your adjusted base price, as determined in accordance with paragraph (b) of this section, and the result is your ceiling price per dozen containers for the item.

(e) Recalculation. If, during the pack of the product, your purchase price for the same grade or grades of the raw material changes from that which you were paying when you computed your prevailing ceiling price for the item, you shall recalculate your ceiling price for the item when your pack has reached an amount equal to 20 percent of your 1950 pack of the same item (or if you did not pack the item in 1950, then equal to 20 percent of your estimated 1951 pack), and immediately after you have completed the pack of the product. You need not recalculate if the change in raw material cost is an increase. In any case of recalculation of ceiling price no goods shall be delivered after the recalculation at a price higher than the recomputed ceiling price.

In recomputing a ceiling price on an item under this subsection you shall base your calculation on the weighted average cost of all of the raw material used in packing the item up to the time when you are making the recomputation.

(f) Sales f. o. b. shipping points other than factory. If during the base period you sold all or portions of an item at a shipping point other than the factory where the item was canned and if you did not absorb transportation costs from your factory to this shipping point, you must, in computing your ceiling price f. o. b. factory subtract from your base period sales price the transportation costs for the item from its factory of origin to such location. Then add to your f. o. b. factory ceiling price, for all or any portion of the item sold f. o. b. such location, the current transportation costs per sales unit from factory to such location.

(g) Special pricing provisions for mixed vegetables and mixed vegetable juices. If you process an item which consists of a combination of two or more vegetables listed in section 1 of this regulation and any amendments thereto or two or more juices of such vegetables, you shall figure your ceiling price as follows:

(1) Multiply your "base price" as determined under paragraph (a) of this section, by the appropriate figure named in Table I in paragraph (b) of this section, for the item of mixed vegetable you are pricing.

(2) Determine the difference between your 1948 and 1951 raw material cost per ton in accordance with paragraph (c) of this section, for each kind of raw material used in the mixture.

(3) Convert the raw material adjustment of each item of raw material to a finished product basis, as provided in paragraph (c) (4) of this section, using as your yield, the yield of each kind of raw material as though it were canned separately.

(4) Multiply the result determined for each kind of raw material under subparagraph (3) of this paragraph by the percentage of that kind used in the mixture and combine these amounts.

(5) Finally, add the result of subparagraph (4) of this paragraph to, or, if a minus figure, subtract it from your "adjusted base price" to obtain your f. o. b. factory ceiling price, in accordance with paragraph (c) (4) of this section.

Example. Suppose (a) the base price for canned succotash is $0.90 per dozen #303 cans, (b) the factor specified is 1.04, (c) the mixture consists of 80% corn and 20% lima beans, and (d) the raw product cost increases and yields are $6.40 and $29.00 per ton and 60 dozen and 260 dozen, respectively, for corn and lima beans.

	Dollars per dozen No. 303 cans
(1) Base price	0.9000
Adjusted base price, 0.90×1.04	.9360
(2) Raw material cost increases:
Corn, $6.40 per ton.
Lima beans, $29.00 per ton.
(3) Raw material cost increase for items used:
Corn, $6.40÷60	0.1066
Lima beans, $29.00÷260	.1115
(4) Raw material cost increase for item:
Corn, 80% of .1066	.0852
Lima beans, 20% of .1115	.0223
	.1075
(5) Ceiling price for item:
Adjusted base price (per (1) above)	.9360
Raw material cost increase (per (4) above)	.1075
Ceiling price	1.0435

(h) Different classes of sales. If you sold during the base period the same "item," as defined in section 26 of this regulation, in not more than two classes of sales so that the price of the lower class of sales differed from the higher priced class by a specific and definite dollar and cent differential, you may compute your ceiling price under this section for the item by using only the weighted average sales during the base period of the lower class. In all sales of the higher priced class, to buyers other than governmental agencies, institutional, or industrial users, you may add to the ceiling price for the item the same dollar and cents differential which existed during the base period between the lower and higher classes, provided your sales of the higher priced class from your 1951 pack shall not exceed 100 percent of the higher of either (a) the number of dozen of the higher priced class sold in 1950, or (b) your 1950 proportion of the dozens sold of the higher priced class to your 1950 total sales in dozens of the item.

SEC. 3. Ceiling prices for grower-processors, grower-owned cooperatives and other processors who purchase raw materials on an open-end contract—(a) Computation of ceiling price. (1) If you are a grower-processor, a grower-owned cooperative, or a processor who purchases on open-end contracts, and if in both 1948 and 1950 you purchased at least 10 percent of your total use of raw material at prices definitely ascertainable at time of making this computation of your ceiling price, you shall use the weighted average of these outside purchases as your raw material cost and calculate under section 2 (c) of this regulation. If in 1948 and 1950 you did not have any such outside purchases you shall first determine your "base price" and "adjusted base price" per dozen containers as provided in section 2 of this regulation. Then, if in both 1948 and 1950 you sold to other processors the same kind of raw material in a total amount equal to or exceeding 10 percent of the amount processed by you in each such year, you shall use the weighted average of such sales in each of the years 1948 and 1950 as the equivalent of the weighted average cost of raw material for each such year in making the determination provided for in section 2 (c) (1) of this regulation.

(2) If you are a grower-processor or if you are a processor who purchases raw materials on an open-end contract and if you are unable to determine your 1948 and 1950 weighted average cost equivalent under subparagraph (1) of this paragraph, you shall borrow the 1948, 1950 and 1951 weighted average raw material cost per ton (or other unit of purchase) of your nearest processor of the same kind of raw material who has determined his weighted average raw material costs for those years in conformity with section 2 of this regulation. You shall then use these borrowed average raw material costs in making the determinations for raw material cost adjustments required under section 2 (c) of this regulation.

(3) If you are a grower-owned cooperative and if you are unable to determine your weighted average raw material cost for 1948 and 1950 under subparagraph (1) of this paragraph, you shall borrow the 1948 and 1950 weighted average raw material costs of your nearest processor of the same kind of raw material who has determined his weighted average raw material costs for these years in conformity with section 2 of this regulation. You shall then use these borrowed average raw material costs to determine the difference between these 1948 and 1950 costs under section 2 (c) (1) of this regulation.

If this difference resulted from a higher cost for 1950 than for 1948, you shall add to this difference an amount up to but not in excess of the higher of either (i) the dollar maximum increase permitted by Table II in section 2 (c) of this regulation, or (ii) the figure obtained by multiplying the amount being used by you as the equivalent of your weighted average raw material cost for 1950 by the percentage maximum raw material permitted cost increase in that Table.

If the above difference resulted from a higher cost for 1948 than for 1950, it shall be treated as a minus quantity and you shall deduct it from a plus quantity up to, but not in excess of, the higher of either (i) the dollar maximum increase permitted by Table II in section 2 (c) of this regulation, or (ii) the figure obtained by multiplying the amount being used by you as the equivalent of your weighted average raw material cost for 1950 by the percentage maximum raw material permitted cost increase in that Table. In either of the contingencies provided for in this paragraph, the result will be your upward or downward raw material cost adjustment per ton (or other unit of purchase).

(4) You shall then convert this raw material cost adjustment per ton (or other unit of purchase) to your raw material cost adjustment per dozen containers of the item as provided in section 2 (c) (4) of this regulation and proceed to compute your ceiling price for the item as provided in section 2 (d) of this regulation.

(b) Required pass-back to growers. If you are a grower-owned cooperative, this permitted increase for raw material cost may be taken only if you pass back the entire increase to growers. The amount you must pass back to growers shall be computed as follows:

(1) Compute the full amount per ton paid to the grower in 1950 for the same kind of raw material.

(2) Add to this amount the per ton increase computed in accordance with paragraph (a) of this section and included in your sales prices.

(3) Divide this total by the number of dozen containers produced per ton of raw material. This is your raw material cost per dozen containers.

(4) Multiply the raw material cost per dozen containers by the number of dozen containers sold during the accounting period. The result is the total amount which must be paid to the grower including the amount to be passed back. The amount passed back must be paid within 30 days after the end of your normal accounting period.

(c) Reports required under this section. If you are a grower-owned cooperative and you determine your raw material permitted cost increases under paragraph (a) of this section, you shall mail to the Office of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C., not less than 30 nor more than 60 days after the end of each normal accounting period, a report by registered mail giving all of the computations required by paragraph (b) of this section.

SEC. 4. Ceiling prices for processors who did not sell the item during the base period but who sold other items of the product during that period—(a) Items which differ only in container size. This paragraph provides the method for pricing an item you did not sell during the base period if (1) you sold during the base period at least one other "comparison" item which differed only in container size and for which you have computed a price under this regulation and (2) you quoted prices both on the item to be priced and the "comparison" item in any written opening price list. In such case, to obtain your ceiling price for the item to be priced, apply the percentage differential, as determined from your most recent opening price list for 1950 or earlier, between the item to be priced and the comparison item, to the ceiling price established under this regulation for the comparison item.

(b) Items which differ only in type or size of container. If you did not sell an item during the base period and if you cannot price under paragraph (a) of this section, but if you can establish a ceiling price for another item which differed only in size of container or which differed only in type of container, you shall select the item which differs only in size of container or in type of container and which is nearest in size to the item to be priced; which item so selected shall be the "comparable item".

(1) You shall determine the "direct cost" of the comparable item. Direct cost shall include only the cost of all materials, both ingredient and packaging, and all direct processing labor.

(2) You shall then determine the "direct cost" of the item to be priced, by the same method by which the direct cost of the comparable item is determined.

(3) You shall then divide the direct cost of the comparable item into the ceiling price of the comparable item as determined under section 2 of this regulation; and multiply this quotient by the direct cost of the item to be priced. The result is the ceiling price of the item being priced.

(c) Items which differ only in grade. If you are unable to figure a ceiling price for an item of a particular grade of a product under section 2 of this regulation (e. g., no base period sales of the item), but are able to figure ceiling prices for three other items of the same product, as described below, you shall compute your price by a mathematical comparison of the ceiling prices of these three items. Of these comparison items, one shall differ only in grade from the item being priced and is called comparison item "A" in the following example. The second comparison item, called comparison item "B", shall differ only in container size from the item being priced. The third comparison item, called comparison item "C", shall differ both in grade and container size from the item being priced, and shall differ from the first comparison item "A" only as to container size and shall differ from the second comparison item "B" only as to grade. You shall then divide the ceiling price of item "B" by the ceiling price of item "C", and multiply the resulting figure by the ceiling price for item "A". The figure resulting from this calculation is your ceiling price f. o. b. factory for the item being priced.

Example: "X" is the ceiling needed for item being priced, #2 extra standard 3 sieve sweet peas. "A" is #2 standard 3 sieve sweet peas with ceiling of $1.50. "B" is #303 extra standard 3 sieve sweet peas with ceiling of $1.55. "C" is #303 standard 3 sieve sweet peas with ceiling of $1.35 ($1.55 divided by $1.35 equals 1.1481; 1.1481 multiplied by $1.50 equals $1.7221). $1.72 is the ceiling price for "X", #2 extra standard 3 sieve sweet peas.

(d) Items which differ only in variety or size or sieve size of content. If you are unable to figure a ceiling price for a particular variety or size of vegetable or sieve size of a product under section 2 of this regulation, (e. g., no base period sales of the item), but you are able to figure ceiling prices for three other items of the same product, as described below, you shall compute your price by a mathematical comparison of the ceiling prices of these other items. (In this explanation size of vegetable includes sieve size.) Of these comparison items, one shall differ only in variety or size of vegetable from the item being priced and is called comparison item "A". The second comparison item, called comparison item "B", shall differ only in container size from the item being priced. The third comparison item, called comparison item "C", shall differ both in container size and in variety or size of vegetable from the item being priced, and shall differ from the first comparison item "A" only in container size, and shall differ from the second comparison item "B" only as to variety or size of vegetable. You shall then divide the ceiling price of item "B" by the ceiling price of item "C" and multiply the resulting figure by the ceiling price for item "A". The figure resulting from this calculation is your ceiling price, f. o. b. factory, for the item being priced.

Example: "X" is the ceiling needed for item being priced. ±2 extra standard 4 sieve sweet peas. "A" is ±2 extra standard 3 sieve sweet peas with ceiling of $1.72. "B" is ±303 extra standard 4 sieve sweet peas with ceiling of $1.45. "C" is ±303 extra standard 3 sieve sweet peas with ceiling of $1.55 ($1.45 divided by $1.55 equals .9354; .9354 multiplied by $1.72 equals $1.6088.) $1.61 is the ceiling price for "X", ±2 extra standard 4 sieve sweet peas.

SEC. 5. Ceiling prices for processor-wholesalers and for processor-retailers. If you are a processor-wholesaler or processor-retailer, as defined in this regulation, with respect to an item, you shall compute your ceiling price for the item as follows:

(a) Your base price. You shall compute your base price by the first one of the following methods which is applicable: Provided, however, That all items of the product shall be priced by the same method.

(1) If you sold during the base period 10 percent or more of your total 1948 production of the product to wholesalers or to chain store buying agencies who were in no way associated or affiliated with you, you shall use the weighted average sales price of such sales as your base price.

(2) If you are unable to price under subparagraph (1) of this paragraph, and if you are a processor-wholesaler as defined in this regulation, you determine the weighted average sales price of your sales of the item as a wholesaler during the base period, and divide this weighted average by the markup factor provided in CPR 14 for the wholesale class in which you operate having the highest markup. If you are a processor-retailer, you determine the weighted average sales price of your sales of the item as a retailer during the the base period, and divide this weighted average by 100 percent plus the markup provided in CPR 15 for Group 4 stores.

You then deduct the total transportation cost from the wholesale or retail figure resulting from the above division. The resulting figure is your base price as that term is used in section 2 (a) of this regulation.

(b) Ceiling price f. o. b. factory. Using the base price determined under paragraph (a) of this section, you shall then determine your f. o. b. factory ceiling price in accordance with the provisions of section 2 of this regulation.

(c) Ceiling prices at wholesale. For any sales of the items at wholesale, you shall proceed as a wholesaler under the provisions of CPR 14, as amended, finding your "net cost" by substituting your f. o. b. factory ceiling price determined above for the "amount you paid your supplier" under CPR 14, as amended.

(d) Ceiling prices at retail. For any sales of the items at retail, you shall proceed as a Group 4 retailer under the provisions of CPR 15, as amended, finding your "net cost" by substituting your f. o. b. factory ceiling price determined above for the "amount you paid your supplier" under CPR 15, as amended.

SEC. 6. Ceiling prices for processors who are unable to figure their ceiling prices under sections 2, 3, 4, or 5 of this regulation. (a) If you are unable to figure your ceiling price for an item under sections 2, 3, 4, or 5 of this regulation, you shall use as your ceiling price for that item the simple average of the ceiling prices, for the same item, of the three processors of the item located nearest your factory in the same pricing area as defined in section 2 (a) (3) of this regulation. If there are less than three in the area, use the average of the available ceiling prices. If you are unable to secure the ceiling prices of the required processors located nearest you, you shall apply to the Office of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C., for an individual authorization of a ceiling price in accordance with section 7 of this regulation.

(b) If you believe that the ceiling price obtained by using the provisions of paragraph (a) of this section, is not representative of the competitive price level at which you have customarily sold your products, or if you use merchandising methods in their sale and distribution different from those of such processors, you may apply to the Office of Price Stabilization, for a ceiling price. In filing an application under this section, you shall submit your selling prices for the years 1948, 1949, and 1950 (or such of these years as available), of all items of the same or most closely comparable product, and prices (if available) of the processors whose ceilings you are using for the same years covering the same or comparable product.

SEC. 7. Individual authorization of ceiling prices. If you cannot determine your ceiling price for an item under any of the foregoing pricing methods of this regulation you shall, before delivering the item to any purchaser, apply to the Office of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C., for a ceiling price for each factory or group of factories at which you process the item.

(a) Information that must be given in all cases. In all such cases, you shall submit, if available, the following information in your application:

(1) A description in detail of the item for which a ceiling price is sought, a statement of the facts that make it different from the most similar item for which you have determined a ceiling price, identifying the similar item and stating its ceiling price, and a statement giving the reasons why a ceiling price cannot be established under the pricing methods of this regulation. The statement should indicate whether sales of the item have previously been made, and if so, whether a ceiling price was established under the General Ceiling Price Regulation, and if so, the ceiling price so established for each class of purchaser and the section of that regulation under which established.

(2) The 1948, 1950 and 1951 weighted average raw material costs per ton (or other unit) figured in the manner and subject to the limitations set forth in section 2 (c) of this regulation and a statement showing your current case (unit) yield.

(3) Breakdown by item of the estimated total costs computed in accordance with your customary accounting practice.

(4) The ceiling price proposed for the item, indicating whether it is for sale to wholesalers, retailers, consumers, or other classes of purchasers, and any discounts, or allowances that should be applicable to the proposed price and a list of your customary discounts, transportation and other allowances and price differentials.

(5) The volume of the item which you have on hand and which you expect to produce during the remainder of the pack year.

(b) Supplementary information must be given if specifically requested. You shall mail to the Office of Price Stabilization within 15 days after receipt of its request such additional information as shall be requested. If you fail, without reasonable explanation, to submit all additional information that may have been requested within 15 days after the request is mailed, your application shall be considered withdrawn and the docket closed. Unless the application is refiled, the docket will not be reopened upon later receipt of this information, and further consideration by the Office of Price Stabilization will not be given.

(c) Disposition of application. Upon receipt of the application, the Office of Price Stabilization will authorize a ceiling price, or a method for determining the ceiling price, for the applicant or for sellers of the item generally. The ceiling price authorized shall be one that bears a proper relationship to those for comparable commodities and sellers.

A proposed price shall be considered authorized 20 days after the application (or all additional information that may have been requested) is mailed by Registered Air Mail, addressed to Office of Price Stabilization, Washington, D. C., unless within that time, the applicant has received from the Office of Price Stabilization a notice to the contrary.

(d) Delivery before authorization of ceiling prices. After filing the application, you may deliver the item and receive a payment of not more than 75 percent of the proposed price, but you may not receive further payment for it until a ceiling price is authorized.

(e) Failure to apply when required. If you fail to apply for a ceiling price under this section when required to do so, the Office of Price Stabilization may authorize a ceiling price for your sales of the item bearing a proper relationship to those for comparable commodities and sellers. This will not relieve you of your obligation to comply with this section or with any other provision of this regulation, nor will it relieve you of any penalty for failure to do so.

(f) Revision of prices by the Office of Price Stabilization. Any ceiling price established under this section shall be subject to revision at any time by the Office of Price Stabilization.

SEC. 8. Individual adjustment of processors' ceiling prices. Provisions to be added by amendment.

SEC. 9. Uniform f. o. b. factory prices for factories in different pricing areas. (a) If you process the item being priced at more than one factory and if your ceiling prices for the item vary by factories located in different pricing areas, you may establish a uniform ceiling price for the item for any group of factories in those areas by figuring a weighted average of their separate ceiling prices.

(b) For any two or more factories selected by you, the "weighted average ceiling price" shall be figured by you as follows:

(1) You shall (i) determine the total estimated receipts which would have been obtained if your total production of the item at those factories during 1950 had been sold at the separate ceiling prices otherwise determined under this regulation, and (ii) divide that figure by the total number of dozens of the item included in that total production. The result is your uniform f. o. b. factory price.

(c) If you at any time recalculate your ceiling prices for an item under the provisions of section 2 of this regulation, you shall at that time refigure your weighted average ceiling price under this section.

SEC. 10. Delivered prices. You may figure a delivered ceiling price by adding to the ceiling price for the item f. o. b. factory, the amount of the current transportation charges per sales unit of that item.

SEC. 11. Uniform delivered pricing by zones or areas—(a) Sellers who sold during 1950 on a uniform delivered price by zones or areas—(1) For one factory. If you sold or delivered an item covered by this regulation during 1950 on an established uniform delivered price basis by zones or areas, you may establish a delivered ceiling price for the same zone or area by adding to your ceiling price f. o. b. factory, an average transportation charge, figured on the same basis as you figured such charge during 1950, but at current transportation rates. If you desire to sell an additional item not sold during 1950 on such uniform delivered price basis, you may establish a uniform delivered ceiling price for the same zones or areas, by adding to your f. o. b. factory ceiling price for the item, transportation charges which are mathematically proportional by shipping weight to the charges which were added to an item of the nearest shipping weight sold on a uniform delivered price basis in 1950.

(2) For two or more factories. If you sold an item during the calendar year 1950 from two or more factories on an established uniform delivered price basis, by zones or areas, regardless of the factories from which the shipment was made, you may continue such practice for the same zones or areas. Your uniform delivered ceiling price for the item shall be the weighted average of the delivered ceiling prices, as figured in sub-paragraph (1) of this paragraph, for the item computed on the basis of the proportion of sales of the pack of the item made during 1950 from each of your respective factories.

SEC. 12. Payment of brokers. In accordance with trade custom every broker shall be considered as the agent of the canner and not the agent of the buyer. In each case, the amount paid by the buyer to the processor plus any amount paid for brokerage service to the broker shall not exceed the total of the processor's ceiling price and allowable transportation costs actually paid by the processor or by the broker. The term "broker" includes a "finder."

SEC. 13. Special packing expenses that may be reflected in ceiling prices—(a) Conditions under which special packing expenses may be reflected in ceiling prices. Special packing expenses to meet special written requirements of the buyer for government use, for export, or for gifts are a basis for increasing ceiling prices for sales of an item if the following conditions are satisfied:

(1) The item must be packed in a manner, package or container that is different from and more expensive than standard packing; and

(2) The processor must pack the goods for sale by himself; and not for another on a custom or "toll" basis.

(b) Ceiling prices for sales that meet the conditions of paragraph (a). For any sale that satisfies the requirements of paragraph (a) of this section, your ceiling price as otherwise determined under this regulation may be increased by the following amount:

(1) The additional cost of packing according to the specifications of the buyer in excess of the cost of standard packing, if the processor packs the commodity himself, or

(2) The additional amount actually paid to another person for packing according to specifications of the buyer in excess of the cost of standard packing, if the processor does not pack the commodity himself.

(c) Invoice and record-keeping requirements. In any case where your ceiling price is increased under paragraph (b) of this section, you shall:

(1) Show separately the amount of the increase in your contract of sale or on your invoice.

(2) In addition to the records otherwise specified by this regulation, prepare and keep for inspection by the Office of Price Stabilization, for two years, from the date of your invoice to the buyer, accurate records showing the cost of standard packing and the cost of packing according to the specifications of the buyer.

(d) Computation of costs. Costs must be figured according to your established accounting methods. Appropriate allowances shall be made for any materials salvaged in unpacking and repacking.

(e) Meaning of "packing" and "standard packing". "Packing" means the providing of wrappings, inner containers, or outer containers; the placing of commodities in such wrappings or containers; the application of any special coverings or coatings; and any unpacking and repacking necessary to conform to the specifications of the buyer.

"Standard packing" means the most expensive packing the cost of which was included in figuring the ceiling prices established by this regulation.

SEC. 14. Units of sale and fractions of a cent. (a) Ceiling prices shall be stated in terms of the same general sales units (like dozens, cases, etc.) in which you have customarily quoted prices for the product. Sales in units other than those in which you computed your ceiling price shall be at that ceiling price adjusted for the number of containers in the unit and for customary discounts and differentials.

(b) Amounts computed in the process of figuring a ceiling price (other than the ceiling price itself) shall be carried to four decimal places (hundredth of a cent). If any figured ceiling price includes a fraction of a cent, you shall adjust the ceiling price to the nearest cent or one-half cent in accordance with your established method for quoting your sales prices.

SEC. 15. Maintenance of customary discounts, allowances and price differentials. You shall not change any customary allowance, discount or other price differential (as defined in section 26 of this regulation) to a purchaser or class of purchasers, if the change results in a higher price to that purchaser or class. However, this provision shall not require you to sell any item unlabeled, or under a buyer's label, or to extend or duplicate any temporary promotional campaign.

SEC. 16. Export sales. The ceiling price at which you may export any item covered by this regulation shall be determined in accordance with the regulation applicable to such sales.

SEC. 17. Storage. Storage costs incurred on goods owned by you shall not be added to your ceiling prices if customarily absorbed by you. Storage by you of goods owned by the buyer shall be charged for in accordance with the rates provided by the ceiling price regulation applicable to such services.

SEC. 18. Records which must be kept. If you make sales covered by this regulation, you shall:

(a) Make and preserve for examination by the Office of Price Stabilization for two years from the date of your invoice to the buyer, all records of the same kind as you have customarily kept, relating to the prices which you charged for those sales, and

(b) Preserve for examination by the Office of Price Stabilization for as long as the Defense Production Act of 1950 remains in effect, and for two years thereafter, all your existing records which were the basis of figuring your ceiling prices in the manner directed by this regulation, showing the method used in figuring the ceiling prices.

SEC. 19. Reports which must be filed. (a) If you determine ceiling prices for items of the processed vegetables covered by this regulation, you shall mail to the Office of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C., a report on OPS Public Form No. 66, signed by you, for all items for which you determine ceiling prices under this regulation. All items of the product of a particular vegetable shall be included on one-form. However, a supplemental form shall be filed if ceiling prices for some items of a product are determined at a later date. You will be furnished with copies of that reporting form. However, if additional copies are needed, they may be obtained from any field office of the Office of Price Stabilization, or from the Fruit and Vegetable Branch, Office of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C.

(b) The reports required by this section for any item shall be mailed to the Office of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C., within 5 days after such item is offered for sale hereunder.

SEC. 20. Sales slips and receipts. If you have customarily given a purchaser a sales slip, invoice or similiar evidence of purchase, you shall continue to do so. Upon request, you shall, regardless of previous custom, give the purchaser a receipt showing the date, your name and address, the name and quantity of each item sold, and the price received for it.

SEC. 21. Transfers of factory. If a factory of a processor subject to this regulation is sold or its operation otherwise transferred to you on or after July 25, 1951, your ceiling prices with respect to such factory shall be the same as those to which your transferor would have been subject if no such transfer had taken place, and your obligation to keep records sufficient to verify such prices shall be the same. The transferor shall either preserve and make available, or turn over, to you all records of transactions prior to the transfer which he has and which are necessary to enable you to comply with the record provisions of this regulation.

SEC. 22. Adjustable pricing. You may agree to sell at a price which can be increased up to the ceiling price in effect at the time of delivery, but you may not, unless authorized by the Office of Price Stabilization, deliver or agree to deliver at prices to be adjusted upward in accordance with action taken by the Office of Price Stabilization after delivery. Such authorization may be given when a request for a change in the applicable ceiling price is pending, but only if the authorization is necessary to promote distribution and will not interfere with the purposes of the Defense Production Act of 1950. The authorization may be given by the Director of Price Stabilization or by any official of the Office of Price Stabilization having authority to act upon a pending request for a change in price or to give the authorization. The authorization will be given by order, except that it may be given by letter or telegram when the contemplated action is the authorization of an individual ceiling price.

SEC. 23. Treatment of excise taxes—(a) Taxes in effect during base period. If during the base period, you separately stated and collected any excise or similar tax you may continue to collect the current amount of any such tax in addition to your ceiling price. If you did not customarily during the base period state and collect separately from the purchase price, the amount of tax paid by you, you may not collect the amount of such tax in addition to your ceiling price.

(b) Taxes imposed since base period. In all other cases, if at the time you determine your ceiling price the statute or ordinance imposing the tax does not prohibit you from stating and collecting the tax separately from the purchase price, you may collect in addition to your ceiling price, the amount of the tax actually paid by you.

In every case when the tax is collected from the purchaser the amount thereof shall be separately stated.

SEC. 24. Compliance with this regulation—(a) No selling or buying above ceiling prices. Regardless of any contract or obligation no person shall sell or deliver or, in the course of trade, buy or receive any item at a price higher than the ceiling price established by this regulation.

(b) Evasion. No person shall evade a ceiling price, directly or indirectly, whether by commission, service, transportation, or other charge or discount, premium, or other privilege; by tie-in requirement or other trade understanding; by any change of style of pack; by a business practice relating to grading, labeling or packaging, or in any other way.

(c) Enforcement. Any person violating a provision of this regulation is subject to the criminal penalties, civil enforcement actions, and suits for treble damages provided by the Defense Production Act of 1950.

SEC. 25. Petitions for amendments, protests and interpretations. Any protest, petition for amendment, or request for interpretation of this regulation, may be filed in accordance with the provisions of Price Procedural Regulation 1, revised.

SEC. 26. Definitions. When used in this regulation the term:

(a) "Base period" means the sixty-day period beginning with the first day in 1948 that the processor processed any item of a product of a vegetable covered by this regulation.

(b) "Customary allowances, discounts and price differentials" means those differentials for cash discount, swell allowance, allowance for buyer's labels, for unlabeled goods, for differences in volume of sales, for class of buyer, for class of sale, or for method or time of delivery which were customary in the business of the canner and in effect prior to and during the base period.

(c) "Grade" means the commercial grade or customary trade quality designation at the time of shipment. However, where the canner elects to use grades as established and defined by any governmental agency and sells the item under any such grade designation, the term "grade" means such grade at time of shipment.

(d) "Item" means a kind, variety, grade, density, size or sieve size, style of pack, or container type and size of a product.

(e) "Person" means an individual, corporation, partnership, association, or any other organized group of persons, and their legal successors or representatives. The term includes the United States, its agencies, other governments, their political subdivisions and their agencies.

The term includes a person who has the item processed for him by another and who owns the raw material immediately prior to and throughout the processing.

(g) "Processor-retailer" means a processor who sells the item at retail.

(h) "Processor-wholesaler" means a processor who sells the item at wholesale.

(i) "Product" means the common and usual name of a finished food processed from a vegetable covered by this regulation.

(j) "Sales at retail" means sales to ultimate consumers other than commercial, industrial and institutional users.

(k) "Sales at wholesale" means sales with respect to which processor has performed the function of selling as a wholesaler to retail stores, but not including sales to chain stores buying agencies, or to associations of retail store buying agencies which warehouse the product prior to distribution to the individual retail outlet.

(l) "Sales units" means your customary invoicing quantities of the item, such as dozens, cases, etc.

(m) "weighted average raw material cost" means the total amount paid by the processor to the grower for the raw agricultural material plus any transportation, storage, harvesting, seeds and plants, crates, boxes, bags, acquisition, and other direct costs, paid or incurred by the processor up to the point of delivery at the factory, divided by the total tons (or other units) of raw material purchased.

(n) "You" or "Your" means any processor whose sales are covered by this regulation.

Effective date. The effective date of this regulation is August 5, 1951, or such earlier date between July 25, 1951, and August 5, 1951, as you may select. If you select an earlier date, the regulation becomes effective as to you upon that date for all of your commodities covered by the regulation.

NOTE: The record-keeping and reporting requirements of this regulation have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

[General Ceiling Price Regulation, Supplementary Regulation 44]

GCPR, SR 44—MAXIMUM RATES FOR THE TRANSPORTATION OF CERTAIN COMMODITIES IN BULK CARGO LOTS VIA VESSEL BETWEEN GULF PORTS AND FROM GULF PORTS TO NORTH ATLANTIC PORTS

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950 (Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.), as amended, Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2 (16 F. R. 738), this Supplementary Regulation 44 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This supplementary regulation is issued to enable contract water carriers engaged in the transportation of (1) phosphate rock, sulphur or soda ash, in bulk, from Gulf Ports to U. S. Atlantic Coast ports and (2) phosphate rock or sulphur, in bulk, between U. S. Gulf Ports, to increase their rates for such service up to the levels established in the period 1943–1946 by order of the War Shipping Administration.

In recent years, the coastwise movement of bulk commodities has declined greatly. This decline in volume caused competing carriers to reduce the rates charged for the transportation of sulphur, phosphate rock, and soda ash in bulk cargo vessels. Rather than take these vessels out of service completely, or commit them to the more lucrative offshore trade, certain carriers continued to employ them in the coastwise trade at the level of rates presently prevailing. Consequently, the transportation rates for this service frozen under the General Ceiling Price Regulation are extremely depressed.

Rates for the transportation of commodities by water carrier in the offshore trade, as distinguished from the coastwise trade, are not controlled by the Office of Price Stabilization or any other regulatory body. As a result of the increased offshore movements of cargo required in the national interest, there has developed a critical scarcity of available vessels for operation in the offshore trade. The result has been that many vessels which would ordinarily seek employment in the coastwise trade have found employment in the offshore trade and will remain so employed because of the greater profit opportunities. Unless some relief is afforded to those vessels which still remain in the coastwise trade, they may be compelled to seek employment in the offshore trade for the same reasons.

Shippers of phosphate rock, sulphur, and soda ash, in bulk, have only water and rail transportation available. The diversion of coastwise vessels to the offshore trade has forced some shippers to utilize rail service in lieu of water service, at rates ranging from two to four times the water carrier rates for shipments moving between the same points. In addition to higher transportation rates, shippers incur greater handling costs on rail shipments because, in many instances, plant facilities are geared to receive water shipments. Moreover, if the commodities covered by this regulation are diverted to rail service, they would have to be transported in rail boxcars. Such equipment is already in short supply and is vitally required for the movement of other essential defense items which are not susceptible of transportation by water. Shippers interested in the continued availability of vessels in the coastwise trade have expressed their desire to have increases authorized in order to assure the continued operation of such vessels. The rates established by this supplementary regulation are considered fair and equitable by the shippers affected thereby, and furthermore, these shippers have indicated their willingness to absorb the increases authorized herein.

This supplementary regulation incorporates the provisions of certain rate orders promulgated by the War Shipping Administration. Since December 3, 1946, the differential between water rates and rail rates for the subject transportation has increased as a consequence of the above mentioned decline in the level of water rates while rail rates were rising. As an illustration, as of December 3, 1946, the rate for the transportation of sulphur, in bulk, from Gulf Ports to New York, New York, by water carrier was $6.50 per gross ton, whereas the rate for rail service between the same points was $12.544 per gross ton. The water rate in effect during the base period of December 19, 1950, to January 25, 1951, was $4.50 per gross ton, whereas the rail rate had increased to $15.904 per gross ton. Similarly the water rates for the transportation of the other commodities covered by this regulation, between the points involved, have decreased while rail rates were rising.

The Director has concluded that the action taken by the regulation is the most practical course at his disposal at the present time for affording relief to the water carriers affected, and thereby, assuring a continued supply of vessels needed to transport phosphate rock, sulphur, and soda ash. The rates established by this regulation are maximum rates only and it is not a violation of this regulation to charge rates below those established herein.

FINDINGS OF THE DIRECTOR OF PRICE STABILIZATION

In the judgment of the Director of the Office of Price Stabilization, the rates contained in this supplementary regulation are generally fair and equitable and are necessary to effectuate the purposes of Title IV of the Defense Production Act of 1950.

So far as practicable the Director of Price Stabilization gave due consideration to the national defense effort to achieve maximum production in furtherance of the objectives of the Defense Production Act of 1950.

In formulating this supplementary regulation the Director has consulted with representatives of the industries, so far as practicable under the circumstances, and has given fair consideration to their recommendations.

[General Overriding Regulation 7, Amendment 3]

GOR 7—EXEMPTION OF CERTAIN FOOD AND RESTAURANT COMMODITIES

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950 (Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.), as amended, Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2 (16 F. R. 738), this Amendment 3 to General Overriding Regulation 7, is issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This amendment to General Overriding Regulation 7, exempts from ceiling price restrictions imposed by the Office of Price Stabilization bottled natural or distilled waters when they are neither flavored nor carbonated. The waters covered by this exemption have little or no effect on the cost of living, the cost of the defense effort, and the general current of industrial costs. In addition, any ceiling price restrictions imposed on these waters would involve an administrative and enforcement burden out of all proportion to the importance of keeping them under price control. In view of the nature of the commodity exempted there is no reason to believe that this amendment will have any material effect on the general level of prices, or that it will affect the prices of other commodities through diversion of materials, labor or facilities.

In the judgment of the Director of Price Stabilization, the exemption provided for by this amendment will not impair the carrying out of the requirements of the Defense Production Act of 1950.

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

General Overriding Regulation 7, is amended by adding a new section to read as follows:

SEC. 6. Bottled natural or distilled water. No ceiling price regulation heretofore issued or which may hereafter be issued by the Office of Price Stabilization shall apply to sales of bottled natural or distilled water, provided it is neither carbonated nor flavored.

(Sec. 704, Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.)

Effective date. This amendment shall become effective July 25, 1951.

CERTAIN RAILROAD CAR REPAIR SERVICES

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950 (Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.), as amended, Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2 (16 F. R. 738), this amendment to General Overriding Regulation 14 is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

Each year the Association of American Railroads issues a Code of Rules governing the condition of, and charges for repairs to, freight and passenger cars used in interchange service when made by one participant in the Code on cars owned by another participant. Under the Code of Rules, cars interchanged by subscribers thereto must be inspected at railroad junction points, and repairs necessary to insure safe operation must be made before the cars may proceed. The charges set forth in the Code are based on the average current labor rates and material costs of all the subscribers to the Code, without profit, and practically all owners of railroad cars used in interchange service subscribe to the Code.

While in any particular month some car owners will perform more than their normal quota of repair work, for the most part there will be leveling off over a period of time as to the amount of repair work performed by the respective car owners. By utilizing the repair service provided for in the Code of Rules, the cost to the car owners is either the same as, or less than, the cost would be if they performed their own repair work. Since the repair services referred to are performed, without profit, exclusively among participants in the Code of Rules, the exemption from price control will in no way defeat or impair the price stabilization program, nor will such exemption have any material effect upon the cost of living or upon the general level of prices.

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

General Overriding Regulation 14 is amended by adding a new section 4 to read as follows:

SEC. 4. Railroad car repair services performed by a railroad or other railroad car owner which is a party to the freight and passenger car interchange rules agreement of the Association of American Railroads in effect at the time of performance, when the charges for such services (including the furnishing of repair parts incidental thereto) are prescribed by the Code of Rules of the Association of American Railroads governing the condition of, and repairs to, freight and passenger cars for the interchange of traffic.

(Sec. 704, Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.)

Effective date. This amendment to General Overriding Regulation 14 shall become effective July 30, 1951.

R. 3503), and General Order No. 3, Economic Stabilization Administrator (16 F. R. 739), this General Wage Regulation No. 13 is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

On February 27, 1951, the Economic Stabilization Administrator requested the Wage Stabilization Board to prepare regulations dealing with "health, welfare and pension plans," and to make recommendations with regard to other major fringe benefits. The Board is considering health, welfare and pensions plans, with a view to a regulation dealing with them. This regulation deals with other fringe benefits. Paid vacations illustrate the type of benefit which is common in industrial compensation practices, and for which a stabilization policy is currently needed.

Pending review of basic wage stabilization policy, this regulation is issued to provide that the Board will act upon petitions for approval of certain fringe benefits which do not exceed the prevailing industry or area practice as to either amount or type. Due consideration has been given to the standards and procedures set forth in Title IV and Title VII of the Defense Production Act. The Economic Stabilization Administrator has been consulted in the formulation of this regulation.

REGULATORY PROVISIONS

Sec.
1. Scope of this regulation.
2. Standards for approval of fringe benefits.
3. Petitions for approval of fringe benefits.
4. Relation to General Wage Regulation No. 6.

Such petition shall contain proof that the proposed fringe benefits do not exceed prevailing industry or area practice either as to amount or type.

SEC. 4. Relation to General Wage Regulation No. 6. Fringe benefits hereafter approved by the Wage Stabilization Board under this regulation will not be offset against the increase permissible under General Wage Regulation No. 6.

PROPOSED RULE MAKING

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Production and Marketing Administration

[7 CFR Part 904]

HANDLING OF MILK IN THE GREATER BOSTON, MASS., MARKETING AREA

DECISION WITH RESPECT TO PROPOSED MARKETING AGREEMENT AND PROPOSED ORDER AMENDING ORDER NOW IN EFFECT

Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was conducted at Burlington, Vermont, and at Boston Massachusetts, on April 2-7, 1951, inclusive, pursuant to notice thereof which was issued on March 14, 1951 (16 F. R. 2511).

The material issues presented on the record were related to several provisions of the order including a proposed method for computing a composite wage index for use in the Class I price formula. It is imperative that action be taken as soon as possible in regard to the method of computing a composite wage index for use in the Class I price formula since the publication of the data prescribed by the order for use in the formula computation has been discontinued. This decision is made, therefore, with respect to the issue requiring immediate action whereas other issues require further study and will be treated in a separate decision. A recommended decision and opportunity to file written exceptions, with respect to the aforesaid issues, was filed with the Hearing Clerk, United States Department of Agriculture, on July 13, 1951 (16 F. R. 6873). No exceptions to the findings and conclusions, with respect to this issue, were filed within the period allotted for such exceptions.

Findings and conclusions. The following findings and conclusions on the issue decided herein are based upon the evidence introduced at the hearing and the record thereof.

The order should provide for the computation of a composite wage rate index which would be similar to the farm-wage rate index which has been utilized in the calculation of the Class I formula price since the adoption of that formula April 1, 1948. The United States Department of Agriculture is no longer collecting information from which the monthly composite wage rates were computed and that series has been discontinued. Therefore, it is necessary to compute an equivalent composite farm wage rate. Farm wage rates are recorded quarterly by the United States Department of Agriculture as rates per month with board and room, per month with house, per week with board and room, per week without room or board, and per day without board or room. These rates should be expressed as a simple average monthly composite rate by converting the weekly rates to a monthly equivalent by multiplying by 4.33 weeks and by converting the daily rate to a monthly basis by using 26 working days per month. The simple average monthly composite farm wage rates for each of the four states used in the Class I formula should be combined according to the weights expressed in the order. In order to express the wage rates as an index on the same basis as that used in converting the previously published monthly composite farm wage rates to an index number for computation of the formula price, it is necessary to divide the milkshed average composite wage rate figure by .6394. This factor is determined from the average relationship of the milkshed average wage rate figure derived from the currently published data to this series which was previously published and used in the computation of the formula price.

General findings. (a) The proposed marketing agreement and the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(b) The parity prices of milk as determined pursuant to section 2 of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect market supply and demand for milk in the said marketing area, and the minimum prices specified in the proposed marketing agreement and in the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk and be in the public interest; and

(c) The proposed marketing agreement and the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended, will regulate the handling of milk in the same manner as, and are applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in the said marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

Determination of representative period. The month of March 1951 is hereby determined to be the representative period for the purpose of ascertaining whether the issuance of the order, amending the order, now in effect, regulating the handling of milk in the Greater Boston, Massachusetts, marketing area, in the manner set forth in the attached amending order is approved or favored by producers who, during such period, were engaged in the production of milk for sale in the marketing area.

Annexed hereto and made a part hereof are two documents entitled, respectively, "Marketing Agreement Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Greater Boston, Massachusetts, Marketing Area," and "Order Amending the Order, as amended, Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Greater Boston, Massachusetts Marketing Area," which have been decided upon as the detailed and appropriate means of effectuating the foregoing conclusions. These documents shall not become effective unless and until the requirements of § 900.14 of the rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and orders have been met.

It is hereby ordered, That all of this decision, except the attached marketing agreement, be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The regulatory provisions of said marketing agreement are identical with those contained in the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended by the attached order which will be published with this decision.

This decision filed at Washington, D. C., this 23d day of July 1951.

[SEAL] C. J. MCCORMICK, Acting Secretary of Agriculture.

Order[1] Amending the Order, as Amended, Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Greater Boston, Massachusetts, Marketing Area

§ 904.0 Findings and determinations. The findings and determinations hereinafter set forth are supplementary and in addition to the findings and determinations previously made in connection with the issuance of the aforesaid order and each of the previously issued amendments thereto; and all of said previous findings and determinations are hereby ratified and affirmed, except insofar as such findings and determinations may be in conflict with the findings and determinations set forth herein.

(a) Findings upon the basis of the hearing record. Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was held upon certain proposed amendments to the tentative marketing agreement and to the order, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the Greater Boston, Massachusetts, marketing area. Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing and the record thereof, it is found that:

(1) The said order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(2) The parity prices of milk, as determined pursuant to section 2 of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect market supply and demand for milk in the said marketing area, and the minimum prices specified in the order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk and be in the public interest; and

(3) The said order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, regulates the handling of milk in the same manner as and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

Order relative to handling. It is therefore ordered, that on and after the effective date hereof, the handling of milk in the Greater Boston, Massachusetts, marketing area shall be in conformity to and in compliance with the terms and conditions of the aforesaid order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, and the aforesaid order, as amended, is hereby further amended as follows:

Delete § 904.7 (a) (3) (ii) and substitute the following:

(ii) For each of the States of Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, and Vermont, compute the simple average, on a monthly equivalent basis, of the following farm wage rates reported by the United States Department of Agriculture: The rate per month with board and room; the rate per month with house; the rate per week with board and room; the rate per week without board or room; and the rate per day without board or room. To convert the weekly rates and the daily rate to monthly equivalents, multiply the weekly rates by 4.33 and the daily rate by 26. From the simple averages, compute a combined weighted average monthly rate, using the following weights: Maine, 10; Massachusetts, 6; New Hampshire, 7; and Vermont, 77. Divide the weighted average monthly rate by 0.6394, and multiply the result by 0.4.

[F. R. Doc. 51-8674; Filed, July 25, 1951; 8:53 a. m.]

[1] This order shall not become effective unless and until the requirements of § 900.14 of the rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and orders have been met.

shall, subject to valid existing rights, become subject to application, petition, location, or selection, as follows:

4. A veteran shall accompany his application with a complete photostatic, or other copy (both sides) of his certificate of honorable discharge, or of an official document of his branch of service which shows clearly his honorable discharge as defined in § 181.36 of Title 43 of the Code of Federal Regulations, or constitutes evidence of other facts upon which the claim for preference is based and which shows clearly the period of service. Other persons claiming credit for service of veterans must furnish like proof in support of their claim. Persons asserting preference rights, through settlement or otherwise, and those having equitable claim, shall accompany their applications by duly corroborated statements in support thereof, setting forth in detail all facts relevant to their claims.

5. All applications for these lands, which shall be filed in the Land Office at Anchorage, Alaska, shall be acted upon in accordance with the regulations contained in § 295.8 of Title 43 of the Code of Federal Regulations to the extent that such regulations are applicable. Applications under the Small Tract Act of June 1, 1938, shall be governed by the regulations contained in Part 257 of Title 43 of the Code of Federal Regulations.

6. Lessees under the Small Tract Act of June 1, 1938, will be required, within the life of the lease, to construct upon the leased land, to the satisfaction of the appropriate officer of the Bureau of Land Management authorized to sign the lease, improvements which, in the circumstances, are presentable, substantial and appropriate for the use for which the lease is issued before favorable consideration will be given for purchase of the tract. Leases will be for a period of not more than two years, at an annual rental of $5.00, payable in advance for the entire lease period. Every lease will contain an option to purchase clause and every lessee may file an application to purchase at the sale price as provided in the lease.

7. All of the land will be leased in tracts varying in size from approximately 0.9 to approximately 7.5 acres, in accordance with the classification map on file in the Land Office, Anchorage, Alaska. The tracts where possible are made to conform in description with the rectangular system of survey, in compact units.

8. The leases will be made subject to rights-of-way for road purposes and public utilities, of 33 feet in width, on each side of the tracts contiguous to the section and/or quarter section lines, or as shown on the classification map on file in the Land Office, Anchorage, Alaska. Such rights-of-way may be utilized by the Federal Government, or the State or Territory, county or municipality, or by any agency thereof. The rights-of-way may, in the discretion of the authorized officer of the Bureau of Land Management, be definitely located prior to the issuance of the patent. If not so located, they may be subject to location after patent is issued.

9. All wells and sewage disposal facilities will be located not less than 75 feet from the exterior boundaries of the tract described in the lease: Provided, however, That if said tract abuts upon any stream, lake or other body of fresh water no well or sewage disposal facility shall be placed within 100 feet of such water. If the tract described in the lease is located upon sloping lands, lessee should locate any well or sewage disposal facility according to the recommendation of the Alaska Territorial Department of Health.

SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION

[File No. 70-2655]

CENTRAL VERMONT PUBLIC SERVICE CORP.

ORDER AUTHORIZING ISSUANCE AND SALE OF BONDS AND NOTES

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission held at its office in the city of Washington, D. C., on the 19th day of July A. D. 1951.

Central Vermont Public Service Corporation ("Central Vermont"), a public utility subsidiary of New England Public Service Company, a registered holding company, having filed an application, and amendments thereto, pursuant to section 6 (b) of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("act") and Rule U-50 promulgated thereunder, with respect to the following transactions:

Central Vermont proposes to issue and sell, pursuant to the competitive bidding requirements of Rule U-50, $2,000,000 principal amount of First Mortgage --- percent Bonds, Series G, due 1981. The interest rate on said bonds (to be a multiple of ⅛ of 1 percent) and the price, exclusive of accrued interest, to be received by the company (to be not less than 100 percent nor more than 102.75 percent of the principal amount on said bonds) are to be determined at competitive bidding. The bonds are to be issued under and secured by a Mortgage to Old Colony Trust Company, Trustee, dated October 1, 1929, as supplemented by various Indentures, including a proposed Supplemental Indenture to be dated August 1, 1951.

Central Vermont also proposes to issue, or renew, from time to time after the sale of the bonds, until December 31, 1951, notes having a maturity of nine months or less up to the maximum amount of $1,600,000. The company anticipates that it will be able to borrow the required funds at an interest rate of not exceeding 2¾ percent per annum. If the interest rate on any of the notes should exceed 2¾ percent, it will file an amendment to its application at least five days prior to the execution and delivery of the note and asks that such amendment become effective without further order of the Commission at the end of the five day period unless the Commission shall have notified the company to the contrary.

The company will apply $1,000,000 of the proceeds from the sale of the bonds to the reduction of short-term borrowings, presently outstanding in the amount of $1,625,000, incurred for interim financing of its construction requirements, and will use the remaining proceeds for other corporate purposes, including its construction requirements. Central Vermont estimates that for the last eight months of 1951 and for 1952 its construction program will aggregate $4,824,000 and that, in addition to part of the proceeds from the sale of the Series G Bonds, $3,400,000 will be needed for this purpose from outside sources. The application states that it is the present desire of the company to refund the short-term notes authorized herein and to raise funds to finance a substantial part of its construction program through the issuance and sale of common stock. However, the company states that it does not believe it is advisable to attempt to market its common stock at this time, but believes that it will be in a position to do so before the end of 1951.

The said application having been filed on June 22, 1951, and the last amendment thereto having been filed on July 19, 1951, and notice of said filing having been given in the form and manner prescribed by Rule U-23 promulgated pursuant to said act, and the Commission not having received a request for a hearing with respect to said application within the period of time specified in said notice, or otherwise, and not having ordered a hearing thereon; and

It appearing that the Public Service Commission of Vermont, the State Commission of the State in which Central Vermont is organized and doing business, has expressly authorized the issuance and sale of the bonds, subject to a reservation of jurisdiction with respect to the results of competitive bidding, and that no State Commission has jurisdiction over the issuance or renewal of the notes; and

It further appearing that the record is incomplete with respect to the fees and expenses incurred or to be incurred in connection with the proposed transactions, and the Commission deeming it appropriate to reserve jurisdiction with respect to such fees and expenses; and

The Commission finding with respect to said application, as amended, that all the applicable provisions of the act and rules promulgated thereunder are satisfied and deeming it appropriate in the public interest and in the interest of investors and consumers that said application, as amended, be granted without the imposition of terms and conditions, other than those specified below, and further deeming it appropriate to grant applicant's request that the order herein become effective upon its issuance:

It is ordered, Pursuant to Rule U-23 and the applicable provisions of the act, that said application, as amended, be, and the same hereby is, granted, subject to the terms and conditions prescribed in Rule U-24 and to the following additional terms and conditions:

(1) That the proposed transactions shall not be consummated until the results of competitive bidding, pursuant to Rule U-50, and a final order of the Public Service Commission of Vermont approving same, shall have been made a matter of record in this proceeding and a further order entered by this Commission in the light of the record so completed, which order may contain such further terms and conditions as may then be deemed appropriate, jurisdiction being reserved for such purpose;

(2) That jurisdiction be, and hereby is, reserved with respect to the payment of all fees and expenses incurred or to be incurred in connection with the proposed transactions.

It is further ordered, That this order shall become effective upon the issuance thereof.

By the Commission.

All determinations with respect to cooperative marketing associations of producers pursuant to this section shall be made by or under the direction of the PMA State committee.

§ 601.803 Eligible beans. Eligible beans must meet the following requirements:

(a) The beans must have been produced in the continental United States in 1951 by an eligible producer.

(b) Except in the case of cooperative marketing associations, the beneficial interest in the beans must be in the producer tendering the beans for loan or for delivery under a purchase agreement, and must always have been in him or in him and a former producer whom he succeeded before the beans were harvested. In the case of cooperative marketing associations, the beneficial interest in the beans must have been in the producers who delivered the beans to the association and must always have been in them or in them and former producers whom they succeeded before the beans were harvested.

(c) The beans must be dry edible beans of the classes Pea, Medium White, Great Northern, Small White, Flat Small White, Pink, Small Red, Pinto, Cranberry, Red Kidney, Large Lima and Baby Lima.

(d) Beans placed under loan must (1) grade U. S. No. 2 or better, or (2) must not have been commercially cleaned; must not have a moisture content in excess of 18 percent; must not after deduction of foreign material, contain more than 10 percent of other defects, as these terms are defined in the United States Standards for Beans; must not be musty, sour, heating, hot, weevily, materially weathered, or otherwise of distinctly low quality; or must not have any commercially objectionable odor.

(e) Beans delivered under a purchase agreement must grade U. S. No. 2 or better.

(f) If offered for a farm-storage loan, beans must have been stored for at least 30 days prior to inspection for measurement, sampling, and sealing, unless otherwise approved by the PMA State committee.

§ 601.804 Warehouse receipts. Warehouse receipts, representing beans in approved warehouse-storage to be placed under loan or delivered under a purchase agreement, must meet the following requirements:

(a) Warehouse receipts must be issued in the name of the producer or cooperative marketing association, must be properly endorsed in blank so as to vest title in the holder, and must be issued by a warehouse approved by CCC under CCC Form 28, "Bean Storage Agreement." The receipts must be negotiable and must cover eligible beans actually in store in the warehouse.

(b) In order to be acceptable under the loan program, each warehouse receipt, or the accompanying supplemental certificate, must contain a statement that the beans are insured in accordance with CCC Form 28, "Bean Storage Agreement," and if such insurance was not effective as of the date of deposit of the beans in the warehouse, the warehouseman must certify as to the effective date of the insurance and that the beans are in the warehouse and undamaged. The insurance on commingled beans must be obtained by the warehouseman. Insurance on beans with respect to which the warehouseman does not guarantee quality, hereinafter called identity-preserved beans, must be obtained by either the producer or the warehouseman. If the insurance is obtained by the producer it must be assigned to the warehouseman, with the consent of the insurance company, before a loan will be made and the warehouseman must also certify that the insurance has been assigned to him. Insurance is not required in order for warehouse receipts to be purchased under the purchase agreement program.

(c) Each warehouse receipt or the warehouseman's supplemental certificate (in duplicate) properly identified with the warehouse receipt, must show the gross and net weight of beans, the class, and the grade or all grading factors used in the determination of the quality of the beans.

(d) In the case of identity-preserved beans, the warehouse receipt shall show the lot number and number of bags in the lot, and the producer must execute the supplemental certificate and assume responsibility for the quantity and quality indicated thereon.

(e) The warehouse receipt may be subject to liens for warehouse charges only to the extent indicated in § 601.809 (b).

§ 601.805 Determination of quantity. (a) When loans are made on farm storage or identity-preserved beans. (1) At the time the loan is made, the quantity of beans may be determined either by weight or, if stored in bulk, by measurement. Where the quantity is determined by measurement, 2.1 cubic feet shall constitute 100 pounds.

(2) In the case of bagged beans grading U. S. No. 2 or better, loans shall be made on the net weight of the lot or on a quantity determined by multiplying the number of bags by 100 pounds, whichever is less. In the case of other eligible beans, loans shall be made on the basis of the net weight of sound beans in the lot. Sound beans shall be beans free of dockage and other defects as defined in the United States Standards for Beans.

(3) If the beans are stored in sacks, a deduction of ¾ pound per sack shall be made from the gross weight of sacked beans, except where the net weight is shown on the warehouse receipt.

(b) At time of delivery. (1) The quantity of beans delivered to CCC from other than an approved warehouse, or delivered in an approved warehouse as identity-preserved beans shall be determined on the basis of net weight and bag count at the point of delivery, in accordance with § 601.812 (c).

(2) The quantity of beans delivered to CCC in an approved warehouse where the warehouseman guarantees the quality and quantity shall be the net weight of beans specified on the warehouse receipt or supplemental certificate.

§ 601.806 Determination of quality. (a) The class, grade and all quality factors shall be determined in accordance with the United States Standards for Beans. An inspection certificate issued by a licensed inspector is required on all farm-storage loans.

(b) Where quality is guaranteed by the warehouseman, the class and grade delivered under a warehouse-storage loan or purchase agreement shall be that shown on the warehouse receipt. In all other cases the class and grade shall be determined from a Federal or Federal-State inspection certificate, issued by or under the supervision of the Grain Branch, PMA.

§ 601.807 Loss or damage to the beans—(a) Farm storage. The producer is responsible for any loss in quantity or quality of the beans placed under farm-storage loan, except that physical loss or damage, other than shrinkage, occurring after disbursement of the loan funds to the producer, without fault, negligence, or conversion on the part of the producer, or on the part of the person operating or in charge of the storage structure, resulting solely from an external cause other than insect infestation or vermin, will be assumed by CCC, to the extent of the settlement value, provided the producer has given the county committee immediate notice in writing of such loss or damage, and provided there has been no fraudulent representation made by the producer in the loan documents or in obtaining the loan. No physical loss or damage occurring prior to disbursement of the loan funds to the producer will be assumed by CCC. Where disbursement of funds is made by sight draft or check, the date of the draft or check shall constitute the date of disbursement of the funds.

(b) Warehouse storage. (1) In the case of loss or damage to beans under loan in warehouse storage where the warehouseman guarantees the quantity and quality shown on the warehouse receipt, the producer's account will be credited in the amount of such loss or damage.

(2) In the case of warehouse stored identity-preserved beans, the producer has the same responsibility for loss or damage to the beans as in the case of farm-storage loans.

(c) Credit for loss or damage. The amount to be credited to the producer for loss or damage assumed by CCC, shall be determined by multiplying the number of cwt. of sound beans lost or destroyed by the support rate for U. S. No. 2 beans of the class lost or destroyed, except that if the warehouse receipt or an official inspection certificate covering the beans shows a grade of U. S. No. 2 or better, the amount credited shall be determined by multiplying the net weight of the beans lost or destroyed by the support rate for the class and grade of such beans.

§ 601.808 Maturity of loans. Loans mature on demand but not later than April 30, 1952.

§ 601.809 Delivery of beans to CCC. If the warehouse receipt represents beans not commercially cleaned and graded, the producer must arrange to resubmit warehouse receipts on cleaned, graded, and bagged beans at the time of delivery in accordance with instructions issued by the county committee. The following terms and conditions shall apply with respect to packaging and charges:

(a) Packaging. Beans must be packed 100 pounds net in bags equal to or better than (1) new bags made of 36-inch, 10.4 ounce A or B quality common jute or heavier weight jute, or (2) new cotton bags, 36-inch, 2.34 yards osnaburg or 40-inch 2.50 yard osnaburg. If new bags are not available, beans may be packed in No. 1 used bags made of 36-inch, 10.4 ounce A or B quality jute or heavier, free of holes, patches, or other defects, satisfactory for the proper conservation of the product, and thoroughly cleaned before being filled. Bag seams must be sufficiently strong to develop the full strength of the cloth. Bags will be marked to show the commodity name and class; and the net weight when packed; and the name and address of the packer.

(b) Charges. (1) Storage, bagging, cleaning, inspection fees and all other charges, including cost of movement to normal railroad shipping points where the warehouse is not located on a railroad (but not including receiving and loading-out charges), incurred on beans up to the time of delivery to CCC, shall be paid by the producer prior to such delivery or shall be paid from the settlement value: Provided however, That on the quantity of eligible beans stored in an approved warehouse and delivered to CCC under a loan or purchase agreement, CCC will assume warehouse-storage charges (not in excess of those allowed under the storage agreement in effect for the 1951 crop with CCC) accruing after April 30, 1952.

(c) Quantity on which settlement will be made. (1) Settlement will be made on the basis of each bag containing 100 pounds net weight of beans. The producer will be paid or credited for the net weight of the lot delivered or for a quantity determined by multiplying the number of bags by 100 pounds, whichever quantity is less. If all the beans in the lot are not weighed, the net weight shall be determined by multiplying the average net weight of not less than 10 percent of the bags in the lot by the total number of bags.

(2) If the beans are of a grade for which no support rate has been established, the settlement value shall be the settlement rate established for the grade placed under loan, less the difference, if any, at the time of delivery, between the market price for the grade placed under loan and the market price of the beans delivered as determined by CCC: Provided, however, That if such beans, when placed under loan, were not of a grade for which a support rate has been established, the settlement value shall be the settlement value for the lowest grade for which a support rate has been established, less the difference, if any, at the time of delivery, between the market price for such grade and the market price of the beans delivered, as determined by CCC.

AUTHORITY: §§ 931.0 to 931.91 issued under sec. 5, 49 Stat., 753, as amended; 7 U. S. C. and Sup. 608c.

§ 931.0 Findings and determinations—(a) Findings upon the basis of the hearing record. Pursuant to Public Act No. 10, 73d Congress (May 12, 1933), as amended and as reenacted and amended by the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (hereinafter referred to as the "act"), and the rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was held upon a proposed marketing agreement and a proposed order to regulate the handling of milk in the Cedar Rapids-Iowa City marketing area. Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing and the record thereof, it is found that:

(1) The said order and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(2) The parity prices of milk produced for sale in the said marketing area as determined pursuant to section 2 of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds and other economic conditions which affect market supply of and demand for such milk, and the minimum prices specified in the order are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk, and be in the public interest;

(3) The said order regulates the handling of milk in the same manner as and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held;

(4) All milk and milk products handled by handlers, as defined herein, are in the current of interstate commerce or directly burden, obstruct, or affect interstate commerce in milk or its products; and

(5) It is hereby found that the necessary expenses of the market administrator for the maintenance and functioning of such agency will require the payment monthly by each handler, as his pro rata share of such expenses, four cents per hundredweight, or such amount not exceeding four cents per hundredweight as the Secretary may prescribe, with respect to all milk received by him during the month from producers (including such handler's own production) and with respect to other source milk received by him during such month which is classified as Class I.

(b) Determinations. It is hereby determined that handlers (excluding cooperative associations of producers who are not engaged in processing, distributing or shipping the milk covered by this order, which is marketed within the Cedar Rapids-Iowa City marketing area) refused or failed to sign the proposed marketing agreement regulating the handling of milk in the Cedar Rapids-

Iowa City marketing area, and it is hereby further determined that:

(1) The refusal or failure of such handlers to sign said proposed marketing agreements tends to prevent the effectuation of the declared policy of the act;

(2) The issuance of this subpart is the only practicable means, pursuant to the declared policy of the act, of advancing the interests of producers of milk which is produced for sale in the Cedar Rapids-Iowa City marketing area; and

(3) The issuance of this subpart is approved or favored by at least two-thirds of the producers who, during the determined representative period (January 1951) were engaged in the production of milk for sale in the Cedar-Rapids-Iowa City marketing area.

Order relative to handling. It is therefore ordered that on and after the effective date hereof, the handling of milk in the Cedar Rapids-Iowa City marketing area shall be in conformity to and in compliance with the terms and conditions of the aforesaid order.

(b) The quantities of skim milk and butterfat contained in (or used in the production of) receipts from any other handler;

§ 931.31 Other reports. (a) Each producer-handler shall make reports to the market administrator at such time and in such manner as the market administrator may prescribe.

(b) On or before the 20th day of each delivery period each handler shall submit to the market administrator such handler's producer payroll for the preceding delivery period which shall show:

(3) The nature and amount of any deductions involved in such payments.

§ 931.32 Records and facilities. Each handler shall maintain and make available to the market administrator or to his representative during the usual hours of business such accounts and records of his operations and such facilities as are necessary for the market administrator to verify or to establish the correct data with respect to:

(a) The receipts and utilization in whatever form of all skim milk and butterfat received, including nonfluid milk products disposed of in the form in which received without further processing;

(b) The weights and tests for butterfat and other content of all milk, skim milk, cream and milk products handled;

(c) Payment to producers and cooperative associations; and

(d) The pounds of skim milk and butterfat contained in or represented by all milk, skim milk, cream, and milk products on hand at the beginning and end of each delivery period.

In either case the market administrator shall give further written notification to the handler promptly upon the termination of the litigation or when the records are no longer necessary in connection therewith.

CLASSIFICATION

§ 931.40 Skim milk and butterfat to be classified. All skim milk and butterfat in any form received by a handler during the delivery period and required to be reported pursuant to § 931.30 shall be classified by the market administrator pursuant to §§ 931.41 to 931.46, inclusive.

§ 931.41 Classes of utilization. Subject to the conditions set forth in §§ 931.43 and 931.44, the classes of utilization shall be as follows:

(a) Class I milk shall be all skim milk (including reconstituted skim milk) and butterfat (1) disposed of in the form of milk, skim milk, buttermilk, flavored milk, flavored milk drinks, cream or any mixture (except those specified in paragraph (b) of this section) of cream and milk or skim milk containing more than 6 percent of butterfat, (2) used in the production of concentrated milk, not sterilized, for consumption in fluid form, and (3) not specifically accounted for under paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section.

(b) Class II milk shall be all skim milk and butterfat used to produce evaporated milk, condensed milk, ice cream, ice cream mix, aerated products containing milk or cream or a combination thereof (such as "Reddi-Wip," "Instant Whip," etc.), cottage cheese, and any milk product other than those specified in paragraphs (a) and (c) of this section.

(c) Class III milk shall be all skim milk and butterfat used to produce butter, American type cheddar cheese, animal feed, casein and nonfat dry milk solids, and in shrinkage up to 2 percent of receipts from producers, and in shrinkage of other source milk.

§ 931.42 Shrinkage. The market administrator shall allocate shrinkage over a handler's receipts as follows:

(a) Compute the total shrinkage of skim milk and butterfat for each handler.

(b) Prorate the resulting amounts between the receipts of skim milk and butterfat received from producers and from other sources.

§ 931.43 Responsibility of handlers and reclassification of milk. (a) All skim milk and butterfat shall be Class I unless the handler who first receives such skim milk or butterfat can prove to the market administrator that such skim milk or butterfat should be classified otherwise.

(b) Any skim milk or butterfat (except that transferred to a producer-handler) shall be reclassified if verification by the market administrator discloses that the original classification was incorrect.

§ 931.44 Transfers. Skim milk or butterfat disposed of by a handler either by transfer or diversion shall be classified:

(a) As Class I milk if transferred or diverted in the form of milk, skim milk or cream to another handler, except a producer-handler, unless utilization in another class is mutually indicated in writing to the market administrator by both handlers on or before the 7th day after the end of the delivery period within which such transaction occurred, but in no event shall the amount classified in any class exceed the total use in such class by the transferee handler: Provided, That, if either or both handlers have received other source milk, the milk so transferred shall be classified at both plants so as to return the highest class utilization to producer milk.

(b) As Class I milk if transferred to a producer-handler in the form of milk, skim milk, or cream.

(c) As Class I milk if transferred or diverted in the form of milk, skim milk, or cream to a plant other than an approved plant, unless:

(1) The handler claims other classification on the basis of utilization mutually indicated in writing to the market administrator by both the handler and purchaser on or before the 7th day after the end of the delivery period within which such transfer or diversion occurred;

(2) Such purchaser maintains books and records showing the utilization of all skim milk and butterfat at his unapproved plant, which are made available if requested by the market administrator for the purpose of verification; and

(3) Such unapproved plant has actually used not less than an equivalent amount of skim milk and butterfat in the use indicated in such statement: Provided, That, if verification of such purchaser's records discloses that an equivalent amount of skim milk and butterfat has not been used in such indicated utilization, the remaining pounds shall be classified in series beginning with the next higher priced classification in which such purchaser had utilization.

§ 931.45 Computation of skim milk and butterfat in each class. For each delivery period, the market administrator shall correct for mathematical and other obvious errors the delivery period report submitted by each handler and shall compute the total pounds of skim milk and butterfat, respectively, in each class for such handler.

§ 931.46 Allocation of skim milk and butterfat classified. After computing pursuant to § 931.45 the classification of all skim milk and butterfat received by a handler, the market administrator shall determine the classification of milk received from producers as follows:

(a) Skim milk shall be allocated in the following manner:

(1) Subtract from the total pounds of skim milk in Class III the pounds of skim milk allocated to shrinkage of producer milk;

(2) Subtract from the remaining pounds of skim milk in each class in series beginning with the lowest priced class in which the handler has use, the pounds of skim milk contained in other source milk;

(3) Subtract from the remaining pounds of skim milk in each class the pounds of skim milk contained in receipts from other handlers in accordance with its classification as determined pursuant to § 931.45;

(4) Add to the remaining pounds of skim milk in Class III the pounds of skim milk subtracted pursuant to subparagraph (1) of this paragraph; and

(5) If the remaining pounds of skim milk in all classes exceed the pounds of skim milk received from producers, an amount equal to the difference shall be subtracted from the pounds of skim milk in each class in series beginning with the lowest priced class in which the handler has use. Any amount so subtracted shall be called "overage."

(b) Butterfat shall be allocated in accordance with the same procedure outlined for skim milk in paragraph (a) of this section.

MINIMUM PRICES

§ 931.50 Class prices. Subject to the provisions of § 931.51, the minimum prices per hundredweight to be paid by each handler for milk received from producers at his plant during the delivery period shall be as follows:

(a) Class I milk. The price for Class II milk for the previous delivery period plus the following premiums during the delivery periods indicated:

January, February, March	$0.80
April, May, June	.60
July through December	1.05

(b) Class II milk. The highest of the prices resulting from the computations made pursuant to subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph or to paragraph (c) of this section:

(1) The average of the basic or field prices reported to have been paid or to be paid for milk of 3.5 percent butterfat content received from farmers during the period beginning with the 16th day of the previous month and ending with the 15th day of the then current month at the following plants for which prices have been reported to the market administrator or to the Department:

Present Operator of Plant and Location of Plant
Amboy Milk Products Co., Amboy, Ill.
Borden Co., Dixon, Ill.
Borden Co., Sterling, Ill.
Carnation Co., Oregon, Ill.
Carnation Co., Morrison, Ill.
United Milk Products Co., Argo Fay, Ill.

(2) The price resulting from the following computations:

(i) Multiply by 6 the simple average as computed by the market administrator, of the daily wholesale selling prices (using the midpoint of any price range as one price) per pound of Grade A (92-score) bulk creamery butter as reported for the Chicago market during the delivery period by the Department;

(ii) Add an amount equal to 2.4 times the average as computed by the market administrator, of the daily wholesale prices of the cheese known as "Twins" as reported for the Chicago market during the delivery period by the Department;

(iii) Divide the resulting sum by 7;

(iv) Add 30 percent thereof; and

(v) Multiply the resulting sum by 3.5.

(c) Class III milk. The sum of the prices resulting from the following computations:

(1) Subtract 6 cents from the price per pound of butter computed pursuant to paragraph (b) (2) (i) of this section and multiply the result by 4.2, and

(2) From the simple average, as computed by the market administrator, of the weighted averages of carlot prices per pound of nonfat dry milk solids, spray and roller process, respectively, in barrels for human consumption, f. o. b. manufacturing plants in the Chicago area as published for the month by the Department, subtract 6½ cents, multiply the result by 8.2 and then multiply the resulting figure by 0.965. If the Department does not publish the above stated price for nonfat dry milk solids there shall be used in lieu thereof the midpoint between the simple averages (using in each price series the midpoint of any price range as one price) as computed by the market administrator, of the weekly Chicago wholesale carlot prices per pound of nonfat dry milk solids in barrels for human consumption, spray and roller process, respectively, as reported within the month by the Department and 8½ cents, rather than 6½ cents, shall be deducted in making this computation.

§ 931.51 Butterfat differentials to handlers. If the average butterfat content of the milk of any handler allocated to any class pursuant to § 931.46 is more or less than 3.5 percent there shall be added to the respective class price computed pursuant to § 931.50 for each one-tenth of 1 percent that the average butterfat content of such milk is above 3.5 percent or subtracted for each one-tenth of 1 percent that the average butterfat content of such milk is below 3.5 percent, an amount equal to the applicable butterfat differential computed as follows:

(a) Class I milk. Multiply by 1.40 the price per pound of butter computed pursuant to § 931.50 (b) (2) (i) for the preceding delivery period and divide the result by 10.

(b) Class II milk. Multiply by 1.20 the price per pound of butter computed pursuant to § 931.50 (b) (2) (i) for the delivery period and divide the result by 10.

(c) Class III milk. From the price per pound of butter computed pursuant to § 931.50 (b) (2) (i) for the devilery period, subtract 6 cents, multiply by 1.20 and divide the result by 10.

§ 931.52 Emergency price provision. Whenever the provisions of this subpart require the market administrator to use a specific price (or prices) for milk or any milk product for the purpose of determining class prices or for any other purpose the market administrator shall add to the specified price the amount of any subsidy or other similar payment being made by any Federal agency, in connection with the milk or product associated with the price specified: Provided, That if for any reason the price specified is not reported or published as indicated, the market administrator shall use the applicable maximum uniform price established by regulations of any Federal agency plus the amount of any subsidy or other similar payment: Provided further, That if the specified price is not reported or published and there is no applicable maximum uniform price, or if the specified price is not reported or published and the Secretary determines that the market price is below the applicable maximum uniform price, the market administrator shall use a price determined by the Secretary to be equivalent to or comparable with the price specified.

APPLICATION OF PROVISIONS

§ 931.55 Producer-handler. Sections 931.40 through 931.52 and 931.60 through 931.76 shall not apply to a producer-handler.

§ 931.56 Handlers subject to other Federal orders. In the case of any handler who the Secretary determines, disposes of a greater portion of his milk as Class I milk in another marketing area regulated by another milk marketing agreement or order issued pursuant to the act, the provisions of this subpart shall not apply except as follows:

(a) The handler shall with respect to his total receipts of skim milk and butterfat make reports to the market administrator at such time and in such manner as the market administrator may require and allow verification of such reports by the market administrator.

(b) If the price which such handler is required to pay, under the other Federal order to which he is subject, for skim milk and butterfat which would be classified as Class I milk under this subpart is less than the price provided by this subpart, such handler shall pay to the market administrator for deposit into the producer-settlement fund (with respect to all skim milk and butterfat disposed of as Class I milk within the marketing area) an amount equal to the difference between the value of such skim milk or butterfat as computed pursuant to this subpart and its value as determined pursuant to the other order to which he is subject.

DETERMINATION OF UNIFORM PRICES

§ 931.60 Computation of value of milk. The value of milk received during each delivery period by each handler from producers shall be a sum of money computed by the market administrator by multiplying the pounds of such milk in each class by the applicable class prices and adding together the resulting amounts: Provided, That if the handler had overage of either skim milk or butterfat there shall be added to the above values an amount computed by multiplying the pounds of overage by the applicable class prices.

§ 931.61 Computation of uniform price. For each delivery period the market administrator shall compute the uniform price per hundredweight for milk of 3.5 percent butterfat content received from producers as follows:

(a) Combine into one total the values computed pursuant to § 931.60 for all handlers who made the reports prescribed by § 931.30 and who made the payments pursuant to § 931.65 for the preceding delivery period;

(b) Add not less than one-half of the cash balance on hand in the producer-settlement fund less the total amount of the contingent obligations to handlers pursuant to § 931.67.

(c) Subtract, if the average butterfat content of the milk included in these computations is greater than 3.5 percent, or add, if such average butterfat content is less than 3.5 percent an amount computed by: Multiplying the amount by which the average butterfat content of such milk varies from 3.5 percent by the butterfat differential computed pursuant to § 931.66 and mutiplying the resulting figure by the total hundredweight of such milk;

(d) Divide the resulting amount by the total hundredweight of milk included in these computations; and

(e) Subtract not less than 4 cents nor more than 5 cents from the amount computed pursuant to paragraph (d) of this section. The resulting figure shall be the uniform price for milk of 3.5 percent butterfat content received from producers.

§ 931.62 Notification of handlers. On or before the 10th day after the end of each delivery period, the market administrator shall mail to each handler at his last known address, a statement showing:

(a) The classification and value of the milk received from producers by such handler.

(b) The applicable class prices and the uniform price; and

(c) The amount due such handler or the amount to be paid by such handler as the case may be pursuant to §§ 931.68 and 931.69.

PAYMENT FOR MILK

§ 931.65 Time and method of payment. Each handler shall make payment as follows:

(a) On or before the 15th day after the end of the delivery period during which the milk was received to each producer for milk, except that for which payment is made to a cooperative association pursuant to paragraph (b) of this section, at not less than the uniform price computed pursuant to § 931.61 subject to the butterfat differential computed pursuant to § 931.66.

(b) On or before the 12th day after the end of the delivery period during which the milk was received, to a cooperative association for milk caused to be delivered to such handler from producers by the cooperative association, if the cooperative association is authorized to collect payment for such milk and if it so requests, an amount equal to not less than the sum of the individual payments otherwise payable to such producers.

§ 931.66 Producer butterfat differential. In making payments pursuant to § 931.65 there shall be added to or subtracted from the uniform price for each one-tenth of one percent that the average butterfat content of the milk received from producers is above or below 3.5 percent, an amount computed by multiplying by 1.20 the price per pound of butter computed pursuant to § 931.50 (b) (2) (i) for the delivery period, dividing the resulting sum by 10, and adjusting to the nearest one-tenth cent.

§ 931.67 Producer-settlement fund. The market administrator shall establish and maintain a separate fund known as the producer-settlement fund into which he shall deposit all payments made by handlers pursuant to § 931.68 and out of which he shall make all payments to handlers pursuant to § 931.69.

§ 931.68 Payments to the producer-settlement fund. On or before the 12th day after the end of each delivery period, each handler shall pay to the market administrator the amount by which the utilization value of the milk received by such handler from producers during such delivery period is greater than the amount required to be paid producers by such handler pursuant to § 931.65.

§ 931.69 Payments out of the producer-settlement fund. On or before the 12th day after the end of each delivery period, the market administrator shall pay to each handler the amount by which the utilization value of the milk received by such handler from producers during the delivery period is less than the amount required to be paid producers by such handler pursuant to § 931.65: Provided, That if the balance in the producer-settlement fund is insufficient to make all payments pursuant to this paragraph, the market administrator shall reduce uniformly the payments to all handlers and shall complete such payments as soon as the necessary funds are available. No handler who has not received the balance of such payments from the market administrator shall be considered in violation of § 931.65 if he reduces his payments to producers by not more than the amount of the reduction in payment from the producer-settlement fund.

§ 931.70 Adjustment of accounts. Whenever audit by the market administrator of any handler's reports, books, records or accounts discloses errors resulting in moneys due (a) the market administrator from such handler, (b) such handler from the market administrator, or (c) any producer or cooperative association from such handler, the market administrator shall promptly notify such handler of any amount so due, and payment thereof shall be made on or before the next date for making payment set forth in the provision under which such error occurred.

§ 931.71 Termination of obligations. The provisions of this section shall apply to any obligation under this subpart for the payment of money irrespective of when such obligation arose.

(a) The obligation of any handler to pay money required to be paid under the terms of this subpart shall, except as provided in paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section, terminate two years after the last day of the calendar month during which the market administrator receives the handler's utilization report on the milk involved in such obligation, unless within such two-year period the market administrator notifies the handler in writing that such money is due and payable. Service of such notice shall be complete upon mailing to the handler's last known address, and it shall contain, but need not be limited to, the following information:

(1) The amount of the obligation;

(2) The delivery period(s) during which the milk with respect to which the obligation exists was received or handled; and

(3) If the obligation is payable to one or more producers or to a cooperative association, the name of such producer(s) or cooperative association, or if the obligation is payable to the market administrator, the account for which it is to be paid.

(b) If a handler fails or refuses, with respect to any obligation under this subpart, to make available to the market administrator all books and records required by this subpart to be made available, the market administrator may, within the two year period provided for in paragraph (a) of this section, notify the handler in writing of such failure or refusal. If the market administrator so notifies a handler, the said two year period with respect to such obligation shall not begin to run until the first day of the calendar month following the delivery period during which all such books and records pertaining to such obligations are made available to the market administrator.

(c) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section, a handler's obligation under this subpart to pay money shall not be terminated with respect to any transaction involving fraud or willful concealment of a fact, material to the obligation on the part of the handler against whom the obligation is sought to be imposed.

(d) Any obligation on the part of the market administrator to pay a handler any money which such handler claims to be due him under the terms of this subpart shall terminate two years after the end of the calendar month, during which the milk involved in the claim was received if an underpayment is claimed, or two years after the end of the calendar month during which the payment (including deduction or set-off by the market administrator) was made by the handler if a refund on such payment is claimed unless the handler, within the applicable period of time, pursuant to section 8c (15) (A) of the act, files a petition claiming such money.

OTHER PAYMENTS

§ 931.75 Expense of administration. As his pro rata share of the expense of administration of this subpart, each handler shall pay to the market administrator on or before the 12th day after the end of each delivery period, 4 cents per hundredweight, or such lesser amount as the Secretary from time to time may prescribe with respect to all milk received within the delivery period from producers (including such handler's own production) and with respect to all other source milk classified as Class I.

§ 931.76 Marketing services. (a) Except as set forth in paragraph (b) of this section each handler, in making payments to producers (other than himself) pursuant to § 931.65 shall deduct 5 cents per hundredweight or such lesser amount as the Secretary from time to time may prescribe, and shall pay such deductions to the market administrator on or before the 12th day after the end of such delivery period. Such moneys shall be used by the market administrator to check weights of, sample, and test milk received from producers and to provide producers with market information.

(b) In the case of producers for whom a cooperative association is actually performing the services set forth in paragraph (a) of this section, each handler shall make, in lieu of the deductions specified in paragraph (a) of this section, such deductions from the payments to be made to such producers as may be authorized by the membership agreement or marketing contract between such cooperative association and such producers and on or before the 12th day after the end of such delivery period pay such deductions to the cooperative association rendering such services.

EFFECTIVE TIME, SUSPENSION OR TERMINATION

§ 931.80 Effective time. The provisions of this subpart, or any amendment to this subpart, shall become effective at such time as the Secretary may declare and shall continue in force until suspended or terminated.

§ 931.81 Suspension or termination. The Secretary shall, whenever he finds that, this subpart, or any provision of this subpart obstructs or does not tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act, terminate or suspend the operation of this subpart or any such provisions of this subpart.

§ 931.82 Continuing obligations. If upon the suspension or termination of any or all provisions of this subpart, there are any obligations under this subpart the final accrual or ascertainment of which requires further acts by any person (including the market administrator), such further acts shall be performed notwithstanding such suspension or termination.

§ 931.83 Liquidation. Upon the suspension or termination of the provisions of this subpart, except this section, the liquidating agent shall, if so directed by the Secretary, liquidate the business of the market administrator's office, dispose of all property in his possession or control, including accounts receivable, and execute and deliver all assignments or other instruments necessary or appropriate to effectuate any such disposition. If a liquidating agent is so designated all assets, books and records of the market administrator shall be transferred promptly to such liquidating agent. If upon such liquidation, the funds on hand exceed the amounts required to pay outstanding obligations of the office of the market administrator and to pay necessary expenses of liquidation and distribution, such excess shall be distributed to contributing handlers and producers in an equitable manner.

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

§ 931.90 Agents. The Secretary may, by designation in writing, name any officer or employee of the United States to act as his agent or representative in connection with any of the provisions of this subpart.

§ 931.91 Separability of provisions. If any provision of this subpart or its application to any person or circumstance, is held invalid, the application of such provision and of the remaining provisions of this subpart, to other persons or circumstances shall not be affected thereby.

PART 934—MILK IN LOWELL-LAWRENCE, MASS., MARKETING AREA

PART 996—MILK IN SPRINGFIELD, MASS., MARKETING AREA

PART 999—MILK IN WORCESTER, MASS., MARKETING AREA

DETERMINATION OF EQUIVALENT WAGE RATES

The monthly composite farm wage rates reported by the United States Department of Agriculture for Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, and Vermont are used pursuant to § 934.40 (c) (2) of the order regulating the handling of milk in the Lowell-Lawrence, Massachusetts, marketing area; § 996.7 (a) (3) (ii) of the order regulating the handling of milk in the Springfield, Massachusetts, marketing area; and § 999.7 (a) (3) (ii) of the order regulating the handling of milk in the Worcester, Massachusetts, marketing area. The publication of these specified wage rates has been discontinued by the United States Department of Agriculture.

The respective orders provide that if a wage rate, specified by those orders for use in computing class prices, is not reported or published in the manner described in the respective orders, the market administrator shall use a wage rate determined by the Secretary to be equivalent to or comparable with the wage rate which is specified (§§ 934.44, 996.7 (e), and 999.7 (e) of the respective orders).

Pursuant to the applicable provisions of the respective orders and on the basis of available information, including evidence presented at the public hearings held at Andover, Massachusetts, April 11 and 14, 1951, at Springfield, Massachusetts, April 9, 1951, and at Worcester, Massachusetts, April 10, 1951, on issues which included the consideration of a method for determining equivalent wage rates in any circumstance in which the specified wage rates are not reported, it is hereby found and determined that the wage rates equivalent to or comparable with the monthly composite farm wage rates for each of the States of Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, and Vermont shall be determined as follows:

Divide by 1.0743 the simple average of the monthly equivalents of the farm wage rates listed below. Monthly equivalents shall be determined by converting the rates reported by the United States Department of Agriculture as follows: rate per month with board and room, 1; rate per month with house, 1; rate per week with board and room, 4.33; rate per week without board or room, 4.33; and rate per day without board or room, 26.

In accordance with section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.), it is hereby found and determined that notice and public procedure with respect to this determination, and the postponement of the effective date of this determination until 30 days after publication thereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER, are impracticable, unnecessary, and contrary to public interest in that (1) the equivalent wage rate must become effective prior to July 25, 1951, in order to facilitate, promote, and maintain orderly marketing of milk for the Lowell-Lawrence, Springfield, and the Worcester, Massachusetts, marketing areas, (2) the changes effected by this determination do not require any preparation by the persons affected prior to the effective date, and (3) the aforesaid public hearings at Andover, Springfield, and Worcester, Massachusetts, dealt with such issues.

(Sec. 5, 49 Stat. 753, as amended; 7 U. S. C. and Sup., 608c)

Issued at Washington, D. C., this 23d day of July 1951, to become effective July 25, 1951, and to continue in effect until October 1, 1951.

[SEAL] C. J. McCORMICK,
Acting Secretary of Agriculture.

§ 115.2 Period for which admitted. An agricultural worker may be admitted to, or permitted to remain in, the United States as a temporary visitor for business pursuant to section 3 (2) of the Immigration Act of 1924: Provided:

(a) That the initial period of admission shall not exceed six months, and in any event shall not extend beyond December 31, 1953, nor shall any extension be granted which would permit an agricultural worker to remain in the United States beyond December 31, 1953;

§ 115.7 Previous deportation; permission to reapply. An alien who established that he is in all respects entitled to admission as an agricultural worker under the provisions of this part, except that he has been previously excluded or arrested and deported on not more than one occasion solely because of illegal entry or absence of required documents, is hereby granted permission to reapply for admission to the United States: Provided, That in the case of such an alien who has been arrested and deported, such permission to reapply shall not become effective unless and until the alien has resided outside the United States for at least one year after deportation.

§ 115.8 Arrest and deportation of agricultural workers. (a) An alien admitted to or permitted to remain in the United States as an agricultural worker shall be deemed to have remained in the United States for a longer time than permitted under law and regulations within

SUBPART B—PROCEDURAL AND OTHER NONSUBSTANTIVE PROVISIONS

§ 115.11 Recruitment centers; preliminary inspection. To the extent possible under the circumstances, all immigration inspections and medical examinations of the agricultural workers at recruitment centers in Mexico shall be similar to those regularly conducted at ports of entry on the border. If the immigration officer at the recruitment center in Mexico determines that the alien is admissible as an agricultural worker he shall so endorse and initial the conditional permit which is issued to the alien by the Department of Labor when the alien is recruited. Such endorsement shall not be construed as a guarantee that the alien will be admitted to the United States nor shall the alien be entitled to accept employment in the United States unless and until he has been issued Form I–100 as prescribed in § 115.12. Aliens who have been issued conditional permits, which have been endorsed by immigration officers will be conveyed directly from the recruitment center to a reception center at or near a port of entry under the supervision of officers of the Department of Labor for completion of immigration inspection and registration pursuant to the Alien Registration Act, 1940, as amended. The conveyance of an agricultural worker to a reception center shall not constitute an admission to the United States. Such alien shall be considered to have been admitted to the United States only after he has been inspected and issued Form I–100 as prescribed in § 115.12. If the immigration officer at the recruitment center in Mexico determines that the alien is inadmissible as an agricultural worker, he shall refuse to endorse the alien's conditional permit and such decision by the immigration officer shall not be subject to review by a board of special inquiry.

§ 115.12 Immigration inspection at reception centers; authority to admit; hearings before board of special inquiry. (a) Any alien who presents the conditional permit described in § 115.11, duly endorsed by an immigration officer at a recruitment center, who is found to be admissible under this part as an agricultural worker may be so admitted by the examining immigration inspector, at which time he shall—

(1) Be fingerprinted as follows:

(i) By placing the rolled impression of the right index finger on the reverse side of the original Form I–100, Alien Laborer's Permit and Identification Card, which shall be prepared in duplicate in each such case;

(ii) By placing complete fingerprints of both hands on one copy of Form AR–4; and

(iii) By executing the obverse of Form AR–4 and placing thereon the serial number of the Form I–100 and a stamped notation reading "Admitted as agricultural worker"; the executed form shall be mailed direct to the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Washington 25, D. C.

(2) Be given the original Form I–100 bearing his photograph and stating his name, place of birth and citizenship, duly endorsed by an immigrant inspector to show the date, place, and period of his admission into the United States and signed by said immigrant inspector across the bottom of the photograph, partly on the photograph and partly on the card. The duplicate Form I–100 shall be forwarded to and retained by the officer in charge of the district having jurisdiction over the port of the alien's entry.

(3) The foregoing shall be deemed to be in compliance with the provisions of Title III of the Alien Registration Act, 1940, as amended, relating to the registration of aliens.

(b) Any alien seeking admission under this part in whose case the examining immigrant inspector at the reception center is not satisfied that such alien is admissible, shall be held for hearing before a board of special inquiry, and the procedure applicable to aliens seeking admission to the United States under the general provision of the immigration laws shall be followed: Provided, however, That the case of an alien believed to be inadmissible to the United States under the provisions of section 1 of the act of October 16, 1918, as amended, shall be handled in accordance with the provisions of section 5 of the said act and Part 174 of this chapter.

§ 115.13 Adjustment of status of certain agricultural workers in the United States. The case of any alien who presents at a reception center a conditional permit described in § 115.11 who is found to be eligible to remain in the United States as an agricultural worker, who has been lawfully admitted to the United States, or who has resided in the United States for at least five years, shall be handled in accordance with the provisions of § 115.12 (a). Such an alien who is found to be ineligible to remain in the United States as an agricultural worker shall not be held for hearing before a board of special inquiry, but his case shall be handled under the general provisions of the immigration laws and regulations relating to aliens in the United States.

§ 115.14 Recontracting in the United States. During the period for which he is admitted, or any authorized extension thereof, an agricultural worker may, with the approval of the officer in charge of the district having jurisdiction over the place of the alien's employment, be recontracted by the same or another employer. When an agricultural worker is so recontracted, his Form I–100 shall be appropriately endorsed and the officer in charge of the port of the alien's entry notified.

§ 115.15 Extension of period of admission. Extension of the temporary admission of an alien admitted or permitted to remain in the United States as an agricultural worker under this part may be granted by the officer in charge of the district having jurisdiction over the place of the alien's employment only upon determination and certification by the Secretary of Labor that:

(a) Sufficient domestic workers who are able, willing, and qualified are not available at the time and place needed to perform the work for which such workers are to be employed;

(b) The employment of such workers will not adversely affect the wages and working conditions of domestic agricultural workers similarly employed; and

(c) Reasonable efforts have been made to attract domestic workers for such employment at wages and standard hours of work comparable to those offered to foreign workers.

§ 115.16 Duplicate identification cards. A duplicate Form I–100 may be issued in the discretion of the officer in charge of the district having jurisdiction over the place of alien's employment where the original has been lost, mutilated, or destroyed. The officer in charge at the port of the alien's entry shall be notified of the issuance of such a duplicate Form I–100.

This order shall become effective on the date of its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The regulations prescribed by the order are necessary to carry out the purpose of Public Law 78, 82d Congress, which became effective on July 12, 1951. Compliance with the provisions of section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act (60 Stat. 238; 5 U. S. C. 1003) relative to notice of proposed rule making and delayed effective date is impracticable and contrary to public interest in this instance, since such compliance would unduly delay and impede the administration and enforcement of the immigration laws.

BENJAMIN G. HABBERTON,
Acting Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization.

Approved: July 23, 1951.

Acting Attorney General.

TITLE 32A—NATIONAL DEFENSE, APPENDIX

[General Ceiling Price Regulation, Supp. Reg. 46]

GCPR, SR 46—ADJUSTMENTS IN CEILING PRICES FOR CERTAIN QUANTITIES OF REFINED COPPER SOLD BY REFINERS WHO USE IMPORTED RAW MATERIALS

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950 (Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.), as amended, Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2 (16 F. R. 738), this Supplementary Regulation to the General Ceiling Price Regulation is hereby issued.

Statement of considerations. This supplementary regulation increases the ceiling price which copper refiners may charge for certain quantities of refined copper.

Refiners and smelters in the United States ordinarily purchase from foreign sources copper bearing raw materials which they convert into refined copper. They also convert, on a service basis, similar imported materials owned by other persons. The imported raw materials purchased by these refiners are customarily paid for on the basis of the value of their recoverable copper content, measured in terms of the prevailing price for refined copper of foreign origin, less a treatment or conversion charge. The refiners thus do not profit from increases in the price of copper itself and ordinarily they protect themselves against loss from a reduction in such price by selling each month, at commensurate prices, a quantity of refined copper equivalent to the recoverable copper content of the imported raw materials they have purchased.

The ceiling price established under the General Ceiling Price Regulation for sales of refined copper by most domestic refiners is 24½ cents per pound and during the base period of that regulation (December 19, 1950 to January 25, 1951, inclusive) they were paying for their imported raw materials on substantially the same basis. As the result of an agreement between the United States and Chile, the price for refined copper of foreign origin increased about 3 cents per pound over the level which had prevailed during the base period and since May 21, 1951, domestic refiners of imported raw materials have been required by their contracts to pay prices reflecting this increase. Since there has been no change in domestic ceiling prices for refined copper they have not been able to recover the increase in costs which they have sustained.

It appears that the refiners cannot absorb this increase and if appropriate relief is not granted, substantial quantities of needed copper are likely to be diverted from the United States. Information submitted to the Office of Price Stabilization indicates that in 1950 approximately 330,000 tons of copper was recovered from imported raw materials, compared to domestic mine production of 940,000 tons, and that in the first three months of 1951 about 65,500 tons of copper was recovered from such materials. In view of the critical shortage of copper, it is obvious that the loss of this tonnage would have a serious adverse effect upon the defense program and the civilian economy.

In order to avoid any interruption in the flow of these vitally needed materials to the United States, this supplementary regulation permits domestic refiners who purchase imported copper bearing raw materials to sell, at a ceiling price of 27½ cents per pound for base grade, a quantity of refined copper equivalent to the recoverable copper content of such materials purchased since May 21, 1951, and for which they have made payment on the basis of the prices prevailing on and after May 21, 1951. The considerations which justify this action pertain as well to persons who sell refined copper which they have had processed from imported raw materials on a toll or conversion basis and this regulation also applies to their sales.

This regulation also requires persons to whom it applies to file appropriate reports to enable the Office of Price Stabilization to check the quantity of copper-bearing raw materials imported and the quantity of refined copper sold at the ceiling prices authorized herein.

In the judgment of the Director of Price Stabilization, the provisions of this supplementary regulation are generally fair and equitable and are necessary to effectuate the purposes of the Defense Production Act of 1950.

In formulating this regulation, the Director consulted with industry representatives to the extent practicable under existing circumstances and has given consideration to their recommendations.

[Ceiling Price Regulation 13, Supplementary Regulation 1]

CPR 13—RETAIL CEILINGS ON PETROLEUM PRODUCTS

SR 1—RETAIL MARGINS ON GASOLINE IN THE COUNTIES OF ORANGE AND LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950 (Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.), as amended, Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2 (16 F. R. 738), this Supplementary Regulation 1 to Ceiling Price Regulation 13 (16 F. R. 2626) is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This supplementary regulation to Ceiling Price Regulation 13, provides a special pricing method for retail sellers of motor gasoline in Los Angeles and Orange Counties of California. These two counties produce 36 per cent of the crude oil supply of the Pacific Coast, have approximately 25 refineries representing 59 per cent of the five Western states' refining capacity, and distribute gasoline through over 9,500 retail service station outlets. The gasoline sold by them supplies about 3.5 to 4 per cent of the total United States gasoline demand, and fully 35 per cent of the demand for this product in the Pacific Coast states. The magnitude of this operation indicates that any interruption in the flow of gasoline from refineries to the motoring public through the medium of retail establishments could be damaging to the defense effort.

The coincident inauguration of price control with the ending of a "price war" which had been in existence in this area resulted in the freezing at abnormally low levels of retail margins of a large segment of these retail establishments. It is the purpose of this supplementary regulation to restore to this segment its normal margin of 4½¢ per gallon on regular grade gasoline, with customary differentials for premium and third grade gasolines. This 4½¢ margin for regular grade gasoline has customarily existed in this area since 1948 and while it is available under present provisions of Ceiling Price Regulation 13 to the majority of retail establishments in this area, it is not uniform.

A survey of the area involved by the Retail Advisory Committee and the Regional Petroleum Consultant establishes that the customary differential between suppliers' tank truck prices or dealers' laid down cost and the retail price is 4½¢ per gallon on regular grade gasoline and 5¢ per gallon on premium grade. Information has been secured which shows that approximately 94 percent of the volume in this area customarily is sold at these margins. During the "price war" period, however, approximately 20 percent of the total retailers were obliged to sell at margins from 3 to 3½¢ per gallon.

Inasmuch as normal margins were not possible of attainment for this segment in the base period and the 4¢ margin provision available under section 8 (a) (1) is not equivalent to the normal margin, the Los Angeles dealers have petitioned to be relieved from the resultant margin squeeze. The requested margin of 4½¢ per gallon for regular grade gasoline compares with the average margin in the United States of 4.89¢ per gallon as reported by the June 6, 1951 issue of National Petroleum News, and compares with other margins on the Pacific Coast of 4.8¢ per gallon at San Francisco, 5¢ per gallon at Reno, 5.5¢ per gallon at Portland, and 5¢ per gallon at Spokane. Not only is this margin, therefore, consistent with margins in other areas of the United States, but it is reasonable as related to costs on the basis of information which was obtained and filed in connection with the survey made by the Office of Price Stabilization.

Although the survey of retail prices in these counties indicated a normal retail margin of 4½¢ per gallon on regular grade and 5¢ per gallon on premium grade gasoline, petitioners have asked for a spelled out margin only for regular grade gasoline while for premium grade they suggest following the wording of Ceiling Price Regulation 13. Specifically, they ask for 4½¢ per gallon to be added to the tank wagon price or laid down cost for regular grade gasoline, plus or minus the customary retail differential for premium and third grade gasoline.

It is alleged by the petitioners and supported by the evidence that adoption of the recommendation will have no significant effect upon the current retail price level at about 90 percent of the sales outlets in the Los Angeles basin. The effect, however, upon sales of 6 to 10 percent of the volume will be to increase prices to the consumers to the extent of 1¢ to 1½¢ per gallon. It has also been alleged and supported by evidence that unless ceiling price relief of the type petitioned for is granted, this segment of sellers will disappear from the market. In recognition of the need to correct the price inequity and to restore the customary margin of this segment of sellers in this area, this supplementary regulation is issued.

FINDINGS OF THE DIRECTOR OF PRICE STABILIZATION

In the judgment of the Director of Price Stabilization, the prices established by this supplementary regulation are generally fair and equitable and are necessary to effectuate the purposes of Title IV of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended.

[Ceiling Price Regulation 17, Supplementary Regulation 1]

SR 1—SALES OF GASOLINE IN CERTAIN AREAS OF CALIFORNIA

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950 (Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.), as amended, Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2 (16 F. R. 738), this Supplementary Regulation 1 to Ceiling Price Regulation 17 (16 F. R. 2626) is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This supplementary regulation to Ceiling Price Regulation 17 establishes dollars-and-cents prices for tank wagon and "rack" sales of automotive gasoline in the Los Angeles Basin area of the State of California. The prices normally charged by wholesalers of motor gasoline in this area for tank wagon sales have been at substantially uniform prices for several years antedating the issuance of Ceiling Price Regulation 17. Similarly, there is a substantial volume of automotive gasoline sold at the refineries or refinery facilities at a customary differential below the prevailing tank wagon price for the area involved. For convenience in terminology, this type of discount transaction is referred to as the sale of "rack gasoline" or "rack price gasoline." This gasoline is sold either f. o. b. the refinery with transportation provided by the ultimate consumer or buyer, or is sold on a delivered-at-destination basis which consists of the "rack price" plus customary transportation charges.

Examination of prices on "rack transactions" back to 1948 shows that the customary level has been from 2.0¢ to 2.7¢ per gallon below the prevailing tank wagon price in each area involved, and that the weighted average discount has been 2.5¢ per gallon off tank wagon. However, the retail price war which broke out in Los Angeles basin early in 1950 caused "rack prices" also to weaken, and the Office of Price Stabilization regulations froze these "rack prices" at 3¢ to 3½¢ below tank wagon ceiling prices. Thus the discounts on "rack prices," as frozen into the area price structure, are from ½¢ to 1.0¢ per gallon below the normal differentials.

It is the purpose of this supplementary regulation to restore the customary differential between the tank wagon price and the "rack price" in order to relieve the sellers who now have their ceilings frozen at abnormally low levels.

The ceiling price relief to be afforded by this supplementary regulation is essential to the maintenance of gasoline supplies through customary channels of distribution. With the depletion of gasoline inventories in late 1950 and early 1951 and the resultant tight supply situation on gasoline currently existing in the Pacific Coast, many re-sellers of gasoline are having extreme difficulty in securing their requirements of the product.

The customary pricing practice on the Pacific Coast is to relate prices for deliveries other than by tank wagon in terms of discounts or premiums over or under the tank wagon price. It is, therefore, essential to establish, coincident with the restoration of the normal differential for "rack" transactions, the prevailing tank wagon price in the area involved as the ceiling price. Evidence is on file to show that the posted tank wagon price of sellers in this area is the prevailing price and, because of the existence of uniform prices, the establishment of dollars and cents prices is facilitated. The tank wagon prices which are spelled out by this supplementary regulation were in effect in the latter part of 1950, and are regarded by the Pacific Coast Industry Advisory Committee as fair and equitable. Moreover, the establishment of dollars and cents ceiling prices for tank wagon deliveries is in accordance with the announced policy of this agency to establish specific ceiling prices, which situation is desirable from the standpoint of the consuming public, sellers, and the government.

FINDINGS OF THE DIRECTOR OF PRICE STABILIZATION

In the judgment of the Director of Price Stabilization, the prices established by this supplementary regulation are at the minimum levels which will permit the continued supply of gasoline, are generally fair and equitable, and are necessary to effectuate the purposes of Title IV of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended.

REGULATORY PROVISIONS

SECTION 1. Applicability of supplementary regulation. This supplementary regulation sets specific prices for tank wagon sales of regular, automotive and marine gasoline in the Los Angeles basin area, and sets a specific 2.5¢ differential in sales of "rack gasoline."

SEC. 2. Definitions. When used in the supplementary regulation, the term "Los Angeles basin" means that area enclosed by a line beginning at the southerly limits of Laguna Beach, extending north to Irvine, thence northerly to base of Sierra Madre mountains at Altadena, thence along Foothill Boulevard to intersection of San Fernando Road and Foothill Boulevard, including the site of the Newhall Refinery, thence southwesterly to north boundary of Malibu Beach and Pacific Ocean, thence southeasterly along shoreline of Pacific Ocean to point of commencement.

400 and over gallons	20.0

(c) Third grade gasoline in the aforesaid area shall be the price for regular grade gasoline as listed in paragraph (a) of this section, minus each seller's customary differential between regular and third grade gasolines delivered by tank wagon.

SEC. 4. Rack gasoline. The ceiling price for regular grade gasoline f.o.b. refineries or refinery facilities to that class of purchaser buying "rack price gasoline" in the Los Angeles basin shall be 2.5¢ per gallon below the specified tank wagon ceiling price for quantities as established in section 3 of this regulation. For "delivery-at-destination" sales of rack price gasoline there may be added to the f.o.b. refineries ceiling prices established by this section the seller's customary transportation charge. For premium grades of gasoline, the seller's customary wholesale differential between regular and premium grades may be added. For third grade gasoline the seller's customary wholesale differential between regular and third grade gasoline shall be deducted.

Effective date. This supplementary regulation shall become effective on the 31st day of July, 1951.

[General Overriding Regulation 2, Amendment 2]

GOR 2—SALES TO THE UNITED STATES

OFFICE OF RUBBER RESERVE, RECONSTRUCTION FINANCE CORPORATION

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950 (Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.), Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2 (16 F. R. 738), this General Overriding Regulation 2, Amendment 2, is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This Amendment 2 to General Overriding Regulation 2 establishes ceiling prices for certain sales to the Office of Rubber Reserve, Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Through its Office of Rubber Reserve, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation has since 1942 performed the functions of the Government with respect to the production and sale of synthetic rubber, the conduct of research and development related to synthetic rubber, and the repair, maintenance, and improvement of the Government-owned plants employed in such activities. The level of operations is currently established and designed to fulfill military and essential civilan needs. Such operations involve the production or purchase of numerous materials and services under various types of contracts from many operators, contractors, and suppliers, some of whom are engaged in other activities. The form of agreement generally used is a cost-plus-fixed-fee type of contract, in which the fee schedule for a particular type of service is essentially uniform throughout the synthetic rubber program conducted by the Office of Rubber Reserve, Reconstruction Finance Corporation. In other instances a fixed price or pricing formula method is used.

Prior to the issuance of the General Ceiling Price Regulation in January, the Office of Rubber Reserve, Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and its operators, contractors, and suppliers were engaged in negotiating new contracts which the Office of Rubber Reserve, Reconstruction Finance Corporation, had agreed in many cases should be retroactive to a date prior to the imposition of price control. However, because of the multitude of activities and parties involved, the complex nature of some of the agreements, and the necessity for substantial changes in certain arrangements, it was not practical or possible between the time Congress extended the Rubber Act on June 24, 1950, and the issuance of the General Ceiling Price Regulation on January 26, 1951, for the Office of Rubber Reserve, Reconstruction Finance Corporation, to make the necessary adjustments to existing contracts and to conclude all negotiations. Thus, when the General Ceiling Price Regulation was issued, some contracts had not been finally executed and were prevented from being put into effect. In order to accomplish the objectives of the synthetic rubber program, negotiations undertaken by the Office of Rubber Reserve, Reconstruction Finance Corporation, prior to and during the base period must be recognized and validated.

The Office of Rubber Reserve, Reconstruction Finance Corporation, has advised that at the time the present prices for GR-S and Butyl rubber were established in December 1950, it took into account, insofar as possible, the prices then in the process of being negotiated with its various contractors as well as certain anticipated increases in salaries and wages. It has also stated that in its opinion the ceiling prices established by this regulation, together with the exemptions granted under Ceiling Price Regulation 17, will not, in themselves, in the light of existing prices, regulations, and conditions, result in the necessity of further increasing the price of GR-S or Butyl rubber, inasmuch as the prices established by this regulation and known prices established under said Regulation 17 were contemplated when the present prices for GR-S and Butyl rubber were established. However, the Government's synthetic rubber program administered by the Office of Rubber Reserve, Reconstruction Finance Corporation, is essential to the national defense and must be conducted without loss to the Government, and this or any other regulation is not intended to prevent the filing of an application for an increase in the sales price of synthetic rubber sold by the Office of Rubber Reserve, Reconstruction Finance Corporation, in order to prevent any loss from the conduct of the program.

This regulation does not impose a ceiling price on any commodity or service which heretofore has been exempt from price control.

In the judgment of the Director of Price Stabilization, this action is necessary to achieve the objectives of the Defense Production Act of 1950 and will not have any material effect upon the cost of living or upon the general level of prices.

AMENDATORY PROVISIONS

DFO 2—PROCESSED FRUITS AND VEGETABLES: SET ASIDE REQUIREMENTS

SO 1—CANNED VEGETABLES; SET ASIDE REQUIREMENTS

It is hereby found and determined that the provisions of this amendatory order are necessary and appropriate to promote the national defense; and it is, therefore, made effective pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended (Pub. Law 744, 81st Cong., approved September 8, 1950; Pub. Law 69, 82d Cong., approved June 30, 1951) and delegations of authority thereunder.[1] In the formulation of this amendment there has been consultation with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, and consideration has been given to their recommendations.

The purpose of this amendment is to modify the percentages of the base packs of canned vegetables that are used in determining the quantities of such canned vegetables to be set aside and reserved out of 1951 packs, for requirements of Government agencies. These modifications are made necessary by (1) significant variation in the sizes of base packs reported by processors as compared with sizes estimated prior to the issuance of Sub-Order No. 1, (2) minor revisions in the requirements of Government agencies, and (3) shifts in requirements among the canned vegetables covered by the set-aside order.

These changes are accomplished by means of a revision of Column B of Table I; and for the purpose of ready reference, the entire table is set forth reflecting these revisions.

Defense Food Order 2, Sub-Order 1 (16 F. R. 3346) is hereby amended by revising Table I, set forth in section 4, Table I—Canned vegetables: Set aside percentages and preferences with respect to style of pack, grade, and container sizes and types, to read as follows:

TITLE 47—TELECOMMUNICATION

Chapter I—Federal Communications Commission

[Docket No. 9954]

PART 7—COASTAL AND MARINE RELAY SERVICES

PART 8—SHIP SERVICE

MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

In the matter of amendment of § 7.58 (c) of Part 7, and § 8.81 (c) of Part 8 of the Commission's rules governing Coastal and Marine Relay Services, and Ship Service, respectively; Docket No. 9954.

At a session of the Federal Communications Commission held at its offices in Washington, D. C., on the 18th day of July 1951;

The Commission having under consideration its proposal to amend § 7.58 (c) of Part 7, and § 8.81 (c) of Part 8 of the Commission's rules governing Coastal and Marine Relay Services, and Ship Service, respectively to make available additional locations at which frequencies in the 2–3.5 megacycle band may be used by coastal-harbor and ship radiotelephone stations (under certain specific conditions); and

It appearing, that proposed rule-making in this regard was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on May 5, 1951 (16 F. R. 4139) and that the period in which interested persons were afforded an opportunity to submit comments has expired; and

It further appearing, that all comments received were generally favorable to the proposed amendment but that one comment recommended that the frequency 2572 kilocycles be made available for use by coastal-harbor stations at New Orleans, Louisiana as well as Mobile, Alabama, and a second comment recommended that certain additional frequencies in the 2–3.5 megacycle band, namely, 2009, 2366, 3242.5, and 3322.5 kilocycles, be made available for use by coastal-harbor stations located at Galveston, Texas, and New Orleans, Louisiana; and

It further appearing, that the public interest, convenience and necessity would not be served by making the frequency 2572 kilocycles available for assignment for use by a coastal-harbor station at New Orleans, Louisiana, because the use of this frequency by a coastal-harbor station at New Orleans, Louisiana, would cause harmful interference to the service of duly authorized United States government stations; and

It further appearing, that the frequencies 2009, 2366, 3242.5, and 3322.5 kilocycles are not, under the Commission's rules and regulations available for assignment for use by stations in the maritime mobile service as are the frequencies which are the subject of this rule-making proceeding; and

It further appearing, that on June 13, 1951, the Commission adopted a Report and Order in Docket 9797 which established revised versions of Parts 7 and 8 entitled Rules Governing Stations on Land in the Maritime Services, and Rules Governing Stations on Shipboard in the Maritime Services, respectively, effective July 23, 1951, and which repealed present Parts 7 and 8 of the Commission's rules governing Coastal and Marine Relay Services, and Ship Service, respectively, effective July 23, 1951; and

It further appearing, that revised Parts 7 and 8 should be amended to reflect the changes herein ordered in present Parts 7 and 8; and

It further appearing, that public interest, convenience, and necessity will be served by the adoption of the amendments herein ordered and authority therefore is contained in sections 301 and 303 (c), (f), and (r) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended; and

It further appearing, that the amendments to §§ 7.58 (c) and 8.81 (c) herein ordered may be made effective immediately since they relieve a restriction which would otherwise be applicable and permit the processing of certain applications now on file with the Commission;

It is ordered, That effective immediately, §§ 7.58 (c) and 8.81 (c) of the Commission's rules are amended as set forth in Appendix I, below;

It is further ordered, That effective July 23, 1951, §§ 7.306 (b) and 8.354 (a) (1) of Parts 7 and 8 of the Commission's rules governing Stations on Land in the Maritime Services, and Rules Governing Stations on Shipboard in the Maritime Services, respectively, which were adopted June 13, 1951, effective July 23, 1951, are amended as set forth in Appendix II, below.

(Sec. 4, 48 Stat. 1066 as amended; 47 U. S. C. 154. Interpret or apply sec. 303, 48 Stat. 1082, 50 Stat. 191; 47 U. S. C. 303)

Released: July 20, 1951.

[SEAL] T. J. SLOWIE,
Secretary.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Production and Marketing Administration

[7 CFR Part 977]

HANDLING OF MILK IN THE PADUCAH, KENTUCKY, MARKETING AREA

DECISION WITH RESPECT TO PROPOSED MARKETING AGREEMENT AND ORDER, AS AMENDED

Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was conducted at Paducah, Kentucky on March 12 and 13, 1951, pursuant to notice thereof which was issued February 28, 1951 (16 F. R. 2041).

Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at the hearing and the record thereof, the Assistant Administrator, Production and Marketing Administration, on June 12, 1951, filed with the Hearing Clerk, United States Department of Agriculture, his recommended decision in this proceeding. The notice of filing such recommended decision and opportunity to file written exceptions thereto was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on June 16, 1951 (16 F. R. 5787).

Within the period reserved for exceptions a producer association and a handler filed exceptions to certain of the findings, conclusions and actions recommended by the Assistant Administrator. In arriving at the findings, conclusions, and regulatory provisions of this decision, each of such exceptions was carefully and fully considered in conjunction with the record evidence pertaining thereto. In some instances comment has been made below. To the extent that the findings, conclusions, and actions decided upon herein are at variance with the exceptions, such exceptions are overruled.

The material issues, findings (including general findings), conclusions, and rulings of the recommended decision (16 F. R. 5787) are hereby approved and adopted as the issues, findings, conclusions and rulings of this decision as if set forth in full herein, subject to the following modifications:

1. Delete the first three sentences of the fourth paragraph beginning in column 3, 16 F. R. 5788, and substitute therefor the following: "4. The price for Class I milk should be the basic formula price plus $1.70 for the months of September through February, $1.20 for March and August, and 60 cents for the months of April through July. Differentials at present are $1.50 August through December, 90 cents January through March and 50 cents April through July. The proposed annual average differerential of $1.25 represents an increase of approximately $0.23 over a period of a year."

2. Add at the end of the second paragraph beginning in column 2, 16 F. R. 5689, the following: "In the exceptions it was contended that August should be included in the group of those months in the flush production period to which the lowest differential should be added to the basic formula price in determining the Class I price. It was further contended that the prices to producers during the flush production months should be at a level which would not encourage unneeded production during these months. It is concluded that the plan adopted will accomplish this objective in a more satisfactory manner than the plan suggested."

Determination of representative period. The month of May 1951 is hereby determined to be the representative period for the purpose of ascertaining whether the issuance of the order amending the order, now in effect, regulating the handling of milk in the Paducah, Kentucky, marketing area, in the manner set forth in the attached amending order is approved or favored by producers who, during such period, were engaged in the production of milk for sale in the marketing area specified in such marketing order.

Marketing agreement and order, as amended. Annexed hereto and made a part hereof are two documents entitled, respectively, "Marketing Agreement Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Paducah, Kentucky, Marketing Area," and "Order, as Amended, Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Paducah, Kentucky, Marketing Area," which have been decided upon as the detailed and appropriate means of effectuating the foregoing conclusions. These documents shall not become effective unless and until the requirements of § 900.14 of the rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and orders have been met.

It is hereby ordered, That all of this decision, except the attached marketing agreement, be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The regulatory provisions of said marketing agreement are identical with those contained in the order, as amended, which will be published with this decision.

This decision filed at Washington, D. C., this 24th day of July 1951.

[SEAL] C. J. McCORMICK,
Acting Secretary of Agriculture.

REPORTS, RECORDS, AND FACILITIES

§ 977.30 Submission of reports. Each handler shall report to the market administrator in the detail and on forms prescribed by the market administrator as follows:

(a) On or before the 6th day after the end of each delivery period:

(2) A statement of the disposition of Class I milk outside the marketing area (other than from delivery routes serving stops both within and without the marketing area);

(3) The name and address of each producer from whom milk is received for the first time, and the date on which such milk was first received; and

(4) The name and address of each producer who discontinues deliveries of milk, and the date on which the milk of such producer was last received.

In either case the market administrator shall give further written notification to the handler promptly upon the termination of the litigation or when the records are no longer necessary in connection therewith.

CLASSIFICATION

§ 977.40 Basis of classification. The market administrator shall classify, on the basis of the classes set forth in § 977.41 and subject to the conditions of §§ 977.42, 977.43, and 977.44, all receipts within the delivery period by a handler (a) milk from producers (including his own farm production), (b) milk, skim milk, cream, and milk products from other handlers, and (c) other source milk; and all milk of producers diverted by a cooperative association.

§ 977.41 Classes of utilization. The classes of utilization shall be as follows:

(a) Class I milk shall be all milk, skim milk, and cream disposed of in fluid form as milk, buttermilk, milk drinks (whether plain or flavored), and cream; and all milk, skim milk, and cream not specifically accounted for as Class II milk.

(b) Class II milk shall be all milk, skim milk, and cream accounted for (1) as used to produce a product other than those specified in Class I milk, (2) as actual plant shrinkage of milk received from producers, but not to exceed 2 percent of the total receipts of such milk, and (3) as actual plant shrinkage of other source milk: Provided, That if milk received from producers is used in the form of milk, skim milk, or cream in conjunction with other source milk, the shrinkage allocated to the milk received from producers shall not exceed its pro rata share computed on the basis of the proportion of the volumes received from the various sources to their total.

§ 977.42 Responsibility of handlers and reclassification of milk. (a) All milk, skim milk, and cream received shall be Class I milk, unless the handler who first receives such milk, skim milk, or cream proves to the market administrator that such milk, skim milk, or cream should be classified otherwise.

(b) Any milk, skim milk, or cream classified in one class shall be reclassified if used or reused by such handler or by another handler in another class and the adjustments necessary to reflect the reclassified value of such milk, skim milk, or cream shall be made in the manner specified in § 977.84 with respect to errors in payment.

§ 977.43 Transfers of milk, skim milk, and cream. (a) Milk, skim milk, and cream disposed of, by transfer or diversion, by a handler from a pool plant to a pool plant of another handler shall be Class I milk, unless utilization in another class is mutually indicated in writing to the market administrator by both handlers on or before the 6th day after the end of the delivery period within which such transaction occurred: Provided, That milk, skim milk, or cream so assigned to Class II milk shall be limited to the amount thereof remaining in such class in the plant of the transferee-handler after the subtraction of other source milk pursuant to § 977.44 (b), and any excess of milk, skim milk, or cream shall be assigned to Class I milk.

(b) Milk, skim milk, and cream disposed of, by transfer or diversion, by a handler from a pool plant to a nonpool plant shall be Class I milk, unless (1) the handler claims another class on the basis of utilization mutually indicated in writing to the market administrator by both the operator of the nonpool plant and the handler on or before the 6th day after the end of the delivery period within which such transaction occurred, and (2) the operator of the nonpool plant maintains books and records showing the utilization of all milk and milk products at such plant which are made available if requested by the market administrator for the purpose of verification: Provided, That if upon inspection of his records such buyer's plant had not actually used an equivalent amount of milk, skim milk, and cream in such indicated use, the remaining pounds shall be classified as Class I milk.

§ 977.44 Allocation of milk classified. The amount remaining in each class after making the following computations shall be the amount in such class allocated to milk received from producers:

(a) Subtract from the total pounds in Class II milk the pounds of actual plant shrinkage of milk received from producers which does not exceed 2 percent of the total receipts of such milk;

(b) Subtract from the pounds remaining in each class, in series beginning with Class II milk, the total pounds of other source milk received;

(c) Subtract from the pounds remaining in each class the total pounds of milk, skim milk, and cream received from pool plants of other handlers and assigned to such class pursuant to § 977.43 (a); and

(d) Add to the pounds remaining in Class II milk the pounds subtracted pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section; or if the pounds remaining in all classes exceeds the pounds of milk received from producers, subtract such excess from the pounds remaining in the various classes, in series beginning with Class II milk.

MINIMUM PRICES

§ 977.50 Class prices. Subject to the conditions of § 977.52, each handler shall pay producers, at the time and in the manner set forth in §§ 977.80 through 977.85 not less than the prices per hundredweight computed as follows for the respective quantities of Class I milk and Class II milk, computed pursuant to § 977.44:

(a) Class I milk. The price of Class I milk shall be the basic formula price plus the following amounts per hundredweight: $1.70 for the delivery periods of September through February; $1.20 for the delivery periods of March and August; and 60 cents for the delivery periods of April through July.

(b) Class II milk. The price for Class II milk shall be the average of the basic (or field) prices reported to or ascertained by the market administrator to have been paid, or to be paid, without deductions for hauling or other charges to be paid by the farm shipper, for milk of 4.0 percent butterfat content received during the delivery period by the Pet Milk Company at its manufacturing plant located at Mayfield, Kentucky, or the price computed pursuant to the following formula, whichever is the higher:

(1) Multiply by 4.0 the average daily wholesale price per pound of 92-score butter in the Chicago market, as reported by the Department of Agriculture during the delivery period;

(2) Add 20 percent thereof; and

(3) Add 3½ cents for each full one-half cent that the price of nonfat dry milk solids by spray process for human consumption is above 5½ cents per pound. For the purpose of this formula the price per pound of nonfat dry milk solids to be used shall be the average of the carlot prices by spray process for human consumption, f. o. b. manufacturing plants in the Chicago area, as published by the Department of Agriculture during the delivery period, including in such average the quotations published for any fractional part of the previous delivery period which were not published and available for such price determination for the previous delivery period. In the event the carlot prices for such milk solids, f. o. b. manufacturing plant, are not so published, the average of the carlot prices for such milk solids delivered at Chicago, as published by the Department of Agriculture, shall be used, and the following shall be used in lieu of the computation provided for in this subpart: Add 3½ cents for each full one-half cent that the price of such nonfat dry milk solids delivered at Chicago is above 6½ cents per pound.

§ 977.51 Basic formula price. The basic formula price per hundredweight to be used in determining the price for Class I milk shall be the Class II price for the delivery period, or the price computed as follows, whichever is the higher:

To the average of the basic (or field) prices reported to have been paid, or to be paid, without deductions for hauling or other charges to be paid by the farm shipper, per hundredweight for milk of 3.5 percent butterfat content received from farmers during the delivery period at the following plants or places for which prices are reported to the market administrator or to the Department of Agriculture by the companies listed below:

add an amount computed by multiplying the butterfat differential determined pursuant to § 977.85 by 5.

§ 977.52 Butterfat differential to handlers. If any handler has received milk from producers during the delivery period containing more or less than 4.0 percent of butterfat, such handler shall add or deduct, per hundredweight of milk, for each one-tenth of 1 percent of butterfat above or below 4.0 percent, an amount computed as follows: Multiply by 1.2 the average daily wholesale price per pound of 92-score butter in the Chicago market, as reported by the Department of Agriculture during the delivery period, and divide the result by 10.

APPLICATION OF PROVISIONS

§ 977.60 Producer-handlers. Sections 977.40 through 977.52 and §§ 977.61 through 977.87 shall not apply to a producer-handler, except that such producer-handler shall make reports to the market administrator at such time and in such manner as the market administrator may request and shall permit the market administrator to verify such reports.

§ 977.61 Payment for excess milk or butterfat. In the event that a handler, after subtracting receipts of other source milk and receipts of milk, skim milk, and cream from pool plants of other handlers, has disposed of milk or butterfat in excess of the milk or butterfat which has been credited to producers as having been received from them, such handler shall pay to producers through the producer-settlement fund the value of such milk or butterfat determined as follows:

(a) Multiply any such excess volume subtracted from any class pursuant to § 977.44 (d) by the applicable class price, adjusted by the handler butterfat differential for each one-tenth of 1 percent that the computed butterfat content of such excess varies from 4.0 percent; and

(b) Multiply the pounds of any such excess butterfat, for which no excess was subtracted pursuant to § 977.44 (d), by 10 times the handler butterfat differential.

§ 977.62 Handlers operating nonpool plants. Sections 977.30, 977.50 through 977.52, 977.70, 977.71, 977.80 through 977.83 and 977.85 through 977.87 shall not apply to a handler in his capacity as the operator of a nonpool plant described in § 977.9 (c), except that such handler shall:

(a) On or before the 6th day after the end of each delivery period, make reports to the market administrator in such manner as he may request with respect to such handler's total receipts and utilization of skim milk and butterfat;

(b) On or before the 13th day after the end of each delivery period, pay to the market administrator for deposit in the producer-settlement fund an amount of money computed by multiplying the quantity of Class I milk disposed of in the manner described in § 977.9 (c) by the difference between the price of Class II milk and the price of Class I milk; and

(c) On or before the 20th day after the end of each delivery period, pay to the market administrator, as such handler's pro rata share of the expense of administration of this order, 5 cents per hundredweight or such lesser amount as the Secretary may prescribe with respect to all Class I milk and all milk, skim milk, and cream used to produce Class II products disposed of during the delivery period in the marketing area in the manner described in § 977.9 (c).

§ 977.63 Handlers subject to other orders. In the case of any handler who the Secretary determines disposes of a greater portion of his milk as Class I milk in another marketing area regulated by another order or a marketing agreement issued pursuant to the act, the provisions of this subpart shall not apply except the handler shall, with respect to his total receipts of skim milk and butterfat, make reports to the market administrator at such time and in such manner as the market administrator may require and allow verification of such reports by the market administrator.

DETERMINATION OF UNIFORM PRICE

§ 977.70 Computation of value for each handler. For each delivery period, the market administrator shall compute the value of milk of producers received by each handler by multiplying the pounds in each class by the applicable class price adjusted by the handler butterfat differential, adding together the resulting class values, and adding to such sum the value of any excess milk or butterfat computed pursuant to § 977.61.

§ 977.71 Computation of the uniform price. For each delivery period, the market administrator shall compute the uniform price per hundredweight of producer milk containing 4.0 percent of butterfat as follows:

(a) Combine into one total the values, computed pursuant to § 977.70, for all handlers who made the reports prescribed by § 977.30 for such delivery period, except those in default of payments required pursuant to § 977.82 for the preceding delivery period;

(b) Subtract, if the average butterfat content of all milk received from producers represented by the values included under paragraph (a) of this section is in excess of 4.0 percent, or add, if such average butterfat content is less than 4.0 percent, the total value of the butterfat differential applicable pursuant to § 977.85;

(c) Add an amount representing the cash balance in the producer-settlement fund;

(d) Divide the resulting amount by the total hundredweight of milk received from producers included in these computations; and

(e) Subtract not less than 4 cents nor more than 5 cents for the purpose of retaining in the producer-settlement fund a cash balance to provide against errors in reports and payment or delinquencies in payments by handlers.

PAYMENTS

§ 977.80 Payments to producers—(a) Partial payment. On or before the last day of each delivery period, each handler shall make payment to each producer, at not less than the applicable uniform price of the preceding delivery period, for the milk of such producer which was received by such handler during the first 15 days of the current delivery period: Provided, That such rate of payment to any producer who has discontinued delivery of milk during the delivery period, may be reduced by not more than 40 percent.

(b) Final payment. On or before the 15th day after the end of each delivery period, each handler shall make payment to each producer, for milk received from such producer during such delivery period, at not less than the uniform price per hundredweight, subject to the following adjustments: (1) The producer butterfat differential, (2) payment made pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section, (3) marketing service deductions, (4) deductions authorized by the producer, and (5) any error in calculating payment to such producer for the past delivery periods: Provided, That if by such date such handler has not received full payment for such delivery period pursuant to § 977.83, he may reduce uniformly per hundredweight for all producers his payments pursuant to this paragraph by an amount not in excess of the per hundredweight reduction in payment from the market administrator; however, the handler shall make such balance of payment to those producers to whom it is due on or before the date for making payments pursuant to this section next following that on which such balance of payment is received from the market administrator.

§ 977.81 Producer-settlement fund. The market administrator shall establish and maintain a separate fund known as the "producer-settlement fund" into which he shall deposit all payments made by handlers pursuant to §§ 977.62, 977.82 and 977.84, and out of which he shall make all payments pursuant to §§ 977.83 and 977.84: Provided, That payments due to any handler shall be offset by payments due from such handler.

§ 977.82 Payments to the producer-settlement fund. On or before the 13th day after the end of each delivery period, each handler shall pay to the market administrator any amount by which the value of his milk, computed pursuant to § 977.70, for such delivery period is greater than an amount computed by multiplying the hundredweight of milk received by him from producers during the delivery period by the uniform price adjusted by the producer butterfat differential.

§ 977.83 Payments out of the producer-settlement fund. On or before the 15th day after the end of each delivery period, the market administrator shall pay to each handler, for payment to producers, any amount by which the total value of his milk, computed pursuant to § 977.70, for such delivery period is less than an amount computed by multiplying the hundredweight of milk received by him from producers during the delivery period by the uniform price adjusted by the producer butterfat differential. If at such time the balance in the producer-settlement fund is insufficient to make all payments pursuant to this section, the market administrator shall reduce uniformly such payments and shall complete such payments as soon as the necessary funds are available.

§ 977.84 Adjustment of errors in payments. Whenever verification by the market administrator of payments by any handler discloses errors made in payments to the producer-settlement fund the market administrator shall promptly bill such handler for any unpaid amount and such handler shall, within 15 days, make payment to the market administrator of the amount so billed. Whenever verification discloses that payment is due from the market administrator to any handler, the market administrator shall, within 15 days, make such payment to such handler. Whenever verification by the market administrator of the payment by a handler to any producer for milk received by such handler discloses payment of less than is required by § 977.80, the handler shall make up such payment not later than the time of making payment to producers next following such disclosure.

§ 977.85 Butterfat differential to producers. In making payments to each producer, pursuant to § 977.80 (b), each handler shall add to the uniform price not less than, or subtract from the uniform price not more than, as the case may be, for each one-tenth of 1 percent of butterfat content above or below 4.0 percent in milk received from such producer, the amount as shown in the following schedule for the butter price range in which falls the average wholesale price per pound of 92-score butter in the Chicago market, as reported by the Department of Agriculture, for the delivery period during which such milk was received:

§ 977.86 Expense of administration. As his pro rata share of the expense incurred pursuant to § 977.22 (d), each handler shall pay to the market administrator, on or before the 20th day after the end of each delivery period, 5 cents per hundredweight, or such lesser amount as the Secretary may prescribe, with respect to all receipts at a pool plant, during the delivery period, of milk from producers (including such handler's own production) and other source milk other than sour cream used in the production of butter. Each cooperative association which is a handler shall pay such pro rata share of expense on only that milk of producers diverted for the account of such association to a nonpool plant.

§ 977.87 Marketing services—(a) Deductions for marketing services. Except as set forth in paragraph (b) of this section, each handler, in making payments to producers pursuant to § 977.80 (b), with respect to milk received from each producer (excluding such handler's own farm production), shall deduct 5 cents per hundredweight, or such lesser amount as the Secretary may from time to time prescribe; and, on or before the 20th day after the end of such delivery period, shall pay such deductions to the market administrator. Such moneys shall be expended by the market administrator to verify weights, samples, and tests of the milk of such producers and to provide such producers with market information. Such services shall be performed in whole or in part by the market administrator or by an agent engaged by and responsible to him.

(b) Cooperative associations. In the case of producers for whom a cooperative association, which the Secretary determines to be qualified under the provisions of the act of Congress of February 18, 1922, as amended, known as the "Capper-Volstead Act," is actually performing, as determined by the Secretary, the services set forth in paragraph (a) of this section, each handler shall make, in lieu of the deductions specified in paragraph (a) of this section, such deductions from the payments to be made directly to such producers pursuant to § 977.80 (b), as are authorized by such producers, and on or before the 20th day after the end of each delivery period, pay over such deductions to the association rendering such services.

§ 977.88 Termination of obligations. The provisions of this section shall apply to any obligations under this subpart for the payment of moneys irrespective of when such obligation arose, except an obligation involved in an action instituted before May 1, 1950, under section 8c (15) (A) of the act or before a court.

(a) The obligation of any handler to pay money required to be paid under the terms of this subpart, shall, except as provided in paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section, terminate 2 years after the last day of the calendar month during which the market administrator receives the handler's utilization report on the milk involved in such obligation, unless within such 2-year period the market administrator notifies the handler in writing that such money is due and payable. Service of such notice shall be complete upon mailing to the handler's last known address, and it shall contain but need not be limited to, the following information:

(1) The amount of the obligation;

(2) The month(s) during which the milk, with respect to which the obligation exists, was received or handled; and

(3) If the obligation is payable to one or more producers or to an association of producers, the name of such producer(s) or association of producers, or if the obligation is payable to the market administrator, the account for which it is to be paid.

(b) If a handler falls or refuses, with respect to any obligation under this subpart, to make available to the market administrator or his representatives all books and records required by this subpart to be made available, the market administrator may, within the 2-year period provided for in paragraph (a) of this section, notify the handler in writing of such failure or refusal. If the market administrator so notifies a handler, the said 2-year period with respect to such obligation shall not begin to run until the first day of the calendar month following the month during which all such books and records pertaining to such obligation are made available to the market administrator or his representative.

§ 977.92 Continuing obligations. If, upon the suspension or termination of any or all provisions of this subpart or any amendment thereto, there are any obligations thereunder the final accrual or ascertainment of which requires further acts by any persons (including the market administrator), such further acts shall be performed notwithstanding such suspension or termination.

§ 977.93 Liquidation. Upon the suspension or termination of the provisions of this subpart, except §§ 977.32, 977.88, and 977.91 through 977.93, the market administrator, or such other liquidating agent as the Secretary may designate, shall, if so directed by the Secretary, liquidate the business of the market administrator's office, dispose of all property in his possession or control, including accounts receivable, and execute and deliver all assignments or other instruments necessary or appropriate to effectuate any such disposition. If a liquidating agent is so designated, all assets, books, and records of the market administrator shall be transferred promptly to such liquidating agent. This order shall not otherwise become effective to change the status of such lands until 10:00 a. m. on the 35th day after the date of this order. At that time the said lands shall, subject to valid existing rights and the provisions of existing withdrawals, become subject to application, petition, location, and selection as follows:

(a) Ninety-one day period for preference-right filings. For a period of 91 days, commencing at the hour and on the day specified above, the public lands affected by this order shall be subject only to (1) application under the homestead or the desert-land laws or the Small Tract Act of June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 609 (43 U. All such applications filed either at or before 10:00 a. m. on the 126th day after the date of this order, shall be treated as though filed simultaneously at the hour specified on such 126th day. All applications filed thereafter shall be considered in the order of filing.

A veteran shall accompany his application with a complete photostatic, or other copy (both sides), of his certificate of honorable discharge, or of an official document of his branch of the service which shows clearly his honorable discharge as defined in § 181.36 of Title 43 of the Code of Federal Regulations, or constitutes evidence of other facts upon which the claim for preference is based and which shows clearly the period of service. Other persons claiming credit for service of veterans must furnish like proof in support of their claims. Persons asserting preference rights, through settlement or otherwise, and those having equitable claims, shall accompany their applications by duly corroborated statements in support thereof, setting forth in detail all facts relevant to their claims.

WYOMING

RESTORATION ORDER NO. 1301 UNDER FEDERAL POWER ACT OF LAND RELEASED FROM RECLAMATION WITHDRAWAL

JULY 23, 1951.

Pursuant to the following-listed determination of the Federal Power Commission and in accordance with the authority contained in Departmental Order No. 2583 § 2.22 (a) of August 16, 1950 (15 F. R. 5643), it is ordered as follows:

The order of the Acting Assistant Commissioner, Bureau of Reclamation, of April 12, 1951, concurred in on May 8, 1951, by the Assistant Director, Bureau of Land Management, having revoked the Departmental order of August 2, 1913, withdrawing certain lands in connection with the Shoshone Reclamation Project, so far as it affected the following-described public land, such land, so far as it is withdrawn or reserved for power purposes, is hereby opened to disposition under the applicable public-land laws, subject to valid existing rights and to the provisions of section 24 of the Federal Power Act of June 10, 1920 (41 Stat. 1075; 16 U. S. C. 818), as amended:

DA-119 Wyoming.....	Power Site Reserve No. 248 of Mar. 27, 1913, as adjusted Feb. 4, 1943.	Sixth Principal Meridian, T. 52 N., R. 102 W., sec. 3, lot 11, containing 34.09 acres.

The above-described land is rough and mountainous barren land. It has no agricultural value and its use for grazing is negligible. It is primarily valuable for mineral development. It will not be subject to occupancy or disposition until it has been classified. It is unlikely that it will be classified as suitable for homestead, desert-land, or small-tract use.

This order shall become effective at 10:00 a. m. on the 35th day after the date hereof. At that time the said land shall become subject to application, petition, location, and selection, subject to valid existing rights, the provisions of existing withdrawals, the requirements of applicable law, and the 90-day preference right filing period for veterans and others entitled to preference under the act of September 27, 1944 (58 Stat. 747; 43 U. S. C. 279–284), as amended.

Information showing the periods during which and the conditions under which veterans and others may file applications for this land may be obtained on request from the Land and Survey Office at Cheyenne, Wyoming.

TITLE 7—AGRICULTURE

Chapter IX—Production and Marketing Administration (Marketing Agreements and Orders), Department of Agriculture

[Docket No. AO 14–A 20]

PART 904—MILK IN THE GREATER BOSTON MARKETING AREA

ORDER AMENDING ORDER, AS AMENDED, REGULATING THE HANDLING OF MILK IN THE GREATER BOSTON, MASS., MARKETING AREA

§ 904.0 Findings and determinations. The findings and determinations hereinafter set forth are supplementary and in addition to the findings and determinations previously made in connection with the issuance of the aforesaid order and each of the previously issued amendments thereto; and all of said previous findings and determinations are hereby ratified and affirmed, except insofar as such findings and determinations may be in conflict with the findings and determinations set forth herein.

(a) Findings upon the basis of the hearing record. Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was held upon certain proposed amendments to the tentative marketing agreement and to the order, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the Greater Boston, Massachusetts, marketing area. Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing and the record thereof, it is found that:

(1) The said order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(2) The parity prices of milk as determined pursuant to section 2 of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect market supply and demand for milk in the said marketing area, and the minimum prices specified in the order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk and be in the public interest; and

(3) The said order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, regulates the handling of milk in the same manner as and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

(b) Additional findings. It is necessary to make the present amendment to the said order, as amended, effective not later than July 25, 1951, to reflect current marketing conditions. Any further delay in the effective date of this order, amending the said order, as amended, will seriously disrupt the orderly marketing of milk for the Greater Boston, Massachusetts, marketing area. The changes effected by this order, amending the order, as amended, do not require of persons affected substantial or extensive preparation prior to the effective date. In view of the foregoing, it is impracticable, unnecessary, and contrary to the public interest to delay the effective date of this order for 30 days after its publication (sec. 4 (c), Administrative Procedure Act, Pub. Law 404, 79th Cong. 60 Stat. 237).

(c) Determinations. It is hereby determined that handlers (excluding cooperative association of producers who are not engaged in processing, distributing or shipping the milk covered by this order, as amended and as hereby further amended) of more than 50 percent of the volume of milk covered by this order, as amended and as hereby further amended, which is marketed within the Greater Boston, Massachusetts, marketing area, refused or failed to sign the proposed marketing agreement regulating the handling of milk in the Greater Boston, Massachusetts, marketing area, and it is hereby further determined that:

(1) The refusal of such handlers to sign said proposed marketing agreement tends to prevent the effectuation of the declared policy of the act;

(2) The issuance of this order further amending the order, as amended, is the only practicable means pursuant to the declared policy of the act, of advancing the interests of producers of milk which is produced for sale in the Greater Boston, Massachusetts, marking area; and

(3) The issuance of this order further amending the order, as amended, is approved or favored by at least two-thirds of the producers, who during the determined representative period (March 1951) were engaged in the production of milk for sale in the Greater Boston, Massachusetts, marketing area.

Order relative to handling. It is therefore ordered, that on and after the effective date hereof the handling of milk in the Greater Boston, Massachusetts, marketing area shall be in conformity to and in compliance with the terms and conditions of the aforesaid order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, and the aforesaid order, as amended, is hereby further amended as follows:

Delete § 904.7 (a) (3) (ii) and substitute the following:

(3) • • •

(ii) For each of the States of Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, and Vermont, compute the simple average, on a monthly equivalent basis, of the following farm wage rates reported by the United States Department of Agriculture: The rate per month with board and room; the rate per month with house; the rate per week with board and room; the rate per week without board or room; and the rate per day without board or room. To convert the weekly rates and the daily rate to monthly equivalents, multiple the weekly rates by 4.33 and the daily rate by 26. From the simple averages, compute a combined weighted average monthly rate, using the following weights: Maine, 10; Massachusetts, 6; New Hampshire, 7; and Vermont, 77. Divide the weighted average monthly rate by 0.6394, and multiply the result by 0.4.

PART 953—LEMONS GROWN IN CALIFORNIA AND ARIZONA

LIMITATION OF SHIPMENTS

§ 953.500 Lemon regulation 393—(a) Findings. (1) Pursuant to the marketing agreement, as amended, and Order No. 53, as amended (7 CFR Part 953; 14 F. R. 3612), regulating the handling of lemons grown in the State of California or in the State of Arizona, effective under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and upon the basis of the recommendation and information submitted by the Lemon Administrative Committee, established under the said amended marketing agreement and order, and upon other available information, it is hereby found that the limitation of the quantity of such lemons which may be handled, as hereinafter provided, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(2) It is hereby further found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule-making procedure, and postpone the effective date of this section until 30 days after publication thereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER (60 Stat. 237; 5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.) because the time intervening between the date when information upon which this section is based became available and the time when this section must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act is insufficient, and a reasonable time is permitted, under the circumstances, for preparation for such effective time; and good cause exists for making the provisions hereof effective as hereinafter set forth. Shipments of lemons, grown in the State of California or in the State of Arizona, are currently subject to regulation pursuant to said amended marketing agreement and order; the recommendation and supporting information for regulation during the period specified herein was promptly submitted to the Department after an open meeting of the Lemon Administrative Committee on July 25, 1951, such meeting was held, after giving due notice thereof to consider recommendations for regulation, and interested persons were afforded an opportunity to submit their views at this meeting; the provisions of this section, including its effective time, are identical with the aforesaid recommendation of the committee, and information concerning such provisions and effective time has been disseminated among handlers of such lemons; it is necessary, in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act, to make this section effective during the period hereinafter specified; and compliance with this section will not require any special preparation on the part of persons subject thereto which cannot be completed by the effective time thereof.

(b) Order. (1) The quantity of lemons grown in the State of California or in the State of Arizona which may be handled during the period beginning at 12:01 a. m., P. s. t., July 29, 1951, and ending at 12:01 a. m., P. s. t., August 5, 1951, is hereby fixed as follows:

(i) District 1: Unlimited movement;

(ii) District 2: 500 carloads;

(iii) District 3: Unlimited movement.

(2) The prorate base of each handler who has made application therefor, as provided in the said amended marketing agreement and order, is hereby fixed in accordance with the prorate base schedule which is attached hereto and made a part hereof by this reference.

(3) As used in this section, "handled," "handler," "carloads," "prorate base," "District 1," "District 2" and "District 3," shall have the same meaning as when used in the said amended marketing agreement and order.

PART 966—ORANGES GROWN IN CALIFORNIA AND ARIZONA

LIMITATION OF SHIPMENTS

(a) Findings. (1) Pursuant to the provisions of Order No. 66 (7 CFR Part 966) regulating the handling of oranges grown in the State of California or in the State of Arizona, effective under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended, and upon the basis of the recommendation and information submitted by the Orange Administrative Committee, established under the said order, and upon other available information, it is hereby found that the limitation of the quantity of such oranges which may be handled, as hereinafter provided, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(2) It is hereby further found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule-making procedure, and postpone the effective date of this amendment until 30 days after publication thereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER (60 Stat. 237; 5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.) because the time intervening between the date when information upon which this amendment is based became available and the time when this amendment must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended, is insufficient; and this amendment relieves restrictions on the handling of oranges grown in the State of California or in the State of Arizona.

(b) Order, as amended. The provisions in paragraph (b) (1) (i) (b) of § 966.527 (Orange Regulation 381, 16 F. R. 7138) are hereby amended to read as follows:

TITLE 9—ANIMALS AND ANIMAL PRODUCTS

Chapter I—Bureau of Animal Industry, Department of Agriculture

Subchapter D—Exportation and Importation of Animals and Animal Products

[B. A. I. Order 368, Amdt. 6]

PART 93—SPECIAL REGULATIONS GOVERNING EXPORT AND IMPORT OF LIVESTOCK, OTHER ANIMALS, AND POULTRY TO AND FROM MEXICO

MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

Pursuant to the authority vested in the Secretary of Agriculture by section 2 of the act of Congress approved February 2, 1903, as amended (21 U. S. C. 111), the special regulations governing the export and import of livestock to and from Mexico (9 CFR and Supp. Part 93) are amended as follows:

1. The title of said Part 93 is amended to read as set forth above.

2. Section 93.1 is amended by adding, at the end thereof, two paragraphs reading as follows:

(h) "Poultry" means chickens, ducks, geese, swans, turkeys, pigeons, doves, pheasants, grouse, partridges, quail, guinea fowl, and pea fowl, of all ages, including eggs for hatching.

(i) "Communicable disease" means any contagious, infectious, or communicable disease of domestic livestock, poultry, or other animals.

3. Sections 93.12, 93.13, 93.14, 93.15, and 93.16 are redesignated as §§ 93.13, 93.14, 93.15, 93.16, and 93.17, respectively.

4. A new § 93.12 is added, immediately following § 93.11, reading as follows:

§ 93.12 Poultry—(a) Designated ports of entry for poultry. All poultry offered for importation from Mexico shall be entered through one of the ports of entry named in § 93.2.

(b) Permits for poultry. For poultry intended for importation from Mexico, the importer shall first obtain from the Bureau a permit in two sections. One section will be for presentation to the American consul in the district which includes the point of origin and the other for presentation to the collector of customs at the port of entry specified therein. The poultry will be received at the specified port on the date prescribed in the permit for their arrival or at any time during one week immediately following, after which time the permit shall be void.

(c) Declaration of purpose for poultry. For poultry offered for importation from Mexico there shall be presented to the collector of customs, at the time of entry, a statement signed by the importer or his agent showing clearly the purpose for which said poultry are to be imported.

(d) Certificate for poultry. (1) Poultry, except eggs for hatching, offered for entry from Mexico shall be accompanied by a certificate of a salaried veterinary officer of the national government of Mexico stating that such poultry and their flock or flocks of origin were inspected on the premises of origin immediately before the date of movement therefrom; that they were then found to be free of evidence of communicable diseases of poultry; and that, as far as it has been possible to determine, they were not exposed to any such diseases during the 60 days immediately preceding the date of such movement. The certificate shall also state that the poultry have been kept in Mexico for at least 60 days immediately preceding the date of movement therefrom, or since they were hatched; that, in so far as it has been possible to determine, no case of European fowl pest (fowl plague) or Newcastle disease, avian pneumoencephalitis) occurred in the localities where the poultry were kept during such period.

(2) Eggs for hatching offered for importation from Mexico shall be accompanied by a certificate of a salaried veterinary officer of the national government of Mexico stating that the flock or flocks of origin of such eggs were inspected on the premises of origin immediately before the date of movement of the eggs therefrom, and found to be free from evidence of communicable diseases of poultry; and that, as far as it has been possible to determine, such flock or flocks were not exposed to any such diseases during the preceding 60 days.

(e) Inspection at port of entry for poultry. All poultry offered for entry from Mexico, including such poultry intended for movement by rail through the United States in bond for immediate return to Mexico, shall be inspected at the port of entry, and all such poultry found to be free from communicable disease, and not to have been exposed thereto, shall be admitted into the United States subject to the other provisions in this part. Poultry found to be affected with or to have been exposed to a communicable disease shall be refused entry. Poultry refused entry, unless exported within a time fixed in each case by the Chief of Bureau, shall be disposed of as said Chief may direct.

(f) Periods of quarantine for poultry. Poultry from Mexico except eggs for hatching and poultry being transported in bond for immediate return to Mexico shall be quarantined for not less than 15 days counting from the date of arrival at the port of entry. During their quarantine such poultry shall be subject to such inspections, disinfection, blood tests, or other tests as may be required by the Chief of Bureau to determine their freedom from disease or infection with disease.

(g) Feed and attendants for poultry in quarantine. Importers of poultry subject to quarantine under the regulations in this part shall arrange for their care, feed, and handling from the time of unloading at the port of entry to the time of release from quarantine. At ports where facilities are not maintained by the Bureau, importers shall provide suitable facilities for the quarantine of such poultry subject in all cases to the approval of the inspector in charge at the port of entry. Each owner, or his agent, shall give satisfactory assurance to the inspector prior to the time of quarantine that such provision will be made. Owners shall keep clean, to the satisfaction of such inspector, the sheds and yards occupied by their poultry. If for any cause owners of poultry refuse or neglect to supply feed and attendants, the poultry shall be refused entry and returned to Mexico, or otherwise disposed of as the Chief of Bureau may direct.

(h) Appearance of disease among poultry in quarantine. If any communicable disease appears among poultry during the quarantine period, the affected poultry shall be disposed of as the Chief of Bureau may direct.

The broad, general purpose of the foregoing amendments is to provide for the certification, inspection, and quarantine of poultry offered for importation into the United States from Mexico, in order to prevent the introduction into this country of any communicable disease of poultry. An immediate purpose of the amendments, however, is to guard against the introduction into the United States of a type of Newcastle disease (avian pneumoencephalitis) which exists in poultry in Mexico and which is much more virulent than any strain of that disease known to exist in the United States. Protection of the poultry interests of the United States from this type of the disease demands that this amendment be made effective at the earliest possible moment. Accordingly, pursuant to section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U. S. C. 1003), it is found upon good cause that notice and public procedure on these amendments are impracticable and contrary to the public interest, and good cause is found for making the amendments effective less than 30 days after their publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER. Such notice and public procedure are not required by any other statute.

These amendments shall become effective imemdiately.

(Sec. 2, 32 Stat. 792, as amended; 21 U. S. C. 111)

Done at Washington, D. C., this 24th day of July 1951.

Acting Secretary of Agriculture.

COVERAGE

SECTION 1. Sellers and sales covered by this regulation. This regulation covers you if you are a manufacturer located in the United States (not including territories or possessions) or the District of Columbia. It applies to any sale of any commodity as to which you are the manufacturer, except sales of commodities listed in Appendix A and sales at retail. With these exceptions, the General Ceiling Price Regulation is superseded by this regulation as to manufacturers in the United States or the District of Columbia. If, however, your gross sales for your last complete fiscal year were less than $250,000 you may elect not to use this regulation, but if you so elect, you may not use this regulation for any of your commodities.

CEILING PRICES ESTABLISHED

SEC. 2. Ceiling prices established by this regulation. This regulation establishes ceiling prices for commodities dealt in between July 1, 1949 and June 24, 1950, and for new commodities introduced subsequent to June 24, 1950. There are also special provisions relating to (a) rounding ceiling prices, (b) retention of ceiling prices established under the General Ceiling Price Regulation where the change in price is less than 1 percent, (c) reduction of ceiling prices to reflect any increase in the value of scrap or waste material, (d) adjustment of ceiling prices quoted on a delivered basis for increases in transportation costs, and (e) adjustment of ceiling prices for commodities manufactured in more than one of your plants.

CEILING PRICES FOR COMMODITIES DEALT IN BETWEEN JULY 1, 1949 AND JUNE 24, 1950

SEC. 3. How to determine your ceiling price for a commodity you sold or offered for sale between July 1, 1949 and June 24, 1950. (a) Your ceiling price to your largest buying class of purchaser for sale of a commodity which you sold or offered for sale at any time between July 1, 1949 and June 24, 1950, is your base period price for the commodity, plus "the labor cost adjustment" and "the materials cost adjustment". Section 47 (Definitions) explains the meaning of "your largest buying class of purchaser". Sections 4 through 6 tell how to obtain your base period price. Sections 7 through 9 tell how to calculate "the labor cost adjustment". Sections 10 through 16 tell how to calculate "the materials cost adjustment". If you do not wish to make either of these calculations you may use your base period price as your ceiling price to your largest buying class of purchaser. If you wish to calculate only one of the adjustments you may do so, in which case you will add only the amount of that one adjustment to your base period price.

(b) Your ceiling price for sale of the commodity to your largest buying class of purchaser must be consistent in every respect with your base period price, e. g., it must carry all customary delivery terms, cash, trade and volume discounts, allowances, premiums and extras, deductions, guarantees, servicing terms and other terms and conditions of sale.

(c) Your ceiling price for sale of the commodity to your other classes of purchasers to whom you made sales during your base period is determined by applying your price differentials last used during your base period. In the event you made no base period sales to a particular class of purchaser, you apply your customary differentials in effect during your base period, or if none, then those last in effect before your base period. If you are selling to an entirely new class of purchaser you determine your ceiling price under section 33 for that class of purchaser. For each class of purchasers you must maintain all customary delivery terms, cash, trade and volume discounts, allowances, premiums and extras, deductions, guarantees, servicing terms and other terms and conditions of sale which you had in effect during your base period. An explanation of what is meant by "class of purchaser" is found in section 47 (Definitions).

BASE PERIOD PRICE

SEC. 4. Base period. "Base period" refers to the period April 1 through June 24, 1950 or any previous calendar quarter ended not earlier than September 30, 1949, which you may elect to use. Whatever base period you elect must be used for all commodities in the same category. There is an exception in case of a commodity which you did not deliver during that base period, and which you did not make the subject of a written offer for delivery during that base period, and for which you did not have a price list in effect during that base period. In that case you may use for that commodity any other base period permitted under this section.

SEC. 5. Category. "Category" refers to a group of commodities which are normally classed together in your industry for purposes of production, accounting or sales. This is the same definition as used in section 4 (c) of the General Ceiling Price Regulation. You may, however, exclude from any category any commodity or group of related commodities for which the base period you have elected to use for the category is unrepresentative because of special seasonal characteristics of that commodity or group of related commodities. In that case, treat the commodity or related group of commodities as constituting a separate category.

SEC. 6. How to obtain your base period price. Your base period price for a commodity is obtained as follows:

(a) If, during your base period, you delivered the commodity or contracted in writing to sell the commodity at a firm price, you find the highest price to your largest buying class of purchaser at which such a delivery or such a contract of sale was made.

(b) If you did not make such a delivery or contract, you find the highest price at which you made a written offer for base period delivery to your largest buying class of purchaser.

(c) Instead of the price under paragraph (a) or (b) of this section you may use your price, to your largest buying class of purchaser, which you announced in writing in a price list, catalogue, or similar statement showing your prices for one or more commodities. To use this paragraph (c) you must either have announced the prices during your base period, or have announced them previously and had them in effect during your base period. Also you must have communicated the prices to the trade or a substantial number of customers in your customary way. Further, you must have made substantial deliveries at these prices after your written announcement of the prices. If you use this paragraph (c) for any commodity you must also use it for all other commodities covered by the same announcement.

(d) If your base period price includes any excise, sales or other similar tax which is not separately stated, you must follow the instructions contained in section 36.

(e) If your base period price is expressed as a list price less discounts, you may make the adjustments of the base period price under section 3 (a) upon the basis of the net price to your largest buying class of purchaser.

Example: Your base period "list" price for commodity A is $12 less a 20 percent discount to your largest buying class of purchaser. "The labor cost adjustment" and "the materials cost adjustment" which you are permitted to add to your base period price total $3.84. You first take 80 percent of $12, thus applying the 20 percent discount. The resulting amount, $9.60, plus $3.84 equals $13.44, your "net" ceiling price to your largest buying class of purchaser. You can figure your "list" ceiling price by dividing your "net" ceiling price ($13.44) by the same percentage (80 percent), giving $16.80. Applying the 20 percent discount to your largest buying class of purchaser gives you $13.44, or your "net" ceiling price to that class of purchaser.

(f) If, during your base period you customarily produced the same commodity at two or more manufacturing establishments of your business and sold it at different prices depending upon the place of production, you must obtain a separate base period price and determine a separate ceiling price for each such establishment.

HOW TO CALCULATE THE LABOR COST ADJUSTMENT

SEC. 7. General description of how to calculate "the labor cost adjustments". Sections 8 and 9 tell how to calculate "the labor cost adjustment". The calculations under both sections are designed to yield an average percentage increase in your factory labor cost based upon net sales and factory payroll data for your last fiscal year ended not later than December 31, 1950. This percentage is referred to as your "labor cost adjustment factor". Under section 8, the net sales and factory payroll data are for your entire business and the labor cost adjustment factor will be applied uniformly to the base period prices of all of your commodities. Under section 9, the net sales and factory payroll data are for a unit of your business and the labor cost adjustment factor will be applied uniformly to the base period prices of all commodities produced in that unit. If the commodities produced in the several units of your business have experienced significantly different labor cost increases, it will probably be to your advantage to use section 9 so as to reflect these differences more appropriately.

SEC. 8. How to calculate "the labor cost adjustment" upon the basis of your entire business. To calculate "the labor cost adjustment" upon the basis of your entire business, you do the following:

(a) Find the dollar amounts of your net sales and of your factory payroll for your entire business for your last fiscal year ended not later than December 31, 1950. You may not include in factory payroll, labor used in general administration, sales and advertising, or research, or in making major repairs or replacement of plant or equipment or in expansion of plant or equipment. Labor used in factory supervision, packaging and handling, ordinary maintenance and repair of plant or equipment, or in materials control, testing or inspection may, however, be included.

(b) Divide the dollar amount of your factory payroll found under paragraph (a) of this section by the dollar amount of your net sales found under (a). This will show what percentage your factory payroll is of your net sales. This percentage is referred to as your "labor cost ratio".

(c) Find the dollar amount of your factory payroll, as limited in paragraph (a) of this section, for your last payroll period ended not later than the end of your base period (if your base period is April 1 through June 24, 1950, you should use your last payroll period ended not later than June 30, 1950). The term "end of your base period" is explained in section 47 (Definitions). This payroll is referred to as "your base period payroll". Compute what the dollar amount of your base period payroll would have been upon the basis of your wage rates in effect on March 15, 1951. This is referred to as "your recomputed payroll". You may add to your recomputed payroll a dollar amount to reflect, for the labor covered by that payroll, any increase between the end of your base period and March 15, 1951, in the cost to you of insurance plans, pension contributions for current work, paid vacations and similar "fringe benefits". You may also add to your recomputed payroll a dollar amount to reflect, for the labor covered by that payroll, any increase between the end of your base period and March 15, 1951, in the cost to you of required payments under the Federal Insurance Contributions Act, the Federal Unemployment Tax Act and any state or local unemployment compensation law. You may not include in your recomputation of your base period payroll any wage increase or "fringe benefit" granted or determined after March 15, 1951, even though, for example, such wage increase or "fringe benefit" is retroactive to March 15, 1951, or any prior date, and is pursuant to a contract in effect on March 15, 1951. You may make the calculations called for by this paragraph in whatever appropriate way is best adapted to your accounting records and your basis of wage payments, e. g., hourly rates, piece-work, or any other system of wage payments used by you.

[Paragraph (c) amended by Amdt. 10]

(d) Divide the dollar amount of the difference between your recomputed payroll and your base period payroll by your base period payroll. The resulting percentage is referred to as your "wage increase factor."

(e) Multiply your labor cost ratio derived under paragraph (b) of this section by your wage increase factor derived under paragraph (d) of this section. The resulting percentage is referred to as your "labor cost adjustment factor."

(f) Multiply the base period price of the commodity being priced by your labor cost adjustment factor. The resulting amount is "the labor cost adjustment" to be added to the base period price in accordance with section 3 (a).

(g) If you use this section, it must be used for all of your commodities.

Example: (a) Your fiscal year is the calendar year. Your net sales for the twelve months ended December 31, 1950, were $1,000,000. Your factory payroll for the year was $300,000 (the required exclusions having been made in arriving at this figure).

(b) $300,000 divided by $1,000,000 is 30 percent. This is your labor cost ratio.

(c) Your factory payroll for the week ended June 24, 1950, was $6,000 (the required exclusions having been made in arriving at this figure). At wage rates in effect March 15, 1951, the payroll would have been $6,500. In addition you have also granted longer paid vacations and a more liberal insurance plan which amounts to the equivalent of two and one-half cents per hour. The number of hours covered by your base period payroll was 4,000. Consequently the increased "fringe benefits" add an extra $100 per week to your factory labor cost for the March 15 period. This makes your recomputed payroll at March 15 wage rates $6,600, or a total increase of $600.

(d) $600 divided by $6,000 is 10 percent. This is your wage increase factor.

(e) 30 percent multiplied by 10 percent is 3 percent. This is your labor cost adjustment factor.

(f) If your base period price was $100, you multiply $100 by 3 percent, giving $3, "the labor cost adjustment".

SEC. 9. How to calculate "the labor cost adjustment" upon the basis of a unit of your business. To calculate "the labor cost adjustment" upon the basis of a unit of your business, you do the following:

(a) Find the dollar amounts of your net sales and of your factory payroll for your last fiscal year ended not later than December 31, 1950, relating to a unit of your business for which you regularly maintain separate accounts and in which the commodity being priced is produced. You must include in net sales the value, as shown on your records, of any transfer of a commodity or material from that unit to another unit of your business. If your records do not show a value you may not use this section. The provisions of section 8 (a) as to what may be included in factory payroll apply.

(b) Using the data found under paragraph (a) of this section you make the calculations prescribed in paragraphs (b), (c), (d), (e) and (f) of section 8, for the unit of your business to which the data relate. This will give you "the labor cost adjustment" to be added to the base period price in accordance with section 3 (a).

(c) This section may be used only for commodities produced in the particular unit of your business to which the net sales and factory payroll data relate, and must be used for all commodities produced in that unit.

HOW TO CALCULATE THE MATERIALS COST ADJUSTMENT

SEC. 10. Manufacturing material. You will need to become familiar with the term "manufacturing material" in the following sections. It refers to a material entering directly into the commodity being priced or used directly in the manufacturing processes from which the commodity results, together with packaging materials, containers (other than returnable containers), purchased fuel, steam or electric energy, and subcontracted industrial services which are directly related to the manufacture of the commodity. The term does not include materials or sub-contracted industrial services used in replacing, maintaining or expanding your plant and equipment, nor other materials or supplies the use of which is not directly dependent upon the rate at which you manufacture the commodity being priced.

SEC. 11. General description of the methods available. (a) There are four alternative methods available to you for calculating "the materials cost adjustment." You should use the one best suited to your particular situation. Only manufacturing materials may be taken into account in your calculations and you will measure their change in cost to you between prescribed dates. You are permitted, however, to omit any manufacturing material which is not significant or whose cost has not decreased between the prescribed dates. This section contains ony general descriptions, as an aid in understanding. The exact provisions which are in the following sections are controlling.

(b) (1) Method 1. Method 1 allows you to measure the increase in your manufacturing materials costs upon the basis of a unit of your business not larger than a plant, or, if you have only one plant, upon the basis of your entire business. Under this method, which is set forth in section 12, you calculate a percentage increase in your manufacturing materials costs upon the basis of net sales and materials put into production during a yearly accounting period. If you make the calculations upon the basis of your entire business, you apply the percentage increase uniformly to all of your commodities. If the calculations are upon the basis of separate units of your business, you apply the percentage increase for each unit uniformly to all of the commodities produced in that unit. There are specific limitations upon the use of this method where you have had significant substitution of materials.

(2) Method 2. Method 2 is for an individual commodity and is based upon the increase in your unit manufacturing materials cost for that commodity. Under this method "the materials cost adjustment" will ordinarily differ for each commodity. You should probably use this method, therefore, if the various commodities you produce have had substantially different material cost increases since the end of your base period, or vary widely from each other in the ratio between unit manufacturing materials cost and sales price. This method, however, is more burdensome because it requires a separate calculation for each commodity.

(3) Method 3. Method 3 is for a product line and is based upon the increase in your unit manufacturing materials cost for the best selling commodity in the product line. A percentage figure for this increase is derived which is applied to the base period price of each commodity in the product line. This method may be more appropriate than Method 2 if you have a number of closely related commodities whose material cost increases have been about the same.

(4) Method 4. Method 4 may also be used for a product line or it may be used for a category. It is based upon the increase in the cost of the bill of materials used in producing the goods sold during an accounting period of three months or less. Like Methods 1 and 3 it yields a uniform materials cost adjustment factor for all commodities in the product line or category. If your records are in a form which permits you to use this method, you may find it simpler to apply than Method 1.

(c) You may select whichever one of the four methods you consider best suited to the nature of your business and most adaptable to the records you maintain. If you select the first, third, or fourth method, you must use it for each commodity in the particular unit of business involved (or for all of your commodities if your calculations are based upon your entire business), product line or category.

SEC. 12. Omission of certain manufacturing materials from your calculations. Under any of the four alternative methods which you use for calculating "the materials cost adjustment" you may omit from your calculations any manufacturing material which is not significant or whose cost to you has not decreased between the prescribed dates. Consequently, a reference to "each manufacturing material" under any of the four methods means each such material you are including in your calculations.

SEC. 13. Method 1 (Aggregate method). To calculate "the materials cost adjustment" under this method, you do the following:

(a) Find the dollar amount of your net sales for your last fiscal year ended not later than December 31, 1950, for your entire business, or for a unit of your business for which you regularly maintain accounts and in which the commodity being priced is produced. You may not, however, use your entire business for this calculation if you operate more than one plant. Nor may you use a unit of your business which includes the output of more than one plant, although you may use a unit less inclusive than a plant. If you use a unit of your business, you must include in net sales the value of any commodity or material transferred from that unit to another unit of your business. The value shall be that shown in your records. If your records do not show a value, you may not use that unit of your business for making your calculations.

(b) Multiply the physical amount of each manufacturing material which you used during the same fiscal year either in your entire business or in a unit of your business, whichever you are calculating on, by the dollars-and-cents amount of the change in net cost per unit of the material to you between the end of your base period and December 31, 1950. The term "end of your base period" is explained in section 47 (Definitions). For any material listed in Appendix B you may figure the change to March 15, 1951, and for any material listed in Appendix C you may include the increase to any current date subject to the limitations in section 21. Before starting to figure the change in net cost per unit of the material, you should read carefully the instructions contained in sections 17 through 23.

(c) Add together the resulting figures derived under paragraph (b) of this section which represent increases in net cost. Do the same with the resulting figures which represent decreases in net cost. Subtract the total of the decreases from the total of the increases.

(d) Divide the final figure derived under paragraph (c) of this section by the amount of your net sales found under paragraph (a) of this section. The resulting percentage is referred to as your "materials cost adjustment factor".

(e) Multiply the base period price of the commodity being priced by your materials cost adjustment factor. This will give "the materials cost adjustment" to be added to the base period price in accordance with section 3 (a).

(f) If you use this section and your calculations are based upon your entire business, the materials cost adjustment factor which you derive must be used for all of your commodities. If your calculations are based upon a particular unit of your business, the materials cost adjustment factor which you derive must be used for all commodities produced in that unit and may not be used for commodities produced in any other unit of your business.

(g) You may not use this section if you have replaced, in any significant degree, the materials used by you during your base period with lower-priced substitute materials. (For example, if you are a manufacturer of rubber automobile tires, and you are now using a significantly larger percentage of synthetic rubber than you did in your base period, you may not use Method 1.)

SEC. 14. Method 2 (Individual commodity method). To calculate "the materials cost adjustment" under this method, you do the following:

(a) Find the physical amount of each manufacturing material which you normally used in your base period per unit of the commodity being priced.

(b) Multiply this physical amount of each of these manufacturing materials by the change in its net cost per unit to you between (1) the last day of the base period you elected for the commodity being priced and (2) December 31, 1950. For any material listed in Appendix B you may figure the change to March 15, 1951, and for any material listed in Appendix C you may figure the change to a current date subject to the limitations in section 21. Before starting to figure the change in net cost, you should read carefully the instructions contained in sections 17 through 23.

(c) Add together the resulting figures derived under paragraph (b) of this section which represent increases in net cost. Do the same with the resulting figures which represent decreases in net cost. The difference between these totals is "the materials cost adjustment" to be added to the base period price in accordance with section 3 (a).

Example: The commodity you are pricing uses three different manufacturing materials. For each unit of the commodity, you require 5 pounds of material A, 10 pounds of material B, and 1 gallon of material C. Before Korea, material A cost you $1.00 per pound, material B $2.00 per pound and material C $0.50 per gallon. Your net cost per unit of material A on your last invoice before December 31, 1950 was $1.50 and for material B it was still $2.00. Material C is listed in Appendix B; your last invoice prior to March 15, 1951 was $1.00 per gallon. Your increase for material A was, therefore, 5 multiplied by 50 cents (the difference between $1.50 and $1.00) or $2.50. Material B has not changed in price and may, therefore, be omitted. For material C, 1 gallon multiplied by 50 cents equals 50 cents. In addition, the commodity was enameled for you by an outside contractor at a cost of $1.00 per unit before Korea, and the price for the service as of March 15, 1951 was $1.25, a difference of 25 cents. Your materials cost increase for the commodity is, therefore, $2.50 for material A, 50 cents for material C, and 25 cents for the enameling service, or a total of $3.25. This is "the materials cost adjustment".

SEC. 15. Method 3 (Product line method using best selling commodity). This method is essentially the same as Method 2 except that the calculations are made for the best selling commodity in a product line. To calculate "the materials cost adjustment" under this method, you do the following:

(a) Select the best selling commodity in the product line of which the commodity being priced is a part.

(1) "Product line" refers to a group of closely related commodities which differ in such respects as style, model or size and which are normally classed together as a product line in your industry. Generally speaking, each commodity in the same product line must serve the same purpose and must be made by the same manufacturing process from substantially the same materials. A product line may never be broader than a category and usually will be narrower. The relationship between the commodities will normally be substantially closer in a product line than in a category. For example, stripped, standard and deluxe models of refrigerators are separate product lines, but a single category.

(2) "The best selling commodity" refers to the commodity in a product line which accounted for the greatest dollar volume of sales in the product line in your base period.

(b) Using the best selling commodity, make the calculations prescribed in section 14. This will give "the materials cost adjustment" for the best selling commodity, i. e., the amount to be added to its base period price.

(c) Divide "the materials cost adjustment" by the base period price of the best selling commodity. The resulting percentage is referred to as your "materials cost adjustment factor."

(d) Apply your materials cost adjustment factor to the base period price of each commodity in the product line. The resulting figure for each commodity is "the materials cost adjustment" to be added to the base period price of that commodity in accordance with section 3 (a).

(e) If you use this section it must be used for each commodity in the product line for which you have made your calculations.

Example: You have three commodities in a product line, whose base period prices were $8, $10 and $12, respectively. The best selling item was the $10 commodity. "The materials cost adjustment" for that commodity calculated under section 14 was $2, or 20 percent. "The materials cost adjustment" for the $8 commodity is, therefore, 20 percent of $8, or $1.60, and for the $12 commodity, 20 percent of $12, or $2.40.

SEC. 16. Method 4 (Composite bill of materials method). Under this method you make your calculations for the increase in your manufacturing materials cost for a product line or a category. To calculate "the materials cost adjustment" under this method, you do the following:

(a) Find the total net sales of all commodities in the product line or category for your last complete accounting period of three months or less ended not later than the last day of your base period (or if your base period is April 1 through June 24, 1950, ended not later than June 30, 1950). You must include in net sales the value, as shown in your records, of any transfer of a commodity in that product line or category to another unit of your business. If your records do not show a value, you may not use this section for that product line or category.

(b) Find the total physical amount of each manufacturing material used in producing the commodities in that product line or category sold in that accounting period. (Note that, in contrast to Method 1, you find here the physical bill of materials used in producing the goods sold in a short accounting period; while, under Method 1, you find the aggregate quantities of materials used, i. e., put into the production process, in an annual accounting period).

(c) Multiply this total physical amount by the dollars-and-cents change, between (1) the end of your base period and (2) December 31, 1950, in net cost to you per unit of the material used. For any material listed in Appendix B you may figure the change to March 15, 1951 and for any material listed in Appendix C you may figure the change to a current date subject to the limitations in section 21. Add together the resulting figures which represent increases in net cost. Do the same with the resulting figures which represent decreases in net cost. The difference between these totals is your increase in manufacturing materials cost. Before starting to figure the change in net cost you should read carefully the instructions contained in sections 17 through 23.

(d) Divide your increase in manufacturing materials cost derived under paragraph (c) of this section by the amount of your net sales found under paragraph (a) of this section. This percentage is referred to as your "materials cost adjustment factor."

(e) Apply your materials cost adjustment factor derived under paragraph (d) of this section to the base period price of the commodity being priced. The resulting figure is "the materials cost adjustment" to be added to the base period price in accordance with section 3 (a).

(f) You may use this section only if you use it for each commodity included in the product line or category.

SPECIAL INSTRUCTIONS TO BE FOLLOWED IN CALCULATING THE MATERIALS COST ADJUSTMENT

SEC. 17. General nature of these instructions. Section 18 will apply to your calculations irrespective of which of the four alternative methods you use. Sections 19 through 23 may be applicable to you depending upon whether you are covered by certain described situations which are briefly indicated by the section heading and opening sentence of the section.

SEC. 18. How to compute the net cost to you of a manufacturing material as of a prescribed date. Under any of the four alternative methods you may use for calculating "the materials cost adjustment," you must figure the change, between prescribed dates, in the net cost to you per unit of each manufacturing material included in your calculations. (The earlier "prescribed date" is June 24, 1950, or another date depending on the base period you elected. The later "prescribed date" is December 31, 1950, March 15, 1951 or a current date as permitted by section 21). To determine the net cost to you per unit of a manufacturing material as of a prescribed date, you use the first of the following prices available to you. In no event may the price you use be in excess of the ceiling price under a ceiling price regulation in effect on the date of issuance of this regulation. If you use paragraphs (c), (d), (e), (f), (g) or (h) of this section, you must disregard any price based upon a departure from your normal buying practices. Such a departure would include quantities smaller than those you usually purchase or contract for, or use of a more distant or different class or supplier (other than the United States), or use of subcontracted industrial services in an amount in excess of that used in your base period. For example, you must disregard any price based upon a change in your source of supply from a manufacturer to a reseller or warehouseman or from a domestic to a foreign source of supply. Likewise, you must disregard any price which is based upon a purchase of conversion steel, except as permitted in section 44.

(a) The exchange quotation for the nearest monthly contract as of the close of business on the prescribed date (or the nearest preceding date for which such a quotation is available) for any commodity traded regularly upon a commodity exchange operating under the jurisdiction of the Commodity Exchange Authority or the Sugar Exchanges and you must use the quotation for both of the prescribed dates. Also you must use the same commodity exchange for both of the prescribed dates. If the commodity is one which is not itself quoted on such an exchange, but another grade of that commodity is so quoted, you may use the exchange quotation for such other grade provided you do so for both of the prescribed dates.

(b) The selling price for rubber as of the prescribed date established by an agency of the United States Government.

(c) The net price per unit of the material shown on the invoice for the last delivery of the material to you prior to the prescribed date. If, however, the delivery was received more than 30 days prior to the prescribed date or was pursuant to a contract bearing a firm price entered into more than 60 days prior to the prescribed date, you may not use this paragraph (c). If within 30 days prior to each of the applicable prescribed dates, you received more than one delivery of the same manufacturing material, you must use an average price for each such date. You obtain this average price by dividing the net amount you paid for all deliveries of the material during each of the 30-day periods by the total number of units of the material delivered to you during each period. In obtaining this average price you should not include any delivery made pursuant to a contract bearing a firm price entered into more than sixty days prior to the prescribed date. The average price for each period is the price you use for each of the respective prescribed dates. The term "30 days" as used in this paragraph means either a period of 30 consecutive days or an accounting month customarily used by you, provided that it is the last accounting month terminating not later than the applicable prescribed date. Where the applicable prescribed date is June 24, 1950 you may use an accounting month terminating not later than June 30, 1950.

[Paragraph (c) amended by Amdt. 3]

(d) The net price per unit of the material stipulated in the written contract for the material which you entered into last prior to the prescribed date, provided that it was entered into not more than 60 days prior thereto.

(e) The net price per unit of the material stipulated in the written offer for sale of the material to you made last prior to the prescribed date provided that the offer was made within 60 days prior to the prescribed date and that you still have the written offer or obtain a copy of it from the offerer.

(f) The net price per unit of the material shown on the invoice for the last delivery of the material to you. You may elect not to use this pricing method if you believe that the material cost change determined under this paragraph does not reflect the appropriate change in your cost of any material.

[Paragraph (f) added by Amdt. 10]

(g) The net price per unit of the material stipulated in the written contract for the material which you entered into last prior to the prescribed date. You may elect not to use this pricing method if you believe that the material cost change determined under this paragraph does not reflect an appropriate change in your cost of any material.

[Paragraph (g) added by Amdt. 10]

(h) The net price per unit of the material stipulated in the written offer for sale of the material to you made last prior to the prescribed date, provided that you still have the written offer or obtain a copy of it from the offeror. You may elect not to use this pricing method if you believe that the material cost change determined under this paragraph does not reflect an appropriate change in your cost of any material.

[Paragraph (h) added by Amdt. 10]

(i) If none of the foregoing is available to you for one or both of the applicable prescribed dates, you may apply to the Director of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C., for an appropriate increase in the cost of the manufacturing materials for use in your calculations. If you make such an application, you must refer specifically to this paragraph; you must describe the commodity being priced and the manufacturing material; you must propose the amount of increase per unit of the manufacturing material you consider appropriate based upon what you would have paid for the material if you had purchased it on each of the applicable prescribed dates; you must set forth in detail supporting reasons and why this paragraph is applicable. You must file this application before using the increase you propose. Although you need not await a reply from the Director of Price Stabilization, he may at any time disapprove the increase you propose, stipulate the amount of increase which he will approve or request additional information.

[Paragraph (i) formerly Par. (f); amended by Amdt. 3, redesignated by Amdt. 10]

SEC. 19. How to compute net cost as of the applicable prescribed dates where you are using a substitute material not used during the base period or used in lesser quantities. In the case of a substitute material not used by you during the base period (or used in lesser quantities or proportions) in the manufacture of the commodity being priced, you must, if you are using Methods 2, 3, or 4 for calculating "the materials cost adjustment", compute the net cost to you as of the end of your base period of the physical amounts of the materials normally used by you in your base period and the net cost to you as of December 31, 1950, March 15, 1951, or a current date, whichever date is applicable, of the physical amounts of the materials normally used by you now. The physical amounts of those materials normally used by you in your base period and now must relate to the same quantity of production of the commodities being priced in the case of Method 4, to a unit of the commodity being priced in the case of Method 2, and to a unit of the best selling commodity in the case of Method 3. Since this calculation cannot be made accurately under Method 1 (section 13), you may not use that method for any unit of your business in which you are now using significant quantities of a substitute material whose current unit cost is lower than the current unit cost of the material used by you during the base period. However, if the current unit cost of the substitute material is the same or higher than the current unit cost of the material used by you during the base period, you may use Method 1, but without making any allowance for the higher cost of the substitute material.

SEC. 20. Inclusion of transportation costs in the computation of net cost of a manufacturing material as of a prescribed date. If a quotation, invoice, contract, or written offer which you use under section 18 did not include transportation costs for delivery of the material to you, you may add the actual amount of the transportation costs which you paid or would have paid for delivery of the material to you, provided that you include them in your determination of the net price of the material as of both dates.

SEC. 21. Calculation of the increase in net cost per unit of materials covered by Appendix C—(a) General description of this section. You will be concerned with this section only if a manufacturing material you propose to include in your calculations of "the materials cost adjustment" is one of the agricultural commodities listed in Appendix C or a product processed therefrom. Appendix C lists certain agricultural commodities selling below the minimum prices required to be reflected to producers by section 402 (d) (3) of the Defense Production Act of 1950. The following paragraphs of this section contain, among other things, special instructions relating to the particular dates to be used in your calculations of cost increases of these commodities.

(b) Calculation by manufacturers of food products. If the commodity you are pricing is a food product you may, subject to the limitations in paragraph (d) and (g) of this section, use a current date in figuring the change in net cost per unit of any of the agricultural commodities listed in Appendix C, or of any food products processed from these listed agricultural commodities.

[Paragraph (b) amended by Amdt. 16]

(c) Calculation by manufacturers of non-food products. (1) If the commodity you are pricing is a non-food product you may, subject to the limitations in paragraph (d) and (g) of this section, use a current date in figuring the change in net cost per unit of any of the agricultural commodities listed in Appendix C, but you must use March 15, 1951, as the date for figuring the change in net cost per unit of any products processed from those listed agricultural commodities.

[Paragraph (c) amended by Amdt. 16]

(2) If the commodity you are pricing is made in whole or in substantial part from a product processed from a listed agricultural commodity, and you believe that the increase in cost to you, since March 15, 1951, of that processed product is due to an increase in the price of the listed agricultural commodity, you may apply to the Director of Price Stabilization for permission to adjust your ceiling price to reflect that increase in price. Your application must describe the commodity being priced and specify its ceiling price; and must contain a statement based upon a report from your supplier as to what portion of the increase in his price to you of that processed product is directly attributable to the increase in price of the listed agricultural commodity. If the Director of Price Stabilization is satisfied that the information submitted by you shows that only the amount of the increase in price of the listed agricultural commodity is reflected in the adjustment you seek, he will approve your application. If, however, he is not satisfied that you have made such a showing, he may withhold approval of your application and require that you furnish additional information. If thirty days after mailing your application you have not received a reply from the Director of Price Stabilization, you may sell at the adjusted ceiling price you propose until such time as you are notified otherwise by the Director.

(d) Limitations on calculations by all manufacturers; removal from listing. After you have made your first calculations under this section, you may become entitled to increase the ceiling price of the commodity being priced, if the cost to you of a listed agricultural commodity (or product processed therefrom) has increased. However, in any event, you may not, in figuring the change in net cost of a listed agricultural commodity (or product processed therefrom), use any date subsequent to the date of deletion of the listed agricultural commodity from Appendix C by the Director of Price Stabilization.

[Paragraph (d) amended by Amdt. 16]

(2) Removal from listing. You may not, in figuring the change in net cost of a listed agricultural commodity or product processed therefrom use any date subsequent to the date of deletion of the listed agricultural commodity from Appendix C by the Director of Price Stabilization or any date more than five days subsequent to the date upon which the Secretary of Agriculture announces for the agricultural commodity, by publication in "Agricultural Prices," a price which equals or exceeds both (i) the parity price as set forth in the same publication and (ii) the highest price received by producers of the agricultural commodity during the period May 24 to June 24, 1950, inclusive, both as determined and adjusted by him.

(e) Definition of "food product". The term "food product" refers to a commodity used for, or as an ingredient in, food, drink, confectionery, or condiment by man or other animals, whether simple, mixed, or compound; and fats and oils used for cooking purposes or in the preparation of food for immediate consumption.

(f) Special provisions for cooperatives, producer-processors, etc. (1) This subparagraph applies to you if you are a producer-processor, and you cannot otherwise determine your "materials cost adjustment" for a listed agricultural commodity under paragraphs (b) or (c) of this section because you do not customarily purchase any amount of that commodity from independent producers wholly unaffiliated with you. In that case, calculate your "materials cost adjustment" as follows: For purposes of paragraphs (b) or (c) of this section, use as your net cost per unit the same prices (with adjustment for differences in delivery costs) paid by your nearest competitor. That competitor must be one who receives delivery of the same quality of the commodity as you do, in the same quantities (baskets, tons, carloads, etc.), at firm prices for processing. However, you may not increase the ceiling price after the date set out in paragraph (d) as the final date that may be used by other processors for figuring changes in net cost. In addition, you must make the report required by paragraph (g) before increasing your ceiling price.

(2) This subparagraph applies to you if you are a processor who purchases the listed agricultural commodity under "open" price or deferred payment contracts which relate the price you pay the producer to facts unknown both at the time the raw agricultural commodity is delivered to you and at the time of sale of the processed product, and you cannot otherwise determine your "materials cost adjustment" for a listed agricultural commodity under paragraph (b) or (c) of this section because you do not customarily purchase any amount of that commodity at prices finally determined at the time of sale. In that case calculate your "materials cost adjustment" as follows: For purposes of paragraph (b) or (c) of this section, use as your net cost per unit the same prices (with adjustment for differences in delivery costs) paid by your nearest competitor. That competitor must be one who receives delivery of the same quality of the commodity as you do, in the same quantities (baskets, tons, carloads, etc.), at firm prices for processing. However, you may not increase the ceiling price after the date set out in paragraph (d) of this section as the final date that may be used by other processors for figuring changes in net cost. In addition, you must make the report required by paragraph (g) of this section before increasing your ceiling price.

(3) This subparagraph applies to you if you are a producer-owned cooperative processor, and you cannot otherwise determine your "materials cost adjustment" for a listed agricultural commodity under paragraph (b) or (c) of this section because you do not customarily purchase any amount of that commodity from independent producers wholly unaffiliated with you. In that case you may increase your ceiling price (as determined under the other sections of this regulation) for products processed from such commodities if the entire dollar-and-cent increase in total gross sales revenue derived from that increase in your ceiling price is passed back to producers within 30 days after the end of each normal accounting period. The amount so passed back must be in addition to the full amount you would normally have passed back to producers had you sold the processed product at the ceiling price determined under the other sections of this regulation. You may not, however, increase your ceiling price after the date set out in paragraph (d) of this section as the final date that may be used by other processors for figuring changes in net cost. In addition, you must make the report required by paragraph (g) of this section before increasing your ceiling price.

[Paragraph (f) amended by Amdts. 2 and 16]

(g) Required report. You may not increase your ceiling price under the provisions of this section above that price initially determined pursuant to the provisions of this regulation unless and until you place in the mail a registered letter, addressed to the Director of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C., containing the following information:

(1) If it is not necessary for you to use section 21 (f) in determining your ceiling prices, you report:

(i) Your existing ceiling price and the description of the commodity.

(ii) The paragraph number in section 18 of this regulation under which you compute your net cost for the manufacturing material, or a designation of the other section under which you compute your net cost.

(iii) The net cost per unit of material, determined under the section mentioned in subdivision (ii) of this subparagraph, used in calculating your last ceiling price under this regulation.

(iv) The net cost per unit of material, determined under the section mentioned in subdivision (ii) of this subparagraph, for the current date.

(v) The increased ceiling price.

(2) If you are a processor who uses either section 21 (f) (1) or (2) in determining your ceiling prices, you report:

(i) The name and address of your nearest competitor selected pursuant to section 21 (f) (1) or (2).

(ii) Your existing ceiling price.

(iii) Your nearest competitor's net cost per unit (for the material) last used by you in calculating under this section 21.

(iv) Your nearest competitor's net cost per unit (for the material) on the current date.

(v) The increased ceiling price.

(3) If you are a processor who uses section 21 (f) (3) in determining your ceiling prices, you report:

(i) The amount retained by you per unit of the processed commodity sold in the last normal accounting period before the end of your base period.

(ii) The amount passed back to producers per unit of the processed commodity sold in the last normal accounting period before the end of your base period.

(iii) The amount retained by you per unit of the processed commodity sold in the most recent normal accounting period.

iv) The amount passed back to producers per unit of the processed commodity sold in the most recent normal accounting period.

[Paragraph (g) amended by Amdt. 16]

SEC. 22. How to calculate "the materials cost adjustment" for joint products or by-products. This section will concern you only if you manufacture joint products or by-products. If two or more commodities result from the same manufacturing operation or from common materials and you are unable to compute the unit manufacturing materials costs for each under section 14, you calculate "the materials cost adjustment" for each as follows:

(a) Establish an appropriate combined unit of production in which are represented the several commodities in the proportions in which they result from the same manufacturing operation or from common materials. (For example, if a manufacturing operation yields, for each ton of commodity A produced, 3 gallons of commodity B and 520 pounds of commodity C, your combined unit of production could be: one ton of A, three gallons of B and 520 pounds of C; or one gallon of B, ⅓ ton of A and 173.3 pounds of C; or any other combination in which the proportions among the three commodities are maintained.)

(b) Find the dollar value of the combined unit of production using base period prices for each commodity, determined in accordance with section 3. (If the base period price for commodity A was $10 per ton, for commodity B was $1 per gallon and for commodity C was $0.10 per pound, the dollar value of the combined unit of production would be $65 under the first example in (a) above and $21.67 under the second example in (a) above.)

(c) Using the same calculations as in section 14 (substituting, of course, the combined unit of production for the unit referred to therein), compute the increase in manufacturing materials cost per combined unit of production.

(d) Divide the increase in manufacturing materials cost per combined unit of production by the dollar value of that unit as determined under paragraph (b) of this section.

(e) Apply this percentage to the base period price of each of the commodities being priced. The resulting figure for each commodity is "the materials cost adjustment" to be added to the base period price in accordance with section 3 (a).

Example: The total increase in manufacturing materials cost for the combined unit of production illustrated in paragraph (b) above, calculated in accordance with section 14, is $13. $13 divided by $65 is 20 percent. Consequently, "the materials cost adjustment" for commodity A is 20 percent of $10, or $2 per ton; for commodity B is 20 percent of $1, or 20 cents per gallon; and for commodity C is 20 percent of $0.10, or 2 cents per lb.

SEC. 23. How to calculate the change in net cost of a manufacturing material which is produced in one unit of your business and transferred to another unit of your business. (a) You will be concerned with this section if you are a multi-unit organization and in your operations you transfer products for further processing or assembly between units of your business for which you regularly maintain separate records. By way of illustration, such transfers may be between departments, plants, branches or divisions. This section deals specifically with a manufacturing material which you produce in one unit of your business and transfer to another unit of your business where it is used in producing the commodity being priced. Such a manufacturing material (which is referred to as a "transferred material") may also be sold to other persons. This section provides three methods for figuring the change in cost of a transferred material in your calculation of "the materials cost adjustment" for the commodity being priced. The method you use depends first on how you calculated "the labor cost adjustment" for the commodity being priced and second, on whether you also sell the transferred material to other persons.

(b) If you calculated "the labor cost adjustment" for the commodity being priced upon the basis of your entire business or of a unit of your business that included the unit in which the transferred material is produced, you may not in calculating the change in cost of that material include any increase in factory labor cost. Your calculation of the change in cost of the transferred material will therefore only take into account changes in the costs of the manufacturing materials directly related to the transferred material. Such change in cost of the transferred material will be included in your calculation of "the material cost adjustment" for the commodity being priced.

(c) If your calculation of "the labor cost adjustment" for the commodity being priced was not based upon your entire business or upon a unit of your business that included the unit in which the transferred material is produced and if the transferred material is one you sell to other persons, you calculate its change in cost as follows:

(1) Find its base period price (i. e., to your largest buying class of purchaser).

(2) Find its ceiling price under this regulation to your largest buying class of purchaser, or if it is listed in Appendix A, its ceiling price under the applicable ceiling price regulation.

(3) The difference between the figure found under (2) and that found under (1) is the increase or decrease in the cost of the transferred material which you use in calculating "the materials cost adjustment" for the commodity being priced.

(d) If your calculation of "the labor cost adjustment" for the commodity being priced was not based upon your entire business or upon a unit of your business that included the unit in which the transferred material is produced and if that material is not one you sell to other persons you calculate its change in cost as follows:

(1) Find the value as shown in your records at which the transferred material was transferred, last prior to the end of your base period (i. e., the base period for the commodity being priced), to the unit of your business in which the commodity being priced is produced.

(2) Using that transfer price as your base period price, determine what the ceiling price would be under this regulation, or such other regulation as would be applicable.

(3) The difference between the figure found under (2) and that found under (1) is the increase or decrease in cost of the material to be used in calculating "the materials cost adjustment" for the commodity being priced.

Example: You are pricing a camera the lens for which you produce. The following paragraphs illustrate the application of the three methods prescribed in section 23.

(a) You have treated the department in which the camera is assembled and the department in which the lens is produced as a single unit in computing "the labor cost adjustment" for the camera. You purchase on the outside the optical glass used in the lens. "The materials cost adjustment" for the camera may include, as far as the lens is concerned, only the change in cost of the purchased optical glass.

(b) In calculating "the labor cost adjustment" for the camera you used only the assembly department. You also sell the lens to others and calculated "the labor cost adjustment" for the lens upon the basis of the lens department. Therefore, in calculating "the materials cost adjustment" for the camera, the change in cost of the lens will be the difference between your ceiling price for the lens under this regulation to your largest buying class of purchaser, and your base period price for the lens to that class of purchaser.

(c) Assume the same facts as in (b) except that you produce the lens exclusively for your own use. You must compute what the ceiling price for the lens would be under this regulation, using the value at which the transfer between departments was made on your books last prior to the end of the base period. The difference between your computed ceiling price and your base period transfer value is the amount you use in calculating "the materials cost adjustment" for the camera.

SPECIAL PROVISIONS RELATING TO CEILING PRICES

SEC. 24. General nature of these provisions. Sections 25 through 29 relate to adjustments of your ceiling prices under certain circumstances. Section 25 relates to rounding ceiling prices. Section 26 relates to retention of ceiling prices established under the General Ceiling Price Regulation where the change in price is less than 1 percent. Section 27 requires that you reduce your ceiling prices to reflect any increase in the value of scrap or waste material generated in your manufacturing processes. Section 28 permits you to adjust your ceiling prices quoted on a delivered basis for certain increases in transportation costs. Section 29 provides an optional method for adjusting your ceiling prices for commodities manufactured in more than one of your plants.

SEC. 25. Rounding ceiling prices. You may round your ceiling prices determined under this regulation so that they will be expressed in the nearest cents or fraction of cent you normally employ. If you elect to do so you must similarly round the ceiling prices for all your commodities normally priced by you upon the same basis, to reflect decreases as well as increases. In no event may the increase be greater than 1 percent of your ceiling price prior to rounding. For example, if you normally quote to the nearest quarter of a cent and your ceiling price for commodity A is 21.20 cents, you may round that ceiling price to 21¼ cents. However, if your ceiling price for commodity B is 27.30 cents you must round its ceiling price to 27¼ cents.

SEC. 26. Retention of GCPR ceiling price where the change in price is less than 1 percent. If your ceiling price for a commodity as determined under section 3 differs by less than 1 percent from that under the General Ceiling Price Regulation, you may continue to use your GCPR ceiling price. However, you may use this section only if you apply it to all your ceiling prices determined under section 3 differing by less than 1 percent from the GCPR ceiling prices, regardless of whether decreases or increases result. For example, your GCPR ceiling price for commodity A is $10 and your ceiling price under section 3 is $9.95. Your GCPR ceiling price for commodity B is $8 and your ceiling price under section 3 is $8.05. You may continue to use $10 as your ceiling price for commodity A, but if you do so you must continue to use $8 as your ceiling price for commodity B.

SEC. 27. Requirement for reduction of your ceiling prices as otherwise determined for any increase in value of scrap or waste material. (a) You will be concerned with this section if in the manufacturing process relating to the commodity being priced you generate any scrap or waste material which you sell to other persons or which is transferred from one unit of your business to another, and if, between the end of your base period and March 15, 1951, there has been an increase in the value of such scrap or waste material. However, you need not make the adjustment called for in this section unless your sales of scrap or waste material are significant. They will be considered significant if, for the plant or other unit of your business in which the commodity being priced is produced, the value of your sales or transfers of scrap or waste material exceeded 3 percent of the total value of your sales or transfers of all commodities from that plant or unit during your most recent fiscal year ended not later than December 31, 1950.

(b) In the circumstances described in paragraph (a) of this section where your sales of scrap or waste material are significant you must make an appropriate reduction in the ceiling prices for each of the commodities resulting from your manufacturing process to reflect the dollars-and-cents amount by which the value of the scrap or waste material generated in the manufacturing process has increased between the end of your base period and March 15, 1951. In calculating this increase in value you should use a method comparable to the one you employed for your calculation of "the materials cost adjustment" for the commodity being priced. For instance, if you used Method 2 (section 14) you should calculate the increase in value of your scrap or waste material per unit of the commodity being priced; if you used Method 1 (section 13) you should calculate the increase in value of your scrap or waste material by an aggregate method. The resulting dollars-and-cents amount reflecting the increase in value of your scrap or waste material per unit must be subtracted from your ceiling price as otherwise determined under this regulation.

SEC. 28. Adjustment of ceiling prices quoted on a delivered basis for increases in transportation costs. If your base period price was, and therefore your ceiling price is, a delivered price, you may adjust your ceiling price to reflect any increase, between the end of your base period and March 15, 1951, in transportation costs incurred by you (not including warehousing charges). You may include in this adjustment only increases resulting from transportation charges paid by you to other persons

(excluding any person who is an employee, subsidiary or affiliate of yours or of whom you are a subsidiary or affiliate). This adjustment is made in the following manner:

(a) Where your base period price for the commodity being priced included full transportation costs from point of shipment to point of delivery, you may adjust your ceiling price by the exact amount of the increase in transportation rates to you between such points, charged by the same carrier or class of carrier for the same class of transportation. You may not include any increase due to changing the class of carrier (e. g., from water or highway to rail) or to changing your customary method or quantity of shipment.

(b) Where your base period price was uniform within defined geographical zones but you maintained an established differential between each zone, you may calculate a transportation cost increase adjustment to be applied to the ceiling price for sales to each zone. This calculation is made in the following manner:

(1) Find the average transportation charge paid by you for deliveries of the commodity being priced to each zone during your last accounting period of not less than three months, ended not later than the end of your base period. If your base period is April 1 through June 24, 1950, you should use your last accounting period of not less than three months, ended not later than June 30, 1950.

(2) Find what the average transportation charge paid by you for deliveries of that commodity to each zone would be, using the transportation rates actually in effect on March 15, 1951.

(3) The dollars-and-cents amount of the difference between the average transportation charge found under (2) and that found under (1) for each zone may be added to your ceiling price for sales to that zone.

(c) Where your base period price was uniform for all sales of the commodity being priced to any destination within the United States, you may calculate a single transportation cost increase adjustment to be applied to the ceiling price for all sales within the United States in the same manner as under paragraph (b) of this section, treating the United States as a single zone.

SEC. 29. Optional method for determining a uniform ceiling price for a commodity manufactured in more than one plant. If the commodity being priced is manufactured in more than one of your plants and is customarily sold by you at a uniform price, but in adjusting the base period price for each plant different ceiling prices result, you may compute a uniform ceiling price. To do this, you first determine the ceiling price for each plant and multiply it by the number of units of the commodity sold from that plant during the last quarter of 1950. You then divide the total dollar amount of such sales from all plants by the total number of units sold from all plants. The resulting figure is your uniform ceiling price for the commodity. If sales from any of your plants in the last quarter of 1950 were not substantial, you may use the last three consecutive months of substantial sales in 1950, provided that you use the same period for all your plants.

Example: You are producing the same commodity in two plants, and customarily charge the same price from each. However, due to a difference in your wage rate changes, your ceiling price for plant A is $2.00, and for plant B is $2.10. Sales during the last quarter of 1950 were 1500 units from plant A, and 1000 units from plant B. 1500 multiplied by $2.00 is $3,000; 1000 multiplied by $2.10 is $2,100; 1500 plus 1000 is 2500; $3,000 plus $2,100 is $5,100; $5,100 divided by 2500 is $2.04. You may therefore use the uniform ceiling price of $2.04 for sales from both plants.

CEILING PRICES FOR NEW COMMODITIES, NEW SELLERS AND SALES TO NEW CLASSES OF PURCHASERS

SEC. 30. Ceiling prices for new commodities differing only by reason of minor changes from commodities whose ceiling prices are established under this regulation—(a) Ceiling price for a commodity first offered for sale between June 25, 1950, and the day prior to the effective date of this regulation. The ceiling price for a commodity first offered for sale by you between June 25, 1950 and the day prior to the effective date of this regulation, differing from a commodity you dealt in during the period July 1, 1949 to June 24, 1950, only by reason of a minor change in design or construction which does not reduce unit manufacturing materials cost or prevent its offering fairly equivalent service, shall be the ceiling price for the previous commodity established under this regulation. If you are no longer manufacturing the previous commodity, you must establish a ceiling price for it in accordance with this regulation and use that ceiling price as the ceiling price for the commodity being priced. If the new commodity differs from the previous commodity only by reason of the use of a substitute material the new commodity must be priced under section 3.

[Paragraph (a) amended by Amdt. 6]

(b) Ceiling price for a commodity first offered for sale on or subsequent to the effective date of this regulation. The ceiling price for a commodity first offered for sale by you on or subsequent to the effective date of this regulation, differing from a commodity for which your ceiling price is established under this regulation only by reason of minor changes in material, design or construction which do not reduce unit manufacturing materials cost or prevent its offering fairly equivalent service, shall be the ceiling price for the previous commodity as established under this regulation. If you are no longer manufacturing the previous commodity, you must establish a ceiling price for it in accordance with this regulation and use that ceiling price as the ceiling price for the commodity being priced.

[Paragraph (b) amended by Amdt. 6]

SEC. 31. Optional method for determining ceiling prices for packaged commodities to reflect cost increases since your base period by changing size or quantity. This pricing method may be used in place of section 32 under the circumstances indicated herein. If you wish to use your base period price for a packaged commodity as your ceiling price and to reduce the size or quantity of that commodity to reflect any permissible cost increases since the end of your base period, you may do so in the following manner:

(a) Determine your ceiling price for the commodity in its base period size or quantity.

(b) Calculate the ratio between your base period price for the commodity and your ceiling price.

(c) Apply this ratio to the base period size or quantity of the commodity. The resulting size or quantity is the minimum for which you may use your base period price as your ceiling price.

Example: Your base period price for a 10-ounce package of commodity A was 25 cents and you wish to retain that price as your ceiling price. Your ceiling price for a 10-ounce package of commodity A as determined under this regulation is 30 cents. 25 cents divided by 30 cents is 83.3 percent. 10 ounces multiplied by 83.3 percent is 8 and one-third ounces. Your ceiling price for a package of commodity A containing not less than 8 and one-third ounces is therefore 25 cents.

SEC. 32. Ceiling prices for new commodities falling within categories dealt in during your base period—(a) Description of the pricing method. This section deals with a commodity which cannot be priced under sections 3 or 30, but which falls within a "category" in which you dealt during your base period. You determine your ceiling price by applying to the current unit direct cost of that commodity the percentage markup over the current unit direct cost of a "comparison commodity" (using your ceiling price for the comparison commodity under this regulation), in accordance with the following instructions.

(b) Current unit direct cost. "Current unit direct cost" as used in this section means the sum of the amounts (not higher than permitted by law) which it costs you, or if you are not currently producing it, would cost you for direct labor and materials to produce the commodity at the time you use the pricing method provided by this section. Current unit direct materials cost shall be computed upon the basis of current replacement prices for materials and current unit direct labor cost shall be computed upon the basis of current wage rates for direct labor. The method used in computing current unit direct materials cost and current unit direct labor cost for the new commodity and for the comparison commodity shall be the same in every respect.

(c) Selection of a comparison commodity. The comparison commodity to be used must be in the same category as the commodity being priced and shall be the first of the following which is available to you:

(1) A commodity dealt in during your base period differing from the commodity being priced only by reason of a minor change in size or quantity or of packaging.

(2) A commodity dealt in during your base period that you are now manufacturing which is most nearly like the commodity being priced and which has current unit direct cost the same or lower than that of the commodity being priced.

(3) A commodity dealt in during your base period that you are no longer manufacturing which is most nearly like the commodity being priced and whose current unit direct cost would be the same or lower than that of the commodity being priced.

(4) A commodity dealt in during your base period that you are now manufacturing which is most nearly like the commodity being priced and whose current unit direct cost is next higher to that of the commodity being priced.

(5) A commodity dealt in during your base period that you are no longer manufacturing which is most nearly like the commodity being priced and whose current unit direct cost would be next higher to that of the commodity being priced.

(d) Calculations to determine your ceiling price. Having selected the appropriate comparison commodity, you determine your ceiling price as follows:

(1) Determine your ceiling price for sale of the comparison commodity to your largest buying class of purchaser if you are now manufacturing it, or what it would be if you are no longer manufacturing it, using either sections 3 or 30 of this regulation, whichever is applicable.

(2) Determine the current unit direct cost of the comparison commodity, if you are now manufacturing it, or what it would be, if you are no longer manufacturing it.

(3) Subtract the current unit direct cost derived under (2) from the ceiling price derived under (1). This will give the gross dollar margin over current unit direct cost for the comparison commodity.

(4) Divide this gross dollar margin over current unit direct cost by the current unit direct cost of the comparison commodity. This will give the percentage markup over current unit direct cost for the comparison commodity.

(5) Apply this percentage markup to the current unit direct cost of the commodity being priced. This is your ceiling price for sale of that commodity to your largest buying class of purchaser. It must be consistent in every respect with the ceiling price for the comparison commodity, i. e., it must carry your customary delivery terms, cash, trade and volume discounts, allowances, premiums and extras, deductions, guarantees, servicing terms and other terms and conditions of sale. Your ceiling price for sale of the commodity to each of your other classes of purchasers shall be determined in the same manner as under section 3 (c).

Example: (i) Your comparison commodity is one you are no longer manufacturing. You find that its ceiling price under this regulation would be $10. (ii) The current unit direct cost of the comparison commodity would be $6. (iii) $6 subtracted from $10 is $4. This is the current gross dollar margin over direct cost for the comparison commodity. (iv) $4 divided by $6 is 66 7%. This is the percentage margin over direct costs for the comparison commodity. (v) The current unit direct cost for the commodity being priced is $7.50. 66.7% of $7.50 is $5.00. $7.50 plus $5.00 is $12.50. This is your ceiling price for the commodity being priced.

(e) Category. Category means a group of commodities which are normally classed together in your industry for purposes of production, accounting or sales. Section 46 of this regulation continues in effect certain provisions of section 16 of the General Ceiling Price Regulation which among other things prescribes that you must prepare and preserve a list of your categories. If the list you have prepared is not representative of your categories during your base period for this regulation, you should prepare such a list by the effective date of this regulation and thereafter preserve it. In applying the pricing provisions of this section, you should refer to it. You might, for example, have a category such as one of the following; desks, office, steel; desks, office, wood; dishwashers, domestic; ranges, domestic, electric; ranges, domestic, gas; refrigerators, household; room air conditioner to 1 h/p; vacuum cleaners, domestic; washing machines, domestic.

[Paragraph (e) amended by Amdt. 6]

(f) Required report. (1) Before selling any commodity for which you have determined a ceiling price under this section, except as permitted under subparagraph (2) below, you must file the report required by paragraph (g) of this section with the Director of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C., and in addition you may not sell the commodity until 15 days after mailing your report; thereafter you may sell the commodity at your proposed ceiling price unless and until notified by the Director of Price Stabilization that your proposed ceiling price has been disapproved or that more information is required. In the event that more information is required you may not sell until 15 days after mailing the additional information.

(2) You need not prepare or file the report required by paragraph (g) of this section with the Director of Price Stabilization, if total net sales of the commodity required to be priced under this section are not expected to exceed ten thousand dollars in value; but no sales of the commodity which would result in its total net sales equaling or exceeding ten thousand dollars in value may be made until after a report has been filed. Appropriate records and work sheets relating to the computation of your ceiling prices must be preserved as prescribed in section 46.

[Subparagraph (2) added by Amdt. 3]

(3) In case, however, the commodity is one required to be priced under this section, and which, prior to the effective date of this regulation, you sold or offered for sale upon the basis of a ceiling price determined under the General Ceiling Price Regulation, you may continue to use your GCPR ceiling price until 15 days after the effective date of this regulation.

[Paragraph (f) amended by Amdt. 3]

(g) Information required in report. Your report should state the name and address of your company; a description of the commodity being priced; the comparison commodity and an explanation why you have selected the comparison commodity as such; a description of the category in which the commodity being priced and the comparison commodity fall; your ceiling price to the largest buying class of purchaser of your comparison commodity, or if you are not now manufacturing it what this ceiling price would be; a detailed breakdown of the current unit direct cost of the comparison commodity, or what it would be; the gross margin, and the percentage markup over current unit direct cost for the comparison commodity; a detailed breakdown of the current unit direct cost of the commodity being priced; the ceiling price of the commodity being priced; delivery, discount, guaranty and servicing terms and conditions and differentials in effect for sales to purchasers of various classes with respect to the comparison commodity.

SEC. 33. Ceiling prices for commodities in new categories, for new sellers and for sales to an entirely new class of purchaser. (a) (1) If you are pricing a commodity which is in a different category from any dealt in by you between July 1, 1949 and June 24, 1950, or which you are selling to an entirely new class of purchaser as referred to in section 3 (c), your ceiling price is the same as the ceiling price under this regulation of your most closely competitive seller of the same class selling the same commodity to the same class of purchaser. A ceiling price so determined must be in line with the level of ceiling prices otherwise established by this regulation.

[Paragraph (1) amended by Amdt. 10]

(2) Before selling any commodity for which you have determined a ceiling price under this section, you must file the report required by paragraph (b) of this section with the Director of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C., and in addition, you may not sell the commodity until 15 days after mailing your report; thereafter, you may sell the commodity at your proposed ceiling price unless and until notified by the Director of Price Stabilization that your proposed ceiling price has been disapproved or that more information is required. In the event that more information is required you may not sell until 15 days after mailing the additional information.

(3) In case, however, the commodity is one required to be priced under this section, and which, prior to the effective date of this regulation, you sold or offered for sale upon the basis of a ceiling price determined under the General Ceiling Price Regulation, you may continue to use your GCPR ceiling price until 30 days from the date this regulation becomes effective for your most closely competitive seller of the same class selling the same commodity to the same class of purchaser or 30 days from the date this regulation becomes effective as to you, whichever is later.

[Paragraph (3) amended by Amdt. 6]

(b) Required report. Your report should state the name and address of your company; the new categories in which the commodities fall and the most comparable categories dealt in by you during the base period; the name, address and type of business of your most closely competitive seller of the same class; a statement of his ceiling price and his differentials to each of his classes of purchasers; your reasons for selecting him as your most closely competitive seller; a statement of your customary price differentials; and, if you are selling to an entirely new class of purchaser, a description of such class of purchaser. If you are starting a new business, you should include a statement whether you or the principal owner of your business are now or during the past 12 months have been engaged in any capacity in the same or a similar business at any other establishment, and, if so, the trade name and address of each such establishment. Your report should include the following: Your proposed ceiling price and the specifications of the commodity you are pricing; the manufacturing process involved; a detailed breakdown of your unit direct costs; the reason you believe the proposed ceiling price is in line with the level of ceiling prices otherwise established by this regulation; and the types of customers to whom you will be selling.

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

SEC. 34. Sellers who cannot price under other sections. (a) If you claim that you are unable to determine your ceiling price for a commodity under any of the foregoing provisions of this regulation, you may apply in writing to the Director of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C., for the establishment of a ceiling price. This application shall contain an explanation of why you are unable to determine your ceiling price under any other provision of this regulation; all of the information called for under section 33 to the extent you are able to furnish it; and the method used by you to determine your proposed ceiling price. You may not sell the commodity until the Director of Price Stabilization notifies you, in writing, of your ceiling price, except as permitted in paragraphs (b) or (d).

[Paragraph (a) amended by Amdts. 3 and 6]

(b) If your ceiling price was determined under section 7 of the General Ceiling Price Regulation, you may, after making the application prescribed in paragraph (a) of this section, continue to use that ceiling price unless and until notified by the Director of Price Stabilization that your proposed ceiling price has been disapproved, or that more information is required.

[Paragraph (b) added by Amdt. 3]

(c) If your ceiling price under the General Ceiling Price Regulation was established under section 7 of that regulation by letter order of the Director of Price Stabilization, you need not repeat in your application for a price under this section any information which you have already submitted to the Director of Price Stabilization and which, in the light of the requirements of paragraph (a) of this section, is still accurate.

[Paragraph (c) added by Amdt. 3]

(d) If your ceiling price was determined under section 3 of the General Ceiling Price Regulation, you may, after making the application prescribed in paragraph (a) of this section, continue to use your ceiling price as so determined until notified by the Director of Price Stabilization of your ceiling price under this section.

[Paragraph (d) added by Amdt. 6]

SEC. 35. Export sales. Your sales for export are subject to the provisions of this regulation.

SEC. 36. Excise, sales, and other similar taxes—(a) Where the tax is included in your base period price. If your base period price for a commodity you are using to determine your ceiling price either for that commodity or another commodity includes any excise, sales or other similar tax which is not separately stated, you must first ascertain the amount of any such tax and exclude it from your base period price. Your base period price, with any such tax so excluded, may then be used in making any appropriate computations for determining your ceiling price. After completing the computations, you may then add on the appropriate amount of any such tax for inclusion as part of your ceiling price. In the case of any increase in such a tax subsequent to the end of your base period, you may include the appropriate amount of any such increase as part of your ceiling price. Likewise, in the case of any similar tax first imposed subsequent to the end of your base period and included in your selling price thereafter, you may include the appropriate amount of such tax as part of your ceiling price.

(b) Where the tax is separately stated and collected. In addition to your ceiling price determined under this regulation, you may collect the amount of any excise, sales or other similar tax paid by you as such only if it has been your practice to state and collect such taxes separately from your selling price for the same or similar commodities. In the case of such a tax imposed by law which is not effective until after the effective date of this regulation, or of any increase in such a tax subsequent to the effective date of this regulation, you may collect the amount of the tax actually paid as such by you, if not prohibited by the tax law. You must in all such cases state separately the amount of the tax.

SEC. 37. Prohibition against redetermination of ceiling prices. Once you have reported your ceiling price or proposed ceiling price for a commodity, as required by this regulation, you may not thereafter redetermine a higher ceiling price, except for the following reasons and upon compliance with the conditions specified:

(a) Increase in cost of agricultural commodities or products processed therefrom in accordance with section 21 of this regulation.

(b) Changes affecting the computation of ceiling prices resulting from amendment, supplement, revision or official interpretation of this regulation. In case of such a redetermination you must file an amended Public Form No. 8 and such redetermination may reflect only the factors covered by the amendment, supplement, revision or official interpretation.

(c) Extension of the effective date of this regulation pursuant to Amendment 6 of this regulation. In case of such a redetermination you must file an amended Public Form No. 8 by July 2, 1951.

(d) Where the base period price is used as the ceiling price without making the calculations of either of the adjustments (labor cost adjustment or materials cost adjustment) or where the ceiling price is the base period price plus only one of the adjustments. Such a redetermination shall be made by filing an amended Public Form No. 8 showing the omitted calculated adjustment or adjustments and it may reflect only the adjustment or adjustments not calculated in the filed unamended Public Form No. 8.

(e) Purely arithmetical errors, however, may be corrected at any time, but the corrections must be reported to the Director of Price Stabilization.

(f) The filing of an amended Form No. 8 under this section is subject to the provisions of section 48 of this regulation.

[Section 37 amended by Amdt. 10]

SEC. 38. Modification of ceiling prices by the Director of Price Stabilization. The Director of Price Stabilization may at any time disapprove or revise downward ceiling prices proposed to be used or being used under this regulation so as to bring them into line with the level of ceiling prices otherwise established by this regulation. Such downward revisions may, of course, be accompanied by upward revisions—as in a case where the Director of Price Stabilization requires an apportionment of the "materials cost increase" for a unit of your business to avoid any inequities resulting from the application of sections 13 or 16.

[Sec. 38 amended by Amdt. 3]

SEC. 39. Recalculation of ceiling prices and announcement of "materials cost increase factors". The Director of Price Stabilization expects in due course to issue an amendment to this regulation providing for a recalculation of your ceiling prices hereunder. The primary purpose of this recalculation would be to reflect more accurately the materials prices established by this and other ceiling price regulations. The Director of Price Stabilization may also from time to time announce "materials cost increase factors" for certain materials in order to provide greater uniformity in the calculation of their change in price since the end of your base period. These factors will be percentage figures based on studies of some categories of important basic materials and parts. If such a factor is announced, it must be used in place of any change you have had in the price of the material covered by the factor, regardless of whether the factor is higher or lower. These "materials cost increase factors" may be announced by amendments or by supplementary regulations to this regulation.

SEC. 40. Adjustable pricing. Nothing in this regulation shall be construed to prohibit your making a contract or offer to sell a commodity at (a) the ceiling price in effect at the time of delivery or (b) the lower of a fixed price or the ceiling price in effect at the time of delivery. You may not, however, deliver or agree to deliver a commodity at a price to be adjusted upward in accordance with any increase in a ceiling price after delivery.

SEC. 41. Petitions for amendment. If you wish to have this regulation amended, you may file a petition for amendment in accordance with the provisions of Price Procedural Regulation 1 (15 F. R. 9055).

SEC. 42. Supplementary regulations. The Director of Price Stabilization may issue supplementary regulations modifying or implementing this regulation as he deems appropriate.

SEC. 43. Adjustment of ceiling prices where over-all loss in operations results. (a) This section permits you to apply for an upward adjustment of your ceiling prices established by this regulation, if as a result of these ceiling prices, you would operate at a loss.

(b) You may apply under this section if:

(1) Your total manufacturing operations have been conducted at a net loss for a period of operation under this regulation of at least one month, or would have been conducted at a loss if you had manufactured the commodities covered by this regulation in your customary quantities and proportions;

(2) The loss was attributable to the level of prices established by this regulation, and not to any of the following:

(i) Seasonal, non-recurring or temporary factors affecting your operations; or

(ii) A reduction in volume of production below the normal economical capacity of your plant; or

(iii) The payment of unlawful wages or excessive salaries or of unlawful or excessive prices for materials; or

(iv) The incurring of factory overhead costs or of selling, administrative and general costs which are abnormally high relative to sales or other costs unless such excess is demonstrated by clear and convincing evidence to have been unavoidable in the exercise of sound business judgment and management; or

(v) Any transactions with affiliated corporations or businesses which either are of a kind which would not result from arm's-length bargaining or differ from the transactions which you have customarily had with such affiliated corporations or businesses; or

(vi) Reserves for contingencies.

(3) The adjusted prices for which you apply will not be substantially out-of-line with the ceiling prices for similar commodities established for other sellers under this regulation.

(c) If you make application under this section, you must supply:

(1) Your name, address, a description of your manufacturing facilities and of the commodities you manufacture, a statement of the principal types of customers to whom you sell;

(2) A detailed annual profit and loss statement for your firm for the years 1946 through 1949, and both an annual profit and loss statement, and if you regularly prepare them, quarterly profit and loss statements covering the year 1950 and each quarter since then;

(3) A detailed profit and loss statement covering a period of operations of one month or more under this regulation, together with a careful explanation of how it was prepared, including particularly a justification of any estimating procedures used in its preparation;

(4) For commodities covered by this regulation, either (i) a statement of your base period and ceiling prices to your largest buying class of purchaser (including delivery terms, cash, trade and volume discounts, allowances, premiums and extras, deductions, guarantees, servicing terms and other terms and conditions of sale) and a schedule of your price differentials to your other classes of purchasers; or (ii) a copy of the report required and submitted to the Office of Price Stabilization; together with (iii) a statement of the section or sections under which you established your ceiling prices.

(5) A showing that the loss in your current operations was not due to any of the six factors in paragraph (b) (2) of this section.

(6) A list of your principal competitors, and a statement of their ceiling prices under this regulation for commodities similar to yours, together with data showing the past relationship of your prices to those they have charged for the same or similar commodities;

(7) A proposed schedule of adjusted ceiling prices for commodities covered by this regulation, and a demonstration that, if these prices were charged, your operations would be at a break-even position.

(8) The application must refer specifically to this section of the regulation, must be signed by a responsible officer of your company, and should be sent to the Office of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C.

(d) Within thirty days of the receipt of your application, the Director will grant or deny your application in full or in part, or request further information. The Director may, as a condition of granting your application in full or in part, require you to submit reports of subsequent operations and may revoke or modify the adjustment at any time. If, thirty days after the acknowledgment of receipt of your application, none of the actions listed above has been taken, you may sell at your proposed ceiling prices until such time as the Director shall notify you that these prices have been disapproved.

SEC. 44. Use of "conversion steel" in calculating "the materials cost adjustment"—(a) Purpose of this section. In calculating "the materials cost adjustment" for a commodity under this regulation, you are not permitted to reflect in your calculations any increase in materials cost occasioned by use of so-called "conversion steel". However, if you believe that this requirement imposes upon you a serious inequity because you are required by NPA Order M-47 (16 F. R. 3130) of the National Production Authority to use more conversion steel than you used in your base period, you may apply for permission to reflect such increase in your calculation of "the materials cost adjustment".

(b) How to apply. Under the circumstances described in paragraph (a) of this section, you may make application, signed by a responsible officer of your company, and sent by registered mail, to the Office of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C., referring specifically to this section and supplying the following information:

(1) A statement describing the nature of your manufacturing operations, and, particularly, the commodities in which conversion steel is used.

(2) A detailed statement showing all of your purchases of steel (whether conversion steel or not) in your base period, and in the three months ended March 31, 1951, listing, for each such purchase, the date, the name and address of the supplier, the exact specifications of the steel purchased, the price paid (including all discounts, extras, terms, delivery charges, etc.), and the amount purchased. If you sold any steel in either of these periods, you must give full details as to such sales.

(3) A detailed statement establishing the amount of "conversion steel" you are required to use under NPA Order M-47 of the National Production Authority.

(4) A detailed statement showing how you propose to reflect in your calculation of "the materials cost adjustment" the increase, since the end of your base period, in the cost of steel (including conversion steel), in the amount and to the extent that you are required to use such steel under NPA Order M-47 of the National Production Authority.

(c) Action on your application. Within thirty days after the receipt of the application described above, the Director will grant or deny, in whole or in part, your application, or notify you that further information is required. If, at the end of thirty days, the Director has done none of the above, you may begin to sell at ceiling prices calculated in accordance with "the materials cost adjustment" you propose. (In the meantime you may, after the effective date of this regulation, sell at a ceiling price calculated without reference to your use of conversion steel.) At any time thereafter, the Director may notify you that further information is required or may deny your application, in whole or in part, but such denial shall not be retroactive as to deliveries previously made.

SEC. 45. Temporary adjustments to carry out existing contracts—(a) Who may apply for adjustment. If at any time prior to the issuance date of this regulation, you entered into a bona fide contract for delivery of a commodity at a firm price subsequent to the effective date of this regulation, and if your ceiling price as determined under this regulation is lower than the contract price, you may apply to the Director of Price

Stabilization for an adjustment of your ceiling price, Provided:

(1) The contract for future delivery was required by seasonal demands or normal business practices.

(2) The contract, if entered into subsequent to January 26, 1951, called for deliveries at a price which was lawful under ceiling price regulations in effect at that time.

(3) You acquired needed raw materials or component parts after the date of the contract at lawful prices in reliance upon and in order to fulfill the terms of the contract.

(b) Calculation of the amount of the adjustment. The adjusted ceiling price will be fixed in the following way:

(1) Take the total price of the quantity of raw materials or component parts acquired in reliance upon, and necessary in order to fulfill, the contract.

(2) Compute what the total price of the same quantity of raw materials or component parts would be as of the later of the two applicable prescribed dates used for your calculation of "the materials cost adjustment". In computing what that total price would be, you will, of course, apply the provisions of section 18.

(3) Subtract the figure arrived at in subparagraph (2) from the figure in subparagraph (1). The result is the total amount of the adjustment. If the figure arrived at in subparagraph (1) is no higher than that arrived at in subparagraph (2), you cannot apply for adjustment under this section.

(4) Divide the total amount of the adjustment by the number of units of the commodity called for by the contract. This gives you the adjustment per unit of the commodity. If the contract calls for the delivery of more than one commodity, the total amount of the adjustment may be distributed in any appropriate way among the several commodities.

(5) Add the adjustment per unit of the commodity under (4) to your ceiling price for that commodity. The result is your adjusted ceiling price. In no event, however, may you obtain an adjusted ceiling price higher than the contract price.

Example: You contracted in January 1951 to supply a mail order house 1,000 units of a commodity at $10.00 per unit, delivery to be made during the months of June, July, and August of 1951. Your ceiling price under this regulation is $9.00. In order to comply with the terms of your contract, you purchased raw material sufficient to produce 600 units at a total cost of $4,200. The cost of acquiring the same raw material as of December 31, 1950 (the later of the two applicable dates used in your calculation of "the materials cost adjustment") would be $3,500. The total adjustment is $700 ($4,200 minus $3,50 equals $700). The total number of units called for in the contract was 1,000. Divide $700 by 1,0000. This gives you 70¢. The adjustment per commodity becomes 70¢ and your adjusted ceiling price for the contract $9.70. Subsequent sales to the contract purchaser and all sales to other purchasers must be at the regular ceiling price of $9.00.

(c) What your application must contain. Applications for adjustment under this section must be filed on or before August 1, 1950, with the Director of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C. Attached to the application should be the following:

1. A copy of the contract;

2. Copies of invoices covering the raw materials or component parts acquired in reliance upon and in order to fulfill the contract;

3. Copies of invoices or other supporting data which indicate your net cost as of the later of the two applicable dates you used in computing "the materials cost adjustment".

4. A copy of the worksheets used in the calculation of your ceiling price.

5. A report of your adjusted ceiling price and a detailed calculation showing how this price was arrived at.

(d) Action on your application. You may not receive payment of any amount in excess of your ceiling price until 30 days after receipt by the Director of Price Stabilization of any application filed under this section. If the Director of Price Stabilization does not revise or modify the adjusted ceiling price reported by you or notify you that further information is required, you may after these 30 days have elapsed receive payment at the adjusted ceiling price for all deliveries made since the date of filing. The Director may, however, at any time revise or modify the adjusted ceiling price, but such revision or modification will not apply to deliveries already made.

SEC. 46. Records and reports.—(a) Record-keeping requirements. (1) With respect to any commodity covered by this regulation the provisions of section 16 of the General Ceiling Price Regulation are hereby continued in effect insofar as they apply to the preparation and preservation of "base period records" and such "current records" as have been made as a result of sales between January 26, 1951, and the effective date of this regulation.[1]

(2) (i) You shall prepare and preserve for the life of the Defense Production Act of 1950 and for two years thereafter all records necessary to determine whether you have computed your ceiling prices correctly, including (but not limited to) records showing base period prices and material and labor costs, and records showing costs, prices, and sales for the other applicable periods and dates referred to in the regulation.

(ii) The records to be preserved under this paragraph must include appropriate work sheets. Appendix E contains suggested work sheets for the more important calculations required under this regulation. The work sheets to be preserved may be in the form shown in the appendix; they may be in any other convenient form so long as they include all data and calculations required to determine your ceiling prices.

(3) You shall preserve for a period of two years all records showing the prices at which sales of commodities subject to the regulation have been made.

(b) Reports. (1) You must file with the Office of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C., on or before the effective date of this regulation one or more reports on Public Form No. 8 in accordance with the instructions which are a part of that form. Copies of the form may be obtained from any Regional or District Office of the Office of Price Stabilization. This Public Form No. 8 is shown in Appendix D. If you report a ceiling price for any commodity higher than your ceiling price under the General Ceiling Price Regulation, you must file your report by registered mail, and you must wait 15 days before selling as provided in section 48.

(2) The Director of Price Stabilization may from time to time require additional information or reports subject to the approval of the Bureau of the Budget under the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

SEC. 47. Definitions and explanations. Unless the context otherwise requires, the definitions and explanations in this section shall be controlling.

Category. This term is defined in section 5.

Class of purchaser or purchaser of the same class. Class of purchaser is determined in the first instance by reference to your own practice of setting different prices for sales to different purchasers or groups of purchasers. The practice may (but need not) be based on the characteristics or distributive level of the buyer (for instance, manufacturer, wholesaler, individual retail store, retail chain, mail order house, government agency, public institution). It may (but need not) be based on the location of the purchaser or the quantity purchased by him. If you have followed the practice of giving an individual customer a price differing from that charged others, that customer is a separate class of purchaser.

If in your industry a practice prevails of charging different prices for sales to groups of buyers based on their characteristics or distributive level, any such group to whom you did not make sales during your base period and for whom you did not have a customary differential in effect during or before your base period, is a separate class of purchaser as to you.

Commodity. This term includes any item, object, material, article, product or supply.

Delivered. A commodity shall be deemed to have been delivered if it was received by the purchaser or by any carrier, including a carrier owned or controlled by the seller, for shipment to the purchaser.

Director of Price Stabilization. This term also applies to any official (including officials of Regional or District offices) to whom the Director of Price Stabilization by order delegates a function, power or authority referred to in this regulation.

End of your base period. This term means June 24, 1950, if your base period is April 1 through June 24, 1950, or if you elected a previous calendar quarter as your base period in accordance with section 4, it means the last day of that quarter. If, however, you have elected different base periods for different commodities or categories in accordance with sections 4 or 5, the date you will use as the end of your base period is determined as follows:

(a) If you are calculating "the labor cost adjustment" or "the materials cost adjustment" upon the basis of a unit of your business, and your base period is the same for all commodities produced in that unit, the last day of that base period is the end of your base period.

(b) If you are calculating "the labor cost adjustment" upon the basis of your entire business or of a unit of your business and your base period for all of the commodities being priced is not the same, the last day of the particular base period you have elected which covers the group of commodities having the largest aggregate dollar volume of sales in calendar or fiscal year 1950 is the end of your base period for your calculation of "the labor cost adjustment."

(c) If you are calculating the "materials cost adjustment" upon the basis of your entire business or a unit of your business and your base period for all of the commodities being priced is not the same, the last day of the particular base period you have elected for the group of commodities having the largest aggregate dollar volume of sales in calendar or fiscal year 1950 is the end of your base period for your calculation of "the materials cost adjustment."

(d) If you are calculating "the materials cost adjustment" for a commodity under method 2 (section 14) or method 3 (section 15) the end of your base period is the last day of the particular base period you are using.

Largest buying class of purchaser. This term refers to the "class of purchaser" of a commodity which bought from you the largest dollar amount of that commodity during your base period. It does not, however, include the United States or any agency thereof, any foreign purchaser, or any person to whom the only sales made during your base period were made under a written contract of at least 6 months' duration entered into prior to the base period, unless the United States or any agency thereof, any foreign purchaser or such contract purchaser was your only class of purchaser.

Manufacturer. This term includes a producer, processor, assembler, finisher, printer or fabricator. You are not a manufacturer unless you substantially change the form of some commodity or commodities, combine two or more commodities into a different one, or create a new commodity from existing ones. If you merely package, label, market, promote, or sell a commodity or combine commodities without substantially changing their form, you are not a manufacturer. If you merely perform an industrial service for the account of others on a commodity you are not a manufacturer with respect to such a commodity.

Manufacturing material. This term is explained in section 10.

Most closely competitive seller of the same class. Your most closely competitive seller of the same class is the seller with whom you are in most direct competition. You are in direct competition with another seller who sells the same type of commodity to the same classes of purchaser in similar quantities on similar terms and with approximately the same amount of service.

Net cost or net price. Each of these terms refers to the cost or price to you of a manufacturing material less any discount (other than a customary cash discount) or allowance you took or could have taken. It does not include separately stated charges such as freight, taxes, etc.

Net sales. This term refers to gross sales after trade discounts, less returns and allowances. In the case of sales where the selling price is a delivered price, transportation charges should not be deducted. This term does not include sales of commodities of which you are not the manufacturer.

[Last sentence above added by Amdt. 3]

Person. This term includes any individual, corporation, partnership, association or any other organized group of persons, or legal successors or representatives of the foregoing, and the United States or any other Government or their political subdivisions or agencies.

Plant. This term refers to a single physical location where business is conducted or industrial operations are performed, for example, a factory or a mill. If such a single physical location comprises two or more units, with separate payroll and inventory records, engaged in distinct industrial activities, each unit shall be treated as a plant.

This definition of "plant" is based on the definition of "a manufacturing establishment" in the Standard Industrial Classification which is consistent with that used by the Bureau of Census in the 1947 Census of Manufactures and subsequent surveys.

Product line. This term is explained in section 15.

Records. This term means books or accounts, sales lists, sales slips, orders, vouchers, contracts, receipts, invoices, bills of lading, and other papers and documents.

Sale at retail. Sale at retail means any sale to an ultimate consumer other than a commercial, industrial, governmental or institutional user.

Sell. This term includes sell, supply (with respect to either commodities or services), dispose, barter, exchange, transfer and deliver, and contracts and offers to do any of the foregoing. The terms "buy" and "purchase" shall be construed accordingly.

Service. This term includes any service rendered or supplied, otherwise than by an employee.

Written offer or written offer for sale. Each of these terms refers to an offer for sale made by means of the seller's price list or, if he had no price list, a written offer otherwise made in the seller's customary manner. The term does not include an offer at a price intended to withhold a commodity from the market or used as a bargaining price by a seller who usually sells at a price lower than his asking price.

You. "You" means the person subject to this regulation. "Your" and "yours" are construed accordingly.

SEC. 48. Prohibitions. (a) On and after the effective date of this regulation, regardless of any contract or other obligation, (1) you shall not sell any commodity subject to this regulation at a price exceeding your ceiling price as determined under this regulation, and (2) no person shall buy from you in the regular course of business or trade any commodity subject to this regulation at a price exceeding your ceiling price as determined under this regulation.

(b) On and after the effective date of this regulation you shall not sell any commodity subject to this regulation unless you have complied with the report requirements of sections 21, 32, 33, or 46, whichever is applicable.

[Paragraph (b) amended by Amdt. 16]

(c) In the event your ceiling price for a commodity under this regulation is higher than your ceiling price under the General Ceiling Price Regulation (except when you raise your price, pursuant to section 21, above that price initially calculated under this regulation) you shall not sell that commodity at a price exceeding your ceiling price under the General Ceiling Price Regulation, except under the following conditions:

(1) You must send by registered mail a report, relating to that commodity, on Public Form No. 8 (shown in Appendix

[1] The portions of the General Ceiling Price Regulation here referred to applicable to manufacturers, are as follows:

SEC. 16. (a) Base period records. You must preserve and keep available for examination by the Director of Price Stabilization those records in your possession showing the prices charged by you for the commodities or services which you delivered or offered to deliver during the base period. * * *

(2) In addition, on or before March 22, 1951, you must prepare and preserve a statement showing the categories of commodities in which you made deliveries and offers for delivery during the base period. * * *

(3) On or before March 22, 1951, you must also prepare and preserve a ceiling price list, showing the commodities in each category (listing each model, type, style, and kind), or the services, delivered or offered for delivery by you during the base period together with a description or identification of each such commodity or service and a statement of the ceiling price. Your ceiling price list may refer to an attached price list or catalog. * * *

(4) You must also prepare and preserve a statement of your customary price differentials for terms and conditions of sale and classes of purchasers, which you had in effect during the base period.

* * * * * * *

(b) Current records. If you sell commodities or services covered by this regulation you must prepare and keep available for examination by the Director of Price Stabilization for a period of two years, records of the kind which you customarily keep showing the prices which you charge for the commodities or services. In addition, you must prepare and preserve records indicating clearly the basis upon which you have determined the ceiling price for any commodities or services not delivered by you or offered for delivery during the base period. * * *

"Base period" as used in section 16 of the General Ceiling Price Regulation means December 19, 1950 to January 25, 1951.

D) to the Director of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C. Copies of this form can be obtained from any Regional or District office of the Office of Price Stabilization.

(2) You must wait 15 days after the date of receipt by the Director of Price Stabilization of the report, as shown on your return receipt.

(3) At the end of that 15-day period, or on or after the effective date of this regulation, whichever is later, you may deliver that commodity at your ceiling price as determined under this regulation, unless and until notified by the Director of Price Stabilization to continue using your GCPR ceiling price, or such higher ceiling price as he may permit, either because your ceiling price proposed under this regulation has been disapproved in whole or in part, or because more information is required.

[Paragraph (c) amended by Amdt. 16]

SEC. 48a. Transfers of business or stock in trade. If the business, assets or stock in trade are sold, or otherwise transferred, after the issue date of this regulation, and the transferee carries on the business, or continues to deal in the same type of commodity, in an establishment separate from any other establishment previously owned or operated by him, the ceiling prices of the transferee shall be the same as those to which his transferor would have been subject if no such transfer had taken place, and his obligation to keep records sufficient to verify such prices shall be the same. The transferor shall either preserve and make available, or turn over, to the transferee all records of transactions prior to the transfer which are necessary to enable the transferee to comply with the provisions of this regulation.

[Sec. 48 (a) added by Amdt. 3]

SEC. 49. Charges lower than ceiling prices. Lower prices than those established under this regulation may be charged, demanded, paid or offered.

SEC. 50. Evasion. Any practice which results in obtaining indirectly a higher price than is permitted by this regulation is a violation of this regulation. Such practices include, but are not limited to, devices making use of commissions, services, cross sales, transportation arrangements, premiums, discounts, special privileges, tie in agreements and trade understandings.

SEC. 51. Violation—(a) Civil and criminal action. Persons violating any provision of this regulation are subject to the criminal penalties, civil enforcement actions, and suits for treble damages provided for by the Defense Production Act of 1950.

[Title amended by Amdt. 3]

(b) Violations of record-keeping and reporting requirements. If any person subject to this regulation fails to keep the records or file the reports required by this regulation, or if any person subject to this regulation fails to establish a ceiling price or apply to the Office of Price Stabilization for the establishment of a ceiling price, if he is required to do so, the Director of Price Stabilization may issue an order fixing ceiling prices for the commodities such person sells. Any ceiling price fixed in this manner will be in line with ceiling prices established by this regulation. The order fixing the ceiling price may apply to all deliveries or transfers for which a ceiling price was not established in accordance with the provisions of this regulation, including deliveries or transfers completed prior to the date of issuance of the order. The issuance of such an order will not relieve the seller of his obligation to comply with the requirements of this regulation or of the various penalties for failure to do so.

[Paragraph (b) added by Amdt. 3]

Effective date. The effective date of this regulation is July 2, 1951, or such earlier date between May 28, 1951, and July 2, 1951, as you may select. If you select such an earlier date, the regulation becomes effective as to you upon that date for all of your commodities covered by the regulation.

[Effective date amended by Amdt. 6]

NOTE.—The record-keeping and reporting requirements of this regulation have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

MICHAEL V. DISALLE,
Director of Price Stabilization.

By: DAVID C. EBERHART,
Recording Secretary.

APPENDIX D

This appendix contains a facsimile of OPS Public Form 8, "Manufacturer's Price Adjustment Report," required to be filed under sections 46 and 48 of this regulation. Printed copies of this form are available at OPS District and Regional Offices.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR COMPLETING OPS PUBLIC FORM NO. 8

Who Must File

Every manufacturer subject to CPR 22 must file this report by July 2, 1951, or such earlier effective date between May 28, 1951, and July 2, 1951, as he may select, as required by sections 46 and 48 of the regulation.

[Above sentence amended by Amdt. 6]

Where Shall the Report Be Filed

Mail to Office of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C. Use registered mail if Item 8 is completed.

Why Must the Report Be Filed

This report is designed to inform OPS of adjustments of pre-Korean prices and of proposed ceiling price increases.

How Many Copies Shall Be Filed

A single copy of this report is to be filed for each category or product line, even though the actual price computations have been arrived at by a method applying to a larger unit of your business. Reporting by categories or product lines is needed to facilitate classification and analysis. Many companies will report only one product line. (See instruction for Item 1 below.)

How To Complete the Form

(Make sure to read the regulation and refer to Appendix E for worksheets.)

ITEM 1. DESCRIBE THE CATEGORY OR PRODUCT LINE COVERED BY THIS REPORT. A "category" is defined in the regulation (Section 5) as "a group of commodities which are normally classed together in your industry for purposes of production accounting or sales." Examples of categories would be: wood office desks; domestic vacuum cleaners; domestic washing machines.

A "product line" is defined in the regulation (Section 15 (a) (1)) as "a group of closely related commodities which differ in such respects as style, model, or size and which are normally classed together as a product line in your industry. Generally speaking, each commodity in the same product line must serve the same purpose and must be made by the same manufacturing process from substantially the same materials." Examples of product lines would be: wringer type washing machines; felt mattresses; ball-point pens.

If the same product line or category was produced by more than one plant and sold at different base period prices, a separate report must be made for each plant and the plant indicated in completing this item.

ITEM 2. GIVE THE DATES OF THE BASE PERIOD USED. "Base period" refers to the period April 1 through June 24, 1950 or any previous calendar quarter ended not earlier than September 30, 1949 which you may elect to use. (See Section 4.)

ITEM 3. ESTIMATED 1950 DOLLAR SALES. Enter in this item the estimated 1950 dollar sales for all the commodities which are included in the category or product line for which the report form is being prepared.

ITEM 4. LABOR COST ADJUSTMENT FACTOR. Enter here the labor cost adjustment factor used pursuant to section 8 (e) or 9 (b) of the regulation. Note that it is the adjustment factor rather than the adjustment which is desired here. The adjustment factor is always a percentage which is applied to the sales or price figure to yield the dollars and cents labor cost adjustment. If you calculated a separate "labor cost adjustment" for each unit of your business enter the labor cost adjustment factor for the unit which produces the category or product line covered by the report.

ITEM 5. MATERIALS COST ADJUSTMENT FACTOR. If either of methods 1, 3, or 4 has been used for the commodities in this category or product line, you will have arrived at a materials cost adjustment factor under section 13 (d), 15 (c), or 16 (d). This adjustment factor is a percentage to be applied to the sales figure to arrive at the materials cost adjustment.

If you have used method 2, which provides for a separate analysis of material cost for each individual commodity, you will have no "materials cost adjustment factor" but only a dollars and cents "materials cost adjustment" (Section 14 (c)) to be added to the base period price. Give the adjustment figure for a selected commodity, which should be the best selling commodity of the category or product line. Show the actual base period price and identify the commodity.

ITEM 6. PRICE ADJUSTMENT RATIO. You may choose to preserve the price relationships established by the General Ceiling Price Regulation. In this case, you will have arrived at a "price adjustment ratio" under Supplementary Regulation 2 to this regulation. Enter here the ratio which will be applied uniformly to GCPR prices.

ITEM 7. CERTIFICATION REGARDING PROPOSED CEILING PRICE INCREASES OVER GENERAL CEILING PRICE REGULATION. All manufacturers filing this report must complete items 1–6 of the report and sign the certification even though they are not reporting any proposed ceiling price increases in item 8.

ITEM 8. PROPOSED CEILING PRICE INCREASES. (a) Identify the commodity in sufficient detail comparable to that which a fully completed invoice would show. Identify also the physical unit to which the proposed ceiling price refers (for example, pound, dozen, piece).

(b) Give here sufficient information to show the nature of the price computed: largest buying class of customer, delivery terms, cash and other discounts and other important terms and conditions of sale.

(c) Estimated sales in 1950 should be only for the specific commodity for which there is a proposed ceiling price increase, but should include sales to all customers.

(d) Insert the base period price to the largest buying class of purchaser which you determined for the commodity in accordance with Section 6 of the regulation.

(e) Indicate your GCPR price for the commodity.

(f) Indicate the proposed ceiling price as calculated under the provisions of this regulation.

(g) Divide the proposed ceiling price (column (f)) by the GCPR price (column (e)). This will indicate the percentage price increase over the GCPR price which is being proposed.

(h) If you used method 2 for calculating the materials cost adjustment separately for each commodity included in the category or product line covered by this report, then you must show here the materials cost adjustment obtained for the commodity for which a proposed ceiling price increase is shown. If you used method 1, 3 or 4 no entry is required in this column since the adjustment factor shown in Item 5 of the report will apply.

ITEM 9. CODE NUMBER. (a) When you complete this form, insert in the box in the upper right-hand corner the appropriate 6-digit code for the category or product line covered by the report. Determine the code applicable to your report from the list of codes given below.

(b) The first two digits represent the OPS price branch concerned with your category or product line and the next four digits represent the industry class in the Standard Industrial Classification now widely used by private as well as Government agencies.

(c) Your careful selection of the appropriate 6-digit code from the list will expedite the sorting, classification, and analysis of the forms upon receipt in this office.

(d) Although a number of commodity classifications not subject to CPR–22 are included in the codes, Appendix A is nevertheless controlling as to commodities and transactions exempt from CPR–22.

NOTE: If prior to May 4, 1951, the date of issuance of this amendment, you mailed to the Office of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C., Public Form No. 8, you need not mail another form relating to the same category or product line solely for the purpose of inserting the code.

APPENDIX E

This appendix contains three "worksheets" for certain of the calculations required in determining ceiling prices under this regulation. No actual copies of such worksheets will be printed for distribution by OPS. They are shown only to indicate the content and arrangement of data appropriate for certain important calculations, for a record of these calculations for your own use, for examination by OPS representatives, and for submittal on request to OPS. Any other arrangement which presents the same data and calculations is acceptable.

The worksheets comprise: Worksheet 1, "Labor Cost Adjustment Worksheet," for use in connection with Sections 8 and 9; Worksheet 2, "Materials Cost Adjustment Worksheet for Methods 1 and 4," for use in connection with Sections 13 and 16; and Worksheet 3, "Materials Cost Adjustment Worksheet for Methods 2 and 3," for use in connection with Sections 14 and 15.

Note that the worksheets do not cover all necessary calculations under the regulation for which systematic working papers are necessary. For example, the final determination of a ceiling price will require also computation of actual adjustments (based on the adjustment factors), the addition of these to base period prices, and the application of customary differentials to determine prices to different classes of customers. Moreover, the worksheets are designed for the more usual situation and will not necessarily fit all special computations provided for by the regulations.

[Ceiling Price Regulation 22, Amendment 18]

CPR 22—Manufacturers' General Ceiling Price Regulation

Definition of Manufacturer; Addition to Appendix

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950 (Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.), as amended, Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2 (16 F. R. 738), this amendment to Ceiling Price Regulation 22 is hereby issued.

Statement of Considerations

A number of inquiries received by the Office of Price Stabilization indicates that there is some confusion as to whether rebuilders of machinery and other commodities are "manufacturers" covered by Ceiling Price Regulation 22. This amendment adds to the definition of "manufacturer" to make it clear that rebuilders and other similar processors of used manufactured commodities are not covered.

When a supplementary regulation was issued recently covering the paint, varnish and lacquer industry under Ceiling Price Regulation 22, with certain alternative pricing methods, the existing exemption of these products from Ceiling Price Regulation 22 was removed in a parallel action. This was accomplished by striking out from Appendix A of Ceiling Price Regulation 22 the words "paints, varnishes and lacquers". In addition to removing the exemption, however, that amendment had the further effect of placing these raw materials in the same category as others unlisted in the Appendix, with the result that the change in the cost of these manufacturing materials could be calculated only up to December 31, 1950, instead of March 15, 1951 as hitherto. This amendment restores the March 15, 1951 cut-off date by listing paints, varnishes and lacquers in Appendix B.

Amendatory Provisions

Ceiling Price Regulation 22 is amended in the following respects:

1. Section 47 is amended to add the following sentence to the definition of "manufacturer": "If you merely rebuild, recondition, renovate, renew or otherwise restore a used commodity, you are not a manufacturer with respect to such commodity."

2. Appendix B is amended to add item 8, as follows:

(8) Paints, varnishes, and lacquers.

(Sec. 704, Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.)

This amendment shall become effective August 1, 1951.

Michael V. DiSalle,
Director of Price Stabilization.

CPR 22—Manufacturers General Ceiling Price Regulation

Exemption of Ice

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950 (Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.), as amended, Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2 (16 F. R. 738) this Amendment 19 to Ceiling Price Regulation 22 (16 F. R. 3562) is hereby issued.

The accompanying amendment exempts ice from the coverage of Ceiling Price Regulation 22. This amendment is a complement to Supplementary Regulation 45 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation and the Statement of Considerations preceding that Supplementary Regulation is made applicable to the present amendment.

Amendatory provision. Paragraph (c) of Appendix A to Ceiling Price Regulation 22, as amended, is amended by the addition thereto of the following:

[Ceiling Price Regulation 11, Amendment 4]

CPR 11—Restaurants

Miscellaneous Amendments

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950 (Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.), as amended, Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2 (16 F. R. 738), this Amendment 4 to Ceiling Price Regulation 11 is hereby issued.

Statement of Considerations

This amendment to Ceiling Price Regulation 11 is issued for the purpose of clarifying the scope of the restaurant regulation and to make the regulation administratively more practical and effective.

The definition of restaurants is reworded in order to make it clear that a restaurant is a place where meals, food items or beverages are sold and served for consumption on or about the premises, and that an establishment which sells food products solely for off-premise consumption is not a restaurant subject to this regulation. However, if an establishment sells meals, food items or beverages for consumption on or about the premises, then all the sales of meals, food items or beverages, whether consumed on or off the premises, are covered by this regulation. For example, where a restaurant sells meals "to-go", as parts of its regular restaurant operation, the sale of meals for off-premises consumption is covered by this regulation. Consistent with the definition of restaurant, a definition of the words "sell" and "sales" has been added to show that these words are used as convenient terms for designating the transactions of restaurants with their customers but that the basic nature of restaurants as service establishments rather than retail establishments, is recognized. Definitions of beverages and food items have also been added to clarify the regulation.

Since the issuance of CPR 11, administrative difficulties have arisen as to the method to be used in determining the "food cost per dollar of sales" by many combination establishments selling other items besides food, which have not maintained separate records showing their food costs and sales. In such cases, the Office of Price Stabilization has issued an interpretation to the effect that such combination establishments will compute their "food cost per dollar of sales" ratio by using gross cost and gross sales of the entire operation. It has become apparent, however, that many irrelevancies are inherent in computing a "food cost per dollar of sales" ratio for the restaurant operation by using the gross cost and gross sales of the food and non-food items. This amendment, therefore, provides a method for computing "food cost per dollar of sales" ratio where an establishment is engaged in a selling or service operation in addition to the serving of meals, food items and beverages for consumption on or about the premises and where separate records showing the cost and sales of the restaurant operation were not kept during the base period.

In the formulation of this amendment, special circumstances have rendered impractical consultation with official advisory committees, including trade association representatives; however, the provisions of this amendment incorporate the recommendations of persons representing substantial segments of the industry. In the judgment of the Director of Price Stabilization, the provisions of this amendment are generally fair and equitable and are necessary to effectuate the purposes of Title IV of the Defense Production Act of 1950.

So far as practicable the Director of Price Stabilization gave due consideration to the national effort to achieve maximum production in furtherance of the objective of the Defense Production Act of 1950; to prices prevailing during the period from May 24, 1950, to June 24, 1950, inclusive; and to relevant factors of general applicability.

Amendatory Provisions

Ceiling Price Regulation 11 is amended in the following respects:

1. Section 1 is amended to read as follows:

Section 1. What this regulation does. (a) This regulation establishes a method of fixing ceiling prices for meals, "food items" and beverages served by "restaurants". These ceiling prices supercede those established by the General Ceiling Price Regulation.

(b) The term "restaurant", when used in this regulation, means any place, established or location, whether temporary or permanent, where any meals, "food items" or beverages are sold and served for consumption on or about the premises. If you sell any meals, "food items" or beverages for consumption on or about the premises, then all of your sales of meals, "food items" or beverages, whether consumed on or off the premises, are covered by this regulation. The term "restaurant" includes but is not limited to hotels (including room service), taverns, cafes, cafeterias, delicatessens, soda fountains, boarding houses, catering establishments, athletic stadiums, field kitchens, lunch wagons and hot dog carts.

2. Section 3 is amended by adding a new paragraph (g) to read as follows:

(g) Combination establishments. If, during the base period, you operated an establishment which not only sells meals, "food items" or beverages but also sells other commodities, products or services, you shall compute your "food cost per dollar of sales" ratio in the following manner:

(1) If, during your base period, you kept separate records of your costs and your sales of meals, "food items" and beverages, your base period ratio and your current ratio shall be computed on the basis of the separate records.

(2) If, during your base period, you did not keep separate records of your costs and sales of meals, "food items" and beverages, but your sales of other products, commodities or services were merely incidental to your restaurant operation, your base period ratio and your current ratio shall be computed on the basis of your total costs and your total sales.

Example: If you sell a pie for off-premise consumption as an incidental part of your restaurant operation, the cost and sale of the pie is to be included in determining your food cost ratio.

(3) If, during the base period, you did not keep separate records for your costs and your sales of meals, "food items" or beverages and your sales of other products, commodities or services were not merely incidental to your restaurant operation, your food cost ratio, on and after August 1, 1951, shall be computed in accordance with the provisions of section 6 (b) and you shall comply with the reporting and record keeping requirements of section 6 (d) (2). If you sell fungible products, such as potato salad, both as a restaurant sale and as a sale other than a restaurant sale and the costs attributable to your restaurant sales cannot be kept separately, you shall include in your food cost ratio the total cost and the total sales of the fungible products which are made both as a restaurant sale and as a sale other than a restaurant sale. However, if you operate an establishment which sells dry groceries and other non-fungible food and you also operate a restaurant, you must segregate the cost and sales of the dry groceries from the food cost and sales of the restaurant even though some of the dry groceries may be used in the sale or service of meals, "food items" and beverages in your restaurant operation.

3. A new section 14 is added to read as follows:

Sec. 14. Definitions. (a) The words "you" and "your" used in this regulation refer to any person who owns or operates a restaurant and includes the United States, any agent thereof, any other government, or any of its subdivisions, and any agency of the foregoing.

(b) "Beverages" means alcoholic and non-alcoholic beverages which are normally sold by the drink for consumption on or about the premises.

(c) "Food item" means an article or individual portion of food such as is normally sold or served by a restaurant for consumption on or about the premises or to be taken out for consumption without change in form or additional preparation.

(d) "Sell", "sale", etc., include the service of food or beverages for a consideration for consumption on or about the premises.

(Sec. 704, Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.)

Effective date: This amendment is effective August 1, 1951.

Note: The record-keeping and reporting requirements of this regulation have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

[General Ceiling Price Regulation, Supplementary Regulation 45]

GCPR, SR 45—Adjustment of Ceiling Prices for Ice

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950 (Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.), as amended, Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105) and Economic Stabilization Agency Order No. 2 (16 F. R. 738), this Supplementary Regulation to the General Ceiling Price Regulation (16 F. R. 808) is hereby issued.

Statement of Consideration

This regulation establishes procedures and standards under which adjustments may be made in the ceiling prices of sellers of natural and manufactured ice.

Ice is an essential commodity to many millions of families and to thousands of institutional and industrial establishments. Yet, there are many communities in which there is a distinct possibility of a shortage of ice due to the threatened closing of ice plants. Many such plants are faced with serious financial hardship and do not have sufficient capital to weather anything but very short periods of financial loss. This hardship is due to a combination of circumstances extending over a period of time. Volume decline of the industry since 1946 due to competitive factors and weather conditions has resulted in higher unit costs. Generally speaking, the operating margins of the industry have been relatively low for several years and, as a consequence, many companies have little or no margin available for absorbing cost increases.

Ice prices were originally placed under control upon the issuance of the General Ceiling Price Regulation. Ice manufacturers and harvesters were later included under the Manufacturers' General Ceiling Price Regulation (CPR 22). The former regulation fails to recognize seasonal price patterns. A substantial number of ice sellers customarily have low winter prices and higher summer prices and the freeze period, therefore, was one of low prices which, under the best circumstances, are probably inadequate for round-the-year operations. The cost increases recognized by the Manufacturers' General Ceiling Price Regulation represent only a relatively small proportion of total cost in ice manufacturing and distribution. Moreover, prices for sales to ultimate consumers are not covered by the latter regulation, so that the over-all relief, to compensate for higher costs incurred since pre-Korea, is negligible.

While it is the policy of the Office of Price Stabilization to issue as quickly as possible regulations tailored to the characteristics of specific industries, issuance of such a regulation for the ice industry is not now feasible. The manufacture of ice is typically carried on by small, local companies because the distribution of ice is limited by the bulk and perishability of the product. Prices vary drastically from one market to another, the price range for sales to domestic users in the larger cities running from 60 cents to $1.30 per cwt. This variation is due, in large part, to cost factors which are related to the volume of business and density of population. Because of the localized character of this industry, an over-all regulation prescribing uniform prices for the country, or even for regions, would not be appropriate and a tailored regulation would have to allow for individual price adjustment for local areas. However, the burden of collecting the necessary data to support such a regulation is great and the time of high consumption is at hand.

In view of the urgency of the situation in terms of the necessity for maintaining supplies of an essential commodity, the Director has concluded that the most effective means of dealing with the problem is to authorize local adjustments in ceiling prices. Adjustments in prices will be made in those cases in which it is shown that a manufacturer or harvester is currently suffering a net loss or earning such low net profits that, if his operations should continue on that basis for a substantial period, he would not be able to continue to meet local demands for ice. In determining the amounts of adjustments, consideration will be given to prevailing prices and to the amounts by which ice prices were increased generally between the Korean outbreak and the issuance of the General Ceiling Price Regulation. Provision will be made, in addition, for adjustment in appropriate cases of the ceiling prices of those who purchase ice from such manufacturers or harvesters for resale.

It is planned to delegate to Regional Directors of the Office of Price Stabilization authority to make the adjustments provided for by this regulation, and Regional Directors will in turn be authorized to redelegate their authority to District Directors. Applications for adjustments will in most cases, however, be required to be filed with District offices.

By a separate action effective on the same day as this regulation the manufacture of ice will be removed from the coverage of CPR 22.

Findings of the Director. In the judgment of the Director of Price Stabilization the ceiling prices established by this supplementary regulation are generally fair and equitable and are necessary to effectuate the purposes of Title IV of the Defense Production Act of 1950.

So far as practicable the Director of Price Stabilization gave due consideration to the national effort to achieve maximum production in the furtherance of the objectives of the Defense Production Act of 1950; to parity prices and the other minimum requirements of the law including prices prevailing during the period from May 24, 1950 to June 24, 1950, inclusive; and to relevant factors of general applicability.

To the extent practicable, persons representing important segments of the industry have been consulted in the preparation of this regulation and their recommendations have been fully considered.

REGULATORY PROVISIONS

Sec.
1. What this regulation does.
2. Who may apply for an adjustment.
3. How to apply for an adjustment.
4. When an adjustment will be granted.
5. Who may disapprove an adjustment.
6. Continued applicability of General Ceiling Price Regulation.

AUTHORITY: Sections 1 to 6 issued under sec. 704, Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.

SECTION 1. What this regulation does. This regulation establishes a procedure for and standards under which ice manufacturers' and harvesters' ceiling prices and the ceiling prices of those who purchase ice from them for resale may be adjusted.

SEC. 2. Who may apply for an adjustment. You may apply for an adjustment under this regulation if you are a manufacturer or harvester of ice. In making your application you may also request that provision be made for adjustment of the ceiling prices of those who purchase ice from you for resale.

SEC. 3. How to apply for an adjustment. Despite the provisions of Article III of Price Procedural Regulation 1, you must, in order to apply for an adjustment under this regulation, write to the Director of the District Office of Price Stabilization for the District in which the plant for which you are seeking a price adjustment is located. If, however, the ice business of the plant involved cuts across more than one District, you will have to write to the appropriate Regional Director. Moreover, in any case in which that business cuts across more than one Region, you will have to write to the Director of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C. You may apply on a form obtainable from any District Office. Whether or not you use the form, you must, in addition to requesting an adjustment, give the following information:

(a) The prices at which you were selling ice on June 24, 1950;

(b) Your ceiling prices under the General Ceiling Price Regulation;

(c) A profit and loss statement in relation to your ice business for your most recent fiscal year, but (1) if you have no profit and loss statement, then a statement of your expenditures and income in relation to such business as reported and reflected in your most recent federal income tax return, or (2) if you have no separate accounts for ice, a statement of expenditures and income for your overall operations and an estimate of the expenditures and income attributable to your ice business;

(d) The dates and amounts of any price changes you have made since the beginning of your most recent fiscal year;

(e) The dates and amounts of any wage or salary increases you have granted since the beginning of your most recent fiscal year;

(f) The tonnage of ice you sold during your most recent fiscal year, and an estimate of your sales to each class of purchaser; and

(g) A statement of your customary seasonal price changes during your most recent fiscal year.

SEC. 4. When an adjustment will be granted. (a) An adjustment in your ceiling prices will be granted whenever the Director or his authorized representative finds, on the basis of the information you have supplied and such other information as may become available to him, that:

(1) You are currently suffering a loss on your net sales of ice or that the level of your earnings on such sales is such that if you should have to continue for a substantial period to sell ice at the prices established by the General Ceiling Price Regulation, a threat will arise that you will not be able to continue to supply ice in the area involved;

(2) That the financial position in which you find yourself is not substantially attributable to temporary, nonrecurring factors or to some factor other than your ceiling prices, and

(3) That the granting of the adjustment will not be inconsistent with the purpose of the Defense Production Act of 1950.

(b) If it is found that your ceiling prices should be adjusted, the amount of adjustment will be such as the Director or his authorized representative determines to be necessary in order to enable you to continue to supply ice in the area of your operation. However, in determining the amount of adjustment, the Director or his authorized representative will consider prevailing prices for ice in your area and the amounts by which ice prices were increased generally between the outbreak of the Korean war and the issuance of the General Ceiling Price Regulation.

(c) Whenever your ceiling prices are adjusted under this regulation, the Director or his authorized representative will, if you have requested it and to the extent it appears necessary, authorize those purchasing ice from you for resale to increase their ceiling prices by adding to the latter prices the dollar-and-cents difference between your ceiling price under the General Ceiling Price Regulation and your new adjusted price.

SEC. 5. Who may disapprove an adjustment. The Director of Price Stabilization or his designee may disapprove an adjustment made by one of his authorized representatives whenever he finds that the adjustment was not a proper one under this regulation. However, if he finds that an adjustment is nevertheless warranted under this regulation, he may order a new superseding adjustment.

SEC. 6. Continued applicability of General Ceiling Price Regulation. All provisions of the General Ceiling Price Regulation, except as modified by this supplementary regulation, continue to apply to you even though you may be authorized under this regulation to adjust your ceiling prices.

Effective date. This regulation shall become effective August 1, 1951.

NOTE: The record-keeping and reporting requirements of this supplementary regulation have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

SECTION 1. What this order does. The purpose of this order is to describe how tin remaining after allowing for the requirements of national defense may be distributed and used in the civilian economy. It restricts the use of pig tin in manufacture, processing, and construction. It prohibits all uses of pig tin, secondary tin, and certain tin-bearing products not expressly set forth in the attached Schedules I through VII. In addition, many of the permissible uses included in the Schedules I through VII are prohibited in connection with the manufacture of the items or for the purposes set forth in List A. The order also sets forth limitations on inventories of pig tin and alloys and other materials containing tin, and explains the conditions under which reports are required in connection with the production, distribution, importation, use, and inventories of pig tin. In addition, it covers the conditions under which reporting is required in connection with the customs entry of tin importation. It prohibits the private importation of pig tin and places pig tin under allocation by prohibiting, subject to limited exceptions, any deliveries not covered by allocation authorizations to be issued monthly by the National Production Authority. It is the intent of this order that other materials which are not in short supply will be substituted for tin and alloys and other materials containing tin wherever possible.

SEC. 2 Definitions. As used in this order:

(a) "Person" means any individual, corporation, partnership, association, or any other organized group of persons, and includes any agency of the United States or any other government.

(b) "Base period" means the 6-month period ending June 30, 1950.

(c) "Manufacture" means to melt, put into process, machine, fabricate, cast, roll, turn, spin, coat, extrude, or otherwise alter pig tin, alloys containing tin, or other materials containing tin, by physical or chemical means and includes the use of tin and alloys and other materials containing tin in plating, and in chemical compounding and processing. It does not include the use of tin contained in any "in process" materials or any other materials not actually to be incorporated into the items to be manufactured, such "in process" materials and other materials being included under paragraphs (d) and (e) of this section.

(d) "Maintenance" means the minimum upkeep necessary to continue a building, machine, piece of equipment, or facility in sound working condition, and "repair" means the restoration of a building, piece of equipment, or facility to sound working condition when the same has been rendered unsafe or unfit for service by wear and tear, damage, failure of parts, or the like: Provided, however, Neither maintenance nor repair includes the improvement of any such item with material of a better kind, quality, or design.

(e) "Operating supplies" means any tin or alloy or other material containing tin normally carried by a person as operating supplies according to established accounting practice and not included in his finished product, except that materials included in such product which are normally chargeable to operating expense may be treated as operating supplies.

(f) "Import" means to transport in any manner into the continental United States from areas outside the continental United States, including territories and possessions. It includes shipments into foreign-trade zones, customs bonded warehouses, and customs custody, except when such shipments are merely in transit through the continental United States, to destinations outside the continental United States, as shown by the bills of lading or other shipping documents. However, if any such material in transit is halted or diverted to a destination in the continental United States or subjected to processing or manufacture in the continental United States, it becomes an "import" for the purposes of this order.

(g) "Pig tin" means metal containing 95 percent or more by weight of the element tin, in shapes current in the trade, including anodes, small bars, and ingots, but excluding the products specifically listed in Section IV of report Form NPAF-7.

(h) "Secondary tin" means any alloy, produced from scrap, which contains less than 95 percent but not less than 1.5 percent by weight of the element tin.

(i) For the purpose of the reporting requirements relating to imports stated in section 14 (b) of this order, "tin" means pig tin and tin in any raw semi-finished, or scrap form, and any alloys, compounds, or other materials containing tin (where tin is of chief value) in any raw, semi-finished, or scrap form. (j) "Copper-base alloy" for the purpose of this order means any alloy containing tin in the composition of which the percentage of copper metal by weight equals or exceeds 40 percent of the total weight of the alloy.

(k) "Scrap" means all materials or objects which are the waste or by-products of industrial fabrication or which have been discarded for obsolescence, failure, or other reason, and which contain tin or alloys or other materials containing tin in a form making such scrap suitable for industrial use.

(l) "Soldering" means joining with solder. This term does not include dipping or solder-coating in which the joining operation is not performed simultaneously with such dipping or coating. (For dipping or coating see Schedule IV and Schedule VII, item 13).

This term does not include facilities or equipment used to manufacture the items described above nor does it include any "in process" or any other materials not actually to be incorporated into the items described above.

SEC. 3. Application of order. Subject to the exemptions stated in section 10, this order applies to all persons who produce tin or alloys or other materials containing tin, or who use tin or alloys or other materials containing tin, in manufacture, processing, or construction, or for maintenance, repair, or operating supplies. In addition, the reporting provisions stated in section 14 of this order apply to persons who produce, distribute, or hold in their possession pig tin, or who import tin.

SEC. 4. Restrictions on use of pig tin and alloys and other materials containing tin. Subject to the exemption in section 10 of this order, or unless specifically directed by the National Production Authority:

(a) No person shall use pig tin for any purpose where secondary tin can be used.

(b) No person shall use any pig tin, secondary tin, solder, babbitt, copper-base alloy, or other alloy containing 1.5 percent or more tin, or other materials containing 1.5 percent or more tin, in the manufacture, treatment, installation, or construction of any item or product, or in any process, or for any purpose, except those set forth in the attached schedules and to the extent permitted thereby. Uses not expressly authorized by said schedules are prohibited.

(c) No person shall use tin in any form specified in paragraph (b) in the manufacture of any item or in any process set forth in List A, even though such use might otherwise be permissible under paragraph (b): Provided, however, That this prohibition will not apply to the use of solder for joining purposes to the extent permitted in attached Schedule II.

(d) In addition to the restrictions set forth in the attached schedules, no person shall use: (1) In the manufacture of any product or for any purpose as to which the attached schedules limit tin content, any alloys or other materials having a tin content greater than that being used by such person in such manufacture or for such purpose on January 27, 1951; (2) in the coating of any item, a heavier coating in terms of tin content than that being used by such person for such purpose on January 27, 1951; or (3) any metal to which pig tin has been added to produce any product or perform any process for which the use of pig tin is not permitted in the schedules.

SEC. 5. Limitations on use of pig tin. Subject to the restrictions in section 4 of this order, or unless specifically directed by the National Production Authority, during the calendar quarter commencing July 1, 1951, no person shall use in the manufacture, processing, installation, construction, or treating of any item or product a total quantity by weight of pig tin in excess of 90 percent of his average quarterly use of pig tin for such purposes during the base period except as modified in Schedule IV and Schedule VI–B of this order: Provided, however, That such use in any one month shall not exceed 40 percent of the permitted quarterly use.

SEC. 6. Maintenance, repair, and operating supplies. Unless specifically directed by the National Production Authority, no person shall use for maintenance, repair, and operating supplies during the calendar quarter commencing July 1, 1951, or any calendar quarter thereafter, a quantity by weight of pig tin in excess of 100 percent of his average quarterly use of pig tin for such purposes during the base period: Provided, however, That his use of pig tin for such purposes shall be in accordance with, and only to the extent permitted in, the attached schedules, and that no pig tin shall be used for such purposes where secondary tin can be used.

SEC. 7. Allocation of pig tin. (a) No person shall deliver pig tin or accept delivery of pig tin for any purpose in any month except in accordance with the terms of an allocation authorization issued for such month by the National Production Authority. An allocation authorization will be sent by the National Production Authority to the appropriate supplier and the purchaser will be notified of the issuance thereof. The authorization will permit the supplier to make delivery pursuant to the purchaser's order within the limitations of the authorization. The National Production Authority may specifically direct the purposes for which a person may use pig tin in the manufacture, processing, installation, treating, or construction of any item or product, whether or not such pig tin has been directly allocated to such person. A person who has received pig tin pursuant to an allocation for the purpose of resale may dispose of such pig tin only by resale. The issuance of an allocation authorization by the National Production Authority shall not dispense with the necessity of complying with the requirements of section 8 of this order with regard to certification.

(b) An application for an allocation authorization must be filed with the National Production Authority by the proposed purchaser on Form NPAF–7 not later than the twentieth day of the month preceding the month in which delivery is sought, and such application shall separately indicate the quantity of pig tin requested for use and the quantity requested for resale.

(c) No person shall deliver any pig tin if he knows, or has reason to believe, that the person requesting delivery is not permitted to receive it under this order or will use it for purposes not permitted by this order.

(d) The provisions of paragraph (a) of this section shall not apply to any: (1) delivery of pig tin to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation or the General Services Administration for the stockpile of strategic materials; (2) delivery of pig tin pursuant to specific directives of the National Production Authority; (3) delivery of pig tin to any person whose total receipts during the month in which such delivery occurs are and by such delivery will remain less than 6,000 pounds, and who has not received an allocation authorization for pig tin for that month, and who furnishes to the supplier a signed certification in substantially the following form:

The undersigned certifies, subject to the penalties of Title 18, U. S. Code (Crimes), section 1001, that receipt of this shipment of pig tin in the month requested is permitted by NPA Order M–8; that no allocation authorization for pig tin for that month has been issued to the undersigned by the National Production Authority; that his total receipt of pig tin in that month, including that covered by this order, will not exceed 6,000 pounds; and that the pig tin herein ordered will be used only for the purposes permitted by NPA Order M–8 (Schedule ------, Item ------) as follows:[1]

(Specify end use)

Any person who furnishes the foregoing certification shall not be required to furnish, with respect to pig tin, the certification required by section 8 of this order.

SEC. 8. Certification. (a) No person shall sell or deliver and no person shall purchase or accept delivery of any pig tin, secondary tin, solder, babbitt, or any other alloys or materials containing 1.5 percent or more tin (excluding ores and concentrates) until the purchaser has furnished a signed certification in substantially the following form:

The undersigned certifies, subject to the penalties of Title 18, U. S. Code (Crimes), section 1001, that the tin or tin product here-in ordered will be used only for the purposes permitted by NPA Order M–8 (Schedule-----, item-----) as follows:[1]

This certification constitutes a representation by the purchaser to the seller and to the National Production Authority that the tin or tin-bearing products or materials delivered will be used either for the purpose or purposes set forth in the attached schedules or for "implements of war," or for resale without change in form (other than packaging), and that such use is not prohibited by other applicable orders or regulations of the National Production Authority.

[1] In cases coming within the exemption stated in section 10, substitute the phrase "implements of war" for the reference to Schedule and item. Where the tin or tin products are purchased for resale without change in form (other than packaging), substitute the phrase "for resale upon proper certification."

(b) This certification shall not be required in connection with the delivery of: (1) tin to the General Services Administration for the stockpile of strategic materials; (2) tin or tin-bearing items or products pursuant to a specific authorization of the National Production Authority; (3) solder in lots not exceeding 2 pounds, if in wire form, solid or cored, not over 1/32 inch in diameter, and containing no more than 40 percent tin by weight; (4) solder in lots not exceeding 5 pounds, if in any other form and containing not more than 35 percent tin by weight; (5) babbitt for bearing purposes containing 10 percent or less tin; (6) babbitt for bearing purposes of any specifications in lots of 5 pounds or less; (7) printing plates and type metal containing tin for use by the printing, publishing, and related services industries; (8) liquor-finished wire; or (9) copper-base alloy scrap containing not more than 6 percent tin by weight when delivered to a scrap dealer, brass mill, or smelter. Such scrap when delivered to any other person and all other scrap containing 1.5 percent or more tin by weight may be delivered only upon proper certification by the purchaser.

(c) No person giving a certification under this section may receive, use, or dispose of the materials obtained upon such certification contrary to its terms.

SEC. 9. Defense orders for items containing tin. Notwithstanding the provisions of NPA Reg. 2 which establishes a priorities system, rated orders calling for items containing tin are subject to the provisions of sections 4, 5, 6, and 8 of this order unless within the exemption provided in section 10 or unless otherwise directed by the National Production Authority.

SEC. 10. Exemption. The restrictions of section 4 of this order shall not apply to the manufacture of "implements of war" produced for the Department of Defense, Atomic Energy Commission, United States Coast Guard, and the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, provided that the use of tin contrary to these restrictions is required either by the latest applicable specifications or drawings, or by letter or contract issued by any such government agency for which the "implements of war" are being produced.

SEC. 11. Inventories. In addition to the inventory provisions of NPA Reg. 1, it is considered that a more exact requirement applying to users of pig tin or alloys or other materials containing tin (excluding ores and concentrates) is necessary.

(a) No person obtaining any such materials for use in manufacture, processing, or construction, or for maintenance, repair, or operating supplies, shall receive or accept delivery of a quantity of the materials listed in Column A below from domestic sources, if his inventory of such materials is, or by such receipt would become, more than the smallest quantity which will be required by his scheduled method and rate of operation to be put into use for such purposes during the next succeeding period specified in the corresponding section of Column B below, or (except for pig tin) in excess of a "practicable minimum working inventory" as defined in NPA Reg. 1, whichever is less:

Column A	Column B
1. Pig tin for tin plate	1. 120 days
2. Pig tin for all other uses	2. 60 days
3. Lead-base alloys	3. 45 days
4. All other materials and alloys containing 1.5 percent or more tin	4. 60 days

For the purpose of this section, any such materials in which only minor changes or alterations have been effected shall be included in inventory.

(b) Section 10.11 of NPA Reg. 1, entitled "Imported materials" will continue to apply. The other provisions of that regulation will continue to apply except as modified by this section.

(c) No scrap dealer shall accept delivery of any form of scrap defined in section 2 of this order, unless, during the 60 days immediately preceding the date of such acceptance, he shall have made delivery or otherwise disposed of scrap to an amount at least equal in weight to his scrap inventory on the date of such acceptance, exclusive of the delivery to be accepted.

SEC. 12. Export certificates. Any purchaser of an item included in the attached schedules who intends to export such item from the United States, its territories or possessions, or from Canada, shall include in the certification required under section 8 of this order the words "for export" as well as the number of the export license applicable to such item. No item may be produced for export unless its manufacture is permitted under the provisions of section 4 of this order.

SEC. 13. Importation of pig tin. Commencing on the effective date of this order, no person other than the Reconstruction Finance Corporation acting for and in behalf of the General Services Administration, shall import into the United States, its territories or possessions, any quantity of pig tin in bars, blocks, pigs, grain or granulated (Item 6551.300 Statistical Classification of Imports into the United States, dated August 1, 1950), except as specifically authorized in writing by the National Production Authority: Provided, however, That this prohibition shall not apply to any private importation pursuant to a contract executed prior to the effective date of this order, which is reported to and approved by the National Production Authority on or before March 23, 1951. The report of such contracts shall be by letter in duplicate addressed to the National Production Authority, Washington 25, D. C. (Ref: M–8), stating the date of execution of the contract, the parties thereto, the approximate date or dates of arrival, and the quantity and brand or brands of the material to be imported.

SEC. 14. Reports and records. (a) Reports on pig tin. (1) Any person using 1,000 pounds or more of pig tin in any calendar month must complete and file report Form NPAF–7 with the National Production Authority on or before the twentieth day of November 1950, and on or before the twentieth day of each succeeding month with respect to such use during the preceding month.

(2) Any person who on any day of any calendar month has in his possession or under his control 1,000 pounds or more of pig tin must complete and file report Form NPAF–7 with the National Production Authority on or before the twentieth day of November 1950, and on or before the twentieth day of each succeeding month with respect to such possession or control on the last day of the preceding month.

(3) Any person who produces, imports, or distributes any pig tin must report his production, entries, receipts, deliveries, inventories, balance of entries, and all other transactions in pig tin either by completing and filing report Form NPAF–7, or by letter in triplicate with the National Production Authority, on or before the 20th day of November 1950, with respect to all such operations and transactions during October 1950, and on or before the tenth of December and on or before the tenth day of each succeeding month with respect to all such operations and transactions during the preceding month.

(b) Reports on Customs Entry. No tin including, without limitation, tin imported by or for the account of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, U. S. Commercial Company, or any other United States governmental department, agency, or corporation, shall be entered through the United States Collectors of Customs, unless the person making the entry shall complete and file, with the Collector of Customs, Form NPAF–8. The filing of such form a second time shall not be required upon any subsequent entry of the same material through the United States Collectors of Customs; nor shall the filing of such form a second time be required upon the withdrawal of such material from bonded custody of the United States Collectors of Customs, regardless of the date when such material was first transported into the continental United States. Form NPAF–8 will be transmitted by the Collectors of Customs to the National Production Authority.

(c) Records. (1) Each person participating in any transaction covered by this order shall retain in his possession for at least 2 years records of receipts, deliveries, inventories, and use, in sufficient detail to permit an audit that determines for each transaction that the provisions of this order have been met. This does not specify any particular accounting method and does not require alteration of the system of records customarily maintained, provided such records supply an adequate basis for audit. Records may be retained in the form of microfilm or other photographic copies instead of the originals.

(2) All records required by this order shall be made available at the usual place of business where maintained for inspection and audit by duly authorized representatives of the National Production Authority.

(3) Persons subject to this order shall make such records and submit such other reports to the National Production Authority as it shall require, subject to the terms of the Federal Reports Act of 1942 (5 U. S. C. 139–139F).

(d) Submission of reports. All reports required by this order shall be addressed to the National Production Authority, Washington 25, D. C., Ref: M–8, together with such number of copies as may be specified in the report form.

SEC. 15. Applications for adjustment or exception. Any person affected by any provision of this order may file a request for adjustment or exception upon the ground that his business operation was commenced during or after the base period, that any provision otherwise works an undue or exceptional hardship upon him not suffered generally by others in the same trade or industry, or that its enforcement against him would not be in the interest of national defense or in the public interest. In examining requests for adjustment claiming that the public interest is prejudiced by the application of any provision of this order, consideration will be given to the requirements of the public health and safety, civilian defense, and dislocation of labor and resulting unemployment that would impair the defense program. Each request shall be in writing and shall set forth all pertinent facts and the nature of the relief sought, and shall state the justification therefor.

SEC. 16. Communications. All communications concerning this order shall be addressed to the National Production Authority, Washington 25, D. C., Ref: M–8.

SEC. 17. Violations. Any person who wilfully violates any provision of this order, or any other order or regulation of the National Production Authority, or who wilfully conceals a material fact or furnishes false information in the course of operation under this order is guilty of a crime and, upon conviction, may be punished by fine or imprisonment or both. In addition, administrative action may be taken against any such person to suspend his privilege of making or receiving further deliveries of materials or using facilities under priority or allocation control and to deprive him of further priorities assistance.

NOTE: All reporting requirements of this order have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

This order, as amended, shall take effect, except as otherwise specifically stated, on July 26, 1951.

M-76—DISTRIBUTION OF LEAD

This order is found necessary and appropriate to promote the national defense and is issued pursuant to the authority granted by section 101 of the Defense Production Act of 1950. In the formulation of this order there has been consultation with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, and consideration has been given to their recommendations. However, consultation with representatives of all trades and industries affected in advance of the issuance of this order has been rendered impracticable by the fact that the order affects a large number of different trades and industries.

AUTHORITY: Sections 1 to 12 issued under sec. 704, Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong., Pub. Law 69, 82d Cong. Interpret or apply sec. 101, Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong., Pub. Law 69, 82d Cong.; sec. 101, E. O. 10161, Sept. 9, 1950, 15 F. R. 6105; 3 CFR, 1950 Supp.; sec. 2, E. O. 10200, Jan. 3, 1951, 16 F. R. 61.

SECTION 1. What this order does. The purpose of this order is to provide for the allocation of the supply of soft pig lead produced by primary refiners so as to ensure that such supply will be distributed in a manner that will most effectively promote defense production and the fulfillment of civilian needs. It also sets limitations on the required acceptance of rated orders for pig lead products and alloys to provide an equitable distribution of such orders.

SEC. 2. Application of this order. The provisions of this order supersede other NPA regulations and orders to the extent that they are inconsistent with this order, but in all other respects such regulations and orders remain applicable to lead and lead products. In particular, NPA Reg. 2 continues to apply to lead and lead products, but deliveries of soft primary pig lead may henceforth be made only in accordance with allocation authorizations issued by NPA, except as may be otherwise provided in this order.

SEC. 3. Definitions. As used in this order:

(a) "Person" means any individual, corporation, partnership, association, or any other organized group of persons, and includes any agency of the United States or any other government.

(b) "Dealer" means any person who receives physical deliveries of pig lead and sells or holds such pig lead for resale without change in form. A person who produces pig lead or who has pig lead produced for him under toll agreement is a producer as to such lead, and not a dealer.

(c) "Primary refiner" means any person who produces pig lead mainly from lead ores and concentrates or base bullion, or who has pig lead so produced for him under toll agreement.

(d) "Lead-base alloy" means any alloy containing 50 percent or more of lead metal by weight.

(e) "Lead scrap" means all materials or objects which are the waste or by-product of industrial fabrications or processes, or which have been discarded for obsolescence, failure, or other reason, and which contain lead commercially recoverable as pig lead or lead-base alloy.

(f) "Lead products" means semiprocessed materials, parts, or subassemblies which have been produced from pig lead or lead-base alloy.

(g) "Pig lead" means and includes soft pig lead and antimonial lead in refinery shapes current in the trade.

(h) "Soft pig lead" means and includes pig lead in specifications corresponding to the grades commonly referred to in the trade as "acid," "chemical," "corroding," and "common."

(i) "Soft primary pig lead" means soft pig lead produced by a primary refiner.

(j) "NPA" means the National Production Authority.

SEC. 4. Allocation of soft primary pig lead. (a) Commencing on September 1, 1951, no person shall accept delivery of soft primary pig lead for any purpose in any month except in accordance with the terms of an allocation authorization issued to him by NPA. An allocation authorization will authorize the person to whom it is issued to accept delivery of soft primary pig lead in a specified quantity and grade, provided that the purchase order is received by a supplier not later than the fifth day of the month in which delivery is requested. Orders placed pursuant to an allocation authorization shall specify the date, serial number, and effective month of the authorization certificate. This section shall apply with like effect to the acceptance of delivery of soft primary pig lead by any branch, division, or department of any business enterprise from any producing branch, division, or department of the same business enterprise.

(b) Applications for allocation authorizations must be filed with NPA on Form NPAF-115 not later than the tenth day of the month preceding the month in which delivery is required. Such applications shall be filed in triplicate and should contain all information required by the form.

(c) The provisions of paragraph (a) of this section shall not apply to:

(1) Acceptance of soft primary pig lead by the General Services Administration for the stockpile of strategic materials.

(2) Acceptance of soft primary pig lead from a foreign source.

(3) Acceptance of soft primary pig lead by any person whose total receipts during the calendar month in which such acceptance occurs are, and by such acceptance will remain, less than 10 short tons, and who has not applied to NPA for an allocation authorization for that month, and who furnishes to the supplier a certification in substantially the following form:

> The undersigned certifies, subject to statutory penalties, that receipt of this shipment in the month requested will be in compliance with NPA Order M-76.

Such certification constitutes a representation to the supplier and to NPA that the purchaser is authorized to accept delivery of soft primary pig lead pursuant to this order.

(d) NPA will arrange to issue allocation authorizations for soft primary pig lead to persons to whom validated export licenses for such material are issued. However, no exporter may receive or accept delivery of such material until he has received an allocation authorization.

(e) A primary refiner of soft pig lead who has not received orders for his entire scheduled monthly production thereof (as reported to NPA pursuant to section 9 (a) of this order) by the tenth day of that month shall promptly report by letter to NPA the quantity of soft pig lead available in that month for which he has not received orders.

SEC. 5. Acceptance of rated orders. Commencing on September 1, 1951, except as specifically directed by NPA in writing:

(a) No producer of pig lead (other than soft primary pig lead), lead-base alloys, or lead products, shall be required to accept rated orders for any of these lead forms or materials in any one month in excess of 25 percent of his scheduled production of such materials during that month.

(b) No dealer shall be required to accept rated orders for pig lead (other than soft primary pig lead), lead-base alloys, and lead products, for shipment in any one month in excess of 25 percent of the quantity of such materials available to him during that month.

(c) No person shall be required to accept rated orders for pig lead (other than soft primary pig lead), lead-base alloys, or lead products, which are not received at least 15 days prior to the first day of the month in which shipment is requested.

(d) Deliveries of soft primary pig lead shall be made only in accordance with the allocation procedure set forth in section 4 of this order, whether or not pursuant to a rated order.

SEC. 6. Delivery of pig lead. No person shall deliver any pig lead if he knows or has reason to believe that the person requesting delivery is not permitted to receive it under this order or under any other applicable order or regulation of the National Production Authority.

SEC. 7. Specific directives. The National Production Authority may issue directives as to the source, destination, grades, and quantities of pig lead, lead products, and lead-base alloy which may be delivered or accepted, and may also direct any producer to set aside a specific portion of his production of pig lead, lead products, and lead-base alloy for distribution according to directives issued by NPA.

SEC. 8. Assistance in placing orders. Any person who is unable to place a rated order for pig lead (other than soft primary pig lead), lead-base alloy, or lead products due to the limitations imposed by section 5 of this order, or who has received an allocation authorization for soft primary pig lead and is unable to place an order for this material, should apply to the National Production Authority, Ref: M-76, specifying the efforts made to place such orders. NPA will arrange to assist him in locating sources of supply.

SEC. 9. Records and reports. (a) In addition to the reporting requirements stated in NPA Order M-38, all primary refiners of soft pig lead shall report to NPA their anticipated production of soft pig lead. Such reports shall be filed on or before August 15, 1951, with respect to anticipated production during the month of September 1951, and on or before the fifteenth day of each month thereafter with respect to anticipated production during the next succeeding month. Such reports shall be filed by letter in duplicate, and shall state the total production of each grade of soft lead anticipated during the appropriate month.

(b) Each person participating in any transaction covered by this order shall retain in his possession for at least 2 years records of receipts, deliveries, inventories, production, and use, in sufficient detail to permit an audit that determines for each transaction that the provisions of this order have been met. This does not specify any particular accounting method and does not require alteration of the system of records customarily maintained, provided such records supply an adequate basis for audit. Records may be retained in the form of microfilm or other photographic copies instead of the originals by those persons who have or who may maintain such microfilm or other photographic records in the regular and usual course of business.

(c) All records required by this order shall be made available at the usual place of business where maintained for inspection and audit by duly authorized representatives of NPA.

SEC. 10. Applications for adjustment or exception. Any person affected by any provision of this order may file a request for adjustment or exception upon the ground that such provision works an undue or exceptional hardship upon him not suffered generally by others in the same trade or industry, or that its enforcement against him would not be in the interest of national defense or in the public interest. In examining requests for adjustment claiming that the public interest is prejudiced by the application of any provision of this order, consideration will be given to the requirements of the public health and safety, civilian defense, and dislocation of labor and resulting unemployment that would impair the defense program. Each request shall be in writing and shall set forth all pertinent facts and the nature of the relief sought, and shall state the justification therefor.

SEC. 11. Communications. All communications concerning this order shall be addressed to the National Production Authority, Washington 25, D. C., Ref: M-76.

SEC. 12. Violations. Any person who wilfully violates any provision of this order or any other order or regulation of NPA or who wilfully conceals a material fact or furnishes false information in the course of operation under this order is guilty of a crime and, upon conviction, may be punished by fine or imprisonment or both. In addition, administrative action may be taken against any such person to suspend his privilege of making or receiving further deliveries of materials or using facilities under priority or allocation control and to deprive him of further priorities assistance.

NOTE: All reporting and record-keeping requirements of this order have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942 (5 U. S. C. 139–139F).

This order shall take effect, except as otherwise specifically stated, on July 26, 1951.

NATIONAL PRODUCTION AUTHORITY,
MANLY FLEISCHMANN,
Administrator.

TITLE 14—CIVIL AVIATION

Chapter I—Civil Aeronautics Board

[Regs., Serial No. SR-366]

PART 40—AIR CARRIER OPERATING CERTIFICATION

PART 61—SCHEDULED AIR CARRIER RULES

ISSUANCE OF LOCAL AREA AIR CARRIER OPERATING CETIFICATES FOR AIRCRAFT UNDER 12,500 POUNDS TAKE-OFF WEIGHT

Adopted by the Civil Aeronautics Board at its office in Washington, D. C., on the 24th day of July 1951.

Special Civil Air Regulation SR-351 authorizes the Administrator to issue temporary air carrier operating certificates of one-year duration, called Air Carrier Operating Certificates for Local Areas, to scheduled air carriers holding temporary certificates of public convenience and necessity, authorizing the use of aircraft under 12,500 pounds maximum certificated take-off weight in accordance with such certification and operating standards as may be established by the Administrator. At the time the Board adopted SR-351 it was intended that appropriate certification and operation standards for such carriers would be developed prior to August 1, 1951. However, while the Bureau of Safety Regulation has been actively engaged in this project, it is not anticipated that this project will be completed prior to August 1, 1951. In view of the fact that we believe that it is desirable to differentiate clearly between certificates issued to air carriers using conventional multiengine aircraft and those using aircraft under 12,500 pounds maximum certificated take-off weight, we consider it necessary to extend the authority granted in SR-351 until August 1, 1952, or until such earlier date as the general rules regarding the certification and operation of such air carriers are adopted, and to authorize the Administrator to extend the duration of certificates issued under SR-351 for another one-year period.

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of this regulation, and due consideration has been given to all relevant matter presented. Since this regulation imposes no additional burden on any person, it may be made effective on less than 30 days' notice.

In consideration of the foregoing the Civil Aeronautics Board hereby makes and promulgates a Special Civil Air Regulation, effective August 1, 1951, to read as follows:

The Administrator is hereby authorized to issue temporary air carrier operating certificates of one-year duration to scheduled air carriers holding temporary certificates of public convenience and necessity, authorizing the use of aircraft under 12,500 pounds maximum certificated take-off weight, in accordance with such certification and operation standards as may be established by the Administrator and to extend for a like period the duration of certificates heretofore issued under the authority of Special Civil Air Regulation SR-351:

Provided, That all such certificates so issued or extended shall expire at such earlier date as may be directed in any general rule issued by the Board regulating this subject matter.

This regulation shall terminate August 1, 1952, unless sooner superseded or rescinded.

TITLE 43—PUBLIC LANDS: INTERIOR

Chapter I—Bureau of Land Management, Department of the Interior

[Circular No. 1794]

MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

Part 192 is amended as follows, effective September 1, 1951:

Paragraph (b), paragraph (c) (1), and paragraph (g) of § 192.42 (b) are hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 192.42 Offer to lease, and issuance of lease. • • •

(b) Five copies of Form 4-1158, or valid reproduction thereof, for each offer to lease shall be filed in the proper land office, or for land or deposits in States in which there are no land offices, with the Director of the Bureau of Land Management, Washington 25, D. C. If less than five copies are filed, the offeror shall have 15 days from date of the first filing, to file the other required copies. Upon such completed filing the priority of the offer will be based upon receipt of the first filing. If the additional copies are not filed within the 15-day period, the offer will be rejected and returned to the offeror with any rental paid and will afford no priority to the offeror. The offer must be filed on a form in effect at the date of filing. For the purpose of this part an offer will be considered filed when it is received in the proper office during business hours.

• • • • • •

(c) Each offer, when first filed, shall be accompanied by:

(1) A filing fee of $10 which will be retained as a service charge, except as provided in § 192.42 (g), even though the offer should be rejected or withdrawn in whole or in part.

• • • • • •

(g) An offer will be rejected and returned to the offeror, and it will confer no priority if it is not completed in accordance with the regulations in Parts 191 and 192 and the instructions printed on the lease form, and accompanied by the payments and documents required by such regulations and instructions, except that where a corporation has previously filed in any land office any of the documents required by paragraph (f) of this section a reference to that file may be made in lieu of the document together with a statement as to any changes therein since the document was filed. When an offer is rejected under this paragraph, the offeror will be given an opportunity to file a new offer within 30 days from the date of service of the rejection, and the fee and rental payments on the old offer will be applied to the new offer if the new offer shows the serial and receipt numbers of the old offer. The corrected offer will retain the same serial number, but the effective date of priority will be as of the date such new offer was received.

• • • • • •

§ 192.82 Royalty on production.

(a) * * *

(1) 12½ percent royalty on noncompetitive leases issued under section 17 of the act: Provided, however, That any holder of a lease for lands in Alaska who shall drill and make the first discovery of oil or gas in commercial quantities in any geologic structure shall pay a royalty on all production under the lease of 5 percent for 10 years following the date of such discovery and thereafter the royalty rate shall be 12½ percent. If such lease is committed to an approved unit or cooperative plan under which such a discovery is made, the 5 percent rate herein provided shall, for the purpose of computing royalty due the United States, inure to the benefit of all the land to which an allocation is made under such plan.

* * * * *

Section 192.100 is amended by adding a paragraph (e) to read:

§ 192.100 Amount of bonds required of lessee. * * *

(e) In lieu of bonds required under any of the preceding paragraphs the holder of leases or of operating agreements approved by the Department or holder of operating rights by virtue of being designated operator or agent by the lessees pending departmental approval of operating agreements, may furnish a bond the amount of which must be $150,000 for full nation-wide coverage under both the Mineral Leasing Act and the Mineral Leasing Act for Acquired Lands of 1947 (61 Stat. 1913; 30 U. S. C. 351–359), or at the rate of $25,000 for each unit of coverage. A unit of coverage shall be all the lands in any one State or Territory held by the principal under either the Mineral Leasing Act or the Mineral Leasing Act for Acquired Lands. Coverage under both acts in one State or Territory constitutes two units. In lieu of a surety bond a personal bond in a like amount may be given by the obligor with the deposit as security therefor of negotiable bonds of the United States of a par value equal to the amount specified in the bond.

Section 192.101 is revised to read:

§ 192.101 Form of bonds. Bonds furnished by lessees will be on Form 4–208g; those furnished by operators on Form 4–238; bonds furnished in lieu of other bonds, pursuant to § 192.100 (e), will be on Form 4–1167 for surety bonds or on Form 4–1168 for personal bonds.

Section 192.141 (a) is amended to read as follows:

§ 192.141 Requirements for filing of transfers. (a) (1) Except as to assignments of record title, all instruments of transfer of a lease or of an interest therein, including assignments of working or royalty interests, and operating agreements, and subleases, must be filed for approval within 90 days from the date of final execution and must contain all of the terms and conditions agreed upon by the parties thereto, together with a statement over the transferee's own signature with respect to citizenship and interests held, similar to that required of an offeror under § 192.42 (e) (4) and (f).

(2) To obtain approval of a transfer affecting the record title of an oil and gas lease, a request for such approval must be made, within 90 days from the date of the execution of the assignment by the parties. Form 4–1175, "Assignment affecting Record Title to Oil and Gas Lease", or unofficial copies of that form in current use may be used for such transfers and requests for approval: Provided, That the unofficial copies are exact reproductions on one sheet of both sides of the official approved one-page form, and are without additions, omissions, or other changes, except that the copies shall include the following statement above the signature of the assignee: "This form is submitted in lieu of official Form 4–1175 and contains all of the provisions thereof as of the date of filing of this assignment." In addition, the name and address of the printer or other party issuing unofficial reproductions of the official form shall be printed thereon. This form may be used for any assignment, which affects a transfer of the record title to all or part of an oil and gas lease, but it is not to be used for any other type of transfer. Form 4–1175, or a valid reproduction of the official form, will also constitute approval of the assignment when signed by the manager of the land office.

(3) An application for approval of any instrument of transfer of a lease or interest therein or a filing of any such instrument under § 192.145 must be accompanied by a fee of $10, and an application not accompanied by payment of such a fee will not be accepted for filing by the manager. Such fee will not be returned even though the application later be withdrawn or rejected in whole or in part.

Section 192.141 (c) is amended to read as follows:

(c) If a bond is necessary, it must be furnished. Where an assignment does not create separate leases the assignee, if the assignment so provides, may become a joint principal on the bond with the assignor. Any assignment which does not convey the assignor's record title in all of the lands in the lease must also be accompanied by consent of his surety to remain bound under the bond of record for the lease interest retained by said assignor, if the bond, by its terms, does not contain such consent. If a party to the assignment has previously furnished a nation-wide bond on either form, 4–1167 or 4–1168, applicable to the State and the act under which the lease issued, no additional showing is necessary by such party as to the bond requirement. If any overriding royalty or payments out of production are created which are not shown in the instrument or agreement, a statement must be submitted describing them. If payments out of production are reserved, a statement should be submitted stating the details as to the amount, method of payment, and other pertinent terms. Assignments of record title interests must be filed in triplicate. A single copy of any additional information specified in Instructions, Form 4–1175,[1] relating to citizenship and qualifications of corporations, will be sufficient. A single executed copy of all other instruments of transfer, or of an operating agreement is sufficient.

* * * * *

Section 192.145 is amended to read as follows:

§ 192.145 Royalty interests in oil and gas leases and assignments thereof. Royalty interests in oil and gas leases constitute holdings or control of lands and deposits within the meaning of the second sentence of section 27 of the act. Assignments of such interests must be filed for record purposes in the appropriate land offices in accordance with the applicable provisions of section 192.141. All assignments of royalty interests must be filed for the record, but those of 1 percent or less will be approved only upon specific request and then only after discovery. Any assignment of 1 percent or less if filed for the record will be deemed to be valid whether formally approved or not.

NOTE: The record keeping or reporting requirements of this regulation have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

KINDS OF CONTAINERS

§ 171.200 General. Approved containers, used for the removal for redistillation, storage, or other purposes authorized by this subpart, weighing tanks used for gauging, tanks used for storage, and pipe lines used for removal of distilled spirits as authorized by this subpart, shall be those authorized by, and shall conform as to construction, security, marking, etc., to the provisions of this subpart and the applicable provisions of Regulations 3, 4, 5, and 10. The Commissioner may permit alternate construction which he deems necessary to meet the requirements of the national defense, subject to such limitations and conditions as may be imposed by him, provided such alternate construction affords adequate protection to the revenue.

§ 171.201 Removal by pipeline. Distilled spirits of any proof may be removed by pipeline for transfer in bond between distilleries, internal revenue bonded warehouses, industrial alcohol plants, and industrial alcohol bonded warehouses in accordance with the provisions of this subpart and the applicable procedure prescribed by Regulations 3, 4, 5, and 10, where the premises to which the distilled spirits are to be so transferred are located in the immediate vicinity of the premises from which the distilled spirits are to be removed. Distilled spirits of 160 degrees or more of proof may be removed by pipeline where the bonded premises, or the establishment, to which the distilled spirits are to be transferred are located in the immediate vicinity of the premises from which the distilled spirits are to be removed (a) from an industrial alcohol plant or industrial alcohol bonded warehouse for any tax-free purpose, or upon payment of tax for any purpose, authorized by part II of subchapter C, or (b) from a distillery scribed in Regulations 3, 4, 5, and 10, or an internal revenue bonded warehouse for any tax-free purpose authorized by part II of subchapter C or for any purpose authorized in the case of like spirits produced at a distillery; both in accordance with the procedure prescribed by this subpart and the applicable provisions of Regulations 3, 4, 5, and 10. § 171.203 Removal by tank ships and tank barges. Distilled spirits of any proof may be transferred in bond in tank ships or tank barges between distilleries, internal revenue bonded warehouses, industrial alcohol plants, and industrial alcohol bonded warehouses, in accordance with the provisions of this subpart. Tank ships and tank barges need not be calibrated, nor need calibration charts be prepared. The carrier must file bond in accordance with § 171.208. Tank ships and tank barges must be secure and all openings affording access to the distilled spirits must be arranged in such manner that they can be securely fastened and sealed. Prior to filling, the Government officer shall inspect each tank ship or tank barge and determine whether the same can be securely fastened and sealed and is otherwise suitable for the transportation of distilled spirits. The Government officer will not permit the filling of any tank ship or tank barge that is not equipped for sealing or which will not afford adequate protection to the distilled spirits. Such shipments may be made only where the premises of both the consignor and the consignee are equipped with suitable dock facilities, and where the distilled spirits are run directly from the tank ship or tank barge into suitable tanks on the consignee's premises. Distilled spirits of 160 degrees or more of proof may be removed in tank ships or tank barges (a) from an industrial alcohol plant or industrial alcohol bonded warehouse for any tax-free purpose, or upon payment of tax for any purpose, authorized by part II of subchapter C, or (b) from a distillery or an internal revenue bonded warehouse for any tax-free purpose authorized by part II of subchapter C or for any purpose authorized in the case of like spirits produced at a distillery; both in accordance with the procedure prescribed by this subpart.

§ 171.204 Sealing of conveyances. Where distilled spirits are to be removed under the provisions of this subpart from distilleries, internal revenue bonded warehouses, industrial alcohol plants, and industrial alcohol bonded warehouses, in tank cars, tank trucks, tank ships, tank barges, or other bulk conveyances approved by the Commissioner, the storekeeper-gauger will, immediately after filling, seal with cap seals furnished by the Government, all openings affording access to the spirits. The serial numbers of the cap seals so used will be entered by the storekeepergauger on Form 236, 1440, 1453, or 1704, as the case may be. Where the proprietor provides seal locks for locking conveyances in accordance with Regulations 3, such locks will be used in lieu of cap seals.

§ 171.205 Marking of containers. Where distilled spirits are removed for any of the purposes authorized by this subpart from distilleries, internal revenue bonded warehouses, industrial alcohol plants, and industrial alcohol bonded warehouses, the containers shall be marked as prescribed in this section. If the conveyance is a tank car, tank truck, tank ship, tank barge, or other bulk conveyance approved by the Commissioner, a label shall be securely affixed by the consignor to the route board of the tank car or tank truck, or at a suitable location on the tank ship, tank barge, or other bulk conveyance. The label shall plainly show the name, registry number, and address of the consignor; the name, registry or permit number (if any), and address of the consignee; the date of shipment; the kind of distilled spirits; the proof and temperature ascertained at the time of filling prior to removal; the number of inches above or below the full mark (or other clearly designated gauge mark on the conveyance); the purpose of withdrawal (transfer in bond, for denaturation, for use of the United States, etc.); and the quantity in proof gallons. If the distilled spirits are contained in more than one compartment of the conveyance, the information with respect to proof, temperature, gauge mark, and quantity will be furnished for each compartment. In any event, such label or labels shall be destroyed by the consignee after emptying the conveyance. If the distilled spirits so removed are in packages, drums, or similar containers, the proprietor will, under the general supervision of the storekeeper-gauger and before removal, mark such containers in accordance with the applicable provisions of Regulations 3, 4, 5, and 10. The date and purpose of the removal and the registry or permit number (if any) of the consignee must be marked on the head of the package in every instance. When the distilled spirits to be withdrawn are the mingled products of different distillers, the name and registry number of the premises where the distilled spirits were commingled shall be shown on the containers (where required), and on the required forms, in lieu of the names and registry numbers of the producing distillers.

CARRIERS

§ 171.207 Permit. Any carrier who desires to transport distilled spirits of 160 degrees or more of proof removed for any tax-free purpose authorized by part II of subchapter C, must procure permit (Form 145) so to do, in accordance with section 3114, I. R. C., and Regulation 3. A carrier who holds a permit to transport tax-free alcohol, or specially denatured alcohol, and who desires to transport tax-free distilled spirits removed from distilleries and internal revenue bonded warehouses, must file application on Form 144 for amendment of his permit, Form 145, to authorize the transportation of such tax-free distilled spirits.

§ 171.208 Bond; transportation by carrier. A carrier who holds a permit (Form 145) prescribed by § 171.207, to transport tax-free distilled spirits of 160 degrees or more of proof, in tank trucks or tank barges, and a carrier who desires to transport distilled spirits of any proof, in tank trucks or tank barges, for transfer in bond between distilleries, internal revenue bonded warehouses, industrial alcohol plants, and industrial alcohol bonded warehouses, must file with the district supervisor a bond on Form 49: Provided, That a bond will not be required for tank barges if the applicant is a steamship (not including tugboats) company, nor will a bond be required for a self-propelled tank barge. If the transportation is in tank trucks, the penal sum of the bond shall be at the rate of $75,000 for each tank truck and not more than $200,000 for the total of all tank trucks used. If the transportation is in tank barges, the penal sum of the bond shall be $200,000 regardless of the number of tank barges used. If the transportation is to be by both tank trucks and tank barges, the penal sum shall be at the rate of $75,000 for each tank truck or $200,000 for the total of all tank trucks used and at the rate of $200,000 for each tank barge or group of tank barges used, subject to a maximum bond limitation of $400,000 for all tank trucks and tank barges used. The bond shall be filed in triplicate, appropriately modified. Where a carrier holds a permit to transport tax-free or specially denatured alcohol which is supported by bond, Form 49, and files application for amendment of the permit to authorize the transportation of tax-free distilled spirits as provided in § 171.207, or distilled spirits to be transferred in bond as provided in this section, the carrier must file consent of surety, Form 1533, on his bond, extending the terms thereof to cover such distilled spirits, removed tax-free, or transferred in bond. The consent of surety shall be in substantially the following form:

To extend the terms of said bond to be liable for distilled spirits withdrawn free of tax or removed for transfer in bond transported by him, to the same extent as tax-free alcohol transported by him.

§ 171.209 Bond; transportation by consignor or consignee. A consignor or consignee in order to transport in tank trucks or tank barges controlled and operated by such consignor or consignee, (a) distilled spirits of any proof for transfer in bond between distilleries, internal revenue bonded warehouses, industrial alcohol plants, and industrial alcohol bonded warehouses or (b) distilled spirits of 160 degrees or more of proof removed for any tax-free purpose authorized by part II of subchapter C, must file with the district supervisor a bond on Form 49, properly modified, in the penal sum specified in § 171.208: Provided, That in lieu of filing such bond, the consignor or consignee may file consent of surety, Form 1533, on his bond, Form 30, 30½, 1571, or 1432A, as the case may be, extending the terms thereof to cover the tax, or an amount equal to the tax, as the case may be, together with all penalties and interest, for which he may become liable, on all distilled spirits transported by him in tank trucks or tank barges. Where the distillery bond, Form 30, or 30½, is filed without surety, supported by consent of surety on the distiller's transportation and warehousing bond, Form 1571, the required consent shall extend the terms of both bonds to assume such liability. Where bond, Form 30, 30½, 1571, or 1432-A is given in an amount less than the penal sum required, a new or additional bond on the respective form, with proper consent of surety, or a separate bond on Form 49, in a sufficient penal sum must be furnished to cover the additional liability. The bond shall be filed in accordance with the applicable provisions of Regulations 3, 4, 5, and 10, and of this subpart. The consent of surety shall be in substantially the following form:

To extend the terms of the said bond to cover liability for the tax or an amount equal to the tax, together with penalties and interest, on all distilled spirits received for transportation or transported by the principal and not lawfully delivered, excepting only losses of such spirits otherwise provided for by law.

GAUGING OF DISTILLED SPIRITS

§ 171.212 Transferred between bonded premises by pipeline. When distilled spirits of any proof are transferred by pipeline between distilleries, internal revenue bonded warehouses, industrial alcohol plants, and industrial alcohol bonded warehouses, and when distilled spirits of 160 degrees or more of proof are removed, free of tax, from any such premises for transfer by pipeline to a denaturing plant, for denaturation, as authorized by this subpart, such distilled spirits shall be gauged in a weighing tank at the time of transfer, either in the premises from which they are removed or in the premises to which they are transferred, but the spirits need not be gauged in both premises: Provided, That where neither of the premises is equipped with a weighing tank, the spirits may be gauged by volume in accurately calibrated tanks in either of the premises.

§ 171.213 Transferred between bonded premises by tank cars, tank trucks, or tank barges. When such distilled spirits are so transferred by tank cars, tank trucks, or tank barges, the spirits must be gauged in a suitable weighing tank in the shipping premises at the time of shipment and in the receiving premises at the time of receipt: Provided, That where the shipping or receiving premises, or both, are not equipped with a weighing tank, the spirits transferred in tank cars or tank trucks may be weighed on railroad car or tank truck scales, as the case may be, located on the bonded premises, by weighing the railroad car or tank truck both before and after filling or emptying, or both, as the case may be: And provided further, That where the shipping or receiving premises, or both, are not equipped with a weighing tank, railroad car or tank truck scales, the spirits may be gauged by volume in accurately calibrated tanks, but, in any event, they must be gauged (either by weight or by volume) in both the shipping and receiving premises.

§ 171.214 Received in distillery or industrial alcohol plant for weighing only. When it is desired to transfer distilled spirits to an internal revenue bonded warehouse or industrial alcohol bonded warehouse and it is desired to weigh the spirits upon receipt and there are no weighing facilities at the warehouse, but there are such facilities at the distillery or industrial alcohol plant, as the case may be, located on the same or contiguous premises, the spirits may be received in the distillery or industrial alcohol plant for gauging by weight prior to deposit in the warehouse.

§ 171.215 Removed for use of the United States. When distilled spirits of 160 degrees or more of proof are withdrawn from distilleries, internal revenue bonded warehouses, industrial alcohol plants, and industrial alcohol bonded warehouses, for use of the United States, they must be gauged by weight in a weighing tank (except packages, which must be gauged by weight on appropriate scales) in each instance at the premises from which removed: Provided, That where the shipping premises are not equipped with a weighing tank and the spirits are transferred in tank cars or tank trucks, they may be weighed on railroad car or tank truck scales, as the case may be, located on the shipping premises, by weighing the railroad car or tank truck both before and after filling: And provided further, That where the shipping premises are not equipped with a weighing tank, or railroad car or tank truck scales, the spirits may be gauged by volume in accurately calibrated tanks before removal.

§ 171.216 Removed for other tax-free purposes or upon taxpayment. When distilled spirits of 160 degrees or more of proof are withdrawn from distilleries, internal revenue bonded warehouses, industrial alcohol plants, and industrial alcohol bonded warehouses, by pipeline, tank car, or tank truck, for a tax-free purpose (other than for removal for denaturation, exportation by tank ship, or for use of the United States), or upon taxpayment, as authorized by this subpart, the spirits must be gauged by weight in each instance.

§ 171.217 Determination of proof. The proof of distilled spirits transferred in bond or withdrawn free of tax for denaturation or for use of the United States, under the provisions of this subpart, will be determined to the nearest one-tenth of a degree. The addition of water to reduce the spirits to a flat proof will not be required except where the spirits are withdrawn for taxpayment or for a tax-free purpose other than for denaturation or for use of the United States, unless in the latter case the Governmental agency to which the spirits are shipped desires to have the spirits so reduced.

§ 171.262 Consent of surety, Form 1533, on denaturing plant bond. The proprietor of a denaturing plant, in order to withdraw distilled spirits of 160 degrees or more of proof, free of tax, for denaturation, from distilleries or internal revenue bonded warehouses, shall file consent of surety, Form 1533, on his bond, Form 1432–A, extending the terms thereof to assume liability for payment of the tax on the distilled spirits from the time they leave the distillery or internal revenue bonded warehouse from which they are removed. When Form 1432–A is in less than the maximum penal sum and is insufficient to cover the tax on any distilled spirits to be withdrawn determined in accordance with the provisions of Regulations 3, concerning the determination of bond liability, a new or additional bond in a sufficient penal sum shall be filed by the proprietor. The consent of surety shall be in substantially the following form:

To extend the terms of said bond to be liable for distilled spirits withdrawn free of tax by the principal from registered distilleries, fruit distilleries, and internal revenue bonded warehouses, pursuant to section 3183, I. R. C., and regulations, to the same extent as alcohol withdrawn, free of tax from industrial alcohol plants and bonded warehouses.

§ 171.263 Withdrawal procedure. The withdrawal of distilled spirits of 160 degrees or more of proof, free of tax, for denaturation, from distilleries and internal revenue bonded warehouses, shall be made in accordance with the procedure prescribed by § 171.252 for the transfer of distilled spirits from such premises to industrial alcohol plants and industrial alcohol bonded warehouses, except that the distiller or warehouseman, as the case may be, will present to the storekeeper-gauger withdrawal permit, Form 1463, in lieu of withdrawal permit, Form 1436. The withdrawal of such spirits from industrial alcohol plants and industrial alcohol bonded warehouses, and other denaturing plants, for denaturation, will be in accordance with the procedure prescribed by Regulations 3.

§ 171.264 Records. Distilled spirits of 160 degrees or more of proof withdrawn free of tax for denaturation shall be reported and accounted for by storekeeper-gaugers and proprietors on their monthly report prescribed by Regulations 3, 4, 5, or 10, as the case may be. For record purposes, distilled spirits received at a denaturing plant for denaturation shall be classified and accounted for as "alcohol." Upon denaturation such spirits will be designated as "completely denatured alcohol" or "specially denatured alcohol," as the case may be, and withdrawn as such from the denaturing plant.

REMOVALS, FREE OF TAX, FOR USE OF THE UNITED STATES

§ 171.265 Authorized withdrawals. Distilled spirits of 160 degrees or more of proof may be withdrawn, free of tax, for use of the United States, from any distillery or internal revenue bonded warehouse, and, when transferred to an industrial alcohol plant or industrial alcohol bonded warehouse, may be withdrawn therefrom for such purpose, subject to the provisions of part II of subchapter C and in accordance with the procedure prescribed by this subpart and in Regulations 3. Pursuant to permit, Form 1444, issued by the Commissioner authorizing withdrawals for use of the United States, such distilled spirits, including alcohol produced at industrial alcohol plants, may be so withdrawn, prior to denaturation, from denaturing plants when such withdrawals are deemed necessary to meet the requirements of the national defense. The withdrawal of alcohol from industrial alcohol plants and industrial alcohol bonded warehouses for use of the United States will be in accordance with the procedure prescribed in this subpart and by Regulations 3.

§ 171.266 Application and permit, Form 1444. The head of the Government department or independent bureau or agency desiring to withdraw distilled spirits of 160 degrees or more of proof, free of tax, from distilleries and internal revenue bonded warehouses, shall file application, in quadruplicate, on Form 1444 (appropriately modified) directly with the Commissioner, in accordance with the applicable procedure prescribed by Regulations 3. Upon receipt of an application on Form 1444, the Commissioner will issue a permit on such form (appropriately modified), in accordance with the applicable procedure prescribed by Regulations 3. One copy will be retained by the Commissioner for his files and the remaining copy will be forwarded to the district supervisor of the district in which the vendor named in the application is located.

§ 171.267 Withdrawals of distilled spirits. When withdrawals of distilled spirits of 160 degrees or more of proof are to be made, free of tax, for use of the United States, the proprietor of the premises from which the distilled spirits are to be withdrawn will present the permit, Form 1444, to the storekeeper-gauger and designate the spirits to be withdrawn.

(a) From distilleries and warehouses. Where distilled spirits are withdrawn from distilleries and internal revenue bonded warehouses, the storekeeper-gauger will gauge the spirits and prepare Form 1520, in quadruplicate. The proprietor will prepare Form 1453, in quintuplicate, and give all copies to the storekeeper-gauger. Upon release of the shipment, the storekeeper-gauger will retain one copy of Form 1453 and one copy of Form 1520, deliver one copy of each form to the proprietor, forward two copies of Form 1453 and one copy of Form 1520 to the consignee, and forward the remaining copy of each form to the consignor district supervisor.

(b) From industrial alcohol plants and warehouses. Where alcohol is withdrawn from industrial alcohol plants, industrial alcohol bonded warehouses, or denaturing plants (when authorized) the proprietor will prepare Form 1440 and Form 1453, each in triplicate. Upon release of the shipment, the storekeeper-gauger will deliver one copy of Form 1453 and Form 1440 to the proprietor, forward two copies of Form 1453 and one copy of Form 1440 to the consignee and forward the remaining copy of Form 1440 to the consignor supervisor.

Where shipment is by motor truck, the copies of Forms 1453 and 1520 or 1440 for the consignee will be sealed in an envelope addressed to the consignee and handed to the person in charge of the trucks for delivery. Where the distilled spirits are to be transported by public carrier, the consignor shall furnish to the storekeeper-gauger, for forwarding to the district supervisor with Forms 1453 and 1520 or 1440, a copy of the bill of lading, if any, covering transportation of the spirits from the point of shipment to destination.

§ 171.268 Certificate of receipt. Receipt of each shipment of distilled spirits withdrawn for use of the United States shall be promptly certified to on Form 1453, in duplicate, by the official representative of the United States or Governmental agency thereof to whom delivery of such shipment is made. Where inspection at destination discloses a loss in transit, such loss will be noted on each copy of Form 1453 by the receiving officer, who will state whether the condition of the conveyance when received indicates that the loss was due to theft or to other cause. One copy of the receipted Form 1453 shall be forwarded promptly to the district supervisor from whose district the withdrawal is made, and the remaining copy will be retained by the consignee.

REMOVALS, FREE OF TAX, FOR SCIENTIFIC PURPOSES, USE OF HOSPITALS, ETC.

§ 171.270 Authorized withdrawals. Distilled spirits of 160 degrees or more of proof may be withdrawn, free of tax, for scientific purposes, use of hospitals, states, etc., from a distillery or an internal revenue bonded warehouse, and, when transferred to an industrial alcohol plant or industrial alcohol bonded warehouse, may be withdrawn therefrom for such purposes, subject to the provisions of part II of subchapter C and in accordance with the procedure prescribed in Regulations 3. The withdrawal of alcohol from industrial alcohol plants and industrial alcohol bonded warehouses for scientific purposes, use of hospitals, states, etc., will be in accordance with the procedure prescribed in this subpart and by Regulations 3.

§ 171.271 Basic and withdrawal permits. Where it is desired to withdraw distilled spirits of 160 degrees or more of proof, free of tax, from distilleries or internal revenue bonded warehouses, as provided in § 171.270, application shall be made on Form 1447 properly modified, in triplicate, to the district supervisor for basic permit to use such distilled spirits. Action by the district supervisor in respect to such applications will be in accordance with the applicable

A permittee whose basic permit, Form 1447, authorizes the procurement of alcohol free of tax and who desires to procure distilled spirits of 160 degrees or more of proof from distilleries or internal revenue bonded warehouses shall file application on Form 1447 with the district supervisor for the amendment of his basic permit to authorize the procurement of such distilled spirits. Where a permittee holding a basic permit, Form 1447, to use distilled spirits free of tax desires to procure tax-free distilled spirits under such permit, application on Form 1450, properly modified, will be filed in accordance with the provisions of Regulations 3. The district supervisor in issuing withdrawal permit on Form 1450 will modify such form to specify "distilled spirits" and withdrawal from a registered distillery, fruit distillery, or an internal revenue bonded warehouse. Distilled spirits may be shipped from distilleries and internal revenue bonded warehouses to holders of basic permits, Form 1447, only pursuant to, and upon receipt of, proper withdrawal permit on Form 1450 authorizing such shipment in accordance with the procedure prescribed in Regulations 3.

§ 171.272 Bonds. A permittee who holds a permit, Form 1447, prescribed by § 171.271, to withdraw distilled spirits of 160 degrees or more of proof, free of tax, from distilleries or internal revenue bonded warehouses must file with the district supervisor a bond on Form 1448 in accordance with the applicable provisions of Regulations 3. Where a permittee holds a permit to withdraw alcohol free of tax from industrial alcohol plants or industrial alcohol bonded warehouses, which is supported by bond, Form 1448, and files application for amendment of the permit to authorize the withdrawal of tax-free distilled spirits as provided in § 171.271, the permittee must file consent of surety, Form 1533, on his bond, extending the terms thereof to cover such tax-free distilled spirits. The consent of surety shall be in substantially the following form:

To extend the terms of said bond to be liable for distilled spirits withdrawn free of tax by the principal from registered distilleries, fruit distilleries, and internal revenue bonded warehouses, pursuant to section 3183, I. R. C., and regulations, to the same extent as alcohol withdrawn free of tax from industrial alcohol plants and bonded warehouses.

§ 171.273 Withdrawal procedure. The withdrawal of distilled spirits of 160 degrees or more of proof, free of tax, for scientific purposes, use of hospitals, states, etc., from distilleries and internal revenue bonded warehouses shall be made in accordance with the applicable procedure prescribed by Regulations 3, except that Form 1520 will be used in lieu of Form 1440. The Government officer will insert on Form 1520 the name and address of the consignee. The withdrawal of distilled spirits for such purposes from industrial alcohol plants and industrial alcohol bonded warehouses shall be in accordance with the procedure prescribed in this subpart and by Regulations 3.

REMOVALS FOR EXPORTATION WITHOUT PAYMENT OF TAX

§ 171.274 Authorized withdrawals. Distilled spirits of 160 degrees or more of proof may be withdrawn for exportation in approved containers, without payment of tax, from a distillery or an internal revenue bonded warehouse, and when transferred to an industrial alcohol plant or industrial alcohol bonded warehouse may be withdrawn therefrom for exportation without payment of tax, subject to the provisions of part II, subchapter C and in accordance with the procedure prescribed in this subpart and the applicable procedure prescribed by Regulations 3 and 10. The withdrawal of alcohol from industrial alcohol plants and industrial alcohol bonded warehouses, for exportation, will be in accordance with the procedure prescribed in this subpart and by Regulations 3.

GENERAL

§ 171.275 Losses. The provisions of section 2901 of the Internal Revenue Code and the applicable provisions of Regulations 4, 5, and 10 shall apply in respect to losses of any distilled spirits transferred or removed for transfer under this subpart to a distillery or internal revenue bonded warehouse. The provisions of section 3113 of the code and the applicable provisions of Regulations 3 shall apply in respect to losses of any distilled spirits transferred or removed for transfer under this subpart to an industrial alcohol plant or industrial alcohol bonded warehouse. The provisions of section 3113 of the code and the applicable provisions of Regulations 3 shall apply in respect to losses of any distilled spirits removed from a distillery or an internal revenue bonded warehouse, industrial alcohol plant, industrial alcohol bonded warehouse, or denaturing plant for any tax-free purpose authorized by part II of subchapter C.

§ 171.276 Mingling during course of removal, same premises. Distilled spirits removed from distilleries, internal revenue bonded warehouses, industrial alcohol plants, industrial alcohol bonded warehouses, and denaturing plants, under section 3183 of the Internal Revenue Code and this subpart, for transfer in bond, or if 160 degrees or more of proof, for denaturing of for use of the United States, may be mingled in tank cars, tank trucks, tank barges, etc., during the course of removal from the shipping premises. When distilled spirits produced from different kinds of materials are so mingled, they shall be redesignated in accordance with the applicable provisions of §§ 171.221 and 171.222.

§ 171.277 Mingling during course of removal, different premises. In order that transportation facilities may be utilized economically, additional deposits of distilled spirits may be made in tank cars, tank trucks, tank barges, etc., after removal from the premises of the original consignor and during the course of transportation to the premises of the ultimate consignee. Where such an additional deposit is to be made, the Government officer assigned to supervise the deposit will examine the conveyance and determine whether the seals are intact, and whether there is any evidence of tampering. The Government officer will then remove only those seals necessary to check the contents as to dry inches and proof and to permit the deposit of additional spirits, after which he will determine the composite proof and the dry inches. The conveyance will then be sealed. When distilled spirits produced from different kinds of materials are so mingled, they shall be redesignated in accordance with the applicable provisions of §§ 171.221 and 171.222. A separate withdrawal form shall be prepared in respect of each such additional deposit as, for example, Forms 236 and 1520 or 1440 for transfers in bond. Except as provided herein, the withdrawal procedure shall be in accordance with the provisions of this subpart concerning an original withdrawal. The Government officer will note on the withdrawal forms covering the additional deposit the fact that such a withdrawal deposit was made together with information concerning any shortages in the original shipment. In addition to the label required by § 171.205 to be affixed to the conveyance at the time of the original withdrawal, another label shall be similarly affixed showing the information required by § 171.205 describing the additional deposit and, in addition thereto, the composite proof and gallonage and the dry inches remaining after the deposit is completed. When such composite shipments are to be made, the prescribed labels will be prepared in such form as to permit the attachment of additional labels to the route board. When it is desired to make additional deposits in a conveyance, the consignee proprietor desiring to follow such procedure will make application, in duplicate, to the district supervisor for permission so to do. The application shall specify the dates on which it is desired to follow such procedure and the necessity therefor together with sufficient information to enable the district supervisor to determine the necessity therefor, and if he approves the application to advise the Government officers concerned so that proper control and supervision can be exercised. Where it is desired to follow such procedure regularly, the application will be made, and the permission granted accordingly.

§ 171.278 Establishment of denaturing plants. Proprietors of registered distilleries, fruit distilleries, and internal revenue bonded warehouses, from which distilled spirits of 160 degrees or more of proof are withdrawn under section 3183, I. R. C., and this subpart, may establish denaturing plants in accordance with the applicable provisions of Regulations 3 for operation during the effective period of this subpart. Except when deemed necessary to meet the requirements of the national defense, the establishment of such denaturing plants will be restricted to those established in conjunction with premises from which distilled spirits are withdrawn for denaturation.

§ 171.279 Additional requirements. The Commissioner may require the proprietor or the Government officer to prepare such additional copies of forms prescribed by this subpart or by the pertinent provisions of Regulations 3, 4, 5, and 10, or such other records, as he may deem necessary to meet the requirements of the national defense.

§ 171.280 Termination of regulations. The regulations contained in this subpart and all operations authorized thereunder shall cease to be effective five years from the date of enactment of section 3183, I. R. C. The qualified status of industrial alcohol bonded warehouses and denaturing plants established by nonproducers of alcohol under part II of subchapter C and the applicable provisions of this subpart and Regulations 3 shall likewise cease and the permits issued therefor shall terminate on such date, except as to the removal of any alcohol stored therein at such time.

3. Subpart F of this part, consisting of §§ 171.150–171.158 (Treasury Decision 5814, effective November 1950 (15 F. R. 7498)), is hereby revoked.

4. These regulations will be effective on the 31st day after the date of its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION

[Docket Nos. 8736, 8975, 8976, 9175]

ORDER OF HEARING PROCEDURE

In the matters of amendment of § 3.606 of the Commission's rules and regulations, Docket Nos. 8736 and 8975; amendment of the Commission's rules, regulations and Engineering standards concerning the Television Broadcast Service, Docket No. 9175; utilization of frequencies in the band 470 to 890 Mcs for Television Broadcasting, Docket No. 8976.

1. On July 13, 1951, the Commission issued a "Notice of Proposed Procedure" (FCC 51-711) in the above-entitled matters, which stated that the Commission proposed to adopt, in principle, a hearing procedure in the remaining portion of these proceedings, requested in a petition filed July 6, 1951, by the National Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters in behalf of its Television Board (NARTB-TV). The NARTB-TV petition urged that the following procedure be adopted in these proceedings in lieu of oral hearings:

(1) Provide interested parties of record an opportunity to participate in further rule making on these subjects solely through submission of written data, views, or arguments in lieu of oral presentation in open hearing, said material to have the same force and effect as if such testimony and evidence had been presented orally at the hearing scheduled to begin on July 23, 1951.

(2) Provide for a 30-day period from the date of grant of this petition within which such parties of record may fully implement comments (including data, views or arguments) previously filed, having due notice that opportunity for oral presentation will not be provided, unless good cause is shown to the contrary by specific petition.

(3) Provide for an additional 30-day period within which such parties of record may submit written comments (including data, views, or arguments) in opposition to the implemented and additional comments filed in accordance with paragraph 2 above.

(4) Provide for the submission of the above specified, written testimony and evidence in affidavit form.

(5) Provide that such written data, views or arguments shall be filed with the Commission in sufficient number to permit reasonable access thereto at the Commission.

2. In its Notice of Proposed Procedure the Commission listed those parties who had indicated support of the NARTB-TV petition,[1] summarzied the reasons advanced by NARTB-TV in support of its petition, and stated in part as follows:

(5) The Commission is cognizant of the compelling need of concluding the instant proceedings at the earliest possible date consistent with due consideration of the important basic issues involved. It is keenly aware of the considerations referred to in the petitions described above and of the fact that the interest of the people of the United States requires that television become available on a nationwide scale at the earliest practicable moment and on a basis that will make for a fair, efficient, and equitable distribution of television service. It has, therefore, had under consideration possible methods for expediting progress of the instant proceedings in order to accomplish this objective.

As a result of such consideration, including a review of the petitions described above, the Commission announced a proposed written procedure for completion of the above-entitled proceedings, similar to that proposed by the NARTB-TV.

[1] The Notice of Proposed Procedure issued July 13, 1951, enumerated the following parties who supported the NARTB-TV petition: Keokuk Broadcasting Company, Keokuk, Iowa; Allegheny Broadcasting Company, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania; Hirsch Broadcasting Company, Cape Girardeau, Missouri; The Gable Broadcasting Company, Altoona, Pennsylvania; Orlando Broadcasting Company, Orlando, Florida; KFRU, Inc., Columbia, Missouri; Lynchburg Broadcasting Corporation, Lynchburg, Virginia; and Pittsburg Broadcasting Company, Inc., Pittsburg, Kansas. In addition, the NARTB-TV petition was supported by the following other parties not listed in the Notice of Proposed Procedure: WGAL, Inc., Lancaster, Pennsylvania; WDEL, Inc., Wilmington, Delaware; Birmingham Broadcasting Co., Inc., Birmingham, Alabama, and Giddens & Rester, Mobile, Alabama.

3. In accordance with its Notice of July 13, 1951, the Commission held a formal pre-hearing conference on July 20, 1951, for the purpose of discussing the adoption of the proposed procedure. Over 200 parties appeared and participated in this conference. With the exceptions noted below, all the parties participating in the conference supported or did not object to the adoption of a written procedure in lieu of the further oral hearings contemplated by the Commission's "Third Notice of Further Proposed Rule Making" (FCC 51-244) issued in these proceedings. Allen B. DuMont Laboratories, Inc., Daily News Television Company, Pennsylvania Broadcasting Company, City Broadcasting Company and Michigan State College objected to any procedure which would preclude them from presenting oral testimony in these proceedings.

4. In addition to the views expressed at the pre-hearing conference held on July 20, 1951, the Commission has received written comments relating to the proposed procedure filed by numerous parties.[2] Some of these comments supporting the adoption of the proposed procedure also urged that greater periods of time be provided for the filing of evidence in writing in this proceeding than that suggested in the NARTB-TV petition. Some of the parties, although generally supporting the Commission's proposed procedure, urged that provision be made for the reception of some evidence by oral presentation.

5. Upon consideration of the pleadings filed with respect to the NARTB-TV petition, the Commission's Notice of Proposed Procedure issued July 13, 1951, the written comments filed pursuant to the July 13, 1951 Notice, and of the record of the pre-hearing conference held July 20, 1951, the following procedure is adopted for the remaining portion of these proceedings in lieu of the oral hearings now scheduled to commence on July 30, 1951:

a. The further oral hearings in the above-entitled proceedings now scheduled to commence July 30, 1951, are cancelled.

b. Any person who, pursuant to paragraph 12 of the Third Notice of Further Proposed Rule Making (FCC 51-244), issued on March 22, 1951 in these proceedings, has filed an appropriate comment or opposition with respect to Appendices C and D of the Third Notice, will be permitted to file sworn written statements or exhibits fully setting out their position in support of such pleadings. Parties who have heretofore filed such comments or oppositions may, if they choose, adopt such comments or oppositions, or any designated portion thereof, as their complete presentation with respect to any issue, by the filing of a sworn statement verifying the matters of fact set out therein.

c. Any person eligible to submit sworn statements or exhibits pursuant to subparagraph b above, will be permitted to submit sworn statements or exhibits directed against statements or exhibits offered by other parties pursuant to subparagraph b above.

d. Any statements or exhibits filed in accordance with subparagraphs b and c above which are not sworn to will not receive consideration by the Commission.

e. The Commission will, upon its own motion, or that of any proper party:

(1) Permit any party who has filed a sworn statement or exhibit in this proceeding in accordance with subparagraphs b or c above to make an oral presentation, in addition to the submission of such sworn statements or exhibits, with respect to any issue which in the Commission's judgment cannot be satisfactorily considered and disposed of without such oral presentation; and

(2) Order cross-examination of any person or party who has filed a sworn statement or exhibit in this proceeding in accordance with subparagraphs b or c above, if upon review of the statements and exhibits, it appears that relevant factual issues cannot otherwise be satisfactorily resolved.

f. Any party who has filed a sworn statement or exhibit pursuant to subparagraphs b and c above will be permitted to file a supporting brief with respect to any matter of fact or law raised by such statements or exhibits.

6. The Commission will not consider any sworn statements or exhibits, or any part thereof, filed pursuant to subparagraphs 5 b and c above which would have been inadmissible if presented as evidence in the oral hearings in these proceedings. Any party will be permitted to file a sworn statement or exhibit pursuant to subparagraph 5c above if such party would have been eligible to cross examine witnesses, or offer rebuttal, had these proceedings been conducted orally. It should be noted that parties whose comments filed in these proceedings on May 7, 1951, were by their terms in conflict with other comments, will be entitled to file sworn statements or exhibits in accordance with subparagraph 5c above even though specific oppositions directed to such other comments have not been filed.

7. In view of the fact that the issues raised by Appendices A and B of the Third Notice of Further Proposed Rule Making (FCC 51-244) are interrelated with those raised by the issues to be determined in the remaining portion of these proceedings, and in order to permit parties to make a full presentation of, their cases, the Commission has decided not to finalize Appendices A and B at this time. However, sworn statements or exhibits filed pursuant to paragraph 5 above must be consistent with Appendices A and B, with the following express exception: If a comment or opposition with respect to Appendices C and D of the Third Notice deviates from Appendices A or B, a sworn statement or exhibit inconsistent with Appendices A and B may be filed pursuant to paragraph 5 above if such statement or exhibit is inconsistent with Appendices A and B only to the extent that the comment or opposition is inconsistent with Appendices A and B.

8. Fifty copies of any statement or exhibit filed in accordance with subparagraphs 5 b and c above, or any pleading or brief filed pursuant to paragraph 5 e and f above, shall be filed with the Commission. Copies of such statements, exhibits, pleadings or briefs will be made available in the Commission's Public Reference Room, Room 8454, New Post Office Building, 12th and Pennsylvania Avenue NW., Washington, D. C., for use by the parties. Such statements, exhibits, pleadings or briefs will be available for loan for reasonable periods of time upon request in person or by mail. Parties are encouraged but not required to serve copies of their statements, exhibits, pleadings and briefs on all other parties whose interests are affected by such documents.

9. Statements or exhibits filed pursuant to subparagraph 5c above shall be directed to the statements or exhibits of only one party, and shall clearly indicate on their face the party against whom such statements or exhibits are directed. Accordingly, parties desiring to file statements or exhibits pursuant to subparagraph 5c above, directed against statements or exhibits of more than one party, shall file separate statements or exhibits.

10. Reference is made to the Commission's "Notice of Order of Testimony" (Mimeo. 66241) issued July 19, 1951, and to the "Addendum to the Notice of Order of Testimony" (Mimeo. 66394) issued July 25, 1951. As indicated in the Table below the Notice of Order of Testimony, as corrected by the Addendum, will serve as a basis for the order in which the sworn statements or exhibits and other pleadings and briefs provided for by paragraph 5 above will be filed

988.110 Separability of provisions.
988.111 Agents.

§ 988.0 Findings and determinations. The findings and determinations hereinafter set forth are supplementary and in addition to the findings and determinations previously made in connection with the issuance of the aforesaid order and each of the priviously issued amendments thereto; and all of said previous findings and determinations are hereby ratified and affirmed, except insofar as such findings and determinations may be in conflict with the findings and determinations set forth herein.

(a) Findings upon the basis of the hearing record. Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was held at Knoxville, Tennessee, on January 16–20, 1951, upon a proposed marketing agreement and certain proposed amendments to the order, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the Knoxville, Tennessee, marketing area. Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing and the record thereof, it is found that:

(1) The said order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, and all of the terms and conditions of said order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(2) The parity prices of milk as determined pursuant to section 2 of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds and other economic conditions which affect market supply of and demand for milk in the marketing area, and the minimum prices specified in the order, as amended and as hereby further amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk and be in the public interest; and

(3) The said order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, regulates the handling of milk in the same manner as and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

(b) Determinations. It is hereby determined that handlers (excluding cooperative association of producers who are not engaged in processing, distributing, or shipping the milk covered by this order, as amended) of more than 50 percent of the volume of milk covered by this order, as amended, which is marketed within the said marketing area, refused or failed to sign the marketing agreement regulating the handling of milk in the said marketing area, and it is hereby further determined that:

(1) The refusal or failure of such handlers to sign said marketing agreement tends to prevent the effectuation of the declared policy of the act:

(2) The issuance of this order, as amended, is the only practical means, pursuant to the declared policy of the act, of advancing the interests of the producers of milk which is produced for sale in the said marketing area; and

(3) The issuance of this order, as amended, is approved or favored by at least two-thirds of the producers who participated in a referendum on the question of approval of its issuance, and who, during the determined representative period (May 1951) were engaged in the production of milk for sale in the said marketing area.

Order relative to handling. It is therefore ordered, That on and after the effective date hereof the handling of milk in the Knoxville, Tennessee, marketing area shall be in conformity to and in compliance with the terms and conditions of the aforesaid order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, and the aforesaid order, as amended, is hereby further amended to read as follows:

In either case the market administrator shall give further written notification to the handler promptly, upon the termination of the litigation or when the records are no longer necessary in connection therewith.

CLASSIFICATION OF MILK

§ 988.40 Basis of classification. All skim milk and butterfat contained in (a) receipts at a fluid milk plant(s), within such delivery period, of (1) producer milk, (2) skim milk and butterfat in any form from other handlers, and (3) other source milk, and (b) milk diverted pursuant to § 988.10 (b) shall be classified by the market administrator in the classes set forth in § 988.41.

§ 988.41 Classes of utilization. Subject to the conditions set forth in § 988.42 through § 988.45 the classes of utilization shall be as follows:

(a) Class I milk shall be all skim milk and butterfat (1) disposed of in fluid form (except for livestock feed) as milk, skim milk, buttermilk, flavored milk, flavored milk drinks, cream and any cream product, except ice cream mix and (2) not specifically accounted for as Class II milk.

(b) Class II milk shall be all skim milk and butterfat: (1) Used to produce any item other than those specified in paragraph (a) of this section; (2) in inventory variation; (3) disposed of for livestock feed; (4) in actual plant shrinkage of skim milk and butterfat received in producer milk, but not in excess of 2.5 percent of such receipts of skim milk and butterfat, respectively, and (5) in actual plant shrinkage of skim milk and butterfat, respectively, in other source milk received: Provided, That if producer milk and other source milk are both received in a fluid milk plant during the same delivery period the shrinkage of skim milk and butterfat, respectively, allocated to producer milk and other source milk shall be computed pro rata according to the proportions of the volumes of skim milk and butterfat, respectively, received from such sources to their total.

§ 988.42 Responsibility of handlers and reclassification of milk. (a) All skim milk and butterfat shall be classified as Class I milk, unless the handler who first receives such skim milk or butterfat proves to the market administrator that such skim milk or butterfat should be classified in Class II.

(b) Any skim milk or butterfat classified (except that transferred to a producer-handler) in one class shall be reclassified if used or reused by such handler or by another handler in another class.

§ 988.43 Transfers. Skim milk or butterfat disposed of by a handler either by transfer or diversion shall be classified:

(a) As Class I milk is transferred or diverted in the form of milk, skim milk, or cream to a fluid milk plant of another handler (except a producer-handler), unless utilization in Class II is mutually indicated in writing to the market administrator by both handlers on or before the 6th day after the end of the delivery period within which such transaction occurred, but in no event shall the amount classified in any class exceed the total use in such class by the transferee-handler: Provided, That if either or both handlers have received other source milk, such milk so disposed of shall be classified at both plants so as to return the higher class utilization to producer milk.

(b) As Class I milk if transferred or diverted in the form of milk, skim milk, or cream to a producer-handler.

(c) As Class I milk if transferred or diverted in the form of milk, skim milk, or cream to a nonfluid milk plant, except that of a producer-handler, unless (1) the handler claims Class II on the basis of a utilization mutually indicated in writing to the market administrator by both the operator of the nonfluid milk plant and the handler on or before the 6th day after the end of the delivery period within which such transfer occurred, (2) the operator of the nonfluid milk plant maintains books and records showing the utilization of all skim milk and butterfat at such plant which are made available if requested by the market administrator for the purpose of verification, and (3) not less than an equivalent amount of skim milk and butterfat was actually utilized in such plant in the use indicated in such statement: Provided, That if upon inspection of the records of such plant it is found that an equivalent amount of skim milk and butterfat was not actually used in such indicated use the remaining pounds shall be classified as Class I: Provided further, That if such plant disposes of fluid cream to another nonfluid milk plant which conforms with the requirements of subparagraphs (1) (2) and (3) of this paragraph, such cream shall be classified as Class II milk.

§ 988.44 Computation of skim milk and butterfat in each class. For each delivery period, the market administrator shall correct for mathematical and other obvious errors the delivery period report submitted by each handler and compute the total pounds of skim milk and butterfat, respectively, in Class I milk and Class II milk for such handler.

§ 988.45 Allocation of skim milk and butterfat classified. (a) The pounds of skim milk remaining in each class after making the following computations for each handler for each delivery period shall be the pounds in such class allocated to producer milk received by such handler:

(1) Subtract the shrinkage of skim milk, computed pursuant to § 988.41 (b) (4) from the total pounds of skim milk in Class II milk;

(2) Subtract from the pounds of skim milk remaining in each class, in series beginning with the lowest price Class II milk, the pounds of skim milk in other source milk;

(3) Subtract from the pounds of skim milk remaining in each class the pounds of skim milk received from other handlers and assigned to such class pursuant to § 988.43 (a);

(4) Add to the pounds of skim milk remaining in Class II milk the pounds of skim milk subtracted pursuant to subparagraph (1) of this paragraph; or if the pounds of skim milk remaining in all classes exceed the pounds of skim milk in producer milk, subtract such excess from the pounds of skim milk remaining in each class, in series beginning with Class II.

(b) Allocate the pounds of butterfat in each class to producer milk in the same manner prescribed for skim milk in paragraph (a) of this section.

(c) Add the pounds of skim milk and the pounds of butterfat allocated to producer milk in each class, respectively, as computed pursuant to paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section, and determine the percentage of butterfat in each class.

MINIMUM PRICES

§ 988.50 Basic formula price. The basic formula price per hundredweight (computed to the nearest tenth of a cent) to be used in determining the price for Class I milk pursuant to § 988.51 shall be the highest of the prices per hundredweight for milk of 4.0 percent butterfat content computed pursuant to paragraph (a), (b), or (c) of this section, or § 988.51 (b).

(a) To the arithmetical average of the basic (or field) prices reported to have been paid or to be paid per hundredweight for milk of 3.5 percent butterfat content received from farmers during the delivery period at the following plants or places for which prices have been reported to the market administrator or to the Department of Agriculture on or before the 6th day after the end of the delivery period by the companies listed below:

(b) The price per hundredweight computed as follows:

(1) Multiply by 6 the average daily wholesale price per pound of 92-score butter in the Chicago market as reported by the Department of Agriculture during the delivery period;

(2) Add an amount equal to 2.4 times the arithmetical average of the weekly prevailing price per pound of "Twins" during the delivery period on the Wisconsin Cheese Exchange at Plymouth, Wisconsin: Provided, That if the price of "Twins" is not quoted on such Exchange the weekly prevailing price per pound of "Cheddars" shall be used; and

(3) Divide by 7, add 30 percent thereof, and then multiply by 4.

(c) The price per hundredweight computed as follows: Multiply by 4.0 the arithmetical average of daily wholesale prices per pound of 92-score butter in the Chicago market, as reported by the Department of Agriculture during the delivery period, add 20 percent thereof, and add to such sum 3¾ cents for each full ½ cent that the arithmetical average of carlot prices per pound of nonfat dry milk solids (not including that specifically designated animal feed), spray and roller process, f. o. b. Chicago area manufacturing plants, as reported by the Department of Agriculture during the delivery period, is above 5 cents: Provided, That if such f. o. b. manufacturing plant prices of nonfat dry milk solids are not reported there shall be used for the purpose of such computation the arithmetical average of the carlot prices of nonfat dry milk solids delivered at Chicago, Illinois, as reported by the Department of Agriculture during the delivery period; and in the latter event the "5 cents" shall be increased by 1 cent.

§ 988.51 Class prices. Subject to the provisions of § 988.52 each handler shall pay producers, at the time and in the manner set forth in § 988.80 through § 988.86, not less than the prices per hundredweight computed as follows for the respective quantities of Class I milk and Class II milk computed pursuant to § 988.45:

(a) Class I Milk. The price for Class I milk prior to August 1, 1951, shall be the basic formula price plus $1.30 per hundredweight. Effective August 1, 1951, the price for Class I milk shall be the basic formula price plus $1.50 per hundredweight: Provided, That, if during the 12 months prior to the month immediately preceding each delivery period, the total volume of milk received from producers by all handlers was more than 110 percent of the total Class I utilization of all handlers during such 12-month period, the Class I price shall be decreased 2.5 cents per hundredweight for each full percentage point that such percentage is more than 110 percent.

(b) Class II milk. The price for Class II milk shall be the arithmetical average of the basic (or field) prices reported to have been paid or to be paid per hundredweight for milk of 4.0 percent butterfat content received from farmers during the delivery period at the following plants or places for which prices have been reported to the market administrator or to the Department of Agriculture on or before the 6th day after the end of the delivery period by the companies indicated below:

§ 988.52 Butterfat differential to handlers. If the weighted average butterfat test of that portion of producer milk which is classified, respectively, in any class of utilization for a handler, pursuant to § 988.45, is more or less than 4.0 percent, there shall be added to, or subtracted from, as the case may be, the price for such class of utilization, for each one-tenth of 1 percent that such weighted average butterfat test is above or below, respectively, 4.0 percent, a butterfat differential (computed to the nearest 10th of a cent), calculated for each class of utilization as follows:

(a) Class I milk. Multiply by 1.3 the average daily wholesale price per pound of 92-score butter in the Chicago market, as reported by the Department of Agriculture during the delivery period, and divide the result by 10.

(b) Class II milk. Multiply by 1.15 the average daily wholesale price per pound of 92-score butter in the Chicago market, as reported by the Department of Agriculture during the delivery period, and divide the result by 10.

DETERMINATION OF BASE

§ 988.60 Computation of daily average base for each producer. For the months of April through August of each year the market administrator shall compute a daily average base for each producer as follows, subject to the rules set forth in § 988.61.

(a) Divide the total pounds of milk received by a handler(s) from such producer during the months of September through February immediately preceding by the number of days from the first day of delivery by such producer during such months to the last day of February, inclusive, but not less than 120 days.

§ 988.61 Base rules. The following rules shall apply in connection with the establishment of bases:

(a) A base shall apply to deliveries of milk by the producer for whose account that milk was delivered during the base forming period;

(b) Bases may be transferred by notifying the market administrator in writing before the last day of any month for which such base is to be transferred to the person named in such notice only as follows:

(1) In the event of the death, retirement, or entry into military service of a producer, the entire base may be transferred to a member(s) of such producer's immediate family who carries on the dairy operations.

(2) If a base is held jointly and such joint holding is terminated, the entire base may be transferred to one of the joint holders.

§ 988.62 Announcement of established bases. On or before April 1, of each year, the market administrator shall notify each producer and the handler receiving milk from such producer the daily base established by such producer.

DETERMINATION OF UNIFORM PRICES TO PRODUCERS

§ 988.70 Computation of value of milk. The value of producer milk received during each delivery period by each handler shall be a sum of money computed by the market administrator by multiplying the pounds of such milk in each class for the delivery period by the applicable class price adjusted by the butterfat differential to handlers specified in § 988.52 and adding together the resulting amounts: Provided, That if a handler, after subtracting receipts of other source milk and receipts from other handlers, has disposed of skim milk or butterfat in excess of the skim milk or butterfat which has been credited to producers as having been received from them, there shall be added any plus amount computed by multiplying the pounds in each class as subtracted pursuant to paragraphs (a) (4) and (b) of § 988.45 by the applicable class price adjusted by the butterfat differentials to handlers specified in § 988.52.

§ 988.71 Computation of uniform price. For the delivery periods of September through March the market administrator shall compute the uniform price per hundredweight for producer milk, on the basis of 4.0 percent butterfat content, as follows:

(a) Combine into one total the value computed pursuant to § 988.70 for all handlers who made the reports prescribed by § 988.30 for such delivery period, except those in default of payments required pursuant to § 988.82 for the preceding delivery period;

(b) Subtract if the average butterfat content of producer milk represented by the values included under paragraph (a) of this section is greater than 4.0 percent, or add, if such average butterfat content is less than 4.0 percent, an amount computed as follows: Multiply the amount by which the average butterfat content of such milk varies from 4.0 percent by the butterfat differential computed pursuant to § 988.85, and multiply the result by the total hundredweight of such milk;

(c) Add an amount representing the cash balance on hand in the producer-settlement fund, less the total amount of contingent obligations to handlers pursuant to § 988.83;

(d) Divide the resulting amount by the total hundredweight of producer milk included in these computations; and

(e) Subtract not less than 4 cents nor more than 5 cents for the purpose of retaining in the producer-settlement fund a cash balance to provide against delinquencies in payments by handlers. This result shall be known as the "uniform price" per hundredweight for such delivery period for producer milk containing 4.0 percent butterfat, f. o. b. fluid milk plant.

§ 988.72 Computation of uniform prices for base milk and excess milk. Following April 1, 1952, for each of the delivery periods of April through August, the market administrator shall compute the uniform prices per hundredweight for base milk and for excess milk, each of 4.0 percent butterfat content, as follows:

(a) Combine into one total the value computed pursuant to § 988.70 for all handlers who made the reports prescribed by § 988.30 for such delivery period, except those in default of payment required pursuant to § 988.82 for the preceding delivery period;

(b) Subtract if the average butterfat content of producer milk represented by the values included under paragraph (a) of this section is greater than 4.0 percent, or add, if such average butterfat content is less than 4.0 percent, an amount computed as follows: Multiply the amount by which the average butterfat content of such milk varies from 4.0 percent by the butterfat differential computed pursuant to § 988.85, and multiply the result by the total hundredweight of such milk;

(c) Add an amount representing the cash balance on hand in the producer-settlement fund, less the total amount of contingent obligations to handlers pursuant to paragraphs (a) (4) and (b) of § 988.45;

(d) Compute the value on a 4.0 percent butterfat basis of the aggregate quantity of excess milk for all handlers included in the computation pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section by multiplying the hundredweight of such milk not in excess of the total quantity of Class II milk included in such computation by the price for Class II milk of 4.0 percent butterfat content, multiplying the hundredweight of such milk in excess of the total hundredweight of such Class II milk by the price for Class I milk of 4.0 percent butterfat content, and adding together the resulting amounts;

(e) Divide the total value of excess milk obtained in paragraph (d) of this section by the total hundredweight of such milk, and adjust to the nearest cent. The resulting figure shall be the uniform price for excess milk of 4.0 percent butterfat content received from producers.

(f) Subtract the value of excess milk determined by applying the uniform price obtained in paragraph (e) of this section from the value of all milk obtained in paragraph (c) of this section;

(g) Divide the amount obtained in paragraph (f) of this section by the total hundredweight of base milk included in these computations;

(h) Subtract not less than 4 cents nor more than 5 cents from the amount computed pursuant to paragraph (g) of this section. The resulting figure shall be the uniform price for base milk of 4.0 percent butterfat content received from producers.

§ 988.73 Notification of handlers. On or before the 10th day after the end of each delivery period, the market administrator shall mail to each handler, at his last known address, a statement showing:

(a) The amount and value of his producer milk in each class and the totals thereof;

(b) For the months of April through August the amounts and value of his base and excess milk respectively, and the totals thereof;

(c) The uniform price(s) computed pursuant to §§ 988.71 and 988.72 and the butterfat differential computed pursuant to § 988.85; and

(d) The amounts to be paid by such handler pursuant to §§ 988.82, 988.87 and and 988.88.

PAYMENTS

§ 988.80 Time and method of payment for producer milk. (a) On or before the last day of each delivery period each handler shall make payment to each producer for milk received from him during the first 15 days of such delivery period at not less than the Class II price per hundredweight for the preceding delivery period: Provided, That with respect to producers whose milk was caused to be delivered to such handler by a cooperative association which is authorized to collect payment for such milk, the handler shall pay such cooperative association on or before the 2d day before the end of each delivery period an amount equal to the sum of the individual payments otherwise payable to such producers in accordance with this paragraph.

(b) On or before the 15th day after the end of each delivery period each handler shall make payment to each producer for milk which was received from him during the delivery period at not less than the uniform price computed pursuant to § 988.71, if such delivery period is any of the months of September through March, or at not less than the uniform price for base milk computed pursuant to § 988.72 with respect to base milk received from such producer and at not less than the uniform price for excess milk computed pursuant to § 988.72 with respect to excess milk received from such producer, if such delivery period is any of the months of April through August, subject to the following adjustments: (1) The butterfat differential pursuant to § 988.85, (2) less payment made pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section, (3) less marketing service deductions pursuant to § 988.88, (4) less deductions authorized in writing by the producer, and (5) adjusted for any error in calculating payment to such individual producer for past delivery periods: Provided, That if such handler has not received full payment for such delivery period pursuant to § 988.83 he may reduce uniformly per hundredweight for all producers his payments pursuant to this paragraph by an amount not in excess of the per hundredweight reduction in payment from the market administrator: Provided further, That the handler shall make such balance of payment to those producers to whom it is due on or before the date for making payments pursuant to this paragraph next following that on which such balance of payment is received from the market administrator: And provided further, That with respect to producers whose milk was caused to be delivered to such handler by a cooperative association which is authorized to collect payment for such milk, the handler shall pay such cooperative association, on or before the 13th day after the end of each delivery period, an amount equal to the sum of the individual payments otherwise payable to such producers in accordance with this paragraph.

§ 988.81 Producer-settlement fund. The market administrator shall establish and maintain a separate fund known as the "producer-settlement fund" into which he shall deposit all payments made by handlers pursuant to §§ 988.82 and 988.84, and out of which he shall make all payments pursuant to §§ 988.83 and 988.84: Provided, That payments due to any handler shall be offset by payments due from such handler.

§ 988.82 Payments to the producer-settlement fund. On or before the 12th day after the end of each delivery period, each handler shall pay to the market administrator any amount by which the total value of his milk computed pursuant to § 988.70 for such delivery period is greater than the value of milk received by such handler from producers during the delivery period, computed at the applicable minimum uniform prices as specified in § 988.71 and § 988.72 adjusted for the butterfat differential provided for in § 988.85.

§ 988.83 Payments out of the producer-settlement fund. On or before the 13th day after the end of each delivery period, the market administrator shall pay to each handler, for payment to producers, or a cooperative association, any amount by which the total value of his milk computed pursuant to § 988.70 for such delivery period is less than the value of milk received by such handler from producers during the delivery period, computed at the applicable minimum uniform prices as specified in §§ 988.71 and 988.72 adjusted for the butterfat differential provided for in § 988.85. If at such time the balance in the producer-settlement fund is insufficient to make all payments pursuant to this section, the market administrator shall reduce uniformly per hundredweight such payments and shall complete such payments as soon as the necessary funds are available.

§ 988.84 Adjustment of errors in payment. Whenever verification by the market administrator of payments by any handler discloses errors made in payments to the producer-settlement fund pursuant to § 988.82, the market administrator shall promptly bill such handler for any unpaid amount and such handler shall, within 15 days, make payment to the market administrator of the amount so billed. Whenever verification discloses that payment is due from the market administrator to any handler, pursuant to § 988.83, the market administrator shall, within 15 days, make such payment to such handler. Whenever verification by the market administrator of the payment by a handler to any producer or cooperative association for milk received by such handler discloses payment of less than is required by § 988.80, the handler shall pay such balance due such producer or cooperative association not later than the time of making payment to producers or cooperative associations next following such disclosure.

§ 988.85 Butterfat differential to producers. If, during the delivery period, any handler has received, from any producer or cooperative association, milk having an average butterfat content other than 4.0 percent, such handler, in making payments prescribed in § 988.80 (b), shall add to the uniform price(s) per hundredweight paid to such producer or cooperative association for each one-tenth of 1 percent that the average butterfat content of such milk is above 4.0 percent not less than, or may deduct from the uniform price(s) per hundredweight for each one-tenth of 1 percent that the average butterfat content of such milk is below 4.0 percent not more than, an amount computed as follows: Multiply by 1.2 the average daily wholesale price per pound of 92-score butter in the Chicago market, as reported by the Department of Agriculture during the delivery period, and divide the result by 10, and then adjust to the nearest one-tenth of a cent.

§ 988.86 Statement to producers. In making payments required by § 988.80 each handler shall furnish each producer or cooperative association with a supporting statement in such form that it may be retained by the producer or cooperative association which shall show:

(a) The delivery period and the identity of the handler and of the producer;

(b) The total pounds and the average butterfat content of milk delivered by the producer including for the months of April through August, the pounds of base milk and excess milk;

(c) The minimum rate or rates at which payment to the producer is required under the provisions of §§ 988.80 and 988.85;

(d) The rate which is used in making the payment if such rate is other than the applicable minimum;

(e) The amount or the rate per hundredweight of each deduction claimed by the handler including any deduction made pursuant to § 988.88, together with a description of the respective deductions; and

(f) The net amount of payment to the producer or cooperative association.

§ 988.87 Expense of administration. as his pro rata share of the expense of the administration of this part, each handler shall pay to the market administrator, on or before the 15th day after the end of each delivery period, 4 cents per hundredweight or such lesser amount as the Secretary may prescribe, with respect to receipts, during the delivery period, of (a) milk from producers (including such handler's own production), and (b) other source milk received at a fluid milk plant: Provided, That each cooperative association shall pay such pro rata expense on only that milk of producers for which it is a handler.

§ 988.88 Marketing services. (a) Except as set forth in paragraph (b) of this section, each handler in making payments to producers pursuant to § 988.80 (b), shall deduct 6 cents per hundredweight or such lesser amount as the Secretary may prescribe, with respect to all milk received by such handler from producers, excepting such handler's own farm production, during the delivery period, and shall pay such deductions to the market administrator not later than the 15th day after the end of the delivery period. Such moneys shall be used by the market administrator to verify weights, samples, and tests of milk received by handlers from such producers during the delivery period and to provide such producers with market information. Such services shall be performed in whole or in part by the market administrator or by an agent engaged by and responsible to him.

(b) Producers' cooperative associations. In the case of producers for whom a cooperative association is actually performing, as determined by the Secretary, the services set forth in paragraph (a) of this section, each handler shall make, in lieu of the deductions specified in paragraph (a) of this section, such deductions as are authorized by such producers and, on or before the 15th day after the end of each delivery period, pay over such deductions to the association rendering such services.

§ 988.89 Termination of obligations. The provisions of this section shall apply to any obligation under this part for the payment of money irrespective of when such obligation arose, except an obligation involved in an action instituted before December 1, 1951, under section 8c (15) (A) of the act or before a court.

(a) The obligation of any handler to pay money required to be paid under the terms of this order, shall, except as provided in paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section, terminate two years after the last day of the calendar month during which the market administrator receives the handler's utilization report on the milk involved in such obligation, unless within such two-year period the market administrator notifies the handler in writing that such money is due and payable. Service of such notice shall be complete upon mailing to the handler's last known address, and it shall contain but need not be limited to, the following information:

(1) The amount of the obligation;

(2) The month(s) during which the milk, with respect to which the obligation exists, was received or handled; and

(3) If the obligation is payable to one or more producers or to an association of producers, the name of such producer(s) or association of producers, or if the obligation is payable to the market administrator, the account for which it is to be paid.

(b) If a handler fails or refuses, with respect to any obligation under this part, to make available to the market administrator or his representatives all books and records required by this part to be made available, the market administrator may, within the two-year period provided for in paragraph (a) of this section, notify the handler in writing of such failure or refusal. If the market administrator so notifies a handler, the said two-year period with respect to such obligation shall not begin to run until the first day of the calendar month following the month during which all such books and records pertaining to such obligation are made available to the market administrator or his representatives.

(c) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section, a handler's obligation under this order to pay money shall not be terminated with respect to any transaction involving fraud or willful concealment of a fact, material to the obligation, on the part of the handler against whom the obligation is sought to be imposed.

(d) Any obligation on the part of the market administrator to pay a handler any money which such handler claims to be due him under the terms of this part shall terminate two years after the end of the calendar month during which the milk involved in the claim was received if an underpayment is claimed, or two years after the end of the calendar month during which the payment (including deduction or set-off by the market administrator) was made by the handler if a refund on such payment is claimed, unless such handler, within the applicable period of time, files, pursuant to section 8c (15) (A) of the act, a petition claiming such money.

APPLICATION OF PROVISIONS

§ 988.90 Producer-handlers. Sections 988.40 through 988.45, 988.50 through 988.52, 988.60 through 988.62, 988.70 through 988.73, 988.80 through 988.88 shall not apply to a producer-handler.

EFFECTIVE TIME, SUSPENSION OR TERMINATION

§ 988.100 Effective time. The provisions of this part, or any amendments to this part, shall become effective at such time as the Secretary may declare and shall continue in force until suspended or terminated.

§ 988.101 Suspension or termination. The Secretary shall suspend or terminate any or all of the provisions of this part, whenever he finds that it obstructs or does not tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act. This part shall, in any event, terminate whenever the provisions of the act authorizing it cease to be in effect.

§ 988.102 Continuing power and duty of the market administrator. (a) If, upon the suspension or termination of any or all of the provisions of this part, there are any obligations arising hereunder, the final accrual or ascertainment of which requires further acts by any handler, by the market administrator, or by any other person, the power and duty to perform such further acts shall continue notwithstanding such suspension or termination: Provided, That any such acts required to be performed by the market administrator shall, if the Secretary so directs, be performed by such other person, persons, or agency as the Secretary may designate.

(b) The market administrator, or such other person as the Secretary may designate shall (1) continue in such capacity until discharged by the Secretary; (2) from time to time account for all receipts and disbursements and deliver all funds or property on hand, together with the books and records of the market administrator, or such person, to such person as the Secretary shall direct; and (3) if so directed by the Secretary execute such assignments or other instruments necessary or appropriate to vest in such person full title to all funds, property, and claims vested in the market administrator or such person pursuant thereto.

§ 988.103 Liquidation after suspension or termination. Upon the suspension or termination of any or all provisions of this part, the market administrator or such person as the Secretary may designate shall, if so directed by the Secretary, liquidate the business of the market administrator's office, and dispose of all funds and property then in his possession or under his control, together with claims for any funds which are unpaid or owing at the time of such suspension or termination. Any funds collected pursuant to the provisions of this part, over and above the amounts necessary to meet outstanding obligations and the expenses necessarily incurred by the market administrator or such person in liquidating and distributing such funds, shall be distributed to the contributing handlers and producers in an equitable manner.

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

§ 988.110 Separability of provisions. If any provision of this part, or its application to any person or circumstances, is held invalid, the application of such provision, and of the remaining provisions of this part, to other persons or circumstances shall not be affected thereby.

§ 988.111 Agents. The Secretary may, by designation in writing, name any officer or employee of the United States to act as his agent or representative in connection with any of the provisions of this part.

Issued at Washington, D. C., this 26th day of July 1951, to be effective on and after the 1st day of September 1951.

Subchapter D—Nationality Regulations

PART 330—SPECIAL CLASSES OF PERSONS WHO MAY BE NATURALIZED: FORMER UNITED STATES CITIZENS

PROCEDURAL CHANGES

JULY 18, 1951.

Reference is made to the notice of proposed rule making which was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER of June 8, 1951 (16 F. R. 5455), pursuant to section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act (60 Stat. 238; 5 U. S. C. 1003) and in which there were stated in full the terms of a proposed amendment of the rules relating to procedural changes in the processing of an application submitted by a person who is desirous of being naturalized under section 323 of the Nationality Act of 1940. No representations have been received concerning the proposed amendment. The rule, as stated below, is hereby adopted. The provisions of the adopted rule are the same as those stated in the notice of proposed rule making.

Section 330.6 of Chapter I, Title 8 of the Code of Federal Regulations, is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 330.6 Person who lost citizenship of the United States through service in one of the Allied Armies during the First or Second World War. A person who, while a citizen of the United States and during the First or Second World War, entered the military or naval service of any country at war with a country with which the United States was or is at war, who lost citizenship of the United States by reason of any oath or obligation taken for the purpose of entering such service, or by reason of entering or serving in such armed forces, and who intends to reside permanently in the United States, may be naturalized by taking the oath of renunciation and allegiance specified in section 335 of the Nationality Act of 1940. For the purposes of this section, the Second World War shall be deemed to have commenced on September 1, 1939, and shall continue until such time as the United States shall cease to be in a state of war. Such oath may be taken before any naturalization court, and any person described in this section who has lost United States citizenship during the Second World War may also take the oath before any diplomatic or consular officer of the United States abroad. Preliminary application to take the oath shall be made on Form N-428 and submitted to the immigration and naturalization office prescribed in § 60.30 (a) of this chapter. The eligibility of an applicant to take the oath shall be investigated by a member of the Service and appropriate recommendation made to the naturalization court. The application to the court shall be made on Form N-409, in triplicate, the original of Form N-409 being retained as a part of the court record and the duplicate and triplicate forwarded to the district director or officer in charge with duplicates of other naturalization papers filed and issued. The district director or officer in charge shall retain the duplicate and forward the triplicate to the Department of State. The taking of such oath before a diplomatic or consular officer abroad shall be in accordance with such regulations as may be prescribed by the Department of State. Any person who has been naturalized a citizen of the United States under this section may make application for a certificate of naturalization in the manner provided in Part 378 of this chapter.

The rule stated above shall become effective on the thirty-first day following its publication with this order in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

The general basis for the rule is the determination that it is advantageous to the Government that applications for naturalization be processed in a uniform manner. The purpose of the rule is to conform the processing of an application submitted by a person who is desirous of being naturalized under section 323 of the Nationality Act of 1940, to the procedure followed in other types of cases involving recovery of United States citizenship.

TITLE 32A—NATIONAL DEFENSE, APPENDIX

Chapter VI—National Production Authority, Department of Commerce

[NPA Order M-47A, Direction 2]

M-47A—USE OF IRON AND STEEL, COPPER, AND ALUMINUM IN CERTAIN CONSUMER DURABLE GOODS AND RELATED PRODUCTS

DIR. 2—STATUS OF ADJUSTMENTS GRANTED UNDER NPA ORDERS M-47, M-7, AND M-12

This direction to NPA Order M-47A is found necessary and appropriate to promote the national defense and is issued pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950. In the formulation of this direction, consultation with industry representatives has been rendered impracticable due to the necessity for immediate action and because the direction affects a large number of different trades and industries.

Sec.
1. Application of direction.
2. Adjustments under NPA Order M-47.
3. Adjustments of permitted use in manufacture under NPA Orders M-7 or M-12.
4. Adjustment of permitted use or rate of assembly as to parts.
5. Reconciliations in lists.
6. Effect of denial of adjustment because of prohibited use consideration.
7. Conditions applicable to adjustments applied pursuant to this direction.

AUTHORITY: Sections 1 to 7 issued under sec. 704, Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.; Pub. Law 69, 82d Cong. Interpret or apply sec. 101, Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.; Pub. Law 69, 82d Cong.; E. O. 10161, Sept. 9, 1950, 15 F. R. 6105; 3 CFR, 1950 Supp.; sec. 2, E. O. 10200, Jan. 3, 1951, 16 F. R. 61.

SECTION 1. Application of direction. This direction applies only to adjustments authorized by the National Production Authority of base-period use as a measure to determine permitted use of iron and steel, aluminum, and copper under NPA Orders M-47, M-7, and M-12, respectively, and the effect of such adjustments on the permitted use of these metals in the manufacture or assembly of items covered by List A of NPA Order M-47A. It does not apply to any adjustment or exception permitting the use of a specific quantity of any metal product which did not by its terms authorize the adjustment of base-period use.

SEC. 2. Adjustments under NPA Order M-47. Any person authorized in writing by the National Production Authority to use an adjusted base to determine his permitted use of iron and steel products (as defined in section 3 of NPA Order M-47) in the manufacture of any item in List A of NPA Order M-47 during the calendar quarter commencing April 1, 1951, may compute his permitted use of iron and steel products in the manufacture of the corresponding item or items in List A of NPA Order M-47A on the basis of such adjusted base. Any person authorized by the National Production Authority to use an adjusted base to determine his permitted rate of assembly of any item in List A of NPA Order M-47 during the calendar quarter commencing April 1, 1951, may compute his permitted rate of assembly of the corresponding item in List A of NPA Order M-47A on the basis of such adjusted base.

SEC. 3. Adjustments of permitted use in manufacture under NPA Orders M-7 or M-12. Any person authorized in writing by the National Production Authority to use an adjusted base to determine his permitted use of aluminum (as defined in section 3 of NPA Order M-7) in manufacture pursuant to NPA Order M-7, including adjustments pursuant to Direction 2 thereof, or his permitted use of copper forms and products (as defined in section 3 of NPA Order M-12) in manufacture pursuant to NPA Order M-12, including adjustments pursuant to Directions 1 and 2 thereof, may compute his permitted use of aluminum or copper forms and products, or both, as the case may be, in manufacture under NPA Order M-47A by multiplying his adjusted base under NPA Order M-7 or NPA Order M-12, whichever is applicable, by the following ratio: His use of aluminum or copper products in the manufacture of items in List A of Order M-47A, during the base period specified in that order for List A items divided by his use of aluminum or copper products in all of his manufacturing operations during the base period: Provided, however, That the provisions of this section shall not apply to any adjustment of base authorized under NPA Order M-7 or NPA Order M-12 to permit production, or increased production, of one or more specified products, if any of the products covered by such adjustment is not included in List A of Order M-47A: Provided further, That any person who was authorized in writing by NPA to use an adjusted base under NPA Order M-7 or NPA Order M-12 to permit production, or increased production, of one or more specified products, all of which are covered by List A of Order M-47A, shall be allowed to use such adjusted base without any deduction therefrom in computing his permitted use in the manufacture of List A items under Order M-47A.

SEC. 4. Adjustment of permitted use or rate to assembly as to parts. Any person authorized by this direction to apply an adjustment made under NPA Orders M-7, M-12, or M-47, in computing his permited use of a metal product (as defined in section 2 (d) of NPA Order M-47A) in manufacture under NPA Order M-47A may adjust his permitted use or rate of assembly of parts made wholly or partly from such metal product under section 4 (b) of NPA Order M-47A by increasing such permitted use or rate of assembly by the same percentage as the adjustment of his base-period use increased his base-period use of such metal product.

SEC. 5. Reconciliations in lists. Any adjustment which is applied pursuant to this direction shall be applied subject to the following requirements:

(a) To the extent that any adjustment under NPA Order M-47 related to any product not included in List A of M-47A, such adjustment may not be applied to NPA Order M-47A under this direction.

(b) To the extent that any adjustment under NPA Order M-47 related to a specific product now included in any item on List A of NPA Order M-47A, such adjustment shall relate to such product, regardless of its location in List A, rather than to the item bearing the same numerical designation.

Example: A manufacturer of metal furniture was granted an adjusted base to determine his permitted use of iron and steel products in the manufacture of metal dinette furniture (Item 1, Group I, List A, Order M-47) and the manufacture of metal lawn furniture (Item 2, Group I, List A, Order M-47). Under Order M-47A, both such products are included in Item 2, Group I, of List A. Consequently, the two adjusted bases may be added to compute his adjusted base for Item 2 of Group I of List A of Order M-47A. Neither may be considered as a base for Item 1, Group I of List A of Order M-47A, which covers only furniture of predominantly wood materials.

(c) To the extent that any adjustment related to use of a metal product covered by NPA Orders M-7, M-12, or M-47, which metal product is not now or hereafter included in the term "metal product" as such term is now or hereafter defined in NPA Order M-47A, such adjustment may not be applied pursuant to this direction.

SEC. 6. Effect of denial of adjustment because of prohibited use consideration. Any person who has heretofore applied for an adjusted base under NPA Orders M-7 or M-12 and has been denied such adjustment on the ground that the metal product covered by the adjustment was to be used for a prohibited purpose may reapply for adjustment under section 8 of NPA Order M-47A.

SEC. 7. Conditions applicable to adjustments applied pursuant to this direction. Any adjustment authorized under NPA Orders M-7, M-12, or M-47 which is applied pursuant to this direction to determine permitted use or rate of assembly under NPA Order M-47A shall be subject to the following conditions:

(a) Any person applying any such adjustment shall, promptly after the effective date of this direction, prepare a detailed written record of the facts relating to the application of this direction to his operation, which will be signed by such person or by an authorized officer or representative; such record shall be retained for at least 2 years and will be made available at his usual place of business for inspection and audit by duly authorized representatives of NPA.

(b) The National Production Authority reserves the right to modify or revoke any adjustment applied pursuant to this direction. Any person affected by such a modification or revocation will be notified in writing of the nature of the action taken and the reasons therefor.

NOTE: All reporting and record-keeping requirements of this direction have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942 (5 U. S. C. 139-139F).

This direction shall take effect on July 27, 1951.

AUTHORITY: Sections 1 to 9 issued under sec. 704, Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong., Pub. Law 69, 82d Cong. Interpret or apply sec. 101, Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.; Pub. Law 69, 82d Cong.; sec. 101, E. O. 10161, Sept. 9, 1950, 15 F. R. 6105; 3 CFR, 1950 Supp.; sec. 2, E. O. 10200, Jan. 3, 1951, 16 F. R. 61.

SECTION 1. What this order does. This order places restrictions upon the amount of aluminum foil to be converted, but does not apply to aluminum foil, converted or to be converted, for insulation, or to aluminum foil, converted or to be converted, for aluminum cap liners or other packaging closures. Schedule I appearing at the end of this order specifies quantity limitations upon the conversion of aluminum foil for uses other than as insulation or as aluminum cap liners or other packaging closures. These limitations vary according to the end use of the converted aluminum foil. NPA Order M-26, as amended, regulates the use of aluminum foil for aluminum cap liners and other packaging closures.

SEC. 2. Definitions. As used in this order:

(a) "Aluminum foil" means plain coiled aluminum foil as produced by a foil rolling mill, rolled to a thickness of 0.005 inch or less, of either domestic or foreign origin.

(b) "Base period" means the 6-month period ending December 31, 1950.

(c) "Convert" means to put into process or otherwise fabricate, change, or alter, aluminum foil by physical means. It includes cutting into sheets, and also includes the packaging of aluminum foil for retail sales.

(d) "Person" means any individual, corporation, partnership, association, or any other organized group of persons, and includes any agency of the United States Government or any other government.

SEC. 3. Restrictions on amount of aluminum foil that may be converted. Commencing with the third calendar quarter of 1951, but subject to the exceptions in section 4 of this order, no person shall convert a greater quantity by weight of aluminum foil in any one quarter for any particular use specified in Schedule I of this order, or for any particular class of product specified in Schedule I, than that quantity by weight of aluminum foil determined by applying the percentage listed in column 2 of Schedule I opposite that particular use or class of product against the average quarterly quantity by weight of aluminum foil which he converted for that particular use or for that particular class of product during the base period. In computing such average quarterly quantity, a person shall exclude the quantity by weight of aluminum foil which he converted during the base period for (a) insulation, (b) material on orders having a DO rating, and (c) aluminum foil cap liners and other packaging closures.

SEC. 4. Exceptions. In addition to the limited conversion of aluminum foil authorized by section 3 of this order, there is permitted the conversion thereof (a) for insulation, (b) to fill an order for aluminum foil for cap liners or other packaging closures, but only in accordance with the provisions of NPA Order M-26, as now or hereafter amended, and (c) for material required to fill an order that is rated under the priority system established by NPA Reg. 2, or to meet any other mandatory order of NPA.

SEC. 5. Restrictions on inventory. No person who converts aluminum foil shall accept delivery of any aluminum foil if his inventory thereof is, or by such receipt would become, in excess of the quantity necessary to meet his deliveries, supply his services, or perform his operations, on the basis of his currently scheduled method and rate of operation during the succeeding 60-day period, or in excess of a "practicable minimum working inventory" (as defined in NPA Reg. 1), whichever is less.

SEC. 6. Applications for adjustment or exception. Any person affected by any provision of this order may file a request for adjustment or exception upon the ground that his business operation was commenced during or after the base period, that any provision otherwise works an exceptional hardship upon him not suffered generally by others in the same trade or industry, or that its enforcement against him would not be in the interest of the national defense program or in the public interest. In examining requests for adjustment claiming that the public interest is prejudiced by the application of any provision of this order, consideration will be given to the requirements of the public health and safety, civilian defense, and dislocation of labor and resulting unemployment that would impair the defense program. Each request shall be in writing, shall set forth all pertinent facts and the nature of the relief sought, and shall state the justification therefor.

SEC. 7. Records and reports. (a) Each person participating in any transaction covered by this order shall retain in his possession for at least 2 years records of receipts, deliveries, inventories, and use, in sufficient detail to permit an audit that determines for each transaction that the provisions of this order have been met. This does not specify any particular accounting method and does not require alteration of the system of records customarily maintained, provided such records supply an adequate basis for audit. Records may be retained in the form of microfilm or other photographic copies instead of the originals by those persons who have maintained or may maintain such microfilm or other photographic records in the regular and usual course of business.

(b) All records required by this order shall be made available at the usual place of business where maintained for inspection and audit by duly authorized representatives of the National Production Authority.

(c) Persons subject to this order shall make such records and submit such reports to the National Production Authority as it shall require, subject to the terms of the Federal Reports Act of 1942 (5 U. S. C. 139-139F).

SEC. 8. Communications. All communications concerning this order shall be addressed to National Production Authority, Washington 25, D. C., Ref: M-67.

SEC. 9. Violations. Any person who wilfully violates any provision of this order or any other order or regulation of the National Production Authority or who wilfully conceals a material fact or furnishes false information in the course of operation under this order is guilty of a crime and, upon conviction, may be punished by fine or imprisonment or both. In addition, administrative action may be taken against such person to suspend his privileges of making or receiving further deliveries of materials or using facilities under priority or allocation control and to deprive him of further priorities assistance.

NOTE: All reporting and record-keeping requirements of this order have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

Schedule I is hereto attached and made a part of this order.

Except as otherwise provided herein, this order, as amended, shall take effect on July 27, 1951.

MANLY FLEISCHMANN,
Administrator.

M-77—COMMUNICATIONS

This order is found necessary and appropriate to promote the national defense and is issued pursuant to the authority granted by the Defense Production Act of 1950. In the formulation of this order there has been consultation with industry representatives, including representatives of trade associations, and consideration has been given to their recommendations. However, consultation with representatives of all trades and industries affected in advance of the issuance of this order has been found impracticable because the order affects a large number of different trades and industries.

SECTION 1. What this order does. This order provides rules for the procurement and use of materials for MRO and operating construction by the operators of the communications systems covered by it.

SEC. 2. Definitions. (a) "Person" means any individual, partnership, corporation, association, or other organized group, and includes any business enterprise, Government agency, or institution.

(b) "Operator" means any person to the extent engaged in rendering communications service on a revenue basis within the United States, its territories and possessions.

(c) "Communications service" means the transmission of messages by wire or radio, excluding radio broadcasting, television broadcasting, and amateur radio.

(d) "Material" means any raw, in-process, or manufactured commodity, equipment, component, accessory, part, assembly, or product of any kind.

(e) "Maintenance" means the minimum upkeep necessary to continue any plant, facility, or equipment in sound working condition.

(f) "Repair" means the restoration of any plant, facility, or equipment to sound working condition when it has been rendered unsafe or unfit for service by wear and tear, damage, failure of parts, or the like. Neither "maintenance" nor "repair" includes the replacement of any plant, facility, or equipment, or the improvement of any plant, facility, or equipment by replacing material which is still in sound working condition with materials of a new or different kind, quality, or design.

(g) "Operating supplies" means any material which is essential to and consumed in the operation of communications service by an operator and used for purposes other than maintenance, repair, operating construction, or other capital additions.

(h) "MRO" means maintenance, repair, and operating supplies.

(i) "Operating construction" means the erection of any building, structure, or project directly used or useful in rendering communications service, or addition or extension thereto, or alteration thereof, through the incorporation-in-place on the site of materials which are to be an integral and permanent part of the building, structure, or project. It does not include buildings, structures, or projects of indirect use in the rendering of such service, such as office buildings, warehouses, and garages.

(j) "Inventory" shall include all items of new and/or salvaged material and supplies on hand, whether held for current or future use or for sale as junk, until physically incorporated into plant by way of maintenance, repair, construction, or otherwise, and without regard to whether or not such items of material are carried in operator's accounting records under "Materials and Supplies Account," exclusive nevertheless of:

(1) Any material of a superseded type reserved by an operator in segregated stocks for reuse, as a practical measure of conservation to meet probable future operating contingencies;

(2) Any material ordered for use in construction, made to particular specifications, and reasonably usable only in the specific project for which it is made;

(3) Segregated stocks maintained by an operator as reasonably necessary for repair of major breakdowns due to explosion, fire, sabotage, act of the public enemy, flood, storm, or similar catastrophe.

(k) "Material of a superseded type" means equipment no longer manufactured or carried by a manufacturer as a regular item for sale to operators except for repair and maintenance of, or for additions to, existing installations. It does not mean equipment drawn from superseded stock to replenish current working inventories.

(l) "Controlled materials" means steel, copper, and aluminum, in the forms and shapes indicated in Schedule I of CMP Regulation No. 1, as from time to time amended.

(m) "Single project" means all items entering into construction as part of a single plan, whether or not installed or completed at the same time. No project shall be divided for the purpose of bringing it or any part of it within this definition.

(n) "Authorized controlled material order" means an order so defined in CMP Regulation No. 1, as from time to time amended.

(o) The definitions of this order shall be applicable notwithstanding any conflict with any prescribed system of accounting.

SEC. 3. Small operators. Any operator, as herein defined, of a telephone system comprising less than 5,000 telephone instruments in service is hereby assigned the right to place authorized controlled material orders for all controlled materials except stainless steel and aluminum, required by him (1) for MRO, and (2) for operating construction projects in which the cost to him of materials for any single project does not exceed $15,000. He shall do so without making application to NPA and without receiving an allotment. In doing so he shall use the allotment number "U-1" and shall show the quarter during which delivery is required, as for example, "U-1 4Q51." He may also order materials, other than controlled materials, which he may require for MRO and for operating construction projects in which the cost to him of materials for any single project does not exceed $15,000, and is hereby assigned the right to apply to such orders a DO rating in connection with the allotment number, that is, "DO U-1." The date or dates on which delivery is required must also be specified on each delivery order.

SEC. 4. Applications for allotments. (a) Any operator, except to the extent that he is governed by the provisions of section 3 of this order, may hereafter file with NPA on Form NPAF-117 an application for an authorized program and for a quarterly allotment of such controlled materials as he may require for MRO and operating construction. Form NPAF-117 shall be filed with NPA 60 days prior to the beginning of the calendar quarter in which delivery is required, commencing with the fourth calendar quarter of 1951.

(b) In approving an application wholly or in part, NPA will specify the controlled materials allotted to the applicant for delivery in the calendar quarter during which the allotment is valid, and will authorize a program for MRO and operating construction. This authorized program shall be deemed to be an authorized construction schedule for the purposes of CMP Regulation No. 6, and the use of the schedule and the related allotment, and the placing and form of delivery orders, shall be governed by all provisions of that regulation not inconsistent with this order.

(c) Every operator who applies for an allotment pursuant to this order shall, to the extent that his application is granted, use the allotment number "U-2" to obtain controlled materials and shall show, on each authorized controlled material order, the quarter for which his allotment is valid, such as "U-2 4Q51." He may also order materials other than controlled materials, which are necessary to fulfill his authorized program, and is hereby assigned the right to apply to such orders a DO rating in connection with the allotment number, that is, "DO U-2." The date or dates on which delivery is required must also be specified on each delivery order.

(d) No operator shall use any allotment number or rating for the purposes of this order except as provided in this order.

SEC. 5. Emergency excess of allotment. In the event of any major service breakdown caused by extraordinary cause such as explosion, fire, sabotage, act of the public enemy, flood, storm, or similar catastrophe, an operator may use the U-2 allotment number to obtain materials in excess of his allotment to the extent necessary to reestablish service by the use of no greater amount of materials than those rendered unfit for service. In so doing he shall place the word "(emergency)" after the allotment number on his order, and within 10 calendar days after the placing of such order, he shall report the placing of such order to NPA on Form NPAF-117 which shall be accompanied by a statement of the reasons therefor, justifying the use of the emergency rating.

SEC. 6. Form of certification. A delivery order placed in accordance with this order must contain, in addition to a DO rating as authorized and an allotment number as authorized, a certification in the following form:

Certified under CMP Regulation No. 6 and NPA Order M-77

which shall be signed as provided in NPA Reg. 2. This certification shall constitute a representation to the supplier and to NPA that the purchaser is authorized to place a delivery order under the provisions of CMP Regulation No. 6 and under this order to obtain the products or materials covered by the delivery order.

SEC. 7. Effect on other orders. This order supersedes as to operators, the provisions of other NPA orders governing the civilian use of controlled materials. The provisions of this order supersede as to operators those of CMP Regulation No. 5, except that nothing in this order shall be deemed to permit the use of a rating or allotment number to obtain any of the items listed in Schedules I or II of CMP Regulation No. 5 as from time to time amended. As to any operating construction covered by this order, NPA Order M-4 is superseded as of the effective date of this order and NPA Order M-4A is superseded as of the effective date of NPA Order M-4A. The inventory limitations of any NPA orders and regulations as from time to time amended shall apply to operators, but in applying such provisions the definition of "inventory" contained in this order shall be used.

SEC. 8. Applications for adjustment or exception. Any person affected by any provision of this order may file a request for adjustment or exception upon the ground that such provision works an undue or exceptional hardship upon him not suffered generally by other persons in the same trade or that its enforcement against him would not be in the interest of national defense or in the public interest. In examining requests claiming that the public interest is prejudiced, consideration will be given to the requirements of the public health and safety, civilian defense, and dislocation of labor and resultant unemployment that would impair the defense program. Each request shall be in writing and shall set forth all pertinent facts and the nature of the relief sought, and shall state the justification therefor.

SEC. 9. Records and reports. (a) Each person making or receiving any allotment of controlled materials pursuant to this order shall maintain at his regular place of business accurate records of all allotments received, of procurement of such materials, and of the subdivision of all allotments among his suppliers. Such records shall be kept separately by allotment numbers, and shall include separate entries under each number for each person from whom allotments are received under such number.

(b) Each person making or receiving any allotment of controlled materials pursuant to this order shall retain for at least 2 years at his regular place of business all documents on which he relies as entitling him to make or receive an allotment or to accept delivery of controlled materials or Class A products, segregated and available for inspection by representatives of NPA, or Claimant Agencies authorized by NPA, or filed in such manner that they can be readily segregated and made available for such inspection.

(c) The provisions of this order do not require any particular accounting method, provided the records maintained supply the information specified by this order and furnish an adequate basis for audit. Records may be retained in the form of microfilm or other photographic copies instead of the originals.

(d) Persons subject to this order shall maintain such records and submit such reports to NPA as it shall require, subject to the terms of the Federal Reports Act of 1942 (5 U. S. C. 139–139F).

SEC. 10. Communications. All communications concerning this order shall be addressed to the National Production Authority, Washington 25, D. C., Ref: M-77.

SEC. 11. Violations. Any person who wilfully violates any provision of this order or who furnishes false information or conceals any material fact in the course of operation under it is guilty of a crime and, upon conviction, may be punished by fine or imprisonment or both. In addition, administrative action may be taken against any such person to suspend his privilege of making or receiving further deliveries of materials or using facilities under priority or allocation control and to deprive him of further priorities assistance.

NOTE: All reporting and record-keeping requirements of this order have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

This order shall take effect on July 27, 1951.

Chapter XV—Federal Reserve System

[Regulation X, Interpretation 37]

REG. X—REAL ESTATE CREDIT

INT. 37—DINING CARS AS NONRESIDENTIAL STRUCTURES

The question has been raised whether Regulation X applies to extensions of credit in connection with sales of what are commonly known as "dining cars" to be used as restaurants.

It is the view of the Board that when a "dining car" is placed on a foundation constructed on real property, and the utility connections necessary for its operation as a restaurant are installed, it becomes a "nonresidential structure" within the meaning of section 2 (r) of Regulation X; accordingly, in such cases, an extension of credit in connection with the sale of the dining car is subject to Regulation X.

TITLE 33—NAVIGATION AND NAVIGABLE WATERS

Chapter I—Coast Guard, Department of the Treasury

Subchapter E—Navigation Requirements for the Great Lakes and St. Marys River, Michigan

[CGFR 51-34]

EMERGENCY SPEED LIMITS

The regulations in 33 CFR Part 92 contain the requirements governing the movements and anchorage of vessels and rafts in the St. Marys River from Point Iroquois on Lake Superior to Point Detour on Lake Huron. The purpose of the following new regulation, designated as 33 CFR 92.14a, is to establish a maximum speed limit for all vessels of 50 gross tons or over while navigating between Little Rapid Cut Lighted Buoy No. 87 and 6-Mile Point Range Rear Light, as well as to modify 33 CFR 92.14, which specifies a maximum speed limit for vessels of 500 gross tons or over while navigating between Everens Point and Big Point on the St. Marys River. This regulation specifying reduced speed limits for vessels navigating between Little Rapid Cut Lighted Buoy No. 87 and 6-Mile Point Range Rear Light is necessary for the protection of the navigable channel because of the present high stage of water and will be in effect until the St. Marys River is closed to navigation for 1951. The effect of the new regulation is to reduce the speed over the ground of vessels of 50 gross tons and over while navigating between Little Rapid Cut Lighted Buoy No. 87 and 6-Mile Point Range Rear Light to 7.5 statute miles per hour for Northbound traffic and to 10 statute miles per hour for Southbound traffic.

This new regulation, designated as 33 CFR 92.14a, shall become effective on and after August 4, 1951, and shall remain in effect until the St. Marys River is closed to navigation for 1951. Because of the urgency in protecting this navigable channel in the St. Marys River, it is hereby found that compliance with the notice of proposed rule making, the public rule making procedure thereon, and effective date requirements of the Administrative Procedure Act is impracticable and contrary to the public interest. The Commander of the 9th Coast Guard District has held informal hearings and discussions with operators of vessels on the Great Lakes, the Corps of Engineers responsible for maintaining navigable channels, and other interested parties regarding the establishment of speed limits for certain vessels navigating the St. Marys River under normal navigating conditions in order to preserve the navigable channels so vitally important to our national defense.

By virtue of the authority vested in me as Commandant, United States Coast Guard, by Treasury Department Order No. 120, dated July 31, 1950 (15 F. R. 6521), to promulgate regulations in accordance with the Act of March 6, 1896, as amended, Part 92 is amended by adding a new § 92.14a, reading as follows, and this amendment shall become effective on and after August 4, 1951, and shall remain in effect until the St. Marys River is closed to navigation for 1951:

§ 92.14a Speed limit between Little Rapid Cut Lighted Buoy No. 87 and 6-Mile Point Range Rear Light. (a) All vessels of 50 gross tons or over navigating between Little Rapid Cut Lighted Buoy No. 87 and 6-Mile Point Range Rear Light shall not exceed the following speed limit over the ground:

(1) Northbound, 7.5 statute miles per hour.

(2) Southbound, 10 statute miles per hour.

(b) The speed limit for vessels of 500 gross tons or over contained in § 92.14 is modified to the extent described in paragraph (a) of this section.

(29 Stat. 54-55 as amended; 33 U. S. C. 474)

Dated: July 26, 1951.

Vice Admiral, U. S. Coast Guard, Commandant.

HANDLING OF MILK IN THE DULUTH-SUPERIOR MARKETING AREA

DECISION WITH RESPECT TO PROPOSED MARKETING AGREEMENT AND PROPOSED ORDER AMENDING ORDER, AS AMENDED

Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was conducted at Duluth, Minnesota, on May 15, 1951, pursuant to notice thereof which was issued on May 2, 1951 (16 F. R. 4145).

Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at the hearing and the record thereof, the Assistant Administrator, Production and Marketing Administration, on July 3, 1951, filed with the Hearing Clerk, United States Department of Agriculture, his recommended decision and opportunity to file written exceptions thereto which was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on July 11, 1951 (16 F. R. 6722).

The material issues of record related to (1) the classification of concentrated milk intended for consumption in fluid form, (2) increasing the level of the Class I price, and (3) increasing the butterfat differential to handlers on Class I milk.

Exceptions were filed on behalf of interested parties. In arriving at the findings, conclusions and regulatory provisions of this decision, such exceptions were carefully and fully considered in conjunction with the record evidence pertaining thereto. To the extent that the findings, conclusions, and actions decided upon herein are at variance with the exceptions, such exceptions are overruled.

FINDINGS AND CONCLUSIONS

Findings and conclusions on the record. The findings (including general findings), conclusions and rulings of the recommended decision set forth in the FEDERAL REGISTER (16 F. R. 6722; Doc.

51–7974) are approved and adopted as the findings, conclusions and rulings of this decision as if set forth in full herein.

MARKETING AGREEMENT AND ORDER

Annexed hereto and made a part hereof, are two documents entitled, respectively, "Marketing Agreement Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Duluth-Superior Marketing Area" and "Order Amending the Order, as amended, regulating the Handling of Milk in the Duluth-Superior Marketing Area", which have been decided upon as the detailed and appropriate means of effectuating the foregoing conclusions. These documents shall not become effective unless and until the requirements of § 900.14 of the rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and orders have been met.

It is hereby ordered, That all of this decision, except the attached marketing agreement, be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The regulatory provisions of said marketing agreement are identical with those contained in the attached order which will be published with this decision.

This decision filed at Washington, D. C., this 26th day of July 1951.

[SEAL] C. J. McCORMICK,
Acting Secretary of Agriculture.

Order[1] Amending the Order Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Duluth-Superior Marketing Area

§ 954.0 Findings and determinations. The findings and determinations hereinafter set forth are supplementary to and in addition to the findings and determinations made in connection with the issuance of this order; and all of said previous findings and determinations are hereby ratified and affirmed, except insofar as such findings and determinations may be in conflict with the findings and determinations set forth herein.

(a) Findings upon the basis of the hearing record. Pursuant to Public Act No. 10, 73d Congress (May 12, 1933), as amended and as reenacted and amended by the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (hereinafter referred to as the "act"), and the rules of practice and procedure governing the formulation of marketing agreements and orders (7 CFR, Supp., 900.1 et seq.), a public hearing was held at Duluth, Minnesota, on May 15, 1951, upon a proposed amendment to the tentative marketing agreement and to the order, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the Duluth-Superior marketing area. Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing and the record thereof, it is found that:

(1) The said order, as hereby amended, and all of the terms and conditions of said order, as hereby amended, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(2) The prices calculated to give milk produced for sale in said marketing area a purchasing power equivalent to the purchasing power of such milk as determined pursuant to sections 2 and 8e of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect market supply of and demand for such milk and the minimum prices specified in the order, as hereby amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk and be in the public interest; and

(3) The said order, as hereby amended, regulates the handling of milk in the same manner as and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

ORDER RELATIVE TO HANDLING

It is therefore ordered, That on and after the effective date hereof, the handling of milk in the Duluth-Superior, marketing area shall be in conformity to and in compliance with the terms and conditions of the aforesaid order, as hereby amended; and the aforesaid order is hereby amended as follows:

1. Delete § 954.41 (a) and substitute therefor the following:

(a) Class I milk shall be all skim milk and butterfat (1) disposed of in the form of milk, skim milk, buttermilk, flavored milk, flavored milk drinks, and cream for fluid consumption (including any mixture of cream and milk or skim milk containing less butterfat than the minimum requirement for cream), (2) used in the production of concentrated milk, not sterilized, for fluid consumption, and (3) not specifically accounted for as used to produce a Class II product.

2. Delete § 954.51 and substitute therefor the following:

§ 954.51 Butterfat differentials to handlers—(a) Class I milk. If the average butterfat content of the milk disposed of as Class I milk by any handler is more or less than 3.5 percent, there shall be added to the Class I price computed pursuant to § 954.50 (a) for each one-tenth of 1 percent that the average butterfat content of such milk is above 3.5 percent, or subtracted for each one-tenth of 1 percent that the average butterfat content of such milk is below 3.5 percent, an amount computed by multiplying by 1.40 the simple average of the daily wholesale selling prices per pound of Grade A (92-score) bulk creamery butter as reported by the United States Department of Agriculture for the Chicago market during the period from the 25th day of the month second preceding such delivery period through the 24th day of the month immediately preceding such delivery period and divide the result by 10.

(b) Class II milk. If the average butterfat content of the Class II milk disposed of by any handler is more or less than 3.5 percent there shall be added to the class price computed pursuant to § 954.50 (b) for each one-tenth of 1 percent that the average butterfat content of such milk is above 3.5 percent or subtracted for each one-tenth of 1 percent that the average butterfat content of such milk is below 3.5 percent, an amount computed by multiplying by 1.25 the simple average of the daily wholesale selling prices per pound of Grade A (92-score) bulk creamery butter as reported by the United States Department of Agriculture for the Chicago market during the period from the 25th day of the month second preceding such delivery period and divide the result by 10.

3. Amend § 954.81 by deleting therefrom the reference "§ 954.51" and substituting therefor "§ 954.51 (b)."

Order Directing That Referendum Be Conducted Among Producers; Determination of Representative Period; and Designation of Agent To Conduct Such Referendum

Pursuant to section 8c (19) of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 608c (19)), it is hereby directed that a referendum be conducted among producers (as defined in the order, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the Duluth-Superior marketing area) who, during the month of April 1951, were engaged in the production of milk for sale in the marketing area specified in the aforesaid order, as amended, to determine whether such producers favor the issuance of the order amending the order, as amended, which is a part of the decision of the Secretary of Agriculture filed simultaneously herewith.

The month of April 1951 is hereby determined to be a representative period for the conduct of such referendum. O. F. Kirkendall is hereby designated agent of the Secretary to conduct such referendum in accordance with the procedure for the conduct of referenda to determine producer approval of milk marketing orders as published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on August 10, 1950 (15 F. CIVIL AERONAUTICS BOARD

[14 CFR Parts 20, 21, 22, 24, 25, 26, 27, 33, 34, 35, 43, and 51]

DURATION AND RENEWAL OF AIRMAN CERTIFICATES; BASIC REQUIREMENTS FOR NIGHT AND INSTRUMENT FLIGHT EXPERIENCE

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE MAKING

Pursuant to authority delegated by the Civil Aeronautics Board to the Bureau of Safety Regulation, notice is hereby given that the Bureau will propose to the Board amendments of Parts 20, 21, 22, 24, 25, 26, 27, 33, 34, 35, 43, and 51 of the Civil Air Regulations as hereinafter set forth.

Interested persons may participate in the making of the proposed rules by submitting such written data, views, or arguments as they may desire. Communications should be submitted in duplicate to the Civil Aeronautics Board, attention Bureau of Safety Regulation, Washington 25, D. C. All communications received by September 4, 1951, will be considered by the Board before taking further action on the proposed rules. Copies of the communications received will be available after September 7, 1951, for examination by interested persons at the Docket Section of the Board, Room 5412, Commerce Building, Washington, D. C.

Currently effective Civil Air Regulations prescribe that airman certificates issued to U. S. citizens, other than student pilot certificates, shall be of indefinite duration, unless surrendered by the holder or a termination date is fixed by the Board. This indefinite period for the duration of airman certificates was adopted during World War II and has continued to remain in effect. It is now proposed, for both U. S. citizens and aliens, to issue airman certificates of 24-month duration on a renewable basis and to convert currently effective airman certificates in accordance with this program. For administrative convenience, airmen possessing currently effective airman certificates are divided into two groups. One group of airmen whose certificates were issued before May 1, 1949, is required to exchange its certificates no later than May 1, 1953. The second group whose certificates were issued between May 1, 1949, and October 1, 1951, is required to exchange its certificates no later than May 1, 1954. The renewal or exchange of all certificates shall be accomplished in the form and manner established by the Administrator. Each airman would be required to renew his certificate every 24 months if his certificate is to be valid.

The periodic renewal of airman certificates would serve the following useful purposes:

(1) The Administrator, charged with keeping records of airman certificates under the Civil Aeronautics Act, would be enabled to keep current and accurate account of airmen and their certificates which now number in the hundreds of thousands and are expected to increase. At present, the records do not indicate whether an airman is active, inactive, alive, or deceased.

(2) The Board and the CAA would be enabled to release more useful reports to the aviation industry and to the public generally which would contain more reliable statistical information.

(3) The United States would be enabled, without resorting to irregular exchanges of certificates, to discharge its obligations under the Convention on International Civil Aviation to keep its airman competency standards at least equal to certain international standards, or to note on the certificates wherein such certificates fail to meet these standards. At present, the United States is obliged to meet the ICAO Airman Standards with respect to its airman certificates no later than May 1, 1953. The renewal of certificates provided by this proposal will afford a means for the proper discharge of this obligation.

In this connection certain additional considerations are included in the amendments to Parts 20 and 21. Since May 1, 1949, Parts 20 and 21 have required type ratings for each aircraft of more than 12,500 pounds maximum certificated take-off weight. Under existing regulations, however, the holders of pilot certificates issued prior to that date are not required to hold such type ratings until May 1, 1953. Since the administrative steps will require about 18 months for the conversion of these certificates, the conversion will be integrated for convenience with the renewal program. A formula for the conversion of aircraft ratings without further flight tests has been included in this proposal under §§ 20.54 and 21.24. It should be noted that the conversion of airman certificates and ratings for airmen who are not pilots poses no particular problems.

We have also included two changes in Part 20 which would require after October 1, 1951, an applicant for a commercial pilot rating to have had, as part of the experience requirement of 200 hours of flight time, 5 hours of night flight experience and 10 hours of instrument flight instruction. These requirements, however, would not be applicable to existing certificates. Although Part 20 does not presently require this night or instrument flight training as part of the basic requirements for a commercial pilot certificate, we believe that, in the interest of safety, the proposed training is necessary. Many flights originating in daylight hours are completed at night or under adverse weather conditions, especially when unanticipated weather conditions are encountered with low visibility and ceiling conditions which require control of the aircraft by reference to flight instruments. Indeed, some basic instrument flight instruction which includes experience in the control of aircraft by reference to such instruments is essential if passengers are to be carried safely in modern cabin aircraft. Our military forces in their basic training and the aviation authorities of other countries have required this training and have found that it has materially improved safety. The International Civil Aviation Organization recently amended its Personnel Licensing Standards to require 5 hours of night flight experience and 10 hours of instrument flight instruction as part of the standard qualifications for commercial pilot certificates. On the basis of our studies, we believe that these requirements for night flight experience and basic instrument flight instruction should be part of our requirements for a commercial pilot certificate. Accordingly, we propose that the Civil Air Regulations be amended to require such experience of applicants for commercial pilot certificates after October 1, 1951. If the Board does not take such action by that date, it will be necessary thereafter, in accordance with the obligations of the United States under the ICAO Convention, for the CAA to endorse commercial pilot certificates to indicate that they do not meet international commercial pilot standards in these respects.

It should be noted that if these night and instrument experience requirements become effective, the cost of obtaining a commercial pilot certificate would, of course, be somewhat increased. Since, however, it is intended that night and instrument flight instruction may be combined and included in the total hours of flight time presently required, the additional cost would be held at a minimum, and the safety advantages gained would far outweigh any additional cost.

Finally, we propose to amend Part 43 so that, in effect, no person shall pilot an aircraft carrying passengers unless he has obtained certain recent flight experience in appropriate aircraft. Specifically, if the aircraft to be flown with passengers has a maximum certificated take-off weight of 12,500 pounds or more, a pilot must gain the prescribed experience in aircraft of the same category, class, and type. If, however, the aircraft to be flown with passengers has a maximum certificated take-off weight of less than 12,500 pounds, a pilot must gain the prescribed experience in aircraft of the same category and class with horsepower rated between 50 and 150 percent of that of the aircraft to be flown.

It is therefore proposed to amend Parts 20, 21, 22, 24, 25, 26, 27, 33, 34, 35, 43, and 51 of the Civil Air Regulations as follows:

1. By amending § 20.35 (a) to read as follows:

§ 20.35 Aeronautical experience—(a) Powered aircraft. An applicant for a commercial pilot rating shall have a total of at least 200 hours of flight time credited in accordance with Part 43. This total flight time shall include at least 100 hours of flight time as pilot in command; 20 hours of dual instruction time given by a rated flight instructor; 20 hours of cross-country flight time as pilot in command which shall include at least one flight of not less than 350 miles in the course of which three full-stop landings are made at different points; 5 hours of night flight time which shall include not less than 10 take-offs and 10 landings as pilot in command and as sole manipulator of the controls; and 10 hours of instrument flight instruction of which not less than 5 hours shall be in actual flight, this requirement being applicable only to applicants for airplane category ratings provided in this part. Twenty-five percent of the flight time required to be flown as pilot in command may be had in gliders, provided the applicant holds a pilot certificate with a private or commercial glider rating.

2. By amending § 20.51 to read as follows:

§ 20.51 Duration. (a) A pilot certificate with private or commercial ratings issued or renewed after October 1, 1951, shall remain in effect for a period no longer than 24 months. Pilot certificates with private or commercial ratings issued prior to October 1, 1951, shall expire in accordance with the requirements of subparagraphs (1) and (2) and shall be renewed in accordance with § 20.54. All student pilot certificates and all limited pilot certificates issued to other than U. S. citizens shall expire in accordance with the terms of their presently effective certificates and shall be renewed in accordance with the provisions of § 20.54. All ratings expire concurrently with the basic certificates to which they apply.

(1) Pilot certificates with private or commercial ratings issued before May 1, 1949, shall expire no later than May 1, 1953.

(2) Pilot certificates with private or commercial ratings issued between May 1, 1949, and October 1, 1951, shall expire no later than May 1, 1954.

(b) After revocation, and upon request after suspension, the certificate shall be returned to the Administrator.

(c) Nothing in this section shall be construed to deny or to defeat the jurisdiction of the Federal courts, the Administrator, or the Board to impose any authorized sanction, including revocation of the certificate, for a violation of the act or of the Civil Air Regulations occurring during the effective period of the certificate.

3. By amending § 20.54 to read as follows:

§ 20.54 Renewal of certificates and ratings. A pilot certificate together with endorsements and ratings shall be renewed in the manner prescribed by the Administrator at the request of the holder upon application made at least 60 days prior to the expiration date specified in § 20.51. Aircraft category and class ratings, and type ratings for each aircraft of 12,500 pounds or more maximum certificated take-off weight for which the holder is presently certificated shall be renewable on request. Type ratings for aircraft of 12,500 pounds or more maximum certificated take-off weight which are not shown on the holder's present certificate shall be issued at the time of renewal upon presentation of evidence satisfactory to the Administrator that the applicant either has passed an official flight test in the type of aircraft governed by his previous ratings, or has flown within the 12 preceding months at least 10 hours as pilot in command in the type of aircraft governed by his previous ratings. Upon application to the Administrator within 12 months after the date of expiration, the Administrator may reinstate an expired pilot certificate with appropriate ratings.

4. By amending § 21.24 to read as follows:

§ 21.24 Duration. (a) An airline transport pilot certificate issued or renewed after October 1, 1951, shall remain in effect for a period no longer than 24 months. Certificates issued prior to May 1, 1949, shall expire no later than May 1, 1953. Certificates issued between May 1, 1949, and October 1, 1951, shall expire no later than May 1, 1954. All certificates issued to other than U. S. citizens shall expire in accordance with the terms of the presently effective certificates and shall be renewed in accordance with the provisions of subparagraph (b) of this section. All ratings expire concurrently with the basic certificates to which they apply. Aircraft category and class ratings and type ratings for each aircraft of 12,500 pounds or more maximum certificated take-off weight for which the holder is presently certificated shall be renewable on request. Type ratings for aircraft of 12,500 pounds or more maximum certificated take-off weight which are not shown on the holder's present certificate shall be issued at the time of renewal upon presentation of evidence satisfactory to the Administrator that the applicant either has passed an official flight test in the type of aircraft governed by his previous ratings, or has flown within the 12 preceding months at least 10 hours as pilot in command, or 20 hours as copilot, in the type of aircraft governed by his previous ratings.

(b) An airline transport pilot certificate with appropriate ratings shall be renewed in the manner prescribed by the Administrator at the request of the holder upon application made at least 60 days prior to the expiration date specified in subparagraph (a) of this section.

(c) Upon application to the Administrator within 12 months after the date of expiration the Administrator may reinstate an expired pilot certificate with airline transport pilot rating.

(d) A temporary airline transport pilot certificate shall remain in effect for a period no longer than 3 months after the date of issuance.

(e) After revocation, and upon request after suspension, the certificate shall be returned to the Administrator.

(f) Nothing in this section shall be construed to deny or to defeat the jurisdiction of the Federal courts, the Administrator, or the Board to impose any authorized sanction, including revocation of the certificate, for a violation of the Act or of the Civil Air Regulations occurring during the effective period of the certificate.

5. By amending § 22.21 to read as follows:

§ 22.21 Duration. (a) A lighter-than-air pilot certificate with private or commercial ratings issued or renewed after October 1, 1951, shall remain in effect for a period no longer than 24 months. Lighter-than-air pilot certificates with private or commercial ratings issued prior to October 1, 1951, shall expire in accordance with the requirements of subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph and shall be renewed in accordance with § 22.23. All student lighter-than-air pilot certificates shall expire in accordance with the terms of their presently effective certificates and may be renewed in accordance with the provisions of § 22.23. All ratings expire concurrently with the basic certificates to which they apply.

(1) Lighter-than-air pilot certificates with private or commercial ratings issued before May 1, 1949, shall expire no later than May 1, 1953.

(2) Lighter-than-air pilot certificates with private or commercial ratings issued between May 1, 1949, and October 1, 1951, shall expire no later than May 1, 1954.

(b) The Administrator or his authorized representative may issue a temporary lighter-than-air pilot certificate for a period of not to exceed 3 months from the date of issuance, subject to the terms and conditions specified therein by the Administrator.

(c) After revocation, and upon request after suspension, the certificate shall be returned to the Administrator.

MICHIGAN CONSOLIDATED GAS CO. AND MICHIGAN-WISCONSIN PIPE LINE CO.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION

JULY 25, 1951.

Take notice that on July 12, 1951, Michigan Consolidated Gas Company, a Michigan corporation, and Michigan-Wisconsin Pipe Line Company, a Delaware corporation, with their principal place of business in Detroit, Michigan, filed a joint application for a certificate of public convenience and necessity pursuant to section 7 (c) of the Natural Gas Act, as amended, authorizing the installation by Michigan Consolidated, and the operation under lease by Michigan-Wisconsin, of an additional 2,500 horsepower compressor unit in Michigan Consolidated's existing Austin Station at the Austin Storage Field near Big Rapids, Michigan.

The joint applicants state that on the basis of past experience, it is anticipated that all the presently installed compressor capacity at the Austin Station of 17,780 horsepower may be required to meet peak day demands, because of spaceheating, as early as December 1, 1951. They propose to have the additional 2,500 horsepower unit available as a spare to assure continuity of service.

The estimated total overall capital cost of the additional compressor unit is approximately $370,000, which will be financed by Michigan Consolidated out of funds now on hand. It is estimated that the operating expense to Michigan-Wisconsin for the spare unit, including fixed charges, will approximate $60,000 per year.

Protests or petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington 25, D. C., in accordance with the rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) on or before the 13th day of August 1951. The application is on file with the Commission for public inspection.

AMERICAN NATURAL GAS CO. AND MICHIGAN CONSOLIDATED GAS CO.

ORDER AUTHORIZING SUBMISSION OF BONDS TO COMPETITIVE BIDDING AND SALE OF ADDITIONAL COMMON STOCK TO PARENT HOLDING COMPANY

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission, held at its office in the city of Washington, D. C., on the 24th day of July A. D. 1951.

American Natural Gas Company ("American Natural"), a registered holding company, and its public utility subsidiary, Michigan Consolidated Gas Company ("Michigan Consolidated"), having filed a joint application-declaration and amendments thereto, pursuant to sections 6 (b), 9, 10, and 12 (f) of the act and Rules U-43 and U-50 promulgated thereunder, with respect to the following transactions:

Michigan Consolidated proposes to issue and sell at competitive bidding, pursuant to the provisions of Rule U-50, $15,000,000 principal amount of First Mortgage Bonds, -- percent series due 1976. The bonds are to be dated August 1, 1951, and are to be issued under and secured by the company's Indenture of Mortgage and Deed of Trust dated March 1, 1944, as heretofore supplemented and as to be further supplemented by a Fifth Supplemental Indenture to be dated as of August 1, 1951. The interest rate on the bonds (which shall be a multiple of ⅛ of 1 percent) and the price, exclusive of accrued interest, to be received by the company (which shall not be less than 100 percent nor more than 102.75 percent of the principal amount of said bonds) are to be determined by competitive bidding.

At or prior to the issuance and sale of the proposed bonds, Michigan Consolidated proposes to issue and sell to its parent, American Natural, at the par value thereof, $14 per share, 358,000 shares of additional common stock for an aggregate cash consideration of $5,012,000. In order to make possible the proposed issuance and sale of said common stock, Michigan Consolidated proposes to increase its authorized common stock from 4,200,000 shares to 4,500,000 shares of the par value of $14 per share, by appropriate amendment of its Articles of Incorporation.

Of the proceeds to be received from the sale of the bonds, approximately $4,000,000 is to be deposited with the Indenture Trustee and will be subject to withdrawal against certification of property additions under the terms of the Indenture. The remaining proceeds of the bonds and additional common stock, after deducting fees and expenses estimated at $148,800, are to be used for the payment of short-term bank borrowings of Michigan Consolidated in the principal amount of $4,000,000, estimated to be incurred prior to the consummation of the proposed financing, and to provide funds for expansion of facilities and to reimburse Michigan Consolidated's treasury for expenditures made for this purpose.

The record disclosing that the issuance and sale by Michigan Consolidated of the bonds and additional common stock has been authorized by the Michigan Public Service Commission, the State Commission of the State in which Michigan Consolidated is organized and doing business, and the application-declaration, as amended, stating that no regulatory authority has jurisdiction with respect to the proposed transactions other than said State Commission and the Securities and Exchange Commission; and

The record being at this date incomplete with respect to the fees and expenses to be incurred and paid in connection with the proposed transactions, and the Commission deeming it appropriate to reserve jurisdiction with respect to such fees and expenses; and

Said application-declaration having been filed on July 2, 1951, and the last amendment thereto having been filed on July 20, 1951, and notice of said filing having been given in the form and manner prescribed in Rule U-23 promulgated under the act, and the Commission having received no request for a hearing with respect to said application-declaration within the period specified in said notice, or otherwise, and not having ordered a hearing with respect thereto; and

The Commission finding with respect to the proposed transactions that the requirements of the applicable provisions of the act and the rules and regulations promulgated thereunder are satisfied and that no adverse findings are necessary, and deeming it appropriate in the public interest and in the interest of investors and consumers that said application-declaration, as amended, be granted and permitted to become effective forthwith, subject, however, to the conditions and reservations of jurisdiction hereinafter stated:

It is ordered, Pursuant to Rule U-23 and the applicable provisions of the act, that said application-declaration, as amended, be, and it hereby is, granted and permitted to become effective forthwith, subject, however, to the terms and conditions prescribed in Rule U-24, and subject to the further condition that the sale by Michigan Consolidated of said bonds shall not be consummated until the results of competitive bidding pursuant to Rule U-50 shall have been made a matter of record in these proceedings and a further order shall have been entered by the Commission in the light of the record as so completed, which order may contain such terms and conditions as may be deemed appropriate, jurisdiction for which purpose is hereby reserved, and subject to a further reservation of jurisdiction with respect to the fees and expenses to be incurred and paid in connection with the proposed transactions.

WORCESTER COUNTY ELECTRIC CO.

ORDER PERMITTING DECLARATION TO BECOME EFFECTIVE

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission held at its office in the city of Washington, D. C., on the 24th day of July A. D. 1951.

Worcester County Electric Company ("Worcester County"), a public utility subsidiary company of New England Electric System ("NEES"), a registered holding company, having filed a declaration, pursuant to section 7 of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935, regarding the following transactions:

Worcester County proposes to issue to The First National Bank of Boston, from time to time but not later than September 30, 1951, promissory notes in an aggregate principal amount not in excess of $1,000,000. Said notes will mature six months after the respective dates thereof and will bear interest at the prime interest rate charged by banks for such notes at the time said notes are issued. It is stated in said declaration that said prime interest rate at the present time is 2½ percent. If said prime interest rate is in excess of 2¾ percent at the time any of such notes is issued, Worcester County will file an amendment to this declaration setting forth therein the principal amount of the note or notes proposed to be issued and the rate of interest thereon at least five days prior to the execution and delivery thereof and Worcester County requests that, unless the Commission notifies it to the contrary within said five day period, such amendment will become effective at the end of such period. The declaration states that the proposed notes may be prepaid, in whole or in part, prior to maturity.

As at April 30, 1951, Worcester County had outstanding $1,500,000 principal amount of 2½ percent short-term promissory notes and proposes in this declaration that the maximum principal amount of all of its promissory notes to be outstanding on, or at any time prior to, September 30, 1951, will not be in excess of $2,500,000.

The declaration states that the proceeds to be derived from the proposed issuance of $1,000,000 principal amount of promissory notes will be used by Worcester County to pay for construction work to September 30, 1951, or to reimburse Worcester County's treasury because of prior construction expenditures.

The declaration further states that if any permanent financing is done by Worcester County prior to September 30, 1951, it will apply the proceeds therefrom in reduction of, or in total payment of, its then outstanding promissory notes and the balance, if any, of the aggregate face amount of promissory notes authorized by this Commission, but unissued by Worcester County, will be reduced by the amount, if any, by which such permanent financing exceeds the promissory notes of Worcester County at the time outstanding. Worcester County has stated that it expects that the proposed note indebtedness will be financed permanently through the issuance of common stock to NEES in the latter part of 1951 and has been advised that NEES expects to have the necessary funds to invest in such common stock from the proceeds of the sale of the system's gas properties in Massachusetts.

The declaration further states that incidental services in connection with the proposed transactions will be performed, at cost, by New England Power Service Company, an affiliated service company, such cost being estimated not to exceed $750.

The declaration further states that no State commission or Federal commission, other than this Commission, has jurisdiction over the proposed transactions.

Worcester County requests that the Commission's Order herein become effective upon issuance thereof.

Said declaration having been filed on June 26, 1951, notice of said filing having been duly given in the form and manner prescribed in Rule U-23 under said act and the Commission not having received a request for hearing with respect to said declaration within the period specified in said notice, or otherwise, and not having ordered a hearing thereon; and

The Commission finding with respect to said declaration that the applicable provisions of the act and the rules and regulations thereunder have been satisfied, that there is no basis for adverse findings, that the estimated fees and expenses are not unreasonable, and deeming it appropriate in the public interest and in the interest of investors or consumers to permit said declaration to become effective forthwith:

It is ordered, Pursuant to Rule U-23 of the applicable provisions of the act and subject to the terms and conditions of Rule U-24, that said declaration be, and the same hereby is, permitted to become effective forthwith.

By the Commission.

Secretary.

Office of Price Stabilization

[Ceiling Price Regulation 7, Section 43, Special Order 205]

FORD-DAVIS & CO., INC.

CEILING PRICES AT RETAIL

Statement of considerations. In accordance with section 43 of Ceiling Price Regulation 7, the applicant named in the accompanying special order, Ford-Davis & Co., Inc., 32 Main Street, Norwalk, Connecticut (hereinafter called wholesaler) has applied to the Office of Price Stabilization for maximum resale prices for retail sales of certain of its articles. Applicant has submitted the information required under this section and has produced evidence which in the judgment of the Director indicates that the applicant has complied with other stated requirements.

The Director has determined on the basis of information available to him, including the data and certified conclusions of fact submitted by the applicant, that the retail ceiling prices requested and which are established by this special order are no higher than the level of ceiling prices under Ceiling Price Regulation 7.

The special order contains provisions requiring each article to be marked by the applicant with the retail ceiling price established by the accompanying special order. The applicant is required to send purchasers of the articles a copy of this special order, a notice listing retail ceiling prices for each cost line and, in specified cases, of subsequent amendments of this special order.

The special order also requires applicant to file with the Distribution Price Branch regular reports setting forth the number of units of each article covered by this special order which applicant has delivered during the reporting period. This requirement conforms with the provisions of section 43, Ceiling Price Regulation 7.

Special provisions. For the reasons set forth in the statement of considerations and pursuant to section 43 of Ceiling Price Regulation 7, this special order is hereby issued.

1. The ceiling prices for sales at retail of special shoes and boots for men sold at wholesale by Ford-Davis & Co., Inc., 32 Main Street, Norwalk, Conn., having the brand name(s) "Clark's Chupplees" and "Clark's Desert Boots" shall be the proposed retail ceiling prices listed by Ford-Davis & Co., Inc., in its application dated May 16, 1951, and filed with the Office of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C. A list of such ceiling prices will be filed by the Office of Price Stabilization with the Federal Register as an appendix to this special order as soon as practicable. On and after the date of receipt of a copy of this special order, with notice of prices annexed, but in no event later than September 24, 1951, no seller at retail may offer or sell any article covered by this special order at a price higher than the ceiling price established by this special order. Sales may, of course, be made at less than the ceiling prices.

2. The retail ceiling price of an article fixed by paragraph 1 of this special order shall apply to any other article of the same type which is otherwise priceable under Ceiling Price Regulation 7 by retailers subject to that regulation, having the same selling price and terms of sale to the retailer, the same brand or company name and first sold by the wholesaler after the effective date of this special order.

3. On and after August 25, 1951, Ford-Davis & Company, Inc. must mark each article for which a ceiling price has been established in paragraph 1 of this special order with the retail ceiling price under this special order, or attach to the article a label, tag or ticket stating the retail ceiling price. This mark or statement must be in the following form:

On and after September 24, 1951, no retailer may offer or sell the article unless it is marked or tagged in the form stated above. Prior to September 24, 1951, unless the article is marked or tagged in this form, the retailer shall comply with the marking, tagging, and posting provisions of the regulation which would apply in the absence of this special order.

Upon issuance of any amendment to this special order which either adds an article to those already listed in the wholesaler's application or changes the retail ceiling price of a listed article, the applicant named in this special order must comply, as to each such article, with the preticketing requirements of this paragraph within 30 days after the effective date of the amendment. After 60 days from the effective date, no retailer may offer or sell the article unless it is ticketed in accordance with the requirements of this paragraph. Prior to the expiration of the 60-day period, unless the article is so ticketed, the retailer shall comply with the marking, tagging, and posting provisions of the regulation which would apply in the absence of this special order.

4. Within 15 days after the effective date of this special order, the manufacturer shall send a copy of this special order to each purchaser for resale to whom, within two months immediately prior to the effective date, the manufacturer had delivered any article covered in paragraph 1 of this special order. Copies shall also be sent to all other purchasers on or before the date of the first delivery of any such article subsequent to the effective date of this special order, and shall be accompanied by copies of each amendment thereto (if any) issued prior to the date of the delivery. The manufacturer shall annex to the special order a notice, listing the cost and discount terms to retailers for each article covered by this special order and the corresponding retail ceiling price fixed by this special order for an article of that cost. The notice shall be in substantially the following form:

(Column 1)	(Column 2)
Our price to retailers	Retailer's ceilings for articles of cost listed in column 1
$_____ per_____	limit, dozen, etc. Terms net, percent EOM, etc $_____

Within 15 days after the effective date of this special order, two copies of this notice must also be filed by the manufacturer with the Distribution Price Branch, Consumer Soft Goods Division, Office of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C. Within 15 days after the effective date of any subsequent amendment to this special order, the manufacturer shall send a copy of the amendment to each purchaser to whom within 2 months immediately prior to the effective date of such amendment, the manufacturer had delivered any article the sale of which is affected in any manner by the amendment.

5. Within 45 days of the expiration of the first 6 months' period following the effective date of this special order and within 45 days of the expiration of each successive 6 months' period, the manufacturer shall file with the Distribution Price Branch, Office of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. [Ceiling Price Regulation 7, Section 43, Special Order 72, Amdt. 1]

INTERWOVEN STOCKING CO.

CEILING PRICES AT RETAIL

Statement of considerations. Special Order 72, under section 43 of Ceiling Price Regulation 7, issued on June 15, 1951, established ceiling prices for sales at retail of men's socks manufactured by Interwoven Stocking Company. The special order required the manufacturer to mark each article listed in the special order with the retail ceiling price fixed under the special order or to attach to each article a label, tag or ticket stating the retail ceiling price. Applicant was required to comply with this preticketing provision on and after July 16, 1951.

Interwoven Stocking Company has filed an application for an extension of time in which to meet this preticketing requirement. The application points out that the applicant has, in four warehouses, a large number of items covered by the special order. These items are boxed and individually labeled with the retail prices established by the special order, but they do not carry the exact phraseology required by the special order. To require the applicant to open each box, take out the merchandise, remove old price labels and affix new labels would create undue hardship both by way of time and expense.

The applicant has submitted an alternative method of labeling which, in the opinion of the Director, conforms with the provisions of section 43, Ceiling Price Regulation 7.

Under the special circumstances set forth by the applicant, the Director has determined that the requested amendment should be granted.

Amendatory provisions. Special Order 72 under Ceiling Price Regulation 7, section 43, is amended in the following respects:

1. Delete paragraph 4 from the special order and substitute therefor the following:

4 Prior to January 2, 1952, Interwoven Stocking Company must mark each article listed in paragraphs 1, 2 (a), (b), (c), and (d), of this special order with the retail ceiling price under this special order, or attach to the article a label, tag or ticket stating the retail ceiling price.

Prior to February 2, 1952, no retailer may offer or sell the article unless it is marked or tagged with the retail ceiling price under this order.

On and after January 2, 1952, Interwoven Stocking Company must mark each article listed in paragraphs 1, 2 (a), (b), (c), and (d), of this special order with the retail ceiling price under this special order, or attach to the article a label, tag or ticket stating the retail ceiling price. The statement "OPS—Sec. 43—CPR 7" must appear on the mark, label, tag, or ticket or on a separate sticker attached to each article covered by this special order. On and after February 2, 1952, no retailer may offer or sell the article unless it is marked or tagged in this form.

Upon issuance of any amendment to this special order which either adds an article to those already listed in paragraphs 1, 2 (a), (b), (c), and (d) of this special order or changes the retail ceiling price of a listed article, Interwoven Stocking Company must comply, as to each such article, with the preticketing requirements of this paragraph within 30 days after the effective date of the amendment. After 60 days from the effective date, no retailer may offer or sell the article unless it is ticketed in accordance with the requirements of this paragraph. Prior to the expiration of the 60 day period, unless the article is so ticketed, the retailer shall comply with the marking, tagging and posting provisions of the regulation which would apply in the absence of this special order.

Effective date. This amendment shall become effective on July 26, 1951.

MICHAEL V. DISALLE,
Director of Price Stabilization.

[Ceiling Price Regulation 7, Section 43, Special Order 196]

THE MANHATTAN SHIRT CO.

CEILING PRICES AT RETAIL

Statement of considerations. In accordance with section 43 of Ceiling Price Regulation 7, the applicant named in the accompanying special order, The Manhattan Shirt Co., has applied to the Office of Price Stabilization for maximum resale prices for retail sales of certain of its articles. Applicant has submitted the information required under this section and has produced evidence which in the judgment of the Director indicates that the applicant has complied with other stated requirements.

The Director has determined on the basis of information available to him, including the data submitted by the applicant, that the retail ceiling prices requested and which are established by this special order are no higher than the level of ceiling prices under Ceiling Price Regulation 7.

The special order allows for establishment of a cost bracket to the retailer, which bracket applies to a specific retail price. The costs of the articles purchased by the retailer should, on the average, fall evenly between the polar ends of each cost bracket and will thus maintain the general historical markup pattern. The establishment of such cost brackets permits minor changes in costs without influencing the general level of retail prices of the articles in question.

The special order contains provisions requiring each article to be marked by the applicant with the retail ceiling price established by the accompanying special order. The applicant is required to send purchasers of the articles a copy of this special order and, in specified cases, of subsequent amendments of this special order.

The special order also requires applicant to file with the Distribution Branch regular reports setting forth the number of units of each article covered by this special order which applicant has delivered during the reporting period. This requirement conforms with the provisions of section 43, Ceiling Price Regulation 7.

Special provisions. For the reasons set forth in the statement of considerations and pursuant to section 43 of Ceiling Price Regulation 7, this Special Order is hereby issued.

1. The following ceiling prices are established for sales after the effective date of this special order by any seller at retail of men's shirts, pajamas, underwear, handkerchiefs, swimwear, basque shirts, shorts and neckwear distributed by The Manhattan Shirt Co., 444 Madison Avenue, New York 22, New York, having the brand names "Manhattan" and "Mansco" and described in its application dated March 19, 1951. Sales may, of course, be made at less than these ceiling prices. The applicant's prices listed below carry the following terms: "3/10 EOM" to all sellers at retail.

LUSTBERG, NAST & CO., INC.

CEILING PRICES AT RETAIL

Statement of considerations. In accordance with section 43 of Ceiling Price Regulation 7, the applicant named in the accompaying special order, Lustberg Nast & Co., Inc., has applied to the Office of Price Stabilization for maximum resale prices for retail sales of certain of its articles. Applicant has submitted the information required under this section and has produced evidence which in the judgment of the Director indicates that the applicant has complied with other stated requirements.

The Director has determined on the basis of information available to him, including the data submitted by the applicant, that the retail ceiling prices requested and which are established by this special order are no higher than the level of ceiling prices under Ceiling Price Regulation 7.

The special order allows for establishment of a cost bracket to the retailer, which bracket applies to a specific retail price. The costs of the articles purchased by the retailer should, on the average, fall evenly between the polar ends of each cost bracket and will thus maintain the general historical markup pattern. The establishment of such cost bracket permits minor changes in costs without influencing the general level of retail prices of the articles in question.

The special order contains provisions requiring each article to be marked by the applicant with the retail ceiling price established by the accompanying special order. The applicant is required to send purchasers of the articles a copy of this special order and, in specified cases, of subsequent amendments of this special order.

The special order also requires applicant to file with the Distribution Price Branch regular reports setting forth the number of units of each article covered by this special order which applicant has delivered during that period. This requirement conforms with the provisions of section 43, Ceiling Price Regulation 7.
